JANUARY.

A new year smiling comes. It seems that we
But yesterday the last one turned to greet.
Swiftly the months passed by, and silently
We marked it fade, and felt that some thing sweet
Was drifting from us; and we softly sighed
As the year, lately ours, grew pale and died.

O January! first of this new year,
What scenes are hidden in thy coming hours?
We greet them with a mingled joy and fear,
Knowing thou hast for us both thorns and flowers.
And as we blindly meet each new-born day,
We ask for guidance of the unerring way.
Welcome, New Year! Faith bids each heart be strong
For God will order all that comes with thee.

To Him we leave it, glad to march along,
Feeling that what is best alone will be.
And as we onward pass, kind wishes fill,
That this may prove a happy year for all.
—Sophie L. Schenck, in Brooklyn Magazine.

THE GLAD NEW YEAR.

The glad New Year is at the door,
What may I ask from out his store?

Riches and ease, and care-free days?
A daily walk in pleasure's ways?

No; this I ask: a heart to see
The Hand of Love that leadeth me!

NOTES BY THE WAY.

BY BISHOP WAYMAN.

MR. EDITOR:—When I wrote last to you it was from Galveston, Texas, from which place I visited Houston, Corsicana, Waxahachie, San Antonio and then to Austin, where the West Texas Conference met. The most of the members were present at the roll call. Rev. A. F. Jackson was elected Secretary, a resolution he has filled for some time. The conference was pleasant and very largely attended. Dr. Embry was present, looking after the interests of the Publication Department. He sold a large number of books and secured many subscribers for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, as well as the Quarterly Review. The number of candidates admitted was large; some of them were graduates from colleges and others principals of high schools. There were also those admitted three ordained ministers from the M. E. Church and one E der from the M. P Church. The financial reports were rather better than last year. There was only one death reported among the ministers, and that was a young man formerly of the Philadelphia. He came to Texas two years ago and filled the station at Georgetown, Texas, and he stood at his post as long as he could and then gave up and went home to his father's residence and there died. The conference was only able to pay $25.00 on the widow's in the Metropolitan Church, Washington, D.C., which was sent to Rev. James A. Handy.

The West Texas Conference is very much interested in Paul University, and there is every prospect of her succeeding. By special request A. Grant was returned to Austin again to finish the new church, which he hopes to have ready for dedication by next June. The conference adjourned on Tuesday night, Dec. 7th. Wednesday morning there was a general exodus among the preachers, going to their fields with the money of God and man another year.

I called at Georgetown, Round Rock and Waco. The church at the latter place was much pleased to learn of the return of Rev. F. W. Roberts to them again. On Saturday I called at Ennis to lay the corner-stone for a new church. When the Northeast Texas Conference was in session, at Corsicana, in November, a number of sisters came to see me and asked that a preacher be sent them who would build them a church. Such a one was sent as they requested, and in a month's time he was ready to have the corner-stone laid. Dr. Embry stopped off to assist me and on Saturday, Dec. 11th, the corner-stone was laid. The amount of $60 00 was collected. I remained there at night by request and spoke in the Baptist church Sunday morning, Dec 12th, found me in the beautiful city of Dallas, Texas. J. H. Armstrong is completing his very fine church; he has named it Bethel Sha will be a monument to African Methodism in that city. Rev. H. Trapp is the pastor of the Second A. M. E. Church in that city. He has recently completed and now has one of the finest colored churches in the city are the A. M. E. Churches I am making to take the train for Shreveport, La., and then on to Alexandria, where the North Louisiana Conference will meet. I expect to meet Dr. Embry at Rig Sandy, Texas, and he will accompany me to the conference.

BISHOP TURNER REPLIES TO REV. I. P. ALDRIDGE.

MR. EDITOR:—In your issue of the 23d ultimo, I see as the caption of a communication from Rev. I. P. Aldridge, of North Carolina, "The status of Rev. W. H. H. Butler in the A. M. E. Church, according to Bishop Turner's decision." This follows a string of misrepresentations too long and slanderous to notice in detail. I have answered repeatedly that of all animals in creation I should hate most to be a dog, and I now say that if I was a dog I should hate most to be a hound, for all they ever do as belligerents, is to run at a safe distance in the rear of big dogs. Broth of Aldridge size, and not have intelligence enough to understand Bishop Turner's sermon, or he most willfully, maliciously and slanderously misrepresents the truth, and is culpable of the basest slander possible for a man to utter. He seems to have a monomania for publishing everything he thinks or hears derogatory to the good reputation of Butler. True, the doctor does not talk enough of Butler to reply, hence the emboldenment of his calumniator, yelping in the distance. Then what are his charges, only rumors of domestic infelicities, said to have occurred fifteen years ago, which should be settled in a marital segment, which, if true, he cannot prove, nor does he know the reasons for any more than I do what is going on in heaven.

If Brother Aldridge is so anxious to write somebody down, why in the name of reason does he not write himself? The old adage is, charity should begin at home. There are more charges against him by far than ever he tried to conjure up against Dr. Butler, for no one also has ever attempted such a thing but him. Why did he not publish that charges of the gravest nature were preferred against him by Dr. Butler, and that I refused to adjudicate them, because I wanted peace in the State at that time, etc? Why did he not publish that Dr. Butler, his presiding elder, had him upon trial for grave charges, and while the court was in session, that I had him released by telegram, etc.? Why did he not publish that charges for gross misconduct in office be ever thought of charging Butler with, were preferred at the late North Carolina Conference, and that Bishop Campbell and myself concluded to waive them, as there had been so much confusion in the State already, and await future developments? If Brother Aldridge wishes to deal in rumors, and keep on with his slander, I will give him more of it than he wants, both publicly and before a committee of his membership. He knows but for me he would have gone up to the last conference suspended; and he knows, also, if he is not an absolute bigot, that he deserves as much by to-day. Why did he not present his pretended charges last summer against Dr. Butler when I begged him to do it. The truth is he was afraid. Now he proposes to introduce the CHRISTIAN RECORDER into a slander mill, and make the columns of a religious journal a cesspool for filth and falsehood. But for the fact that I am weary than Dr. Lee, the editor, was not at home and never saw the article, and that he would have no more admitted it to the press than satan could be admitted into heaven, I should demand of every minister in my district to allow the paper to enter their doors. As it so happens that I know the Doctor was absent on official business and knew nothing of it, for he is as high above that as heaven is above the earth.

If Brother Aldridge is so anxious to write on this line I will make him a proposition. From now to the 1st of May I shall take him in charge, I will give him the use of the columns of the Southern Recorder, which now has a circulation of nearly two thousand copies weekly and goes into all the Southern and Western States, a few into every State, except the New England, and he may prefer charges against Butler, Turner, or any one he chooses, and write to his heart's content, and allow me to offset them with the charges, allegations and the anonymous letters I have in my desk against him, and if he don't get enough of it to last him for life, I do not know what enough means. I make the challenge and I dare him to take it up. I never heard of a man so intensely bent upon manufacturing slander and breedtur considerable, he must be a brute beyond that can only satiate his hunger upon carrion, filth and stench. There were four Bishops at the North Carolina Conference, all of whom had sense and experience; if I did anything wrong why did they not arrest me? Then several of those present have a right to know as there also; if I did the great wrong he charges would they have to be silent on all the great hero spoke? Strange that a man who could not stand his examination for deacon, has time to write so much, and was begged through by Dr. Sinclair, upon the plea that the people at that point needed an elder, should all at once become found into such gigantic proportions that Drs. Tanner, Hunter, Arnett, Lee, Embry, etc., should have to be told what to do. Come on, my dear sir, and let us discuss the good of the church. "O lord, speak to that head before it reads, for I am a little nervous." If that sentence from Dr. Johnson ever fit a case before, it fits this instance.

But why waste time in this way? I have too much to do. If the Lord will I shall be glad to see you here and Brother Aldridge enough to write upon, and may assist him in defining his own status. I recognize the humiliation which attaches to a Bishop writing this kind of reply, yet necessary to establish a statement of the grave charges made against me, or my administration.

BOSTON OCCASIONAL LETTER

BY REV. J. T. JENIFER, D.D.

The Malley Street A. M. E. Church, Lynn, Mass., Rev John T. Layfield, pastor, has been completed, furnished, dedicated and dedicated to the worship of Almighty God.

On Thursday, Dec. 9th, a preliminary religious union meeting was held, attended by several of the city pastors, Unitarian, Baptist, Methodist and Congregational, with some of their members. The exercises were of a very interesting character in spite of the cold and inclement weather. Rev. J. T. Jenifer, Presiding Elder of Boston District, presided. The dedicatory services were conducted Dec. 12th, at 11 A. M., by Rev. J. T. Jenifer, assisted by Elders J. C. Brock and John T. Jones. Sermon at 11 A. M. Rev xii, 1 Subject, "The Church of Christ the Mother of Society." Rev. Benson at 3 P.M. by Elder J. C. Brock. Subject, "Diligence." Rev. B. F. Combash preached at 7 30 P.M.

Rev. J. T. Hayslett deserves congratulation for his energy, self-sacrifice and taste displayed in the erection of so beautiful and unique a house of worship.

The A. M. E. Zion, the Twelfth Church, the St. Paul Baptist, the Ebenezer Baptist and the Union Street A. M. E. Churches held a Union Fair Dec. 21-24. The arrangements were very complete and the musical and literary exercises were of a high order. We are unable to say what has been the financial success.

Since our last we have been highly favored with a visit and lecture by Bishop Turner, who is celebrated and introduced to the audience by Mark Twain. It was certainly a novel treat to hear a free speech so celebrated and unique characters as the introducer and lecturer.

One of the most important events of public interest in this city was the commemoration, Dec. 18th, of the two hundredth anniversary of King's Chapel of Revolutionary notoriety. A brief report from the Boston Journal:

The two hundredth anniversary of King's Chapel was celebrated yesterday. The ancient pastors by the historic building noticed that something out of the ordinary course was taking place, for the portals were decorated with British and American flags, which were emblematic of the two nations with whose political and religious history the building is so closely connected. The interior of the building was gay with historical and heraldic decorations, designed by Mr. J. Templeton Coolidge, 3d, a parishioner of King's Chapel, and placed under his personal direction. Everything possible had been done to restore, for the commemorative service, the appearance of the interior of the building as it existed in the days of the Revolution, though little change was needed to suggest to the attendants at yesterday's services the days of long ago. the pillars were to be seen copies of the coats of arms of families whose members belonged to the parish of King's Chapel in the pre Revolutionary period, most of the coats of arms hay ing at that time been hung in the church. They were those of the Honorable Sir Francis Nicholson, Knt., Lieutenant Governor; His Excellency Joseph Dudley, Governor and Commander in Chief; His Excellency Sir Edmund Andros, Knt. Governor and Commander in Chief; His Excellency Wm. Burnet, Governor and Commander in Chief; the Foxcroft family; His Excellency Jonathan Belcher, Governor and Commander in-Chief; the Mesquiort family; His Excellency the Earl of Bellomont, Governor and Commander in-Chief; His Excellency William Shirley, Governor and Commander in Chief; His Excellency Thomas Pownall, Governor and Commander-in-Chief; the Chockley family; His Excellency Colonel Samuel Waldo, Governor and Commander in Chief; Rev Henry Caner, Rector of King's Chapel and Commissary of the Lord Bishop of London; Captain Francis Hamilton of His Majesty's ship of war Kingfisher. Many portraits of Royal Governors and others connected with King's Chapel formed part of the decorations, and had been loaned by the Commonwealth, the Massachusetts Historical Society, the Misses Loring and Mrs. George R. Minot. The portraits included those of Governors Dudley, Pownall, Bernard and Hutchinson, Rev. James Freeman and Peter Faneuil, founder of King's Chapel Numerous festoons of green were suspended from the balconies and other parts of the building, and around the pulpit were a British, Colonial and other flags These consisted of the British flag of 1688-1776; the flag of New England ubder Governor Andros, the flag of the Province of Massachusetts Bay previous to 1768; the Pine Tree flag carried at the siege of Louisburg; the Grand Union flags of the Revolution, sending with the first American flag. The Governor's pew had been restored. The communion service was on the altar. In front of the pulpit hung the Royal escutcheon of the same which, until the Revolution, hung in the governor's pew in the Province House. It is the property of the Massachusetts Historical Society.

DR. J. C. EMBRY'S THANKSGIVING ADDRESS AT THE WEST ARKANSAS CONFERENCE.

VENERABLE BISHOP AND MEMBERS OF THE WEST ARKANSAS CONFERENCE.—In accordance with a time-honored custom in our country, the nation is celebrating a day as annual Thanksgiving day throughout the length and breadth of the land. I believe at last every State in the Union acknowledges the justness and fitting propriety of such a day being observed. It began earlier in our history as a New England custom. Some of the early governors of New England set apart a day in the year for the people to observe a day in the year as a day of solemn thanksgiving to God for the blessings and mercies of the year; and as the spirit of New England crept westward, bearing the star of empire with it, it was adopted. It finally, by the growth of the South, where it is now deemed worthy of observance I do not know, but I am of the opinion that every State in the Union acknowledges the righteousness of this Christian worship and I think proclamations have been made of it by all the governors of the respective commonwealths. At first, some of the States did not seem to take to the idea very kindly, but under the influence of a purer religion they have fallen into line. I know that the proclamation of the Governor of Georgia was issued and I have been told upon inquiry here that the Governor of Arkansas has conformed to the custom and proclaimed to the people the propriety of a Thanksgiving Day.

It is a most excellent thing to worship and to give thanks to God. It returns in blessings upon the nation. If it can be done in sincerity, and with truth and earnestness, it can but be a blessing to the nation. Blessed are the people whose God is the Lord. It is an excellent thing for a Nation, however high, to humble itself and make its confession to God—to turn its eyes heavenward and stretch forth the hand of supplication, acknowledging its dependence upon the Almighty and upon the God of everlasting bounty. As a Nation, we are not entirely sincere in this idea. It would be a very strange thing if we were. Indeed, our doctrines, our religious theories are always better than our lives. The sentiment of society is at best but lukewarm; and this, indeed, must be so, or there could be no progress. We march toward the ideal. The doctrines of our holy religion are away above our practice. As we rise in the scale of civilization and in the observance of those duties which our relation to God subjoins upon us, the light grows brighter and clearer before us. Our practice is never entirely up with our doctrines. If the Nation could sincerely worship around its altars in prayer and praise, be purified and how excellent should we as a people begin to-morrow! What a tremendous step forward would the people make! What an immense gain in the direction of union, purity, peace and righteousness if the whole Nation, if the fifty odd millions of people could rise from their knees at the altars of Almighty God, to-morrow would be the happiest day of the year. But the fact is, we shall not exercise any such sincerity to-day, except in the case of the minority, a small minority of the fifty odd millions. We shall not be any better in our spirit and purpose to morrow than we were this morning. But it is a cause of thanksgiving that there will be hearts improved on to-morrow by the experience of to-day. Among the millions, there are thousands who have worshiped in the courts of the Lord's house with sincerity, who have found him to the consolation of their souls, who will to-morrow be strengthened and returning to their homes divinely comforted; they will become leaven to society and all around them. The influence of their lives and conversation, the spirit of Christ which they have imbibed to-day, will tend to leaven the lump of humanity, by their contact with it. So it is, my friends, little by little the world goes on; the cause of Christ, the cause of religion, the cause of the Church and the cause of holiness gain upon the masses of humanity.

Turning aside from the subject of Thanksgiving, our attention is drawn to the subject of missions, which is the real object of our meeting here. I listened with much interest to the remarks of our dear brother, J. F Miller, who has just taken his seat. Of course we all have our individual and peculiar views upon the evangelization of Africa and upon the evangelization of other countries There is no dispute about the necessity of evangelization; but how it should be done is a question of personal opinion, and will depend upon individual judgment. Let it be said to the honor our Church—to the glory of the cause of the faith of the brethren in the great of the Lord Jesus Christ, that on last Thursday, one week from to day, our Church for the first time commissioned and sent forth a missionary, whose sole business is to bear the message of salvation to Africa On Thursday, the 15th instant, Rev. J. R Frederick, a man of much experience, a man of pure African origin, with his wife, sailed for Africa, to spend and to be spent in the service of the Master, under the direction and patronage of our Church. Such a fact alike to the glory of our Church and sonwers the question so often propounded, why is it your Church needs and collects so much money? What do your people want with so much money? What do you do with it? Our answers is, we want it to build churches; we want it to raise up cultivated men and women as God as preachers; we want it to convert more souls; we want it to organize and schools; we want it keep up the missionary fire upon the altars of devotion; we want it to elevate ourselves, to kindle a blaze of Christian zeal and to make us useful.

God will ultimately give us the work of evangelizing Africa. We are not yet prepared by experience, nor are we ready to begin. I hold that we are not prepared for the work of evangelizing Africa. I hold that God has reserved that work for us. He has had a long time in which to do it; he has no need to make haste. Old Peter, in his day, met that question, when in reply to the scoffers, who said, "where is the sign of his coming, for since the fathers fell asleep, behold all things remain as they were unto this day?" His answer was, "You do not remember that a thousand years are as hot one day with the Lord, and one day as a thousand years." All eternity is in his hands; he don't need to make haste with his purposes concerning Africa. We are beginning to divine what it is to be the rehabilitation—what it is to be the rehabilitation—what it is to be the rehabilitation industrial and religious rehabilitation of Africa, when she shall have been clothed with the glory of the new life and her sons and daughters shall be exalted in that land. Just as he held this country in reserve, concealed from the eyes of the world for centuries, until the time had come for its development and growth, so he has held Africa in reserve, will do some good things; he is not going to do very much. Nobody but Moses could lead out the children of Israel. Nobody but God's man could bring them out. That old Christian Bishop will do much to show what is the meaning of his Christian courage and what the grace of Christ can do, by the agency of man, when he sets his heart on fire. But he is not the men. By and by the man will come, and it will be our business to take the lead. We are going to spend a good deal of money and waste a good deal; but it is all God's money. The gold and the silver are his and we are his, so we need not stop to count the cost. We are going to make a good many mistakes; after experimenting the work will begin in earnest. Just where it ought to begin. This very thing of demanding the money and the men all the time is one part of the discipline we require. Let me give you an illustration: just about the time that Bishop Allen and his coadjutors founded the church of ours, another good old man, father Spencer, founded a church upon the Quaker idea, that the preacher was not to be paid and that he had no need of money, and that the gospel would take care of itself Now I see, at the end of seventy years, you can load the Union Church in a cart. But Richard Allen said, we need all the money we can get; we want to build churches, we want to organize a Book Concern, we went to establish schools and colleges to teach men how to get money, and we have been learning to do so ever since. Under our theory it will take a big wagon to hold Allen's church. It has now joined in the work of the evangelization of Africa with the help of the Africans. We look very few and it looks like a large task; there are seventy millions of souls in Africa. A great host, people of power and righteousness if the whole Nation, if the fifty odd millions of people could rise from their knees at the altars of Almighty God, to-morrow would be the happiest day of the year. But the fact is, we shall not exercise any such sincerity to-day, except in the case of the minority, a small and noisy minority of the fifty odd millions. We shall not be any better in our spirit and purpose to morrow than we were this morning. But it is a cause of thanksgiving that there will be hearts improved on to-morrow by the experience of to-day. Among the millions, there are thousands who have worshiped in the courts of the Lord's house with sincerity, who have found him to the consolation of their souls, who will to-morrow be strengthened and returning to their homes divinely comforted; they will become leaven to society and all around them. The influence of their lives and conversation, the spirit of Christ which they have imbibed to-day, will tend to leaven the lump of humanity, by their contact with it. So it is, my friends, little by little the world goes on; the cause of Christ, the cause of religion, the cause of the Church and the cause of holiness gain upon the masses of humanity.

a house, how to cultivate the soil, how to spin cotton and to weave it into cloth and they begin to teach him the mysteries of redemption. When you teach him to work in his own blacksmith shop, in the factories, to plant the seed, to spin and weave the cotton, instead of buying shop goods, you will have put him on the road to substantial success. We can all realize the value of such knowledge I believe God will give us a sufficient amount of money to accomplish the result. We have got a good deal of money to spend; we will waste some in our enthusiasm in the work of missions. We have not been lifted up to our present civilization and enjoyment by our own efforts, but what we enjoy of enlightenment and freedom and all the comforts of life are derived from generations that have preceded us, and so there is upon us the obligation to transmit to those who shall come after us the same blessings and comforts improved. You must leave things better than you found them or we are not he sort of heirs we ought to be. In nine cases out of ten, I doubt whether any itinerate, from the Bishops down, and every department and general officer of our Church is being supported as our law has provided and declared that they should be.

Let us be all be honest, true and strive to keep the laws of our Church; be fair in dealing with each other, with every department and branch of our work and work, and every system established by our code of laws will flourish and the Church will be benefited by them all.

5. It is also known that many of the best men in some of our conferences are opposed to the presiding elder system, and these good brethren think it wise to have a delegation elected to the next General Conference who will see that all of their power to repeal the law universally establishing the system in our Church. I do not think this a move in the right direction. Every great Methodist Episcopal Church which has had this system in operation, and the conferences which had it prior to 1884 in our Church, say that they were much benefited by it.

Those conferences that have had the system only since that year have not had time and opportunity sufficient to justify any action of the kind against the system, and we should think a moment or two before engaging in any such work. 1) Is it wise to do so? I think we should be put. 2.) A majority of the itinerant ministers in these and even other conferences where the system has been properly established, will not believe that there is good in it, take hold and heartily support and defend it. 3.) It would be children's play on our part to undertake to carry out such a project, and to the outside intelligent world it would appear to be the height of folly. I trust that if any of the conferences and brethren have become to try to repeal the law as universally establishing the presiding elder system in our Church, that they will abandon the idea, and let us have the system in full. Let every brave and wise man speak for it, defend and maintain it. Give us good and wise men to preside, and the Church will be benefited.

SOMETHING OF THE PEOPLE OF THE METHOPOLITAN CHURCH

A FOUL (FOWL) CONSPIRACY.

BY REV. T. G STEWARD.

On arriving in this city with my family to assume the charge of this prosperous National negro church, I was tendered a reception at the parsonage of a most beautiful character. The presiding elder, Rev. James A. Handy, D.D., accompanied the party and delivered a very graceful speech of welcome, and the people assured me of their kind wishes.

When Thanksgiving Day came our friends remembered us and sent to the parsonage three fine turkeys. Later a party of young ladies came in one evening and without ceremony left in my wife's hands a purse of ten dollars; and now on last night, December 23rd, we were made the victims of a towl conspiracy, for a company of about one hundred persons called at the parsonage and left with us three turkeys and five chickens, fifteen cans of vegetables and fruits, two hams, a barrel of flour and about forty pounds of sugar, and many other articles. The goods were brought in a wagon and in value amounted to over $50, I should think. It was by far the grandest donating party I ever have seen, both as to numbers and the variety and value of individual gifts.

I do not feel like mentioning the names of any unless I could give them all; for all are alike deserving of thanks and honor. Ordinarily, I think it better not publicly to refer to matters of this sort, but such has been the magnificence of this people's kindness that I desire to hold it up a moment before the Church that both our ministers and people may know that in the congregation that now occupies the Metropolitan Church we have a grand and noble souled people, entitled to their sympathies, their prayers and their admiration May our gracious heavenly Father bless them more and more.

Washington, D. C.

THE PRESIDING ELDER SYSTEM

BY REV F. M. LEWIS.

MR. EDITOR:—Since my first article on this system I think the system indicated in the fullest success of the Methodist Episcopal Church ministry, and I now endeavor to answer

First, Every one who thoroughly understands the church work as carried on by the Methodist Episcopal system, knows that it is (1) their chief object and aim to convince the world of sin, righteous and dreadful consequences of living and dying sinful lives and deaths, and to try by all influence all to be converted to the religion of the blessed Jesus. (2) To develop practical Christian religion.

Second. Now, in order that these objects might be the better accomplished the organizers of the Methodist Episcopal Church and planners of her system of ministry, thought that we ought to have a church that would be believed in, loved and sustained; because of her actual moral and Christian worth, truly missionary in spirit and work. They therefore gave us a ministry constantly itinerating according to a well matured and organized system, and designed to furnish four conveniences long desired and much needed.

(a) To enable us to have every local and congregation supplied with the best such ministers as each needed particularly and respectively needs. (b) To prevent ministers becoming totally corrupted by the peculiar and great advantages afforded them by strong and influential churches, because of their being the stationed and immovable pastors of these powerful churches, and thereby in ture corrupting, or at least greatly impeding, the progress of the true church. (c) To give particular protection and encouragement to wisely and newly organized churches and young and deserving ministers. (d) To furnish the church a convenient means of ridding herself of immoral men, who would from time to time get into her ministerial ranks. Now, in order to guard these interests so dear to us, it is necessary for the supreme controlling power of the Methodist Episcopal Church, their Bishops, to know the exact conditions and circumstances of each and every local church and congregation under their care, and to know also the individual, particular, peculiar gifts, graces and fitness of every itinerant minister over whom these Bishops preside, in order that they may wisely superintend the whole.

All of this inestimable information can not be had by the general superintendents unless they can be brought into direct contact with each and every one of these local churches and congregations, and have personal acquaintance with all of their ministers; or some other source so comprehensible in its formations, wise, true and just in its workings, words the true and real conditions of the whole field and men working in it, and thereby have all the information necessary to enable them to do the best which can be done to accomplish the greatest amount of good for all.

To a great Methodist Episcopal Church like ours, whose field is the whole Christian work are so extensive and the demands for constant travel and the labor in these fields so pressing, the other work of planning and helping to carry on the work of our Church in various departments, so vast and burdensome upon the Bishops, it is absolutely impossible for them to travel and labor in these respects sufficiently to enable them to get the information to the greatest success of their churches. Therefore, it is intended, hoped and believed that in a thoroughly wise and Christianly developed Presiding Elder system, every deficiency of the kind pointed out would be supplied amply, and the Church no longer suffer from these deficiencies, and through this system and officers the Bishops would get full and reliable information which would enable them continually to make the wisest appointments and re-appointments, as established by our code of laws will flourish and the Church will be benefited by them all.

Upon this mode of reasoning, it is taken for granted that the presiding elders all would be eminently qualified, wise, truthful and brave—good men to be depended upon in every sense of the word—that the Bishops may not be standing up for religion and virtue, it is incumbent upon you to leave a deeper and broader sentiment in favor of these holy principles.

Those conferences that have had the system only since that year have not had time and opportunity sufficient to justify any action of the kind against the system, and we should think a moment or two before engaging in any such work. 1) Is it wise to do so? I think we should be put. 2.) A majority of the itinerant ministers in these and even other conferences where the system has been properly established, will not believe that there is good in it, take hold and heartily support and defend it. 3.) It would be children's play on our part to undertake to carry out such a project, and to the outside intelligent world it would appear to be the height of folly. I trust that if any of the conferences and brethren have become to try to repeal the law as universally establishing the presiding elder system in our Church, that they will abandon the idea, and let us have the system in full. Let every brave and wise man speak for it, defend and maintain it. Give us good and wise men to preside, and the Church will be benefited.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHER SHORTER.

BY REV. J. W. JOHNSON.

It is only when death comes and deprives us of some one like Mother Shorter that we realize what a public blessing, not alone of interment of the most exalted good is a devoted Christian mother. It would require a more skillful pen than mine to trace the merits of such a character. How many, perhaps, who will read this will feel that they owe to Mother Shorter all the virtue completely that now adorn them, or may reclaim her at this moment as a saint in glory that brought them to the light to their sympathies, their aspirations and their thinking person that if we would be sent in authority of the Bishops in some respects, they ought to and must go, or we will not submit to be presided over by those who are not our equals. Now, if they happen not to be appointed presiding elders, they start out with what the brethren here term the big head, and begin and continue a fight against presiding elders and the system. This is a great mistake and ministers who engage in it fail to understand the unmistakable fact that he or they who will not submit to the powers and authorities established by a legally constituted ecclesiastical body can never be fit to preside among its ruling officers, and that they are therefore forever disqualified to be good rulers Another is, may say that the expenses of the system cannot be borne, and that they are killing the churches. This is a fatal misrepresentation and is doing more damage to the churches than all of the money paid to the support of the officers and system. And further, it is plain to every

PHILADELPHIA, JAN. 6, 1887

THE A. M. E. Church and parsonage at Hoarse, Tex., were destroyed by fire December 28.

LIFE'S LONGEST day is not its gloomiest day, but its most idle day. Its shortest day is not the day of greatest joys, but of best use of powers and time.

A CAUSE well pressed is the cause to succeed. The colored race has its cause in its own hands very largely. Let it press this cause; press it in social, civil, literary, artistic, business and religious circles. Press it everywhere.

IF IN CLASS that free-traders, protectionists and high tariff advocates are engaged in a struggle and that they will not succeed in establishing a law entirely disregarding any one of these angles. Like the discussion of free-trade and necessity, in metaphysics and ethics, discussions must almost necessarily be endless.

AS WE "swing around the circle" we learn that Mr. T. T. Fortune has entered upon the publishing of the race of sino. We have seen nothing concerning it, but heard only that such a project is in his vigorous mind, and that ere long the public will greet the new child. He will give the world a magazine worthy of their patronage and pride, if any at all. We shall be pleased to receive the magazine as a New Year's gift, Brother Fortune.

THE SUCCESS of colored physicians throughout almost the entire land is encouraging to all observers. A few, they were all considered as quacks by the profession, but they have forced due recognition by conducting their business in such way as to preclude any different consideration. What is true of colored physicians is also true of lawyers and lawyers. They are no longer the butt of derision, but in many cases are commanding the respect of both the bench and the bar.

THE HOLIDAY season in the South is a jolly time, when association is divested of its ordinary stiffness and the superficialities of custom are disregarded. Gifts are large and plentiful; wines are flowing freely, religious services are conducted amid festoons of evergreens and redolent with flowers. The fair, the bazaar and the ball offer the influence of religious services and render the state of society but little improved from the enjoyment of the natal day. The general relaxation of business and abandonment to pleasure are costly and require the exercise of double diligence after the close of the season. The freedom allowed in social movements together with the contact in Christmas commercial business make the season profitable to humanity by necessity, while many a poor soul is elevated to higher plane by the enjoyment of a generosity that it has for several months felt impossible.

BEING BEYOND the proof-reading line, we have been obliged to allow our thoughts to be interpreted by others for the past five weeks. This has been done admirably for the greater part. Indeed, considering the copy, our only wonder is that some of our communicated editorial matter was ever deciphered by our good types. But in our issue, December 16th, article "Our work in the South," we certainly did not say that the people of the South are a moral people, though they may be as highly so as others, but we said they are a rural people; as the succeeding paragraph of the text implies. Our editorial work has been done, aside from editorial writing, by Mrs. Lee and our former, J. H. Williams. We have had the fattening comment passed that the work on the paper for the past week or two has been superior. Whether or not this is correct, the demand for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER is all the time growing. This is right, easily accounted for and highly encouraging.

EN ROUTE FROM Meridian to Galveston, we spent a few hours in New Orleans with our old friend, the Rev. R. F. Hurley. The old "Crescents City" is a

It will indicate to them that we prefer the theft, rapine, arson, murder and suicide that so degrade all our excellence to the acknowledgment that we are in ignorant sation. Even the much discussed vice of intemperance is more dependent for existence upon popular ignorance than upon any other fact. An enlightened people will not be a drunken people; from the very fact that an enlightened people will not destroy itself.

IN OUR CHURCHES there must be less attention paid to what the people want, and more to what they need. Their wants lead to death, their needs, to life. Whether praying, singing or preaching, their needs must be considered. When we speak the tone of our churches, we do so in the broadest sense, including all churches. This is especially true with reference to our colored churches, because we have been so falsely educated that our wants are liable to extraordinary, unreasonable and incorrect basis. Our needs are lost sight of too often; bidden by our wants. Wants lead to theft, drunkenness, all the vices; needs lead to probity, equity, temperance, all the virtues. Officers and ministers, parents and teachers, all who control either minors or adults should do so from the need standpoints, laboring to modify the wants to an agreement with the needs. Education in its best sense is always in proportion to the success in this work. God's government is conducted in respect to both needs as well as wants; to meet the needs and correct the wants. Man-kind went to enjoy the pleasures of life with their wants as their compass. God desires them to enter upon the enjoyments of life with respect to given ends. The scripture statement that "the prophets prophesy falsely and the priests bear rule by their means; and my people love to have it so (i. e., they want it to be so): and what will ye do in the end thereof?" is illustrative of the false teachings of many leaders and the results of these teachings.

THE PRESENT is a shout and jump, the preacher therefore makes especial efforts to excite them to shouting and jumping; but what is the end thereof? God's way is the best way. His manifestations of his will in the life and spirit entirely clear to give us some conception of those. He asks for the heart, the exercise of the mind in knowing, living and following him, conforming our wills to his will and cultivating our tastes after his taste, bringing our whole nature into subjection to him. When his will shall be thoroughly accomplished within us, our wants will correspond with our needs perfectly.

"GIVE AND TAKE."

On our recent Southern tour we frequently met with ministers going to conference or returning. All the branches of Methodism in the South hold fall or winter conferences. At the 6th of December, the Florida (the North Georgia Conference to the Alabama, we met a band of Methodist Episcopal ministers returning from the Savannah Conference held by Bishop Fowler, in Griffin, Ga. Among them were the Revs. G. W. Morriweather, J. H. Mathews, Sam'l J.T. Addio and George Washington. As they were being seated in the car, Brother Mathews exclaimed, "I've lost my glove!" We asked to which hand the glove belonged. It was the left. Having lost a glove of the right hand, we proposed that the M. E. brother make a purse that he would give for a left hand glove or take for a right. Quickly he drew his remaining glove from his pocket, if not the worse for wear, decidedly the worse for rips, proposing to give it to match the left hand glove. Then as we smiled and the right hand one so different from the left that we hesitated to take, and, for a moment, to give. Our Methodist Episcopal friends saw the hesitancy and offered to take the moment, when we determined that African Methodism should be as generous as any other Methodism, gave up our last glove. The two did not match, the right being sunf color, the left, the right being dark drab, stitched with green originally, but the stitching roughly sewed together with black linen thread. We were glad, however, to put the two together, so were we glad to talk with these gospel travelers, brethren in the same cause with us.

THE STRUGGLE FOR EXISTENCE.

The political hope of our people lies in securing so large a real estate basis in this country that the ones "that thrive there must be some interests and voting power" shall cease. While it is altogether unfair to apply this to any class of citizens of a republic unless applied to all whom it fits, it will be so applied for many generations, unless we change the fact that we pay a more proportionate amount of taxes to our claims for recognition, protection and power. No better can we afford to make up the larger part of the criminals of our country, thus drawing upon us the charge of being expensive to the country for police and punitive regulations. Nor can we afford to be called the pauper class, always begging. But we can afford to present our claims to the Government, that has so much of our labor and our hope. The American white people might afford to despise the wrete bedness and squalor of the Chinese, the Indian or the Italian, but they cannot afford to ridicule the poverty of their own race. We are frequently informed that we ought to be satisfied with whatever school facilities, etc., are given us, since much of it comes from the wealth of the whites, but our good friends seem to forget that we really have a considerable claim upon that very wealth. If our school advantages were made quite equal to those of the white people at once everywhere there would be no disproportion. Should this seem like nonsensical, forsee, we urge the opportunity to self-elevation, would never be indebted to the white American. But this is not in accord with popular American judgment; hence the necessity of our immediate, general and constant improvement in mind, morals and money. We must acknowledge that our circumstances are not the most helpful to those ends, still if we will, we can. Ten years of rum resistance, tobacco discarding, time improving, money saving, and wise investing, will elevate our people by a ratio far excelling that of our neighbors. Ten years of large attention to our moral culture will secure to us a strength superior to that of our less moral associates. We have now before us and around us the lands of the broad West and the broad South, offered for almost a song. Why not acquire them by the million? We ask this. We ask for us the open way to independent manhood—more, to co-operative manhood. Let us win the prize.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

GALVESTON, TEXAS.

It was our pleasure to spend a few of the holidays in this beautiful island city, a city for pleasure and retirement more than business. Being the especial guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Ashe, parents of Mrs. Lee, and the guest in general of a dozen or more families, we had a delightful time of it. Galveston is a city of homes, and hospitality is one of its characteristics. Last year Rev. Elder Z. T. Leonard, a graduate of Wilberforce University, became a bouncing boy aged six months.

Mr. A. D. Mayo, one of the leading educators of the south, spent a delightful social slavery with having accomplished for the negro the best form of education that he has ever had. Mr. Mayo's work at Beaufeuia is a similar length of time.

NOTICE.

OUR NEW RULES are as follows: 1st. On appointing an agent he or she must sign a written contract binding each to sell and return the sales money in a month, and to make a full settlement of all claims at the end of every three months. 2nd. All papers sacredly and carefully preserved and reported with each settlement and held subject to our orders. They must be counted, bound and returned to us when required. 3rd. Such agents will be allowed one-fourth of each annual subscription they obtain for the paper at $2.00 per year, they retaining fifty cents and sending us the balance. Or, they can take subscriptions on our installment plan, collecting 50 cents in advance every two months, and sending us 40 cents.

These rules will be strictly applied to all except regular itinerant ministers. We are compelled to do this for the protection of the Department against severe loss. We issue about two hundred and sixty thousand copies annually. Twenty-five hundred or three thousand copies are sent out to agents. On each number we lose from $1,200 to $1,500 years. Believing that all our brethren will favor any plan which promises avoidance of this great loss, we hope to receive a number of answers. Please read them, note well and prepare to settle at once.

NOTE.—Some new agreements will be furnished in blank to all who wish to become or continue agents.

ATTENTION, LITERARY SOCIE TIES!

The literary societies of the A. M. E. Church will hold their anniversary exercises on Monday night, Jan. 31st, 1887. Pastors and leading ladies and gentlemen in those places where societies are not organized will please make necessary arrangements for literary entertainment at the above mentioned date.

SEVERAL STATES are having difficulty over the election of United States Senator. They might make smooth work of it like the Philadelphia caucus.

HAVING RECEIVED a marked copy of the New New York Star, containing a copy of Dr. Derrick's views on the subject of capital punishment, we can safely add another proof to the same, sent us, with notes, by a New York correspondent.

CLOSE STUDY is more profitable than much superficial reading. Study is characterized by more pain than reading, but the superior pleasure which it affords pays for the pain. One may frequently gain more real strength from studying a single sentence than by carelessly reading a great book.

THE WEAKNESS of the colored race is evidenced by the misrepresentations of our case in itself and in the hands made by men like Mr. Grady and so largely received by the world, though contradicted by a thousand colored men and even one white man. Shall we give stronger proof? That is a question we must answer.

CHRISTIANS need not be afraid of reform moving too rapidly. We often hear the warning, "You can't expect our people to reform in a day." This is true, but the truth does not warrant our discouraging moral progress. Strike directly at vice. Hit it every time if possible. Kill when you hit. Palter, and the better way strongly and unequivocally. Live as if your moral philosophy were worth something to you. Act as if Christianity was the embodiment of a saving moral philosophy.

WHILE IN Cincinnati we spent a pleasant hour with Prof. Peter H. Clark, A.M., whose education and refinement have given him a wide reputation. Foremost among the men who have led the race in the avenues of learning, he seems foremost in hopefulness for the race's success if only it will appropriate all its advantages and shun those things that detract from all men, regardless of race. Mr. Clark is a man of large humanity and deep feeling, as well as rich thought and strong purpose.

NOT QUITE all of Brother Mills' "Rejoinder" appeared in our paper of two weeks ago. The remainder of the grist is, that the editor of the RECORDER is said to be candidate for the episcopacy, and that had he nominated the editor for the West Indies Bishopric, there would have been no opposition. We have studied, and carefully surpressed all allusions to connecting our name with the holy office when presented for the RECORDER, but we don't want our brother to lose this point in his argument. Thank you, dear brother, a more hopeful field, please; say common work will do.

THE SOUTH is coming more and more to appreciate the necessity of national aid to the work of education, all on account of the negroes, who have been thrust upon it by the national power. But the South is suffering nearly as much from the ignorance of the white people as from that of the colored people. It is true the peculiar manifestations of this ignorance differ in many respects, but still they suffer. It is a quite that much. We were substantially aided on our journey by them. This country to clamor for the Blair bill on account of our poor people. It matters little to us or our ground the clamor is made, but let it continue. We want the national educational law.

RIGHT, RIGHT REVEREND TURNER, right, right! we should not have published Brother Aldridge's letter nor its reply had we consulted the character of either the paper or the Church. We trust we shall not be called upon to continue the controversy, for we shall carefully decline. What can brethren hope to accomplish by this class of correspondence? Say what we may, there is a dignity from which the Christian ministry cannot afford to descend, whatever be the gain. There is a big world outside our Church, reading the literature that we produce. In the great future there will be a still larger class of readers than now. The time will come also our present status will be reversed largely by what we shall have written.

AT THE SIGNS of the bride's father, ex-Senator Henry Clay Warmoth, Jr., December 29, the editor of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER united Mr. D. M. Roberts, A. M., and Miss Isabella M. Harper in holy wedlock. Both were formerly students of Wilberforce University. Since graduating, Mr. Roberts has been teaching in Jefferson, Tex., and Miss Harper in Paul Quinn College, Waco, Tex. They set out on the course of married life on a smooth sea with fair winds.

THE wedding was a quiet affair, only a select few of the ex-Senator's friends being present, among whom we observed some of Louisiana's statesmen, prominently ex-Governor Antoine, accompanied by Mrs. Antoine and daughter; Mr. Segers, a large colored planter, and Miller, accompanied by Mrs. Segers, with others, making eight or ten couples.

THERE ARE nineteen colored members in the Louisiana General Assembly. Many of them are considerable property holders. We had the pleasure of meeting the honorable member from Madison Parish, Governor Hawkins—a name derived from his parents' connection with old Governor Hawkins, of North Carolina, as his property. Mr. Hawkins is a native of Louisiana, quite intelligent and industrious, seemingly bearing a considerable of his constituency's respect. But seven men in Louisiana are not elected so the Republican ticket often; usually on the Independent ticket, and are as circumscribed that they cannot exercise an influence equal to the number. We have no fear from his official acts, further than that he logically flows from them or comes from more political animosity.

TWO WEEKS ago we spoke of successful colored physicians. Ten days ago it was our pleasure to meet Dr. Connuls E. Clark in Cincinnati, O. Her success is far beyond her expectation. Two-thirds of her patrons are white persons. During the holidays a German whose child she had attended and who had recovered, in recognition of her successful treatment, brought her a substantial intimation of his appreciation of her talent, by presenting a splendid, finely carved cherry platform rocker, upholstered in blue plush. It is cheering to see a woman thus brave the prejudices against her sex in profession, and the even meaner prejudice against the vanity with which she is more or less identified, and force recognition upon merit alone. It is an indicator to our people. Worth will overcome unreasonable antagonism ultimately; get worth—worth in money, mind, manners and morals.

WE OPENT Sunday, January 2, in Cincinnati, preaching in the morning in Allen Temple, and in the evening in the beautiful Brown Chapel on "the hill." The Rev. John G. Mitchell, D.D., is pastor of the former and the Rev. W. J. Johnson, D. D., of the latter. Both churches are in good condition, though considerably in debt: Allen Temple about $3,000 and Brown Chapel about $1,700.

Though the day was very cold, Dr. Mitchell had a good morning audience. He has them always expecting to hear an instructive sermon in the morning if they attend, and mine as instructive sermon if they remain at home. Hence, he has good morning audiences. We like the idea. It is better than to give the people the poor preach in the morning because few attend, and the good preach in the evening because many attend. It is decidedly better to encourage mere daytime public worship, even though it be bad at the expense of less night attendance. The day was Brother Mitchell's rally day. He had hoped to raise $500. We have not learned how near to it he came. These are a good people. They have had a long siege paying for Allen Temple, but Dr. Mitchell hopes to lead them out by the next conference. There is a class of men and women in that church who will follow such a leader to the 'end. The Doctor is giving a series of lessons to a class of adult Sunday school scholars, and also instructing a large class in vocal music. We found the venerable James Clark and Mrs. Clark still with open hearts as of yore. Brother Johnson had a good cold weather audience. His people had been conducting a holiday bazaar and had worked very hard the week previous. They are a progressive people, having completed their new chapel and at the same time paid their pastor a liberal salary the past two years, owing now no more than $1,700—probably not quite that much. We were substantially aided on our journey by them. This church is destined to become one of our leading appointments in Ohio. Indeed Brother Johnson may feel uneasy now on account of the number of other able men willing to relieve him at the proper time. Immigration to the city will naturally settle out to this beautiful open part; this will tend to increase Brown Chapel's membership. Brother Johnson is succeeding nicely. He hopes to discharge $100 of the indebtedness this year. This he ought to do, for he seems to have a set of good officers and, in all membership of about one hundred and fifty, six local preachers. We met three of these, Brothers Baltimore, Saunders, Owens and Evans. Many of the colored residents of this part of the city own their own homes, some renting out two or three houses. Several good business men and mechanics are included in the membership.

An addition of one or two male voices would increase the efficiency of the choir. The Sunday school is well conducted under the superintendency of W. H. Baltimore. Elder Johnson is one of the best active Sunday school workers in our connection, ranking with Dr. Smith, Rev. Coppin and Beckett. The school, although in debt, is still a leader under the principalship of Mr. A. G. DeHart, who is said to be one of Cincinnati's most promising young gentlemen. We left the grand old "Queen City" for the still more beautiful old "Quaker City," spending mere time between the two than on any former trip in twenty-two years twenty-nine hours.

A SUCCESSFUL COLORED MEDICINE VENDER.

In our business jaunt through the South we learned of a successful colored gentleman of whom we had heard little for years. Twenty-three years ago Rev. Mr. Keys, a graduate from Tennessee, attended Wilberforce University. When the main college building was destroyed by fire in 1865, he left school; now he is traveling in the interest of a medicine, the "Keystone Liniment," said to be of rare invention and wonderful merit. Mr. Keys is reported to be worth one hundred thousand dollars. He resides in Shelbyville, Tenn.

SUNDAY AT THE MISSISSIPPI CONFERENCE.

The Sunday school of Meridian met at 9 o'clock conference Sunday. Though small, it is a spirited school, well provided with papers to consider the lesson of the day. We could but observe the reply of a little boy to the question, "Where is God?" Said the little theologian, "God is everywhere; he's in that stove over, in the trees, every place." The Sunday school is presided over by a young man of much promise, Brother Bryan being the chief speaker. The one regretful feet of the school was the almost total absence of young men and young women. Where were the girls of 16, 17 and the boys of 18-20? Would a Sunday school session at 3 o'clock guarantee a fuller attendance? They were not all "at service" for many were out on the streets. The children and young people of the present are, in Mississippi as elsewhere, our promise for the future. Let us get the best result possible from them. Brother Watson has done a good work in Meridian among both great and small. Another year will show great improvements doubtless. Public services were conducted in the morning by Elder C. O. H. Thomas; at 3 o'clock by the Reconnan Editor, and at night by the Reconnan Manager.

THE OUTLOOK.

Our Church, with the world in general, sets out on this great year. We cannot, of course, tell what will be the work—what the progress of 1887. We can easily see a great deal that needs doing; so can everyone else.

Having passed through or visited the conferences of seventy-two States, we are inclined to be hopeful with reference to our people and our Church. Comparing our present condition with that of twenty years ago, or with the present condition of the white American, we stand fair. Twenty years ago our Church numbered not more than half its present membership; it had but one school, which had never graduated a pupil; we were without an organized educational department; our missionary society was spending its forces at home and was practically dead; we had not dreamed of a Sunday school department; our original literature was composed of but two respectable books and one paper, a weekly. Now, to say nothing of the number of members, we have seven times the number of schools, from which have gone nearly one hundred graduates and many hundreds of well educated persons besides. Our organization enables us to call our educational forces together once a year and distribute our annual gatherings among our schools. Our missionary society, faintly, yet practically, reaches its hand out beyond the territory of the United States, making some effort to influence the heathen abroad. Instead of one paper we have five that may be called denominational, one being at present suspended. The Sunday School Union is supplying the schools of our churches with literature in considerable variety. The standard of ministerial qualification is very respectable and the demand for holy lives among ministers and laymen is increasingly regular.

With these appliances, why should we not flourish? Why should we not produce a glorious harvest unto the Lord?

Our work has materially changed in most States. We have passed the stage of organization and reached the age of soliting, regulating and developing. This work requires considerable change in methods. The contest for grounds is open more largely between us and churches popularly known as white, though embracing many colored persons. We must be able to work with these classes as we have not before. We must stand out before the world preaching an unquestioned capability for self-government; we must manifest wisdom, piety and purity sufficiently to command our work to the world as capable of large influence in modifying the nation's morals. We must be gracious and generous, philanthropic and brave, true and loyal, faithful and strong, diligent and thorough in our work. The source of popular movements tending to correct the common life of the people and strengthen them by co-operation must no longer be allowed to pass unappropriated into the hands of worldlings and homes. The Rev. M. F. Bryant, presiding elder of the Selma (Ala.) District, is doing good work in this respect. He sees that the ministers and people of the district buy lands. It is true that the Church does not engage in real estate business, but at the same time no man can be too good nor his office too sacred to assist his fellow-man in making to himself a friend of the unrighteous mammon. "I say always unto both God and mammon," but "make to yourselves friends of the unrighteous mammon." We must have the favor of God and may have the favor of his material universe.

We must get closer to the real wants of the people. What are they? Besides that of more wealth in reality, they must be taught lessons on the affairs of everyday life. Could the 2,500 African Methodist ministers in the United Commintant talk weekly on the niceties of personal conduct, domestic life, the importance of close attention to the strict principle upon which success depends, the responsibilities of citizens, the value of adherence to the principles of integrity and the absolute uncertainty of all human prosperity that disregards these principles, we should accomplish wonderful changes.

Then in the greater responsibility resting upon our Church than that of switching on people from prisons, from the chain-gang—the destructive chain-gang, the degrading chain-gang; training with it them a manhood capable of resisting the brilliant side of vice and emboldening them to tread manfully the nearness of life in politics, on the highways and in fact, everywhere. As to the whole race, we would say about the same that we say with reference to those in the A. M. E. Church. This both respecting progress and duty. The duties to which we refer imply a condition that cannot be long endured by any people without material deterioration. To make honestly, unpolitically and save all possible, is the lesson our people need as to money property; to do well, with their might, their duty is their personal moral philosophy relative to activities; to ANOTHER VETERAN WARRIOR GONE.

BY REV. A. M. GREEN, A.M.

Allow me to chronicle, through the columns of the RECORDER, one more veteran pioneer of African Methodism in the State of Louisiana. I was called to shout the middle of the month of October to visit Rev. James Reves, who, I was told, was very ill and desired to see me. I called at once and found him quite low, but in full hope of speedy release from all care and trouble. Elder Reves had been superannated by the Annual Conference three years ago, but his great zeal for the work of God has been superannated by the Annual Conference three years ago, but his great zeal for the work of God has been sustained him to complete and he was never called to retire duty. The last conference, however, knowing him to be absolutely too feeble to serve a charge, placed him on the superannuary list, commending him to the kind consideration of all our preachers and people. He had been the victim of some protracted illness, which, but for the strong comfort he received from above, would have overwhelmed him. But, though gross in sin and weakness, triumph at last. I cannot better express the value of Father Reves' service to our church in this section than by reference to the following letter from Rev. Mr. Thomas, one of our most estimable ministers of the Louisiana Conference:

FRANKLIN LA., NOV. 29, 1886.

DEAR BROTHER:—Your letter announcing the death of our mutually esteemed and dear brother, James Reese, has been received and the contents noted. The following is a very brief answer to your request. Father Reese was born and raised in North Carolina. He was a slave for a long period of his life, but was converted and had full control of the men engaged in the strife, he embraced religion while thus employed and was ill cessed to preach at Morris Brown Chapel, in Charleston, S. C., under the auspices of Rev. C. C. Dunlop, Rev. Mr. Snow and Rev. Samuel Campbell, he ordered our itinerancy in 1865. At the organization of the Louisiana Annual Conference he received his appointment from Bishop J. P. Campbell to Holly Grove, and Bishop Lane also appointed to Thibodeaux, La.; Covington, La., and Bishop Lane & Bishop Reese was sent to Vaughans, Greenbury and other points. He was presiding elder for a short time of the New Orleans District By Bishop Brown he was appointed to succeed Bishop Greensburg, also to Darlington and to Clinton Mission. Bishop Ward appointed him a few years ago to Pleasant Grove and Archipelago. Under Bishop H. Clay Turner to Bayou Sara and Bayou Houeff and Hooms. Father Reese was leader and organizer of all the work we have in Pointe Coupee, St. Helena and East Feliciana Parishes. He was also Justice of the Peace and for three years as a member of the Legislature of the State of Louisiana. Elder Reese and myself were very intimate during the late war and during the reconstruction period. He was a Mason, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee and Louisiana, and a preacher, in all, for about 75 years. I remain the last of those who took part in the organization of the Louisiana Conference now living. I am the only one remaining of the number. God bless you, my brother, and the Louisiana Conference will be in mourning for the loss of one of its most faithful sons. Father

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. Lawrence, 213 East 9th St., New York, will receive the recipe free.

To Brethren of the Four Educational District:

Please send in all Endowment Money at once so reports can be arranged and sent to conference. The brethren and friends who have promised to make it this later than the third Sunday in September, as we desire to have it arranged for the second effort, will please rally at once and tail in and wind up this part of our work.

Yours for the cause,

I. N. BURDAM,
Secretary 4th Educational District.

NOTE TO AGENTS SELLING THE RECORDER.

On and after the 1st of June, agents selling 20 copies and over will be charged 24 cents a copy, and less than 20 a half; less than 30 copies, 3 cents.

All back bills must be paid in arrears for more than one month will be stopped All agents must settle the first of each month.

More than $400 is due us to-day on Recorder sales alone. We shall sift our agents every month.

Now, dear friends and brethren, help us. We are endeavoring to do your work with energy and faithfulness, we pray you to sustain your own cause.

AGENTS WANTED.

Will our pastors who are not supplying the RECORDER to their people, please do so by sending a package to be sent weekly? If it is too much trouble to you, encourage some young man or boy, or, what is quite as good, a young lady who could recommend. Many of those who are now canvassing or agents are ladies. Let every one take hold of this and let us hear from our workers. Send on your orders. Sell the paper for five cents and send us three cents. Address

J. G. EMERY, 631 Pine street.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street and the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

NOTICE.

A NEW DEPARTURE IN THE RECORDER SALES DEPARTMENT.

Our new rules are as follows: 1st. On appointing an agent he or she must sign a written contract binding each to sell and return the sales money by the month, and to make a full settlement of all claims at the end of every three months. 2nd. All papers unsolicited carefully preserved and reported with each settlement and held subject to our orders. They must be carefully bound and returned to us when required. 3rd. Such agents will be allowed one-fourth of each annual subscription they obtain for the paper at $2.00 per year, they retaining fifty cents and sending us the balance. Or, they can take subscriptions on our installment plan, collecting 50 cents in advance every two months, and sending us 40 cents.

These rules will be strictly applied to all except regular itinerant ministers. We are compelled to do this for the protection of the Department against severe loss. We issue about two hundred and sixty thousand copies annually. Four-fifths of these are sold by Agents. Twenty thousand copies are sent out to agents. In this number we lose from $1,200 to $1,500 per year. Believing that all our brethren will favor any plan which promises evidence of this great loss, we have resolved on the above rules. Please read them, note well and prepare to settle at once.

NOTE.—These new agreements will be furnished in blank to all who wish to become or continue agents.

ATTENTION, LITERARY SOCIETIES!

The literary societies of the A. M. E. Church will hold their anniversary exercises on Christmas Eve, 3rd, 1887. Pastors and leading ladies and gentlemen in those places where societies are not organized will please make special arrangements for literary entertainment at the above date on this occasion.

PROGRAMME.

1. Essay, time ten minutes, "How can we help the cause of education?"

MUSIC.

2. Oration, time fifteen minutes, "The great man of the African race."

MUSIC.

4. Debate, time, forty minutes, "Is the preaching of the gospel better adapted to the establishment of religion among the people than the enforcement of civil law?"

A small fee may be charged for admission or a collection taken on the occasion. Each society represented is requested to send its annual donation for the support of education immediately to our secretary, at the address represented. We will return receipts for all moneys and print names and amounts in the annual report.

Respectfully,

W. D. JOHNSON,
Secretary of Education, Box 263, Atlanta, Ga.

NOTICE.

To the Presiding Elders of the Alabama Annual Conference: Dear Brethren, you will please notify me at once, the time of each of your districts, my presidates each will have for the traveling work. We would also wish to know of the several officers how many of them will be present at our next annual session so homes can be prepared for them.

Brethren, do not bring your wives with you, unless you have money to pay their board. We will be glad to see you.

Fraternally,

To the Ministers of the Sixth Episcopal District:

Dear brethren, your attention is called to the necessity of raising and bringing to the conference a larger contingency or financial collection to defray the expenses of conference, and especially to defray expenses of delegates to conference missions. Last year we failed for the want of funds to get on the ministers of the Columbia Conference, and if I mistake not we still owe something on the South Carolina, of four or five years ago. We must publish our conference minutes, brethren, we cannot afford to do less, therefore I urge upon the presiding elders of each conference, and the pastor in charge, to make a special effort in behalf of your conference collection in the quarterly conferences. You will remember, dear brethren, that it is as a bedrock necessity that we do the above mentioned, I shall expect you to do your duty.

Manager's Notes.

We have on hand

the Revised Version of the Bible, just issued from the press. Two styles: $1 and $2 per copy. We want to sell them now. Please order them. Beautiful paper, clear type and most interesting reading. You never saw so clearly the meaning of many things as you will find in this new old Book!

Wakefield's Theology, the standard theological text book, adopted by the Bishops for the course of study. $2.50 by mail at your risk; $2.25 by express. Please order them. They are here and must be sold.

Then we have an excellent book—"Fifty Years and Beyond,"—a charming thing for the people not far from who intend to be old. It sends up—and down—the shining pathway of years with a harp and song. $2.00, postpaid. Must be sold. We have many more, but can't speak of them now.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shafer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

Stomach Troubles are caused by improper diet, hasty eating and drinking, late suppers, the excessive use of stimulants, and a torpid or sluggish condition of the blood. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the most efficacious remedy for all such disorders, as is convinced that the worst cases of Dyspepsia

Can be cured by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I suffered greatly from this complaint for years, and never took any medicine that did me any good until I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I took four bottles of this preparation last spring, and my appetite, health, and strength were completely restored.—Richard W. Norton, Danbury, Conn.

My wife was long subject to severe Headaches, the result of stomach and liver disorders. After trying various remedies, without relief, she used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and was speedily cured.—R. Tapp, 24 Apostle st., Lowell, Mass.

As a remedy for Debility, Faintness, Loss of Appetite, and Indigestion, I took one bottle of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

and was cured.—H. Mansfield, Chelmsford, Mass.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Troubles

Never come alone. If the Liver, Kidneys, or Bowels are disordered, other parts of the body become affected. Ayer's Sarsaparilla restores the vigor required for the healthy action of these organs more speedily than any other medicine. "A few bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla Cured me of Kidney Disease, when all other medicines failed. It is the most reliable and best, remedy for this complaint known to me.—Eli Dodd, Xenia, Ill.

I was afflicted with a severe bowel difficulty; my vitality seemed to be rapidly diminishing, my appetite failed, my tongue was badly coated, and my strength left me at times. In this enfeebled condition I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I had not taken many doses before I noticed a decided change for the better. My appetite and strength returned, and my whole system manifested renewed vigor. —E. B. Simonds, Quincy, Ill.

I have used Ayer's Medicines in my family with satisfaction, for years, and always have a bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla in the house; it is so good for the blood.—Mrs. E. Thurston, North Attboy, N. J.

We must publish our conference minutes, brethren, we cannot afford to do less, therefore I urge upon the presiding elders of each conference, and the pastor in charge, to make a special effort in behalf of your conference collection in the quarterly conferences. You will remember, dear brethren, that it is as a bedrock necessity that we do the above mentioned, I shall expect you to do your duty.

Your fellow-laborer,

JAMES A. SHORTER.

NOTICE.

The North Louisiana Annual Conference of the A. M. E. Church will meet to hold its 4th session in the city of Alexandria, Dec. 15th, 1887. General Officers are invited, and those who expect to attend will please notify the undersigned, at once as before the 30th of November. Preachers of other conferences are invited; they will also notify in time to the preachers at home. Do not bring your wives unless you come prepared to pay board. No provisions will be made for the storage of horses. Come, General Officers, to this session of this conference, so you can encourage your despondent hearts in every one else. The roll of honor.—That which has no clean in it.

Paid county, Ill., is reported without a cash balance and a debt of 6c.

Geological surveys indicate that the New England coast is slowly rising.

About one hundred babies have been named after the present President of the United States.

H. A. Adams, of Orange county, Fla., has produced a sweet potato twenty-eight inches long.

California claims the largest squash of the season. It was raised at Lompoc, and weighs 341 pounds.

An old settler of Dexter, Me., aged nearly 80 years, was married to a sixteen year-old miss of that place lately.

Tom Acrefoot is the appropriate name of a man in Clay West whose leg measures inches long and six and one-half inches wide.

A dwarf, whose figure was familiar to the people of Newark (N. J.), was found dead in his shanty, and it is believed that he was frozen to death.

Samuel Dayton, of Atlantic county, N. J., reports that he has killed three hundred and fifty rats. He can be got by the opossums, 16 muskrats and two otter.

Natural gas accumulating in the stove at a Pittsburg public school exploded, one the other day, without harming any one, but the children all gained a half holiday.

In Berlin the health authorities propose to establish two great city "milk halls," where milk will be sold at cost to the poor. This is in the hope of diminishing infant mortality.

A snake recently entered the house of Bert G. Smith, at Kissimmee, Florida, entered a bird cage, broke the wire, and after swallowing the canary, coiled up in the bottom of the cage to take a nap.

The Crosby County, (Tex.) Clarion records, editorially, the fact that "Bear Beasley has killed a bear, which, he married last month, is knitting him a pair of warm woolen stockings for the winter."

Many of the Jicarilla Indians in New Mexico are victims of leading a civilized life, and are eating a hard life in the Rio Grande Valley, and have placed a number of their children at school at Ramona.

There were 20,000 bushels of onions raised on the Great Meadows, in Warren county, N. J., last season. The crop averaged 250 bushels per acre. Next season 250 acres will be devoted to onion raising.

It has been discovered that the addition of sugar or molasses to mortar increases its power of holding together to an extraordinary degree, and it is said that this is the secret of the wonderful old Roman cement of ancient days.

Some men are always sharper in circumstances. A Nebraska man was carried forty miles by a cyclone and dropped in a widow's dooryard. He married the widow and returned home with about $20,000 more than when he started.

An amateur gardener has found that the application of a few grains of strychnine to plants as dandelions, thistles, and plantain will kill them, and in ridding the lawn of these deep rooted weeds the ammunition is taken not to feed the grasses with it.

The effects of compulsory vaccination in the American army, a foreign paper states, are manifested in a remarkable manner, the fact that, among the 50 to 60 small-pox cases in which hospital treatment is necessary in Paris for some months, there is not been a single soldier.

The Rev. Mr. Mackenzie was out hunting and a shower came up. He placed his gun over the muzzle of his gun to keep the powder dry. A heavy clap of thunder coming, he jumped, and his head struck the barrel of the gun, and his hand was blown to pieces.

Natural gas seems to be growing in favor for household purposes, despite the fact that at times it leaves consumers in a fix. The statement is made that one such company alone, in Pittsburg, supplies the illuminant to 10,000 dwellings in that city, Allegheny and the vicinity.

The coal discovered last season on Upsan Creek, Jackson county, Ind., by Messrs. W. A. Robertson and Shields is reported by the San Francisco Bulletin to be the best yet found on the Pacific coast. A seam eighteen feet thick has been developed sufficiently to convince the owners that it is practically inexhaustible.

The light from an electric lamp tower at Davenport, Iowa, falls full upon a flower garden about one hundred feet away, and during the past summer the owner has observed that lilies which have usually closed early in the day time have opened in the night, and that morning-glories have unclosed their blossoms as soon as the electric light fell on them.

The blood-cleansing qualities of Ayer's Sarsaparilla render it invaluable in skin disorders.

In an appropriate design on the mantel card of the Maine Druggists' display in Portland, on Saturday evening, was the picture of a traveling man accompanied by a young lady in a nearly empty railroad car, and saying: "I buy your goods, is this seat engaged?" But the druggists are not half as desperate facts as they are represented to be. It is only the fresh ones who do this sort of thing. The old stagers act as a damper on all of it.—Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Sick and bilious headache, and all derangements of stomach and bowels, cured by Dr. Pierce's "Pellets," the original bilious granules. 25 cts a vial. No cheap boxes to allow waste of virtue. Try drug-gists.

An ingenious smuggling system has lately been discovered in Switzerland and is reported in the Chronicle of that country. Bags becoming Chinese steamers brought over, were arranged in metallic cases, and as the steamer approached the coast, cases were dropped overboard and immediately sank. After the lapse of a few hours the cases would rise to the surface, and could then be picked up by the small boats off the coast.

The pastors of a few rich and fashionable congregations in the large cities are well paid, but for every one there is then fortunate there are a hundred who have hard work to make both ends meet. Considering that the clergy as a class are more of more than ordinary intelligence, it would seem that they could succeed at least as well in any other occupation. Whatever their motive in taking the vows, it is certainly not the attraction of a fat living.—Memphis Times.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility, and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Manager's Notes.

We have on hand

the Revised Version of the Bible, just issued from the press. Two styles, $1 and $2 per copy. We want to sell them now. Please order them. Beautiful paper, clear type and most interesting reading. You never saw so clearly the meaning of many things as you will find in this new old Book!

Wakefield's Theology, the standard theological text book, adopted by the Bishops for the work of study. $2.50 by mail at your risk; $2.25 by express. Please order them. They are here and must be sold.

Then we have an excellent book—"Fifty Years and Beyond,"—a charming thing for older people and for those who intend to be old. It sends up—not down—the shining pathway of years with a harp and song. $2.00, postpaid. Must be sold. We have many more, but can't speak of them now.

What we must say now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their first enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full SIX months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

PHILADELPHIA, JAN. 27, 1887

WE SHOULD have appended Dr. Embry's name to the excellent sketch of the late Bishop Cain, which appeared in our last number.

A BEAUTIFUL floral design was placed on the funeral casket of Bishop Cain by representatives of the New Jersey and Philadelphia Conferences.

FEBRUARY 14TH is Bishop Allen's 187th birthday. It comes on Monday. In many churches reference will be made to his life on the preceding Sunday. In some a regular programme will be observed. It would be a good thing to make general observance of the day throughout the Church.

THE DEATH of Bishop Cain having left the First District without an episcopal supervising Bishop, the Bench of Bishops has agreed that the Philadelphia and New England Conferences shall be held by Bishop Ward, the New Jersey Conference by Bishop Wayman and the New York Conference by Bishop Brown.

BISHOP DISNEY publishes the list of conferences of the Tenth District in the Southern Recorder. When here in the spring the Bishop gave orders to have some of those conferences cut out of the Church organ entirely, but as the committee ordered three to remain. Misplacing the paper on which we noted the changes we cut out all. It will be Bishop will give us the list, the A. M. E. Church organ will publish it.

THE FACT is plain, as was evinced in the case of Bishop Dickerson's death and is now evinced in the case of Bishop Cain's, that to manage our episcopacy less actively liberating than at first, by distrusting, we have failed to make especial arrangements for supervision after the death of any Bishop. We say especial arrangement; because there is general arrangements in the provision that Bishops shall travel throughout the work.

TO PREACH and pastorate are the chief duties of the minister of the gospel. The propagation and dissemination of the Christain religion are his especial work. The object of the gospel is to religionize mankind in the best sense. From this improved religious life are to flow improved moral acts. Mankind are not to be corrected by rules, their actions good first, but by making their hearts good first. Then happiness comes from doing the right.

NEW PAPERS are launched upon the field by colored gentlemen about every week. The Outlook comes to us from North Carolina, the Argus from Indiana, the Baptist Tribune from South Carolina, the Southern Freemen from Alabama, the Star from Baltimore, and how many more? It may be hoped that we are not overdoing it in negro journalism. Though many such papers die early, the birth rate remains in the ascendancy, slightly. Both Races, which made its bow a few months ago, is said to have collapsed.

AROUND the truth as it is in Christ Jesus, what ineffable play, while it what wonders, upon what interests. The truth as it is in Christ; mysterious, profound, far reaching, comprehensive truth. The truth of ages, of philosophies, of religions and of proper progress. The truth in Christ, including his eternity, his wisdom, his power, his love. If ye know that truth, it shall make you free. Its principle is worth, its inexhaustible influence, its tempered accommodation to human weakness render it the most precious truth and as endless study. For the good all probable earthly existence this truth must be one of the most pleasant subjects of intelligences.

IF RACE pride is sinful, as seems to be intimated in an article by Elder A. A. Burleigh, in the January Review, is not individual pride equally so? The unity of the human race will hardly ever reach that solidarity that will exclude variety. The possibility of a variety being lost is not the probability consistent than other men. Certainly as of another's being born. It is not at men develop by means of all the appli- all improbable that there have been ances and aids of our civilization, we get certain magazine articles of a departure variations between men from the very beginning and will be still the end. It may be doubted whether even Christian unity or heavenly unity will despoil the beauty of variety. Variety is characteristic of the human race. With it certain races [or variety] pride must go.

VERY LITTLE is said about the fast, yet it is a gracious one, that our Church government does not have its highest representatives more liberally and equally distributed over the country. Any one living in the part of the country in which one of our Bishops lives can hardly fail to see what those large territories and great members who have little episcopal care lose. Some of our brethren say that this matter will be looked after when the church shall see fit to elect new Bishops, and with reference to said new Bishops. But this will not be enough in kind. The distribution should be had at once. The Church could at its next General Conference arrange to put this distribution of its Episcopal officers into operation at once. There can be little question but that it disregard of this need has done as much as any other circumstance to impede our connectional progress and to give occasion for the gains some other denominations have made on us. Our Church need open its eyes to facts as they are. What is done too much heretofore work under God to stead back in utter disregard of evident indications. We have spent too much force in practical work to waste our powers now in mere sentimentalism. "We must go."

IN THESE days of successful evangelists as Moody, Hammond, Whittle, Harrison, Sam Jones and Sam Small, it is occasionally thought that the greatest good is being done by this class of ministers, but in such calculations we most not forget the solid work of the pastor, by means of which the masses are prepared for evangelistic work and masterful, religious life after enjoying its benefits. The maintenance of organic ecclesiastical life is the most difficult work of the ministry. There can scarcely be but one answer to the question respecting the necessity of maintaining such organism. The formulation of doctrine and the maintenance of sound words depend upon the organism largely. It is true tha evangelists frequently lead organized bodies out of rats. The free and early life is which they both sing and preach, throwing off almost every restraint, gives to Christian activities an elasticity and easy movement that tends to add sheer to the entire work of the church. It is sometimes thought that preachers who are not pastors are much the loss fin netal burdon. This is a mistake. The cheapest laborer in any business is not always the free labor w. It is difficult to know whon such a laborer is at last. In the enthusiasm of the hour the people will give to a roaming evangelist ten times as much as they would give their pastor for equivolent service. The pastor remains to share all the ills that often follow the seasons of high enjoyment, among which is the ill of a lack of popular respect for the pastor who may have been mercilessly lashed in their presence by the temporising evangelist.

IN THE Metropolitan Church, on Friday, 21st inst., the last service of the Church was rendered to the body of Richard Harvey Cain, fourteenth Bishop in the A. M. E. Church. The services were under the general direction of Bishop Wayman and Presiding Elder Handy, in both whose folds of labor the Bishop had his home. The sermon was preached by Bishop Brown from 1 Chron., 31, 21. Bishop Turner also made some remarks. He had been closely and amicably related to Bishop Cain for twenty-five years. In 1861 they were ordained to the order of Elder side by side and 1880 they were consecrated to the office of Bishop side by side. In the intervening years they had been organizing and developing our Church, one in Georgia and the other in South Carolina. Both were also prominent in reconstructing their respective Conferences. The sermon of Bishop Brown was calculated to show that the Church had lost a brave, industrious leader, an able polpit man and a devout Christian

The pall-bearers were Revs. W. H. Yeocum and A. H. Nowton, of the New Jersey Conference; J. H. A. Johnson and D. P. Seaton, of the Baltimore Conference; C. T. Shaffer, of the Philadelphia, and W. H. Thomas, of New York Conference. At the cemetory the committal service was read by Bishop Campbell. The funeral was very largely attended by the Washington people as well as many from Baltimore and elsewhere. The New England, New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Ohio, W. Tennessee and W. Texas Conferences were represented by ministers. The Metropolitan Church was respectably filled.

THERE is much said about the ministers and Christians having considerable difference between faith and teachings; that there is much less orthodoxy in the orthodox ministry than is taught; that there is much more orthodoxy in the heterodox ministry than is declared. Doubtless men do not comprehend all they preach, but there must be a respectable consistency between dogma and practice, faith and preaching. Upon this the whole fabric of religious life depends very largely. The ministry and all Christianity live in the face of the world. We cannot think that the world of ministers and Christians are less politic or less sagacious on the ground of secrecy, but on the complaint that their writings in a

A GOOD PROJECT.

BY REV. J. M. HENDERSON.

In a recent issue of the RECORDER, I noticed a brief announcement of a petition to publish short sketches of the character of some of the fathers of African Methodism and other prominent workers in the cause. First, it certainly a good one and cannot fail to win such appreciation and support. It will also be a very full repository of information. Besides that it is a commendable thought that the people, for whom the petition specially makes over their lives to the service of God and their fellow men. There are many good deeds that have been done in secret. The Lord knows them and will remember them at last forty years. If the record of the whole is toward universalism. It cannot be denied that some very amiable and learned men seem to be loosing toward this splendid but dangerous error; and we might say, also, that it is in one or another of its phases an old, as well as splendid, error. We have been frequently asked by ministers and others where such a work can be found, and we have been unable to point out any thing beyond a mere fragment here or there.

We are moved to these reflections by the trial lately of three learned professors of Old Andover Theological Seminary. These gentlemen were not accused on the ground of heresy, but on the complaint that their writings in a certain magazine articles of a departure the effects of sin remaining in a dying sinner's body mars and disfigures it forever, and even in this resurrection it can never be that beautiful body that God had intended it to be. Millions of human beings are the wretched victims of unrestrained sins, have been murdered and are continually being murdered by this terrible monster, sin; and thereby, as a natural consequence of allowing sin to reign in the body, a sceptre of torments grows.

Disobedience to God's commands is the wages of sin is death. The Christian ministry is called upon to disabuse these great evils, and great torture deaths, and to have instituted to their place a righteousness, a holy happiness, love and long lives, which are always the sure guarantees to the immortal souls in bodies, and all the blessedness of those lives in the glorious and perfect presence of God.

This may appear to be a great undertaking, but we find very much opposed to those who try to preach and have souls converted to Christ, and especially to those who try to preach in an intelligent and decent manner, and hear them constantly, but clashes that have been made by the preaching of the people (as Bro. Reed says of them) "Hallelujah" and "Glory to God," and "Amen" to have my theory about the Church and if there is anything that has a particular right to, it is to have a right to the pulpit.

Now, my theory is that, literally speaking, the gospel is not preached. The command was to "go and preach the gospel." Well, I will undertake to say that not one in a hundred preachers in the pile of manuscript between you and the gospel, you are not preaching the gospel, you are reading it. You would you think of a lawyer at the bar of justice reading from a book that he could say to the twelve sworn jurymen that he was pleading for the life of that prisoner, if he should hand out a book and begin to read them? What would you think of a physician in a laboratory assembly, who wanted to practice his fellow members in the policy or impolicy of any measure, if he should read to them? Everybody knows it would empty the hall immediately. Now, I want to guard myself, Heaven forbid I should be so unsympathetic as to say that a preacher is not a legitimate expounder and the absence of notes, a sermon, but we must get hold of an audience in this world that was ever in the presence of Jesus in which to address them, and no one should address them who does not know by experience what he is talking about, and prepare a speech or sermon that is to be delivered without notes as it does to write one would be very easily read.

In concluding Mr Blaine said:

"I want extempore speeches in the pulpit. I made a eloquence in less than six weeks preparing, and if you would go to the great places in which they have been gathered up in a Pentecostal season, you will never see the interposition of manuscripts. I would have such influences as Whitefield had in the open field.

"I would have such influence as Robert Cushman made in the first sermon delivered on New England soil. I would have such influence as Paul asserted before Agrippa. I would have such influence as Paul asserted before Agrippa. I would have such influence as Jesus Christ had. I would have the imitation of the highest of all styles of oratory—conversational. I would so arranged as to be able to give them 10 hours a day.

LIFE'S BRIGHT SIDE.

Sam Johnson once said that the ability to look at the bright side of life was worth to any man as much as the ability to his salary of the hundred thousand a year, and when he wrote that sum meant a great deal. It is as true to-day as then. Not many of those who are in the possession of the honeycombs find it difficult to change the sour taste of the soapa before them. Several of the letters written by patients of Drs. Starkey & Palen say that the use of Compound Oxygen has not only made good and functional clearly. Melancholy is gone; the disposition to be morose and disagreeable no longer exists, and they feel like "singing all the time," and "I can skip and run like a child," are the remarks of the possessors of the disposition now. We commend the above to the anxious, silent delegates by ballot. The following are the names of those who have taken Compound Oxygen at their home, and therefore them to one street that surrounds the city very nearly; it terminates at the Bay of Fundy, and is "there." There is a great boom in real estate at the bottom of the business men of this place are of all nationalities. As to our people, among the most prominent are Rev. Dr. Gerry, Rev. Dr. Cox, Rev. Dr. Hall, Rev. Dr. Hamilton, Rev. Dr. Talmage, Rev. Dr. Storrs

The highest State and county tax paid in California is $3 on the $100. The lowest (in San Joaquin) is $1 on the $100.

An ammonia boiler in an ice machine in Appalachicola, Fla., exploded last week, killing one man and seriously injuring others.

An Iowa female seeks admittance to the editor's sanctum. "But I tell you, madam," protested the attendant, "that the editor is too ill to talk to any one today." "Never mind—I'll do the talking."

The new bonnets displayed to a millinary store whose à People's party procession in Thoonas, Washington Territory, passed, demoralized a number of woman who were in the line and broke up that end of the procession.

Prepaid steerage rates are now down to $15 on the Cunard, Inman, Guion, White Star and Anchor lines, and to $15 on the National line—transportation at the rate of a cent or less per mile, with boarding and lodging thrown in for the trip!

Deaths by alcoholism, the New York Herald asserts on what it declares to be authentic statistics that have come to fact clear, have decreased throughout the United States during the first fifteen years from a ratio of 111 to 45 in each 1000 from all causes.

Verdi is a decided adherent of the "normal diapason," accepted in the last musical congress at Vienna, and is reported to have made it a condition with the publisher of his new opera, "Otello," that the same is only to be performed on stage that has adopted the diapason.

A plaintiff who alleges that the defendant promised to marry her in 1856, and has not yet done so, has begun suit for $20,000 against him in Pittsburg. She avers that the defendant has regularly set time for the ceremony twice a year since the date specified, but always found some excuse.

The bound volumes of the proceedings of the first session of the current (49th) Congress number nine. The reports of proceedings of the first session of other Congresses have gone into six or seven volumes, while eight has been before been the largest number required for the long sessions of the 44th and 47th Congresses.

Ah Boon, a Chinaman who dresses in an elaborate naval uniform, has entered suit in the Brooklyn City Court, to recover $246 loaned to a woman with whom he boarded. He claimed that she induced him to propose to her youngest daughter, and during his courtship obtained from him, on the pretext of paying $546. Then she told him that the match was off. The defendant put in a counter claim against Boon for unpaid board bills.

NEW BOOKS

that will be on sale by the Managers in September and throughout the ensuing year:

"Fifty Years and Beyond; or, Old Age and How to Enjoy it." A book of unalienable value, as well as of interest to all who have passed the meridian of life. 12mo, cloth, $1.00, sance in gilt edges, $1.50.

"Studies in Genesis; or, Bible Views of the Cosmos in its Relation to Modern Science," by the Rev. T. G. Stewart, D.D., and containing an important chapter on "Christian Evidences," by Bishop Campbell. This is an intensely interesting book, especially to preachers, old or young. It will contain about 250 pages, 12mo. on clear beautiful paper, and sold at the low rate of $1.25. The work is now in press and under our own imprint. Orders, $1.25, mailing 10cts. extra.

"Bible Heroes; or, Stories from the Old Testament for Little Folks." Judging by my own children, as interrogators who would have his children imbued with the heroic spirit of Bible characters, could buy a better book. Our children devoured it at once. Price only 50 cents; $5 cash in hand, copies sent for 5 cents.

"A Voice from the Orient." This is a small volume of select sermons by Rev. M. M. Mangasarian, a native Greek, and pastor of the Spring Garden Street Presbyterian Church, of Philadelphia. The is an unusually interesting book for reading in leisure hours. Price, $1.00.

Rev. J. E. Webb has published an excellent Record Book for church trustees, with blanks for everything pertaining to their reports and business meetings. It is well bound and well arranged. We have seen nothing like it, nor half so convenient. The book is arranged for four years. It is just the thing to aid in making correct records. For sale at our Publishing House. Price, $1.50.

The Resurrection of the Redeemed, and Hades," by Rev. James Boggs. A book of 214 pages of well written matter, well bound in cloth. Price, $1.00.

Orders for each or all of these works may be sent to us at once. Cash orders only.

NOTICE.

A FEW REMARKS IN THE RECORDER SALSE BUSINESS.

Our new rules are as follows: 1st. On appointing an agent he or she must sign a written contract binding each to sell and return the sales money to us monthly, and to make a full settlement of all claims at the end of every three months. 2nd. All papers ourobtle be carefully preserved and reported with each settlement and held subject to our orders. They must be counted, bound and returned to us when required. 3rd. Such agents will be allowed one-fourth of each annual subscription they obtain for the paper at $2.00 per year, they retaining fifty cents and sending us the balance. Or, they can take subscriptions on our installment plan, collecting 50 cents in advance every two months, and sending us 40 cents.

These rules will be strictly applied to all except regular itinerant ministers. We are compelled to do this for the protection of the Department's interests. We are less. We have about two hundred and sixty thousand copies annually. Two-fifths, or one hundred and four thousand copies are sent out to agents. On this number we lose from $1,500 to $2,000 yearly. We have left all our brethren will favor us by plan which promises avoidance of this great loss, and we have prepared the above rules. Please read them, note well and prepare to settle at once.

Note.—These new agreements will be furnished in blank to all who wish to become or continue agents.

NOTE TO AGENTS SELLING THE RECORDER.

On and after the 1st of June, agents selling the RECORDER will be allowed 2½ cents a copy, (two cents and a half); less than 20 copies, 2 cents.

All agents who are found in arrears for more than one month will be stopped and the name must send a full list of each month.

More than $400 is due us to-day on RECORDER sales alone. We shall sift our agents very month.

Now, dear friends and brethren, help us. We are endeavoring to do your work with energy and faithfulness, we pray you to stand by your own cause.

AGENTS WANTED.

Will our pastors who are not supplying us RECORDERS to their people, please do so by sending for a package to be sent weekly? It is too much trouble to you, encourage some young man or boy, or what is quite as good, some young lady to solicit and recommend. Many of those who are now selling as agents are ladies. Let every one take hold of this. Let us hear from our workers. Send on your orders. Sell the paper for five cents and send us three cents. Address

J. C. EMBRY, 631 Pine street.

NOTICE.

To my minister having in his possession copies of my "Compends of African Methodism," will please send them to Rev. J. C. Embry, 631 Pine Street, Philadelphia, Pa., and oblige. Letters to those who have unsold copies on hand.

A. W. WAYMAN.

Manager's Notes.

We have on hand

the Revised Version of the Bible, just issued from the press. Two styles, $1 and $2 per copy. We want to sell them now. Please order them. Beautiful paper, clear type and most interesting reading. You never saw so clearly the meaning of many things as you will find in this new old Book!

Wakefield's Theology, the standard theological text book, adopted by the Bishops for the course of study. $2.50 by mail at your risk; $2.25 ex express. Please order them. They are here and must be sold.

Then we have an excellent book—"Fifty Years and Beyond,"—a charming thing for older people and for those who intend to be old. It sends up—not down—the shining pathway of years with a harp and song. $2.00, postpaid. Must be sold. We have many more, but can't speak of them now.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this prospectus to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipt to all who will act for us in this matter.]

A. W. WAYMAN.

On this Plan

we give full SIX months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

J. C. EMBRY, Manager.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book." by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents.

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. Lawrence, 212 East 9th st., New York, will receive the recipe free.

There is no revenge like "coals of fire."

LEARN THE TRUTH ABOUT Rain's Honey of Horehound and Tar. It softens the cough, raises the windpipe and bronchial tubes of mucus, eases the lungs and the complexion of the throat, and restores to the organs of respiration their natural strength and vigor. 25c., 50c. and $1.

Greene's Nervura Blood and Nerve Remedy, Greene's Nervura Liver and Kidney Cure, Greene's Nervura Nerve and Blood Pills, Greene's Catarrh Remedy, Greene's Nervura Soap, and Greene's Nervura Tooth Powder are prepared by DR. J. H. GREENE, 35 West 14th St., New York.

Will the Chicago Anarchists leave any more respect for law after it has saved their necks?

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The fashionable overcoats and their wearers remind one of the seashore—capes and heavy swells.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

TO THE EDITOR:—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease. By its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their express and P.O. address. Respectfully,

DR. T. A. SLOCUM, M. C., 181 Pearl st., New York.

A Luxuriant Growth Of Hair

May be obtained by the continued use of Ayer's Hair Vigor. "A few years ago my hair began to turn gray, and, a short time after, fell out so freely that I became nearly bald. Ayer's Hair Vigor stimulated a new growth of hair, and of the original color. I have applied the Vigor occasionally, ever since, and my hair is now strong and abundant.—Urs D. Kennah, Ulen, N. Y.

I had been troubled, for years, with scalp disease, and my hair was dry, harsh and thin. The use of five bottles of Ayer's Hair Vigor cured my scalp disease, gave me a luxuriant head of soft, black hair.—Mrs. E. H. Foster, Lynn, Mass.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.

Scrofulous Affections

Humors originate in the blood, which, often vitiated, carries disease to every tissue and fibre of the body. Ayer's Sarsaparilla eradicates all traces of the scrofulous taint from the system.

I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, and know that it is a reliable specific for Scrofula. I have also benefited it as a tonic, and honestly believe it to be the best blood purifier compounded.—W. F. Flower, M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PHILADELPHIA, FEB. 3 1887

THE EMPEROR and Chancellor have been much annoyed by strong rebuks to their high claims by the Reichstag.

RUSSIA has declined entering the conference of the powers with reference to the Bulgarian troubles. Russia is a big bear; she see afford to forbear.

PERSONS wishing to secure extra copies of our issue of January 20, containing. out of our lamented Bishop Cain, may have their orders filled at this office.

MICHIGAN is going to submit the question of prohibitionary amendment to the constitution to the popular vote. That's right. If the whiskey men will keep their booths inside their saloons and other places of business and not shake in the faces of voters Michigan will make it close for them.

NEW JERSEY Assemblyman Seeman must have wasted my perfected. He introduced a bill in the legislature to abolish Sunday from business consideration; so that legal papers drawn up on this day would be valid. This aims at the general disregard of the Sabbath day. Say is if you will, gentlemen of France trivial it. Hundreds of little individuals have said "God has "hallowed the day;" you cannot disregard it with impunity.

IT WOULD be much better if brethren who have a little difficulty with their presiding elder would simply tell him so; not write to him or to the RECORDER. This is not the office of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER to act as an arena upon which these personal battles may be fought. We have a reply to a letter of this character from ten years old to fifteen—church, armed with sticks and stones, raiding a serious insurrection against the newly appointed teacher. They finally beat back not only her, but the board representatives and others who attempted to settle them; held the police at bay for one hour, finally compelling them to withdraw. The matter was settled by the board restoring the old teacher. This is a first rate way to raise up a new set of anarchists to take the place of those who will soon pay the price of their un-Americanism on the gallows. But these young fellows may fare better when they become big anarchists; they may have public sympathy more in their favor. At least it may be so if the silly sentimentality on the enforcement of law is not abedonned.

THERE ARE two classes of men in every community who are to be pitied: one the educated child, though able, is unwilling to contribute anything to its economic wealth, either as city, county, State or general government, in money, judgment, sympathy or protection, only so far as compelled by law or led for personal gain by some other to do what, though able and willing to assist in all respects, is debarred from so doing, excepting where other individuals from selfish motives arrange to allow it to act.

The man who never gave or never goes or committee or society rolls because he is selfish and mean, does not feel chagrined because he does not want his name nor his presence where he is not the principal beneficiary, but the man of large heart and generous feelings, who realizes his responsibility for community life as well as individual, does realize his great loss when that community refuses or fails to use him. To this latter class belong thousands of colored American citizens. They do not demand the mere recognition of their existence and their rights, but also their powers. They want a hand in all the reformatory affairs of their neighborhood for the sake of contributing their mite. In too many cases white men do not regard this fact. In too many others they observe it, but do not respect it. There are also by far too many colored men who are themselves indifferent to their community good.

OUR SUB first page is a brief sketch of the Rt. Rev. A. W. Wayman, D.D. Bishop Wayman has always been recognized as one of our popular men. His very appearance on the streets, in the parlor, in the pulpit, everywhere, is the outline of striking and attractive. We give these sketches of prominent men in order that persons not having seen them, but read of them, may get a glimpse of their face. This picture of Bishop Wayman is not good. He has a much more benevolent face than appears here. It. We shall give a sketch of Bishop Campbell in our next. On the 24th of February, which is Bishop Payne's seventy sixth birthday, we propose giving a sketch of the life of this laborious servant of Christ. We propose to increase in magnitude The Doctor has been superceded by Rev. Donnelly in his pastorate, and summoned to Rome, which summons, it is said, the Doctor has disrespected. It is hard to tell what will be the outcome of this rift between a man and a pope.

THE Philadelphia Press, discussing the ballot decreing subject and subjects' relation thereto, states that ballot dancing is a beautiful subject for the eye to dwell upon; that it is a source of real joy-inspiration. But it fails to discuss the more important question, whether or all that is pleasing may be enjoyed with moral impunity, and the very serious question, whether those who are thus sacrificed to the pleasure building of their fellowmen are themselves in a proper moral state. Why would like to have his daughter be a ballet dancer? If this excitant of pleasure be harmless, if it be something that ministers should one wage, then it may be something for which any man might, with a good conscient of conscience, have his daughters educated. This bending the whole world to our appetence for pleasure is a grievous fault, and grievously is the present answering it.

THE IDEA of school children going on a strike is ridiculous, yet so high has the notion of revolt against oppression risen to revolt against government that the spirit has reached even children. Within the past twelve months schools have struck for shorter days, for keeping certain teachers against whom their boards had declared, etc. When shall we look for revolt of the cradle against certain hands attempting to rock it and the protest of the nursing infant against the mother, demanding a change of bottle? Only last week, in Philadelphia, a teacher, beloved by her pupils, was dismissed by the board for disobedience to their orders. The children—from ten years old to fifteen—struck, armed with sticks and stones, raising a serious insurrection against the newly appointed teacher. They finally beat back not only her, but the board representatives and others who attempted to settle them; held the police at bay for one hour, finally compelling them to withdraw. The matter was settled by the board restoring the old teacher. This is a first rate way to raise up a new set of anarchists to take the place of those who will soon pay the price of their un-Americanism on the gallows. But these young fellows may fare better when they become big anarchists; they may have public sympathy more in their favor. At least it may be so if the silly sentimentality on the enforcement of law is not abedonned.

THE LITTLE flurry in the Roman Catholic brotherhood relative to the Rev. McGlynn, the minister who has threw his influence on the side of Henry George, in the late New York municipal elections—this being in favor of Knights of Labor, and as against the highest authority of the Church—seems to increase in magnitude The Doctor has been superceded by Rev. Donnelly in his pastorate, and summoned to Rome, which summons, it is said, the Doctor has disrespected. It is hard to tell what will be the outcome of this rift between a man and a pope.

THE SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADvocate repeats the nonsense started by some of our colored newspapers about the use without information supposed to be reliable, doubtless, concerning the wealth of our Bishops, making some of them worth some sway up in the thousands, some up to $100,000. We have no objection to our contemporary's respecting it. But the Southwestern Christian Advocate plays around the subject with reference to endowing Wilberforce, etc., and finally suggests that speeches or excuses from the RECORDER are in order. O, no; the RECORDER can no better excuse our Bishops for not doing what meddlesome men say they could do than the Advocate can do with reference to its Bishops in similar circumstances. The Southwestern is very much exercised about the A. M. E. Church. We have no objections to its kindly services and suggestions. It is a great paper. Recently it has entered up its own church a little. Few could agree with its sentiments relative to the Chattenooga affair, so affair from which we have kept aloff, because we are little inclined to say anything concerning the inconsistencies of the M. E. Church on the colored race questions; since, withal, it is doing an unalculable good for our race-variety. But it does seem strange that any of its papers could declare that the Chattanooga school business is all right; on the ground that the fight is between the whites. Morals have no complexion. The principal is responsible for the acts of its agents.

THE SUBJECT of the African Bishopric has been discussed by some of the M. E. papers. The following, from the Baltimore Methodist, and apparently quoted with approbation by the Philadelphia Methodist, seems a little funny:

Finally, is it fair to apply to William Taylor the law made for the support of those heretofore known as Missionary Bishops? They were colored men elected as Missionary Bishops for Liberia many years ago, because it was supposed that no white man would ever live in the country. The General Conference would not have thought of restricting William Taylor to Liberia, or of reserving him in the present relations to the Church which characterized those colored Bishops. Let the next General Conference elect Taylor a Bishop—not a missionary Bishop—and the whole thing is settled in a moment.—Baltimore Methodist.

The provision made in our Discipline for missionary Bishops was made specially for Africa, and has never been tried anywhere else. And, indeed, so unsatisfactory was the trial there that Bishop Taylor was elected, that no one seemed to care to have it repeated. And indeed, no other of our colored Bishops would have such a provision made for them. If the African work had promised any vitality, it, too, would have spurned the offer of a Missionary Bishop, unless it really desired to become an Independent Methodist Church.—Philadelphia Methodist.

The African work alone was given an episcopal Bishop because a colored man was supposed to be able to stand the climate. Strange that under the circumstances those colored men were still unable of having their work in Africa exclusively. Stranger still that the Methodists, the papers, think that the Church did not intend to make Bishop Taylor of such a man as a white or colored Bishop. Even stranger how Bishop Taylor, made Bishop for Africa by episcopal consecration, can be now made a "full Bishop." If the two black men had been made full Bishops by the same episcopal consecration the inconsistent attempts of the M. E. folks to unify the black and white races while carefully seeing to it that they do not get together. It reminds us that he order to "not go near the water till you learn to swim." The difference is very fair that had Dr. Marshall W. Taylor, instead of Dr. William Taylor, accepted the African Bishopric, or good contemporaries would hardly advise that he be made a full Bishop.

THE REV. C. O. H. Thomas, A. M., LL. B., is slightly mistaken; of all our hundreds of relatives we have none by the name of "Stevens." Instead of we had, the public has tried no too long to catch on to Brother Thomas' sarcasm. It falls at his feet a lifeless thing. Not one person who is well acquainted with the editor of the RECORDER will notice it, while two thousand well acquainted with him will say Brother Thomas knows very little of the man at whom he points.

The article published by our worthy cousin, Dr. Steward, had no reference to the Rev. C. O. H. Thomas. But, left to our own judgment, we would not have published it, because we felt that it injured the Metropolitan cause, but we obeyed to be standing duty away from the office unless it was put up; on our return we found a letter from the author saying, "Don't publish it." It came too late. Seeing that a continuation of discussion of the matter on the line chosen would place the Church before the world in an unenviable light we declined to do so. We well know that the Church had authorized she sees...ption of certain responsibility as in behalf of the Metropolitan Church by the financial board, and that without any stipulated continuance of control.

We are determined, so far as in us lies, not to parade the incidental weakness of the connection before the world. We are trying wisely to do less and less of it. It is by far more creditable. Sometimes some of our chief officers do this very thing, but it can be but a source of regret. In a case like that that seemed subjergent to Brother Thomas, he could have addressed himself to the bench of Bishops and to the Financial Board; but, pray what excuse for publishing it where it did not reach any respectable number of African Methodists? The suggestions of an honest desire for reform in the Church would most likely be directed to the place in the Church where it could do most good; not to the place where it would be least effective in the right direction and at the same time where it would do most good to stir up criticism against the A. M. E. Church. There may be many Christians in the M. E. Church in sympathy with us, but this could not increase their sympathy.

THERE ARE many strange facts connected with the estimate men place upon their own lives and degrees of insanity to life manifested in different persons. The fear of death is well nigh universal; yet it is often hidden from thought by strong desire, deep grief, fervent affection, positive self-indulgence and madness. When we hear of suicides, varying from old age or lingering disease, we are not shocked as we are when their death occurs without any or with very brief premonitory signs. We do not speak of the death by lingering disease or old age as sudden, but death unaccompanied by those signs is called sudden. Comparatively little attention is paid to the destruction of life by murderous behavior, intemperate eating, drinking, and acting that which is poisonous. It is not rare to hear men declare the necessity of their destisting from given habits, stating that they have realized the ill effects of said habit for many years. These persons have been slow suicides. Finally their life pays the penalty of their intemperance. They are pitied. Had they lived quite as long and committed suicide by violence, they would be condemned.

There is something strange in our common treatment of suicides, so far as will is concerned. If a man undertakes to kill another man and fails, he is put in prison. If he attempts suicide and fails, he is not tried in the criminal courts, though he should be so tried and condemned. A man has no more right to take his own life than that of his fellow. There is no especial command with reference to the crime of suicide, but "thou shalt not kill" certainly includes suicide.

The idea that death is painful is decided by scientists and controverted very largely by observation. The fear of death has come largely from the notion that it is painful. It is true that disease or the sudden interference with the action of any law regulating the body causes pain, but probable that the article death, or dissolution, is without pain. The confusion of moral and physical things goes far to strengthen the idea of death being painful. The "King of Terrors," the last enemy, may be supposed to have his awful character from the circumstances of his mission being to cut man loose from his probation and bring him at once to the stage of life that is unchangeable and everlasting. The uneasy mind is pained by misgivings, not by physical affections. The understanding of the great offer of everlasting life in our acceptance of Christ and the full assent to his will is believed to nonquer even this form of pain connected with death and enable us to exclaim, "O death! where is thy sting?" But in no sense is this so indiscreet to throw life away in intemperance or in despair. The life is more than meat and the body than raiment. "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain," expresses the proper attitude of man towards life and towards death. "Whether we live or die, therefore, we are of the Lord's," though the life be long and painful and though the death be short and painless. No man's life is his own, it is his fellow's for use and God's for glory.

THE BERGEN STAR CONCERT.—The Philadelphians never fail to give Mr. Bergen's concerts a warm reception. That which is to be given 17th inst. will hardly prove an exception; for our highly appreciated home talent will aid in making the entertainment equal to the best in the galaxy of "Stars." Mrs. Amphions, Mr. T. Chestnut, Mr. L. L. Brown and Mr. W. I. Powell, in music, and Mr. Strange as tragedian, are to associate on the programme with Miss Adelaide G. Smith, Boston, soprano; Miss Flora Beteon, Providence, Rhode, soprano, and Prof. W. F. Craig, New York, and Mme. V. A. Montgomery, of New York. A grand treat for Philadelphians. Academy of Music.

Literature.

The second (February) number of Scribner's Magazine opens with an article of general, and, doubtless, timely interest, entitled, "The Likenesses of Julius Cæsar," by Mr. John C. Ropes, the well-known historian of Napoleon's military, which is superbly illustrated with eighteen reproductions of ancient busts and coins from statues. The second instalment of Mr. Winslow Warburton's "Memoirs of the Siege of Paris" is even more entertaining than the first, dealing as it does with the most exciting incidents of the siege "Seth's Brother's Wife" is very clever, interesting as it proceeds, and will fill all the promises of proving an unusually strong story. Mr. Stockton's "Ghost" and the Diarie of Gouverneur Morris," with their description of life in Paris during the Revolution, are concluded. The second part of H. H. Boyesen's "Story of a New York House," with its quaint illustrations, has, in uves greater degree than in its opening chapters, an interest and charm altogether new, and will attract a broad to all who take an interest in the past of a great city. An article which will arouse unusual interest is that by Admiral Porter, "The Battle of Soley, of the Navy, who writes on "Our Naval Officers" in an extremely frank and interesting manner. A story, "The Disclosures of Dunbridge," by a writer new to most magazine readers, Mr. Duncan Campbell Scott, whose contributions to Canadian literature include a volume of Indian Affairs doubtless had its influence in suggesting to him the picturesque surroundings and action of the story. There are short poems by Charles H. Ledoux, Charles G. Macfarlane and Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton.

The variety in the contents of the current Century is not less noticeable than the splendid distribution of their origin. In subjects and contribu tors all sections of the country are represented, and appeal is made to many tastes. Politics, biography, travel, fiction of four kinds, art, architecture, autronomy, public questions, war, reminiscences, unwritten history, poetry and humor furnish topics of vital and present interest. WORDS OF CHEER FROM A RABBI.

During the session of the Mississippi Conference at Meridian, Dr. F. Wiseman, a Hebrew rabbi of that city, made a few remarks in behalf of the Hebrew Orphan Asylum, which were highly complimented by the following liberal and progressive sentiments:

I lack words to express to everything that pertains to the welfare of the human race, and in every movement that looks to its improvement and enlightenment. I do not care to say what my religion is, for I am not ashamed of it. I am proud of it. I am proud of my race. Christianity is grand. It is grand in its sentiment to brotherhood and love. It is grand in its doctrines while in the hands of its true followers. Everywhere it has been practiced, when God shall be supreme in the hearts of men, and love for God and love for our fellow-men, there will be no more strife in the world. Every Church, no matter by whatever name it may be called, is a blessing to the world. Every Church, no matter by whatever name it may be called, is a blessing to the world. Every Church, no matter by whatever name it may be called, is a blessing to the world. I have always taken delight and pleasure in acknowledge God, as I know you do, to be present in your midst to-day, and I have always taken great interest in the colored race. It is to me a matter of great interest when I see advancement in the mind of intellectual perfection, especially

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.

Officers and Members of the Congressional Literary, Historic and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have omitted calling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in council were empowered to act in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of sub-associations, and, at the same time, serving traveling expenses, which, in some instances, was an important consideration. We have been frequently chided for not assembling the connectional convention; but be it remembered in the better part of wisdom to wait until organizations existed in all parts of the nation. Now, as that time has arrived and important business demands the attention of the said convention, we do hereby call the convention to meet in St. Paul A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society throughout the land and every presiding elder who has complied with the provisions of the by-touching his duties toward the association. Presiding elders are therefore notified that they must be present by all means.

We recommend that the association elect delegates by ballot. The following are the connectional officers: Free Idem, Bishop B. W. Arnett; Vice-Presidents, Bishop D. A. Payne, D.D., LL.D., A. W. Wayman, D.D., P. P. Campbell, D.D., H. M. Turner, A. Shadd, T. M. D Ward, D.D., J. M. Brown, D.D., D.C.L., R. H. Cain, D.D., & E. H. Disney.

Episcopal District Presidents: First District, Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D.; Second District, Rev. W. B. Hunter, D.D.; Third District, Prof. R. C. Bagshell, A.M.; Fourth District, Rev. C. S. Smith, M.D.; Fifth District, Rev. B. Gold-ward, D.V.M.; Sixth District, Rev. B. Sallers, D.D.; Seventh District, Rev. J. E. Bryan, A.M.; Eighth District, Prof. James Porter; Ninth District, Rev. J. Evans.

Recording Secretary, Rev. Richard Harper, B.D., Louisville, Ky.

Corresponding Secretary, Rev. J. T. Jenifer, D.D., Boston, Mass.

Treasurer, Lucy E. Waters, Esq., Nashville, Tenn.

Historiographer, Rev. B. W. Arnett, D.D., Wilberforce, Ohio.

Board of Managers: First District, Rev. William Hunter, Pennsylvania; District, W. G. Alexander; Third District, Rev. Thos. Christopher; Fourth District, Rev. J. C. Owens; Fifth District, W. H. H Butler, D.D; Sixth District, Rev. S. Nichols; Seventh District, T. U. Denham; Eighth District, Rev. W. F. Graham; Ninth District, Rev. A. M. Green, A.M.

Executive Committee: Rev. J. H. A. Bowen, D.D., Rev. A. W. Wayman, D.D., Rev. John P. Turner, M.D., A. W. Upshaw, Rev. J. H. Caright, Rev. James T. Morris.

We abandon the most literary nothing that ever assembled in our connectional inter-st. While the members be by no means necessarily members of the church, we shall expect all who can to write and bring or send papers upon some subject, either looking to the interest of the society or the advancement of the race. We hope to see the subjects. Such ministers as have taken the pains to write their respective conference can bring or send their essays to be compiled by the committee. Let us have a full representation. Bishop Rev. T. B Caldwell, pastor of St. Paul, assisted by Revs. Bedford Green, Peter than Mitchem, Dr. A. Thornly, etc., will provide places for the delegates. We hope each delegate will come prepared to take care of himself if necessary. Those who can will please notify us; would do well to drop one of the pastors above named a postal card. Literary visitors who are not members will receive a cordial welcome.

CANNOT our Philadelphia pastors do something more for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER'S city circulation? Can they not impress their members with the necessity of taking the RECORDER?

MINISTERS, read the Manager's proposition to increase the circulation of the RECORDER and act at once. This will lead. This no doubt was the original relationship of men to soil, but they early forfeited their rights. A mess of pottage is preferable with some to those deeds of acts of birth. Is it not humiliating, to say nothing of the sin, for a people to be placed in possession of land would dispossess themselves of the same very soon, if simply the responsibilities of keeping it and caring for it were left with them. The appropriation of property would prove a great hindrance to many men. It would be the poorer by reason of it. The regulation of earthly possession has long been a serious question, but it is not likely to be settled soon.

THE WINTER'S Senatorial fights and their results will mark an especial era in the politics of the several States in which they have occurred. If men can afford thus to boost themselves up or stand and let their friends boost them up for seats to fill offices that others could just as well fill, what may we expect of the boys, children of such men? If they can outboy their big fathers, what may be the character of their boys a score of years hence?

FEBRUARY 8TH, was Bishop Campbell's 72d birthday anniversary. We give our readers a brief, imperfect sketch of his useful life. In many cases, extra numbers will be furnished those selling the RECORDER, as well as some others trusting that they will do so. To this we depend upon your kindness, brethren!

Bishop Campbell is at present chairman of the Connectional Board of Publication and of Education.

ON our second page are frequently found notices of many of the prominent magazines of the day, numbering at least twenty-five, including the Harpers, Century, Brooklyn, Bivouac, Scribner's, Cassell's, the Women's, Missionary Review, M. E. Quarterly, A. M. E. Quarterly and others for adults. We notice St. Nicholas, the Wide Awake, Young Folks, Pacey and several others for children. It will be a good thing for our brethren to have a good magazine come to their homes; especially where there are children.

OUR FRIENDS will appreciate the fact that the CHRISTIAN RECORDER is small and the Church very large; therefore it is utterly impossible to insert all the resolutions passed on the life of Bishop Cain. There are probably three thousand separate societies in the connection. To give them anything like a fair showing we should have little else in the RECORDER for the next six months. We shall publish some papers on the subject. Shall we be told that it is because they come from this or the section of the country—from D. C.? God A. M.? We trust not. We need not mention poetry received, entirely unworthy of publication, nor the ramscous of resolutions.

IT MAY be that Democratic Americans are quite as honest as Republican Americans, but it is noticeable that when the Democratic party wishes to secure a very strong man in doubtful communities, it is very likely to go to the Republican side to find him. True, as they say, this catches the "Independents." But, if Republicans are so bad as the "Independents" claim, that they have to leave them, the Democrats being so bad that they lack leaders, hardly seem to offer any safe haven for those "Independents;" yet, as a rule, they go to the Democrats.

The Democrats of Philadelphia have been a long while seeking a leader for the mayoralty from among the Republicans and have finally found one in Mr. Keim. Had this party been so much better than the Republican party, as "Independents" claim, how is it that they can not furnish one spotless leader in a city so large as this, a leader that "Independents" can follow? In a party without competent leaders, how are the "Independents" to reach a better political country than the one they have left?

THE NEW YORK Christian Advocate, at its own appointed time has spoken out on the Chestnutcage school subject. It has spoken at length and in such way as to leave little ground for criticism. The Advocate seems to say that colored people can do with M. E. Church ought to have sense enough to not apply for admission to such schools as the one under consideration, but if, being senseless enough, they do apply, they must be admitted, though the white attendants be driven away by the act. The sooner of Berea College, in the center of Kentucky bonbism, is evidence that the two races may be educated together. This is the result, not so much of Northern support as of Southern grit. Had John G. Lee considered it an evidence of lack of sense in colored men to apply, Berea would not exist as it does, a school attended by about one-third as many whites as blacks. It would seem that the M. E. Church, with its Northern support could afford to be as indifferent to the Freed Men Aid Society's committee as the Southern Methodist. But withal, the local board of trustees refuse to be driven. Calling, by the way, a one who does not choose to shake hands with negroes, simply because they are negroes. Will the school remain under the suppliers of the Freedmen's Aid Association?

MCLYNNISM.

The infinitely wise, powerful and good God has "ordained" prayer. In the statements of the days and works of creation there is nothing said of ordaining prayer. Prayer is the very height of the fall and consequent banishment of man. The first mentioned instance of prayer is found in the twentieth chapter of Genesis, 7, where God says to Abimelech, after taking the wife of Abram, telling him that Abram is "a prophet and will pray for" him. This declaration leads us to infer that, like all other fundamental elements of worship, to pray was not taught men-kind, but was a natural sentence of his nature, a procedure from intuition, not dedoction. Too purpose of prayer is much discussed by materialists and skeptics of several forms. The materialistic, denying that the existence of everything depends upon matter, including in this term the principles by which matter is conserved, caused to set, or denying the existence of "so-get" and the pronouncing prayer useless, because not addressed to a living intelligence. The fatalist, believing that all things transpire in accordance with fixed laws, can see no utility in prayer, because, though an intelligent Being supervises the universe, yet he does so only to enjoy its perfection of state and harmony of movement subsidiary to his unalterable laws. The better class of fatalists, however, believe that prayer is serviceable to the praying one, in that it has a beneficent influence upon him while near to God, by his own will, in submission, having his heart softened by penitence, strengthened by faith and dignified by contest. This idea supposes that God is not affected by this set of prayer any more than he is by the gorgeous beauties in nature, both in estate and activity. The majority of Christians, however, whether considered from a theoretical or practical standpoint, do believe that God is pleased in hearing prayer, not only because it is the regular operation of natural, human powers, but also because it is in accordance with certain laws for the regulation of the spirit world. That there is in the Divine legal economy a "provision for prayer," that just as God sees the qualities of matter to effect certain changes in material consistency, composition and form, so he may use the native tendency of men to pray as a causal element from which certain benefits are to proceed that he will not be disappointed (often far want of space) who send articles later that never fail to go in. Will you allow us to do the best we can, brethren?

From the demonstrations of a hair hearty conversation, we should think President Cleveland would confer a favor on the colored Americans by appointing him to the recent consulate in Liberia.

BISHOP B. H. CAIN.

OF REV. J. W. DAZAWAY.

In looking through the old conference journal of the annual conferences of the Indiana District, I find the following record, in relation to the early life and ministry of Bishop B. H. Cain. We find him in the year 1837, in the session of the annual conference of the Indiana District, convened at New Albany, Ind. This was his first appearance in the conference, and he was knocking for admission. Bishop D. A. Payne was presiding. The conference convened in Bridges Chapel at the hour of 9 o'clock August 22, 1837. He was before the committee on admission and orders, and was heartily endorsed by the committee and by the same presented to the Bishop and conference as a suitable person to join the itinerant service. The committee was as follows: Hons. Elisha Wearor, J. Curtis and M. M. Clark. On Wednesday, August 26, at 4 P. M., the young man B. H. Cain was allowed thirty minutes in which to preach his trial sermon, and at 7 P. M. Friday, August 28, the committee reported him for admission into the itinerant service and on Saturday, August 29, 1837, B. H. Cain was received by Bishop D. A. Payne into the ministry in the A. M. E. Church. Elder (now Bishop) J. P. Campbell was present and led in the prayer preceding the ceremony of his (Cain's) reception. Elder J. P. Campbell was at that time General Book Steward and Editor. The committee on public worship, in making out the Sabbath appointments, appointed B. H. Cain to preach at Quinn Chapel, Louisville, Ky., Sabbath, August 30, 1837, at the hour of eleven o'clock A. M. Monday, August 31, B. H. Cain offered his first resolution in the conference. The following is the resolution:

Resolved, That a mission be established in Iowa and that the conference appoint it with a missionary, and that said mission shall consist of the following places, Keokuk, Burlington and Mt. Pleasant, in the state of Iowa, and that Iowa City be attached to Muscatine station. Carried.

One of his early appointments in the conference district was Lafayette, Ind. This was in 1839. Indiana District consisted at Richmond, Ind., September 8, 1839, at 9 A. M. Bishop Wm. P. Quinn and Bishop D. A. Payne, presiding. Bishop Cain was in the conference a great number of the committees appointed. A very creditable report was presented by the committee and adopted, at this conference Brother Cain asked permission to attend college for two years, in order to better accomplish himself for the work, which request was granted, and with the connection with this conference was discontinued, as he was afterward transferred to the pastoral charge of Bridge Street Church, Dayton, O. Rev. Henry Bibb was appointed to Lafayette, Ind., in which year he was transferred to the Detroit Conference. Rev. Albert A. Jones was appointed to the pastoral charge of Emanuel Church, Charleston, S. C.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE

BY THE MANAGER.

The gathering of this grand old conference in the city of Charleston, the historic Charleston to-day. More than two hundred and fifty names belonged on the roll of members, and thus we were greatly mistaken in the supposition that Mason Conference, of Georgia, is the largest numerically of the conferences. Rev. Dr. Lee, Presiding Elder Bellamy and Robertson are the presiding elders here, while Bishops Scholfield, Hayes, Heard, Sierrett, Barkdale, Steele and Flegler are chiefs among the clergy. Bishop Scholfield and Flegler are the patriarchs. More than nine thousand persons were enrolled in this city alone. Rev. W. J. Gaines, D.D., is in attendance, as also Drs. W. D. John Cornell University is here, and Rev. John P. Sister University and Turner Divinity and Industrial School his home at Columbia, where the first Bishop Campbell is expected to arrive by the 15th inst. to assist through the reminder of the session. Bishop Flegler is present to-day. We are well provided for, have plenty to eat and drink and expect to be buried. So the brethren are counting on about three days work and five days rest and a good time with the people of Charleston. Well, one would think we would be regarded as heroes when Methodist preachers two or three days rest and pleasure once a year; they surely are.

Bishop James A. Shorter, Presiding Bishop; Bishop John M. Brown, D.D., LL.D.; Rev. Benjamin F. Campbell, LL.D.; Rev. W. J. Gaines, D.D., Rev. Dr. Lee, Rev. Dr. Bellamy and Rev. Dr. Robertson, also Rev. W. H. Heard, Rev. N. H. Sierrett and Rev. D. J. Giles, P. E. of the Sumter District, are present, all wear heart and hand with the movement. Bishop Campbell leaves in a few hours, and he will be followed by a host of slaves, he showed me one iron collar with four huge prongs, placed upon the necks of refractory slaves, designed to entangle and impede them in the bushes when they fled. Superintendents Fee and Reed seen the same hellish implements in the States, but did not know until I saw them here that they were also used in the French islands.

M. Schoelcher spoke much in praise of Thomas Jefferson, but blamed Washington. He pointed out that he had established slavery, and it was his fault that slavery was fastened upon the American Republic. I spoke to him of Alexandre Dumas. He said he was a clever writer, but that he was nothing more or less than a politician. He never said a word for the race. So we have nothing to thank Dumas for. Victor Hugo, the white man, could speak for us, but this brilliant colored man, who could have let down sheets of fire upon the heads of tyrants and carried freedom to his enslaved people, had no word in behalf of his race. Why, by holding a single sentence, he could have secured for himself a name here in Paris. I said yes he said it, so as to acknowledge, as most of the guests of a colored man, but not because I honor the character of the man himself.

I have seen much here in Paris in the way of ancient and modern sculpture and painting which has deeply interested me. The Louvre and the Luxembourg abound in the finest works of art connected in ethnology, especially of the North African races. They have wanted the evidence of greatness under the ban of the most and beat back the charge of inferior, and the most prominent inferiority of the colored races of the earth. Many years ago what I have now seen. I should have written a book, but I have not the faith nor the Giftdess of Authority to argue against the negro as a part of the human family. I have left the edge on this subject come to me late, but it is now too late to be of some service; for the battle at this point is not fought out, and the victory is not yet.

Yesterday, through the kind offices of Mr. Frederick Douglass, who procured tickets for us, I had the pleasure, with Mrs. Douglass, of sitting in the forward part of the gallery of the French House of Deputies, and listening to the debate on the bill relating to the Orleans family. Mr. Douglass is a member of the House of Representatives, but with the privilege of the floor, he appears in this appearance, and, though somewhat noisy, it was in point of manners an improvement on the debates of the legislatives. I saw no one aspiring tobacco, and no one had the least respectability of his head, as is sometimes seen in our American Legislature.

Colored men are not scarce in Paris. I sometimes get sight of one or two in a day's walk, but I have not met them. They are mostly from Hayti and the French islands. They are well received here and make a very respectable appearance. I met the other day, at the house of Mr. Theodore Tilton, Mr. Lafontant, of Hayti, a young man of the color of our well-known Judge Lafontant, of Louisiana, who is one of the most scholars and polished gentlemen in Paris. I was very much delighted to find such a noble specimen of the possibilities of the negro race. They are to be found highly appreciated by cultivated ladies and gentlemen of Europe, and can produce one such man, it can produce many.—New York Times.

NORTH CAROLINA NOTICES

BY REV. W. H. GILES.

The work of rebuilding Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church, Wilmington, N. C., which was destroyed by fire some time ago, will be pushed forward. Rev. Mr. Church is to be pastor the business portion of the town on Fifth street between Swann and Nixon streets.

Rev. F. F. Giles, presiding elder of the Wilmington District, is pushing the district organization and one new church with three members.

Rev. J. E. O. Barham, pastor of Raleigh Circuit, is doing a great work. This charge was one of the most perverse in condition.

Rev. Thomas H. Capehart, pastor of Kinston, has put in operation plans for a parsonage. He is now absent at his place. He expects to be present at the quarterly conference.

Next Sunday evening, February 7, at 7.30 o'clock, Rev. J. L. Curry, superintendent of the John F. Slater Fund for Negro Education, will address the literary society of Dickerson Chapel A. M. E. Church, Hillsboro, on the subject, "The Educational, moral and spiritual education." Rev. Mr. Curry is a white man, but a middle-day prayer meeting as well as many others in the state. Rev. B. J. Arnold, South Lowell, reports his work in good condition.

In the legislature of the State the colored population is well represented. Rev. B. J. Arnold, South Lowell, reports his work in good condition.

In the Senate, Hon. Henry P. Cheatham, a member of the Board of Education, and Hon. Thomas Walker, a member of the Board of Agriculture, are the colored members.

In the House, Hon. Abram Galloway, Hon. Wm. H. Thrush, Wilmington; Hon. Henry E. Shepard, Durham; Hon. Wm. H. Hall, Granville; Hon. Wm. H. Crump, Halifax; Hon. Wm. H. Moore, Warren

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.

Officers and Members of the Connectional Literary, Historic and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have confined calling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in council were empowered to act in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of auxiliary societies, and, at the same time, saving traveling expenses, which, in some instances, was an important consideration. We have been frequently chided for not assembling the connectional convention; but is as it appeared the better part of wisdom to defer the until organizations existed in all parts of the nation. Now, as that time has arrived and the important business demands the attention of the said convention, we do hereby call the convention to meet in the Cal. A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23d, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society throughout the land and every preaching elder who has complied with the provisions of the law touching his being elected to the convention. Presiding elders are therefore not elected, but are members by merit. We recommend that the delegates be elect delegates by ballot. The following are the connectional officers: President, Bishop H. M. Turner; Vice-Presidents, Bishop D. A. Payne, D.D., LL.D., A. W. Wayman, D.D., LL.D., J. Campbell, D.D., LL.D., J. A. Shorter, T. M. D. Ward, D.D., LL.D., W. H. Hunter, D.D., D.O.L., B. H. Cain, D.D., R. R. Disney.

Episcopal District Presidents: First District, Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D.; Second District, Rev. W. H. Sneed, D.D.; Third District, Prof. S. T. Mitchell; Asst. Fourth District, Rev. C. S. Smith, M. D.; Fifth District, T. B. Caldwell, D.V.M.; Sixth District, Rev. J. Sellers, D.D.; Seventh District, Rev. M. E. Bryant, A. M.; Eighth District, Prof. Jesse Foster; Ninth District, Rev. J. B. Jones.

Recording Secretary, Rev. Richard Harper, B.D., Louisville, Ky.

Corresponding Secretary, Rev. J. T. Jenifer, D. D., Sonora, Mex.

Treasurer, Lewis Winters, Esq., Nashville, Tenn.

Historiographer, Rev. B. W. Arnett, D.D., Wilberforce, Ohio.

Executive Committee: Rev. J. H. A. Johnson, D.D., Rev. J. W. Beckett, D.D., Rev. J. W. Bowen, D.D., Rev. Upshaw, Rev. J. M. Cargile, Rev. James T. Morris.

We anticipate the most literary gathering that ever assembled in our connectional interest. While the delegates may all not necessarily be members of the church, we expect all who can to write and bring an essay upon some subject bearing directly to the interest of the society or the advancement of the race. We will not name the subjects, as we desire to have them taken the prizes in their respective conferences and bring or send their essays to the convention to be examined by the connectional prize writer. While Rev. T. G. Caldwell is not here, he has assured by Revs. Bedford Green, Nathan Mitchem, Dr. Theophilus Jones he will provide prizes for the delegates, we hope each delegate will come prepared to take care of himself if necessary. Those expecting to be present would do well to pay up dues and get above named a postal card. Literary visitors who are not members will receive a cordial welcome.

A Word to the Wise.

Every winter and spring inflammation of the Lungs, induced by neglected Colds and Coughs, causes the death of thousands who might have been saved by the timely use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Do not be afflicted with a severe Cough, which deprives you of my regular sleep. After trying various remedies, without benefit, I procured a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and used it according to directions. I am happy to say that this medicine saved me.—Robert Holliday, Lima, Mo.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, for several years, in cases of severe Colds, Coughs, and Throat affections, and have always found it a speedy and effectual remedy for these ailments.—Samuel Bennett, Principal Bartlett School, Lowell, Mass.

I cannot say too much in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have used it in my family many years, and always with perfect satisfaction. It never fails.—Mrs. F. F. Mickens, New Gretna, N. J.

I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral in my practice since 1856, and have always found it reliable for the cure of Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung Diseases. —S. Haynes, M. D., Saraime, N. Y.

I am never without Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have used it for Colds and Coughs more especially than any other remedy, and know it.—Rev. Asher Bingham, N. Y.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times we push the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. G. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

J. C. EMBRY, Manager.

NOTICE.

To any minister having in his possession copies of my "Cyclopedia of African Methodism," will please send word to Rev. J. O. Embry, 631 Pine Street, Philadelphia, Pa. This refers to those who have unsold copies on hand.

A. W. WAYMAN.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Tele grams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and ready for business.

C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

NEW BOOKS

Just will be on sale by the Manager throughout the ensuing year:

"70's Years and Beyond; or, Old Age and How to Enjoy it." A book of incalculable value, as well as interest to all who have passed the meridian of life. 400 pages, cloth, $1.25; same in gilt edges, $1.50.

"Studies in Genesis; or, Bible Views of the Creation in Its Relation or Not to Science," by the Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D., and containing an important chapter on "Christian Evidences," by Bishop Campbell. This is an intensely interesting book, especially to young readers, old or young. It will contain about 360 pages, 12mo. on clear beautiful paper, and sold at the low rate of $1.25. The work is now in press under our own imprint. Orders, $1.25, mailing 10cts. extra.

"Bible Heroes; or, Stories from the Old Testament for Little Folks." Judging by my own children, so pleased with it, and by his children found with the heroic spirit of Bible characters, could buy a better book, and children devoured it at once. Price only 50 cents; by mail, 55 cents; registered, 65 cents.

Rev. J. E. Webb has published an excellent Record Book for class leaders, with blanks for everything pertaining to their reports and business meetings. It is well bound and well arranged. We have seen nothing like it, but half so cheap. The book is arranged for four years. It is just the thing to aid in making correct records. For sale at our Publishing House. Price, $1.50.

Orders for each or all of these works may be sent to us at once. Cash orders only.

PRAYER FOR THE COMING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

BY REV. D. S. SHILEY.

O God! to us by mercy show,
In us thy work revive;
Let sinners more conviction know,
And make us all alive.

O Jesus! come and clothe thy right,
Thy glorious power display,
And strike with awe the sons of night
A dart of righteousness.

O Holy Paraclete! we pray
That thou would'st come in;
Endow our souls with power and joy
And spoil the power of sin.

Then shall our carriage be sweet,
Our speech
Meek and truth together meet,
All love shall cast out fear.

And in plain paths of bliss move,
When we have reached the goal,
We'll sing the all-redeeming love,
Bath—and Christ's wash the Soul.

DISCIPLINE.

A block of marble caught the glance
Of Wonderful Phidias,
Which brightened in their solemn depths,
And kindled into fire.

Listening, there stood beside him one
Who smiled the while he heard:
"I'll have an angel from this stone!"
Such was the sculptor's word.

Stout mallet deft, and chisel keen
The statuary used;
And blow by blow, and page by page,
The prisoner arrived.

A new world lifted, high and pure;
The waking eyes outshone;
And, as the chisel clove the stone,
A smile broke through the stone.

Beneath the chisel's edge the hair
Escaped in flowing rings,
And, plume by plume, the wings slowly freed
The sweep or half-furled wings.

The stately bust and graceful limbs
Their natural action gained;
And where the shapeless block had been
An angel stood finished.

O blows that smite! O hints that pierce
This shrinking heart of mine!
What are ye but the Master's tools
Forming a work divine?

O hope that crumbles at my feet!
O joy that overpaves! for high
What are ye but the clogs that bind
My spirit from the sky?

Sculptor of Souls! I lift to Thee
Encumbered heart and hands!
Spare not the stroke! do with me as Thou wilt,
Only not leave me as I am!

How blest if all these seeming ills
Which in my journey lie,
Should only prove that Thou will make
An angel out of me. —Anon.

SEMINARIES OR UNIVERSITIES?

BY WILLIAM HANNIBAL THOMAS.

The Apostle Paul emphasized a pregnant truth when he applied rules to race and individual growth by using a forceful illustration. The distinction from childhood to manhood wherein is he incarcerated in this: that sustains the thought, speech and action of immature dependence—a mode of action characterized by childish simplicity. But, finding out the secret meaning, the fact is that the man puts away childish things; he reasons, he speaks, he acts as becometh a man. Hence, every failure of this kind proves such a plea unavailable. Abundant opportunities came to us richly freighted only to be lost. Our ignorance was appalling, and the war closed Nashville pleaded for colleges, Atlanta was surveyed as a strategic centre. Both passed away from us because we were not ready. Hampton, by all odds the best educated of any colored school in the nation, is the result of a mature research, before a school was opened or a dollar spent.

I recall meeting in '65 one of our Bishops to that vicinity wearing a look of anxiety and perplexity indifferent as to sex seriously unconscious of the vast field of usefulness that was then lying ripe for the harvest, and going through his hands, notwithstanding every effort of impropriety and the presence of countless freedmen indicated the feasibility and suggested immediate improvement. Some one of our bishops could be present in the presence of such chaos and anarchy. The impression would nigh universal that the negro is a weak animal race, incompetent to assume the duties of life, especially for which if approached our "leaders" are largely responsible. We should have had around ourselves or originate great associations of the best men, with far-reaching limitations of the white race in aims and methods, only to fall immediately into the hands of the negro for direction and execution.

All things a may be asserted in all candor that current methods in race education and plans for development are inadequate to the wants of the growing North and inadequate and humiliating to the negro race who look for better things from us.

The Roman Church, despite serious objections, is the only one presenting spectacle of cohesive ecclesiastical government. The genius of the Methodist Episcopal Methodism sadly lacks its concentration and centralization of power, and however many splendid men either in the ministry or laity, it is not to be denied that it approached it will be conceded that the Methodist Episcopal Church is the most conservative centre, exerting imperial choice in the United States, and, moreover, since, at present, the weakness of our polity permits irresponsible persons to control the destinies of our most important enterprises. The reckless and unbusinesslike manner in which education are conducted is a reproach and an imprudent as would be a purchase of a farm without examining the soil, and then to locate a school upon it without a preacher to procure students and make provision for the same.

Race life, of whatever kind, involves epochs of progress, retrogression, growth and decline, but without further elaboration the question is submitted. Has not the time come for the A. M. E. and other negro Christian bodies to build up a higher education, and these institutions should be located where they can be provide; but the real needs of the race are not to be found in the cities, and are largely chiefly for this reason the demand for educated preachers is comparatively small. It needed. The day has passed for projecting more negro colleges, Wilberforce, Allen, and Payne, are the school in the South under the control of the Church would have the best results. Liable value. Abundant opportunities came to us richly freighted only to be lost. Our ignorance was appalling, and the war closed Nashville pleaded for colleges, Atlanta was surveyed as a strategic centre. Both passed away from us because we were not ready. Hampton, by all odds the best educated of any colored school in the nation, is the result of a mature research, before a school was opened or a dollar spent.

THE RT. REV. RICHARD ALLEN,
FIRST BISHOP OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

The eighteenth century gave to the world many great men, and formed the arena upon which they played mighty games—games whose results gave new life to poesy, lifting it above the light and trivial and placed the world on the sure foundation of intuition, philosophy, experience and science, and modified great governments and even created new ones. In this century were born Edward and Byron, Walter Scott, Steele, Dr. Johnson and Carlyle, Cowper and Burns, Johnson and Gibbon, Adams and Thomas Jefferson, Washington and Napoleon Bonaparte, Robert Fulton and Eli Whitney, Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr, Daniel Webster and Henry Clay, Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren, Lafayette and Talleyrand, Metternich and Wellington, Schiller and Goethe, Humboldt and Cuvier, Audubon and Wilson, Bryant and Longfellow, Whittier and Lowell, Emerson and Hawthorne, Irving and

MR. A. G. OBBY has launched the Atlanta "Weekly News." Atlanta must have an immense amount of negro newspaper brain.

THE CONGRESS of the United States has recently talked largely as if it thought the country might make as good fight against England over a few fish as formerly over a little tea. It is late to attend to the matter, but it may be in time for a serious tussle.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST STAR OF Zion and many other denominational papers have shown great courtesy in publishing so lengthy notices of the life and character of our lamented Bishop. The colored secular press as well delights to do honor to the man whom life was given in devotion to his race.

IT WOULD be well for the Church to study in the character of Richard Allen the following facts especially; piety; submissiveness to government and respect for law; originality of thought, independence of spirit yet deep humility toward God; perseverance of purpose, energy and good sound common sense connected with leadership.

AH, COULD Bishop Cain now read the encouraging letter from our missionary in Africa! But can he not do so! Had we been able to send those missionaries over a year ago when the Bishop first heard of the Lady Huntingdon Mission we might have had more real African Methodists to-day, but there are 200,000,000 left for us to bless yet. We have need to work, not to repine.

"THE Birds of Aristophanes" is the title of a scholarly, classical paper by Prof. W. S. Scarborough, A. B., LL.D., of Wilberforce University. Classical students will be delighted in studying this work. Prof. Scarborough read the substance of the book in a paper presented to the American Philological Association at Cornell University, last summer. Price, 50 cents. Address Prof. W. S. Scarborough, Wilberforce, Ohio.

THE SOUTHERN RECORDER's correspondent must have referred to some other Dr. Lee. It will be so at times. Nothing since a worthy contemporary mixed the name of the editor of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER with that of Robert E. Lee, a Jackson, Miss., church sorrowstone, etc. Now the editor of the Southern Recorder says this editor has a big head, massive brain, strong will and all that. Wonderful! i. e., if the correspondent to the Southern Recorder did not refer to some other Dr. Lee.

WE ISSUE extra numbers of the RECORDER this week. They will come to many of our brethren in larger numbers than usual. Brethren, please circulate them and return the money to the Manager. The life sketch of Bishop Allen is alone worth every dollar's attention. Bell those forwarded and secure new subscribers. We shall publish a sketch of Bishop Payne next week and increase the number then, also. We send the RECORDER to many non-subscribers this week, trusting that they will favor us with their subscription.

PROFESSOR CARLOZZO, the non-negro hand shaker, explains in last week's Christian Advocate. The explanation shows him to be a man entirely too narrow to be the educator of any mind, except that of an evil spirit. His haughtiness and contemptible ignorance toward the colored race readers him not only unfit for a teacher, but unworthy of a place in a Christian body of people. Hearts may break, souls go to destruction, if black restained, while he sustains his race dignity, his race purity—dignity and purity a thousand times steeped in all the sins of the schedule.

THERE is some ambiguity in the sketch of Bishop Allen on first page, respecting the building of the churches. The facts are, that the first church building, the African Church, was on Fifth street, now St. Thomas, above Spruce street, Philadelphia, Episcopal Church. It was for the basement of this church that Richard Allen lifted the first shovel of dirt. He remained there, building the site of Bethel on Sixth street in his own right meanwhile, till St. Thomas was completed and paid for. It was for this church that he and Absolom Jones collected money together. The division of the body, after the church was built, to go with the Church of England, left the stalwart Methodist Allen with his Sixth street lot and blacksmith shop, a few adherents and God, to build up Bethel Society as they had done St. Thomas'.

SEVEN HUNDRED members are said to have left our Church in Columbia, Pa., so we should say, led by an unwise, ambitious man and encouraged by other bad men. All this is indicative of strength in the man, but only for evil ends. By the decision of the courts the property still remains in the A. M. E. Church, but souls are worth much more than property. With the present efficient pastor, however, we trust (Columbia will again take her place among our most thrifty and useful charges.

The heroism of Pastor Walls and the professional acumen and strength of Dr. D. Augustus Straker, as advocate for the Church, are surpassed only by their loyalty to the cause of African Methodism. Mr. Straker has for many years shown himself a correct, strong thinker and a firm friend to our Church. His argument before the courts in this Columbia case was masterly and constitutional. The hope is that those who have left, whether they number 700 or fewer, may be replaced by as many more highly loyal African Methodists. Besides this it is hoped that African Methodism will locate herself in South Carolina's capital. Bell those forwarded and secure new subscribers. We shall publish a sketch of Bishop Payne next week and increase the number then, also. We send the RECORDER to many non-subscribers this week, trusting that they will favor us with their subscription.

The facts are, that the first church building, the African Church, was on Fifth street, now St. Thomas, above Spruce street, Philadelphia, Episcopal Church. It was for the basement of this church that Richard Allen lifted with the heart of Allen, took up the work in regular order and developed it in the great West. In the South, Turner, Cain, Carr, Sampson, Nubis, Brown, Hunter, Johnson, Steward, Stringer, Bradwell and many others took up the spirit. Now for every one of these pioneers in the South there are thousands of strong hearted and strong bodied men engaged in that work.

PUSH THE AFRICAN METHODIST

The African Methodist Church should be organized wherever possible and practicable, with the understanding that things that seem impossible may prove possible. Many financial charges of to-day have seen their apparently impossible days. We may be careful not to get in the way of other bodies, but we must be quite as careful to not allow them to get in our way. Sometimes it is best to establish our Church where there are enough churches in quantity, but not in quality; that is, there may be people wanting our Church, especially. In such cases we may go in the name of God and set up our banner. We may get in the way of others, when thoroughly satisfied that their way is not such as will win our people to Christ. Christianity, in all its activities, proves itself along by its own energies. Where we see the Christian Church so degraded and hampered as to be accomplishing little for the people who compose our communion, there we may feel satisfied; for we can but realize our calling to the colored Americans especially. We must seek them and labor among them, elevating and leading them.

The A. M. E. Church is a mean which God has chosen for this purpose. Together with other great bodies of Christians of the African race-variety, we must press our way, opening as rapidly as possible the truth to the long benighted minds and hearts of our kinsmen to the light. We cannot say that God has called us to this work only, but by the principle, "What thy hand findeth to do, do with thy might," we are bound to the colored variety first. By the same principle Christ came to his own and established his Church first, but not alone in Jerusalem. Nor may we any more infer that God will be through with this distinct form of Church when American prejudice shall so die as to admit persons worshiping together without black thinking particularly of the presence of whites, or vice versa, than he was through with the Church of Christ when it was introduced beyond Jerusalem. It is not ours to step to guess when our work will be done, but to know that so long as we find it undone, we must apply ourselves to it with our might.

Our tendency toward Africa are not worthless; for the exercise is strengthening our spirit in the proper direction. The time may come when that spirit will be so large that, under God, we can do a work for Africa of our brethren there. We can do little more than entivate this spirit for a while yet. We have for many years talked of the work there; talk is necessary. Let us continue to talk; after a while we shall talk a hundred men into the notion that it is no worse to die in Africa than to die in America. Work now, God will direct us. Sustain Frederick now and God will lead us out into other lands in the proper time.

MINISTERIAL EDUCATION.

The education of men in the ministry, or, if you please, for the ministry, should be a subject of only one side. How can there be any discussion of the subject? Ministers are to be wiser and more than an uneducated one. So is an educated slave, so long as you can hold him. The trouble with the educated slave is that he is likely to close his engagement as soon as he can get a way respectable education. The education of men for trades and professions, business and ordinary occupation is too common and too essential to be discussed. No man would exchange the cultured mechanic or farmer for the uncultured. Then why discuss the subject relating to the ministry? Why speak of or hint at the notice of a man entering upon the work of his calling without the best education at or least remaining in it without constant improvement? The whole force of Scripture is in favor of educating ministers. The entire subject so brought before the world in history, from Christ to the present, is in favor of educating ministers. The commands and directions of Christ are in favor of it. Reason being also probably the only competent secretary to be had; at the General Conference of 1884 there were at least one hundred and fifty delegates competent to fill that office and in the travelling connection—for that is what made up the conference body—there were probably one hundred and fifty more equally competent. In 1820 there were two scanal conferences in the connection; now there are forty-five. In 1820 there was not an organized department in the connection; now there are six. Then Philadelphia was the center of the African Methodist population; now the center may be found eight hundred miles south by southwest of Philadelphia. The energy of the spirit of African Methodism has spread all over the sunny South and the flourishing West. The great hearts of Quinn, Wilkerson, Davis, Clark, Woodson, Tibbs, Smith, Lankford, Young, Revels, Brown, Graham, Wilkerson, Turner (John), Underwood, Thompson, Lewis, Wilhite, Hammet and others, beating in sympathy education of the ministry. If men would be ministers, they would not for a moment talk thus. The work of making African Methodism successful must be done by those best prepared. The work of hindrance is being done by men who are either unadapted to our work or who are possessed of an ill-bred spirit that will not be satisfied with their church relations and are determined to destroy because they are not satisfied. Sometimes they are learned, sometimes unlearned. We have strong reasons to believe that the broader and deeper the education in our ministry, the less there will be of this kind of work. Broad education includes experience. The theological training at Wilberforce is enhanced greatly by the mission work which students do while in their course. When a minister is trained at our own university he is not a novice, but a minister of from two to five years' itinerant experience. More of this kind of scholars will help us.

He complimented the conference on having Bishop Procter as their Bishop, for he was just the man to be there.

OUR AFRICAN LETTER.

FREE TOWN, SIERRA LEONE,
January 5, 1887.

REV. B. F. LEE, D.D.:

Dear Sir:—I did not write you from Liverpool, as I intended, because one week was there as what post we would land in Africa. The steamer we expected to sail by when we left America, we learned was not to call at Cape Palmas, her first port on the Continent on our way to the South African coast, but was to go direct to Sierra Leone. Our plan when we left America was to go on direct to Liberia, but if we did not avail that opportunity, we would have been obliged to remain at Liberia till the 8th of January for the next steamer to Liberia, thus losing about one week. We left the place we purposed and were advised to make our first consignment to Sierra Leone greatly by the mission work which students do while in their course. When a minister is trained at our own university he is not a novice, but a minister of from two to five years' itinerant experience. More of this kind of scholars will help us.

Nor can we with the least degree of consistency refer the loss of churches and other troubles in our Church to the leg, they fail to render that satisfaction to their own judgment they were originally dismissed, and are forced out to be virtually "dead beats." Such men are not to be seen our privilege during our ministry here to be called upon to visit the sick bed of either of these unfortunate creatures, whose stories of woe have moved us to weep time and time. They were happy at home, in their humble cots, in their quiet, secluded way, a healthy religious and moral influence of a Christian mother and a pious father. Surrounded by the comforts of a good Northern trip they turned dear ones to the breathings of the storm and stress and determined to see the North, especially New York, and now, alas! they are the poor and fruit of their folly.

I would advise those contemplating the trip to the winter to stay at home, in the capacity of waiting maids, to be members of the choir, to be in the ministry, or to be dressed in the land. Notwithstanding the work is done, yet on Zion's hill, beyond in glory, now does standeth, reigning still in Christ, of whose gospel when on earth there was not ashamed.

NEW JERSEY NOTES.

The Sir Knights Templar of the State will have a service in Trenton on their second Sunday in April.

Rev. Mr. Fessel is trying to work an interest in favor of the A. M. E. Church at Chilesburnt, N. J.

Rev. Thomas Wayman has recently been elected one of the doorkeepers of the House of Representatives.

Rev. T. A. V. Henry, of Snow Hill, left for Baltimore Saturday, February 5th, to attend the funeral of one of his children.

Quarterly meeting at Macedonia, Camden, third Sunday in January. Rev. J. B. Stansberry, D.D., and Gilbert Waters will be present.

Mr. Moses H. Steward, of Virginia, and Miss Lottie P. Jackson, of New York, were married Tuesday, February 8d, by Rev. A. H. Newton.

The paper read by Rev. J. H. Morgan of Bethel, Camden, at the Quarterly Meeting of Philadelphia and vicinity, was highly appreciated by all present.

Quarterly meeting at Princeton was a grand success Sunday, 6th inst. The presiding elder will be conducting a series of revival meetings with Princeton.

Mrs. Mary Locke, teacher of one of our public schools at East Camden, is the possessor of a beautiful painting, the purpose of buying an organ for the use of the church.

Rev. Joseph Moss, from Hollyville, was in Camden February 7. He reports a good time in Hollyville, but the difficulty as to attract the attention of the people. Hollyville and Franklinville Mission in good condition.

Rev. Gilbert Waters and A. H. Newton were the representatives from New Jersey to the Bishop Daniel Payne Centenary Memorial Meeting held in Bethel A. M. E. Church, Philadelphia, Thursday night, February 3.

Your correspondent went Sunday, February 6, to Chester, Pa., and tried to speak at the A. M. E. Church. Rev. C. O. Boothe is pastor. The church is good, and a goodly number had been added to the church since he has been in charge.

The Rev. Wilson Peterson is nearing the close of a very interesting year in Gouldtown. He has served the Lord faithfully and has been pleased with his success. The church will soon be free from debt. Rev. Mr. Peterson is a minister, patient and a good speaker. His people say he is equal to his other good qualities.

NEW YORK NEWS.

ALBANY.—Hamilton St. A. M. E. Church, Rev. Israel Derricks, pastor, is being blessed with a most gracious revival. Sister Lee, wife of Rev. Jeffery Lee, has been assisting. The pastor and lady friends of the church are making arrangements to pay off the remaining part of the mortgage. The Sabbath school is in good condition.

WAVERLY.—The church work is at a low ebb. The pastor being ill is the reason stated.

OSWEGO.—The revival services in Bethel Church continue with increased interest. The financial department of the church is in healthy condition. Rev. Governor St. John lectured to a very large audience in our Opera House last Saturday night.

SYRACUSE.—Bethel. A. M. E. Church, Rev. Thomas Wright, left its mode as soon as the weather will permit. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Hamilton, is giving a series of sermons which are much enjoyed.

THE "CHRISTIAN RECORDER," AND HOW TO GET IT.

Once more we come before the patrons of our Church organ with renewed zeal to push the circulation of the RECORDER. We are sincerely appeal to our pastors and friends to help us get it. Dr. Payne's Pilate's inscription in Hebrew, Greek and Latin. The difficulty now was to distinguish the Hebrew from the Greek. Upon which the two thieves had been crucified. Upon the inscription was the question presented unto, nauseam as the one of the thieves was Dismas, the other Gestas. The crew worked all night to clear on the cargo and we were under way early Monday afternoon, off the Coast of Africa.

On Saturday afternoon, January 1st, we were safely anchored at Isle de Los, our first stop in Africa. Having to remain there till Monday, long enough to endorse the truth, that "though there is a destiny that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we will." While here we obtained some information which put our minds at rest as to where we are about to take up, and got letters of recommendation to leading persons in this place. We were glad when they raised anchor and steamed out for Sierra Leone, which is 8 Fr. to we were in the harbor; our hearts were not large enough to contain the thankfulness and gratitude to Almighty God. I at once despatched a note by the pilot to Mr. J. B. Dowell, the gentleman to whom the Lady Huntington's Mission. At about 9 o'clock next morning the leading men of the church were on board to receive us. It is utterly impossible for me in a express or describe cordial reception tendered us by these warm-hearted people.

We landed at 9 A. M. and were conducted to the mission house, where arrangements were made for a thanksgiving service. I am at a loss to know how to describe it so as to bring together such a respectable gathering in Africa. It was a time of the highest joy and the illumination of the Spirit of God. The people had come in the most remarkable and glorious persuasion, a permanency and relativity. Pastor and flock in the shadow of the cross or made proclamation of its excellency and power. It was a time of great rejoicing, the triumph of Christianity.

It was a time of great rejoicing, the triumph of Christianity.

The hymns were a system of religious which then divided the world were Judaism and Paganism. They were both false religions. Allen's accomplishments Judaism had fallen from its elect sphere and had become subservient to worldly power and ambition and lust. Paganism, with all its abominable yet impressive services and worship, had passed through a thousand variables of change, and was now the religion of the Greeks. Both were false religions, which the nature of the ministry and which the spread of the truth in the time of the purpose of escaping the rigidness of a Northern winter, at the close of the session before proceeding North, invariably secure the services of some very worthy young woman of color to become the wailing maid of their wives and daughters. Those young women, while receiving a large knowledge of the section of country to which they are to be taken, are also privileged to visit the homes which were surrounded by the wealth and refinement, and luxury of Mars' Hill." Before the most sacred and reputable court in all the Oneida world they appeared to answer the charge which was preferred against him of living a minister of Christ, and were called for their worship, which charge, if proven, in many cases, was punishable with death. The court of Areopagus was renowned for wisdom and impartial justice, and from the decisions of this court there was no appeal. Upon the brows of the accused as the majesty of justice sat in their eyes flashed the radiance of wisdom and the countenance assumed grave and solemn, and their speech and movements were impressive and awful. Before the accused stood the leading men of the city, and the most learned, and comfortable clothing to keep them from the cold, and the most delicious fare from home and friends, the most thin naturally arises in their minds, "What must I do?" What must I do? The very next step taken is the one which leads to the prison, where they are at once rushed of their whole make-up and the hundreds of human shacks who are to be seen and found along the street corners, shuffling their feet and devour their human victims in the form of innocent maidens and freedmen among them. It was indeed providential that we did not proceed directly to Liberia. The greater part of the members of this church have already left and joined the church triumphant, and their places were just on the verge of despair, and were in danger of being scattered among some other body to take them up, if will be able in my next to give you a full account of the state and of our brethren there. We can do little more than entivate this spirit for a while yet. We have for many years talked of the work there; talk is necessary. Ministers are to be wiser and more than an uneducated one. So is an educated slave, so long as you can hold him. The trouble with the educated slave is that he is likely to close his engagement as soon as he can get a way respectable education. The education of men for trades and professions, business and ordinary occupation is too common and too essential to be discussed. No man would exchange the cultured mechanic or farmer for the uncultured. Then why discuss the subject relating to the ministry? Why speak of or hint at the notice of a man entering upon the work of his calling without the best education at or least remaining in it without constant improvement? The whole force of Scripture is in favor of educating ministers. The entire subject so brought before the world in history, from Christ to the present, is in favor of educating ministers. The commands and directions of Christ are in favor of it. Reason being also probably the only competent secretary to be had; at the General Conference of 1884 there were at least one hundred and fifty delegates competent to fill that office and in the travelling connection—for that is what made up the conference body—there were probably one hundred and fifty more equally competent. In 1820 there were two scanal conferences in the connection; now there are forty-five. In 1820 there was not an organized department in the connection; now there are six. Then Philadelphia was the center of the African Methodist population; now the center may be found eight hundred miles south by southwest of Philadelphia. The energy of the spirit of African Methodism has spread all over the sunny South and the flourishing West. The great hearts of Quinn, Wilkerson, Davis, Clark, Woodson, Tibbs, Smith, Lankford, Young, Revels, Brown, Graham, Wilkerson, Turner (John), Underwood, Thompson, Lewis, Wilhite, Hammet and others, beating in sympathy the principle of symmetry in building, and, above all, they considered the interests of the constituents to be of paramount importance. In all religious bodies there are a few who are not of sufficient culture, intelligence and refinement to appreciate the advantages of these improvements. In every church there will be found a number who are commonly conceited, and in so far as they are conceited they are unreasonable, and while the intelligent and well-meaning people will be pleased with the improvements, and by the way be accommodated by them, a few people who equally with the others have been consulted, will be of the opinion in themselves that their primary, secondary and tertiary education is sufficient for them, and that they have no need of the improvements. Such people are to be pitied rather than blamed, and Holy Spirit, when she sits over the grave of the former worthy brethren, will be the first to forgive them for their folly.

The Church Extension Committee have been sent to us, asking a visit to the Pendleton Street Church, Columbia, S. C., with a view to the erection of a new church edifice. We have visited this church, and found it in a very unfavorable condition. The building is old, and is not at all adapted to the wants of the congregation. The lot on which it stands is small, and is not at all desirable. The church is in debt, and the congregation is poor. We do not think it would be wise to spend money on the present building, and we do not think it would be wise to purchase a new lot and build a new church. We would, therefore, recommend that the church be sold, and that the proceeds be applied to the purchase of a new lot and the erection of a new church edifice in a more desirable locality.

Rev. Mr. Wilson Peterson is nearing the close of a very interesting year in Gouldtown. He has served the Lord faithfully and has been pleased with his success. The church will soon be free from debt. Rev. Mr. Peterson is a minister, patient and a good speaker. His people say he is equal to his other good qualities.

NEW YORK NEWS.

ALBANY.—Hamilton St. A. M. E. Church, Rev. Israel Derricks, pastor, is being blessed with a most gracious revival. Sister Lee, wife of Rev. Jeffery Lee, has been assisting. The pastor and lady friends of the church are making arrangements to pay off the remaining part of the mortgage. The Sabbath school is in good condition.

WAVERLY.—The church work is at a low ebb. The pastor being ill is the reason stated.

OSWEGO.—The revival services in Bethel Church continue with increased interest. The financial department of the church is in healthy condition. Rev. Governor St. John lectured to a very large audience in our Opera House last Saturday night.

SYRACUSE.—Bethel. A. M. E. Church, Rev. Thomas Wright, left its mode as soon as the weather will permit. The pastor, Rev. J. W. Hamilton, is giving a series of sermons which are much enjoyed.

THE "CHRISTIAN RECORDER," AND HOW TO GET IT.

Once more we come before the patrons of our Church organ with renewed zeal to push the circulation of the RECORDER. We are sincerely appeal to our pastors and friends to help us get it. Dr. Payne's Pilate's inscription in Hebrew, Greek and Latin. The difficulty now was to distinguish the Hebrew from the Greek. Upon which the two thieves had been crucified. Upon the inscription was the question presented unto, nauseam as the one of the thieves was Dismas, the other Gestas. The crew worked all night to clear on the cargo and we were under way early Monday afternoon, off the Coast of Africa.

On Saturday afternoon, January 1st, we were safely anchored at Isle de Los, our first stop in Africa. Having to remain there till Monday, long enough to endorse the truth, that "though there is a destiny that shapes our ends, rough hew them as we will." While here we obtained some information which put our minds at rest as to where we are about to take up, and got letters of recommendation to leading persons in this place. We were glad when they raised anchor and steamed out for Sierra Leone, which is 8 Fr. to we were in the harbor; our hearts were not large enough to contain the thankfulness and gratitude to Almighty God. I at once despatched a note by the pilot to Mr. J. B. Dowell, the gentleman to whom the Lady Huntington's Mission. At about 9 o'clock next morning the leading men of the church were on board to receive us. It is utterly impossible for me in a express or describe cordial reception tendered us by these warm-hearted people.

We landed at 9 A. M. and were conducted to the mission house, where arrangements were made for a thanksgiving service. I am at a loss to know how to describe it so as to bring together such a respectable gathering in Africa. It was a time of the highest joy and the illumination of the Spirit of God. The people had come in the most remarkable and glorious persuasion, a permanency and relativity. Pastor and flock in the shadow of the cross or made proclamation of its excellency and power. It was a time of great rejoicing, the triumph of Christianity.

The hymns were a system of religious which then divided the world were Judaism and Paganism. They were both false religions. Allen's accomplishments Judaism had fallen from its elect sphere and had become subservient to worldly power and ambition and lust. Paganism, with all its abominable yet impressive services and worship, had passed through a thousand variables of change, and was now the religion of the Greeks. Both were false religions, which the nature of the ministry and which the spread of the truth in the time of the purpose of escaping the rigidness of a Northern winter, at the close of the session before proceeding North, invariably secure the services of some very worthy young woman of color to become the wailing maid of their wives and daughters. Those young women, while receiving a large knowledge of the section of country to which they are to be taken, are also privileged to visit the homes which were surrounded by the wealth and refinement, and luxury of Mars' Hill." Before the most sacred and reputable court in all the Oneida world they appeared to answer the charge which was preferred against him of living a minister of Christ, and were called for their worship, which charge, if proven, in many cases, was punishable with death. The court of Areopagus was renowned for wisdom and impartial justice, and from the decisions of this court there was no appeal. Upon the brows of the accused as the majesty of justice sat in their eyes flashed the radiance of wisdom and the countenance assumed grave and solemn, and their speech and movements were impressive and awful. Before the accused stood the leading men of the city, and the most learned, and comfortable clothing to keep them from the cold, and the most delicious fare from home and friends, the most thin naturally arises in their minds, "What must I do?" What must I do? The very next step taken is the one which leads to the prison, where they

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.
Officers and Members of the Colored National Literary, Historic and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have omitted calling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in council were empowered to set in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of sub-associations, and, at the same time, saving traveling expenses, which, in some instances, was an important consideration. We have been frequently chided for not assembling the connectional convention; but to us it appeared the better part of wisdom to wait until organizations existed in all parts of the country. Now, as that time has arrived and important business demands the attention of the said convention, we do hereby call the convention to meet in St. Paul A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society throughout the land and every preaching elder who has complied with the provisions of the law, touching his duties toward the association. Presiding elders are therefore not elected, but are members by merit. We suggest and urge that the conference elect delegates by ballot. The following are the connectional officers: President, Bishop B. W. Arnett, D.D., LL.D.; Secretary, Bishop D. A. Payne, D.D., LL.D.; Assistant Secretary, Rev. W. H. Campbell, D.D., LL.D.; J. A. Shorter, C. M. D. M. Holmes, D.D.; H. Brown, D.D., D.C.L., R. H. Cain, D.D.; Historian, Dismal.

Episcopal District Presidents: First District, Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D.; Second District, Rev. W. F. Dunston, D.D.; Third District, Prof. S. T. Mitchell, M. A.; Fourth District, Rev. C. S. Smith, M.D.; Fifth District, T. B. Caldwell, D.V.M.; Sixth District, Rev. M. B. Salters, D.D.; Seventh District, Rev. M. E. Bryant, A.M.; Eighth District, Prof. James Martin; Ninth District, Rev. J. H. Jones.

Recording Secretary, Rev. Richard Harper, B.D., Louisville, Ky.

Corresponding Secretary, Rev. J. T. Jenifer, D.D., Detroit, Mich.

Treasurer, Lewis Winters, Esq., Nashville, Tenn.

Historiographer, Rev. B. W. Arnett, D.D., Wilberforce, O.

Board of Managers: First District, Rev. William H. Thomas; Second District, W. C. Caldwell; Third District, Rev. Theo. A. Thomas; D.D.; Fourth District, Rev. J. C. Chase; Fifth District, W. H. S. Bailey, D.D; Sixth District, Rev. J. H. Hamilton; Seventh District, T. G. Denham; Eighth District, Rev. W. H. Wanbars; Ninth District, Rev. A. W. Pegan, A.M.

Executive Committee: Rev. J. H. A. Chase, D.D., Rev. J. W. Beckett, B.D., John F. Turner, M.D., A. W. Upshaw, Esq., J. M. Carglie, Rev. James T. Morris.

We anticipate the most literary gathering that ever assembled in the connectional interest. While the members may all not necessarily be men of letters at the church, we shall expect all who can to write and bring essays upon some subject, either looking to the interest of the society or the advancement of the race. We do not name the subjects. Such ministers as have none to prepare in the annual conferences can bring or send their secretaries to the convention to be examined for the connectional press. While Rev. T. G. Caldwell, pastor of St. Paul, assumed by Rev. Mitchell, Rev. Dr. Thorly, etc., will prove a feast to more than a thousand. We hope each delegate will come prepared with a paper of essay, if necessary. Those expecting to be present would do well to drop one of the pastors above named a postal card. Literary visitors who are not members will receive a cordial welcome.

B. M. TURNER,
President.

$500 REWARD.

The former proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, for years made a standing, public offer to forfeit one hundred newspapers of $500 reward for a case of catarrh that he could not cure. The present proprietor's purchase has renewed the offer. All the druggists sell the Remedy, together with the "Douche," and all other appliances advised to be used in connection with it. No catarrh patient is longer able to say "I cannot be cured." You get $500 in case of failure.

"Peninpville" is the name by which the Rochester Post calls its classical neighbor, Pittsford.

Functional derangement of the female system is quick y cured by the use of Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." It removes pain and restores health and strength. By all druggists.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for nervous debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this recipe in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

There is said to be a tree in New Guinea which, when touched, knocks a man down and Ted Fair thinks it must be a species of box wood.

NEW BOOKS

that will be on sale by the Manager throughout the ensuing year:

"Fifty Years and Beyond; or, Old Age and How to Enjoy It." A book of unclassifiable values, as well as interest to all who have passed the meridian of life. 12mo, cloth, 1,000, about, English edges, $1.50.

"Bible Heroes; or, Bible Views of the Creation in its Relation to Modern Science." by the Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D., and contains, as an appendix, a chapter on "Christian Evidences," by Bishop Richard H. Cain. This is an intensely interesting book, especially to preachers, old and young. It will contain about 250 pages, 12mo. on clear beautiful paper, and will be the low rate of $1.25. The work is now in press under our own imprint. Orders, $1.25, mailing Bible Heroes; or, Stories from the Old Testament for Little Folks." Judge by my own children, no parent who wishes to have his children imbued with the heroic spirit of Bible character, can afford to be without book. Our children devoured it at once. Price only 50 cents; by the 100 cents; registered 61 cents.

Rev. J. E. Walsh has published an excellent Record Book for church trustees, with blanks for everything pertaining to their duties and business meetings. It is well bound and well printed. We have nothing like it, nor half so convenient. The book is arranged for four years. It is just the thing to aid in making correct records. For sale at our Publishing House. Price, $1.00.

Orders for each or all of these works may be sent to us at once. Cash orders only.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents more, for six months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment for (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Non.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will sot for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full SIX months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

A Household Remedy.

Ayer's Pills are invaluable for children, and should always be kept ready for use in case of an emergency. * * I have used Ayer's Pills, in my family, for the past fifteen years. I give them to my children, in preference to any other physic, and always with satisfactory results. We used Ayer's Pills from childhood. They have been my family medicine for years, and would fail to give perfect satisfaction. —Mrs. C. E. Clark, Tewksbury, Mass.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills are considered a household necessity in my customers, and always give perfect satisfaction. Our * * * sales are increasing invariably was them in their practice.—Calvin Tilton, Druggist, Alexander, Ky.

We have used Ayer's Sarsa-Costal Pills many years, and think them a very safe and excellent family aperient.—A. B. Foster, Childress' Manor, Westville, Conn.

For the past five years I was seldom free from the torturing pains of Neuralgia. At last I was prevailed upon to try Ayer's Cathartic Pills, and have only afforded immediate relief, but have entirely cured me.—Mrs. Russell N. Hosmowell, McConnellsburgh, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, FEB. 24, 1887

PROF. H. T. Johnson's ministers book entitled "How to Get On," is out and on the stand of the newsdealers of the city, and for sale by our Business Manager at the small price of fifteen cents per copy. Succeeding numbers to be published bi-monthly. Order at once.

THE NEXT TWELVE years ago, at one of the great national camp-meetings at Urbana, Ohio, a minister, Caucasian, in the midst of a speaking meeting, when each speaker made an especial request for prayer, said, "Brethren, pray that I may not become ambitious to be a delegate to the next General Conference."

OF course it was plain that we meant South Carolina and not Pennsylvania in our reference last week to the Columbia trouble. We are informed by a reliable witness right from the field that we lost many less than 700 members. That is just what it appeared to us at first A paper of the M. C. Church, South, published in Columbia, as we gave it, published it. The C. M. E. Church being the one joined by most of those who left us, and of especial (black) interest to the M. E. Church, South, the paper seemed rather pleased, we inferred.

THE STATE of Kansas has arranged for her women to vote for city official hereafter. New York is thinking of doing the same. The intelligent progressive women's rights agitator sensing irresistible odds, like the progress of the anti-slavery cause, offers encouragement to those who are battling against the strong of Church and State. Little by little stroke by stroke the work has been done in both those cases; stroke by stroke it will be done in this. The work of modifying appetite for drink and tendering the consciences of saloon and wage manufacturers is the chief work before us now. Added to this is the conversion of those strong men who argue that any interference with the sale and use of intoxicating drinks is interfering with rights of private citizens. When men become abnormal as to intellect respecting some things we deprive them of what, under ordinary circumstances, would be rights, why not so respecting the use of intoxicants? They who become the slaves of intemperance are in an abnormal state of mind and must be protected for the good of their community.

O, SET the Cauldron-Chattanooga muddle is growing wonderfully. The New York Independent and the New York Christian Advocate are engaged in a wordy battle. The Advocate talks about truth and decency Reading its articles under caption "Independent of Truth and Decency," we recalled immediately the unjust and untrue statements that counted in the Advocate's editorial correspondence concerning "a Bishop" at Aiken, South Carolina. We thought of the Advocate's promise to either prove its statements true or take them back. We e-mi-nol not remember having seen either performed. This, however, gave us no pleasure. It is a misfortune that two so able papers as the se concerned in the present sevenfight set in any wise naughtily towards each other; if either of them has done so with reference to the lesser lights. It is noised that the head and the wing of the Chattanooga University propose to buy the property of the Freedmen's Aid outright, when they can run their anti-negro mill for all it is worth. The Freedmen's Aid Committee, including three colored gentlemen, will meet before this reaches our readers; what will be the outcome? Every good man will pray for the settlement of the case in favor of humanity, irrespective of race. This time because the Methodist Episcopal Church has done a great work for humanity under just this consideration. It is said that Bishop Walden, will be Chairman of the Freedmen's Aid, is likely to decide against admitting the negro. His stand since his consecration seems to have been in favor of letting the M. E. Church, South, have the field among the white people in the South. This may account for his probably being in sympathy with Cauklinism. The day is coming when all this lam and lie supporters will be tried by a better race of men and consigned to everlasting shame, as among the blackest and narrowest lam and men of these times. If God is in man, if God is in the Church, since God is one and the Church is to be one, those who oppose the consummation of this grand end may justly be considered as the enemies of God.

THE YOUNG MEN'S Institute of New York recently refused to submit to membership Mr. Wilhelmo Payne, simply on the ground that he is a colored man. This action, while in keeping with the average American white man's acts when dealing with the American colored man, is no less an act unriding the reprehension of all good people. The Institute was established in 1874 by Y. M. C. A., which makes the case the more agravating. How true are the words of Jesus, " Many come saying, Lo, here is Christ, or there." Which way to God is it to be loyalty to any of the churches, but the answer comes in great confusion, "Lo, here and lo, there" in lines that bisect one another promiscuously.

Reporters interviewed Rev. Dr. Derrick and Prof McCants Stewart, both of whom expressed their indignation in its hagooage. The Church and other Christian bodies are expected to lead in all measures looking to the elevation of mankind; taking all risks as to results asking no quarters other than the moral elevation of the human race. Doubtless this moral elevation is going to be costly; not in money, but in time, in moral powers. That's in, our moral natures will be outraged and our moral pride insulted often before the whole work is completed. Pure riches may have to drag in the dust and mud occasionally. This is cross bearing. How many are prepared for it? White men upon the gates that lead to destruction to colored men very gradiously. If they do not get in themselves, keep the good entered by themselves, they prepare other gates for them determined that they shall not be debarred. As Christian subjects of a Christian country, we solemnly protest against trying to consent to knock at the doors to avenue leading most directly to the throne of intellectual and moral perfection. Having fought for our freedom from civil bondage, we will fight for our deliverance from mental and moral slavery. We are prepared to make a long fight and a strong fight. White Christians have the right to prepare to receive us. By beg nothing on the social question. We ask every thing on the Christian question, knowing that this question, when fully developed, will make mighty modifications in social nonsense and more especially in social sin.

BISHOP PAYNE'S BIRTHDAY.

Bishop Payne is President of the Sunday School Union. His literary work consists of a book of poems, "Semi-centenary of African Methodism," "Recollections of Seventy Years of Active Life," "A Treatise on Domestic Education," "Memoirs of Missionary Things," and "The History of the African Methodist Church." The last two are in manuscript, but will probably be published in the coming spring, by Bishop Payne was one of the three Bishops made delegates from our Church to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in 1881, and was president of said conference one day. Few men of the colored race are more widely known than he. His life from very early manhood has been devoted entirely to the work of enlightening the race. No colored man now living will bear with him to heaven a broader love and gratitude from a greater number than Daniel Alexander Payne. He will need no monument to perpetuate his memory for the character of his work has been such, closely associating intellectual culture and religious growth with moral development, that it will perpetuate his precious memory through ages. So colored he is seventy-six years old. His youth is renewed like the eagle's.

THE COLORED VOTERS BOLTED.

In the borough clostion in Darby, Pa., last week, the colored voters, numbering from forty to fifty, voted almost solid against the Republican ticket, assigning as a reason that the colored men proposed at the Republican caucus to the colored director and councilman, respectively, were ignored or discarded by the "scratch." This borough, or about 4,000 inhabitants, is adjacent to Philadelphia, southwest. It is Republican ordinarily, but with republicans demanding the prohibition of sale of strong drink, colored men retaliating for this slight given the brother that he could, the white men of a few democrats, a "Citizen's" ticket won the day. It is likely to be a wet day when these fusionists give the colored voters any better showing than did the straight republican ticket, indeed over. Prominent republicans, attempting to explain the probable reason the colored men were not nominated, say that the man agreed for school director was incapable of acting in that office. This may be true, but fails to explain why William Cork, who was offered for councilman and who is, beyond question, competent, was given the cold shoulder. Mr. Cork is a good, upright, thrifty, respectably educated man. Why did not the republicans nominate him? Why did they scratch him? Why do they explain the nomination of the other man, but say little about not nominating Mr. Cork? We should ask for no position on the ground of our color, but the republicans who have " done so much for us " and received our vote almost solidly for years must know that the colored voter will every now and then say, " let us divide the honors."

THE MINISTER IN COMMUNITY.

The commission and the mission of the ministry alike render him subject to the community. His commission authoritatively bids him to go to the world, communities. His mission is to every people, communities. The demands of human nature and the maintenance of the outward church presuppose the ministerial dwelling in society. The Methodist itinerancy compels ministers to live among their people and act with them. It places upon the minister not only the responsibility of propagating Christian life, but also that of directing and aiding in the temporal or material affairs of the church and encouraging social improvements as well. These facts require of him peculiar fitness for his position in society. They suggest that he should not be regardless of the customs and conduct of the people about him; their methods, their manners, their intellectual standing and their general notions on moral questions, the tone of their press and the condition of their markets. In the community the minister cannot afford to be a recluse nor an idler. His claim to the right and the necessity to study mankind; taking all risks as to results asking no quarters other than the moral elevation of the human race. Doubtless this moral elevation is going to be costly; not in money, but in time, in moral powers. That's in, our moral natures will be outraged and our moral pride insulted often before the whole work is completed. Pure riches may have to drag in the dust and mud occasionally. This is cross bearing. How many are prepared for it? White men upon the gates that lead to destruction to colored men very gradiously. If they do not get in themselves, keep the good entered by themselves, they prepare other gates for them determined that they shall not be debarred. As Christian subjects of a Christian country, we solemnly protest against trying to consent to knock at the doors to avenue leading most directly to the throne of intellectual and moral perfection. Having fought for our freedom from civil bondage, we will fight for our deliverance from mental and moral slavery. We are prepared to make a long fight and a strong fight. White Christians have the right to prepare to receive us. By beg nothing on the social question. We ask every thing on the Christian question, knowing that this question, when fully developed, will make mighty modifications in social nonsense and more especially in social sin.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

BY REV. W. H. HEARD.

MR. EDITOR:—One of the most interesting sessions of the South Carolina Conference for the year was held in Emanuel Church, Charleston, commencing February 2nd and ending February 8th. The conference opened with religious exercises by Bishop James A. Shorter, who read and commented instructively on the Scriptures. Rev. Daniel Washington, the former secretary, being present, was elected with the same order of business that has existed in the persons of Revs. S. G. Cross and W. E. Alston, the latter dead and true, who gone to the people. It is the minister who, despite the most iron-clad corporate articles, must stir up the enthusiasm of the masses, within and without the society in the interest of a new building. It is the minister who must lead in organizing the masses for success.

Where the ministers is debarred from full, or nearly all, connection with material parts of the society, property has not been safer nor progress greater than where they have had the fullest participancy in these matters. It is sometimes argued that the entire separation of the two classes of duties gives the minister relief. It relieves him of certain duties, but it hurdens him with three for every one of which he is relieved. There is no inconvenience in a people's being incorporated, but, on the contrary, there are many advantages in large societies; but the exclusion of the pastor from corporate rights is more embarrassing to the people than to the pastor, who is virtually one of the people. It will be a good thing for the African Methodist Church to allow the wisdom of the pastor to exercise itself fully in all parts of local churches in conjunction with the people. All or say in this direction should be so construed as to not be taken as a license or suggestion to create quarrels in churches which have not the relations as they should be, but as an indicator to owe churches and older ones, feeling disposed to liberalize their charters.

THE CATHOLICS AND THE COLORED AMERICANS.

There is no greater movement being agitated in the sentiment than that by the Roman Catholic Church for establishing the Americus colored people. They have organized machinery that must accomplish a great revolution in the religion of the class of citizens. Their newspapers, their schools, their associations, their black priests, prepared for especial work among the colored people, with the best of methods and millions back of the methods, are going to be brought to bear upon the means of our people with irresistible force. While Protestants are centralizing in the large cities, Catholics will organize among the hundreds of thousands on the plantations. While Protestants are spending much force in warring among themselves Catholics are solid. While Protestants are theorising at the big end of the negro problem, Catholics will work at the small end of the problem. While Protestants are in some way attempting to raise the colored people to the conception of a grand scheme of morals, the Catholics will initiate them into the glittering tinsel of their forms, hold them by the cords of pastience, kindness and hypnotic religious superstitions. There is a bad sleep in the eyes of the Protestants in this subject. There is a bright vigilance in the eyes of Catholics. The boldness of Roman Catholic meetings is on the one hand powerful, but the insinuating subtlety on the other is equal to it.

The African Methodist Church has much to consider in this crisis. There are few other organizations naturally prepared to screen the following of the greater number of American colored Christians as the African Methodist Episcopal Church. There are few others so well prepared respecting organic capability; few relative to history. What, and what alone, then, is required to enable this Church to move on through this land a mighty medium for bringing men to Christ? This provision is to be made by those churches severely tried. The colored people are in a fair condition to receive Romanism rapidly. The impractical and ungodly methods of the majority of white churches have helped the colored people have helped to leave said people an easy prey for the Church of Rome.

Personal.

—The not very Rev. Sem Jones says that he left Boston a better man.

—Rev. J. H. D. Payne, Gracoup, Ky., is preparing a hymnal and chorister for worship.

—Rev. J. B. Lofton is presiding elder of the Hawkinsville District, Georgia Conference.

—Thomas Bailey Aldrich, the poet, editor, novelist and children's writer, is the subject of a biographical fragment by Mr. W. H. Bishop in the next St. Nicholas.

—Rev. W. F. Rose was presented with a fine life size portrait of himself by the teachers and students of the Dudley High School last Thursday evening at Mt. Zion Church.—Southern Leader.

—From the report of the officers of Mt. Olive A. M. E. Church of East Jacksonville, we see that the church made marked progress under the charge of Rev. J. R. Lee, who is highly commended by the trustees.—Southern Leader.

—Bishop Shorter has so imbued the men of his district with the spirit of missions that the conference, by resolution, have agreed to make next Easter Day a grand rally for foreign missions and the whole collection (as was certainly designed by the General Conference) to be sent to the General Missionary Secretary Rev. W. J. Gaines and others are to be instructing their pastors.—Missionary Record.

—Rev. Dr. Derrick, popular ex-E. Dorr J. P. Thomas, the presiding elder of the Fifth District, and the preacher in charge of the capital of the blue grass section.

The Y. M. C. A. of Kentucky held its first annual session here last week. It is a new one half the time our field. The immense number of classes of study under survey week is simply appalling. Half the time of one person is required to do this service alone, and still each Monday is required of the foreman to correct part of the work of the previous week. Then the paper goes, and goes regularly to all. We want, and desire to have, a correspondent. We know one of the Hon. Geo. Williams' great History of Negro Suffrage, and Rights subscribers. 2. For five subscriptions, cash, we will send a copy of Sumner's speech on the Civil Rights bill, a speech worth $5 00, or, if preferred, two dollars and fifty cents ($2 50) in gold. 3. For ten subscribers, we will give our new subscribers, we will give either a copy of Sumner's speech or of Mitchell's History, and a copy of Waldeaid's Theology. 4. Now we have subscribers, and we want one can, if they will, get five new names in the next two months. 5. Let those who have subscribers send them at once. 6. Let those who have not subscribers send for specimen copies and get to work at once. 7. Let those who have not agencies send for terms, outfit and plan.

First. We want an agent in every town or congregation. For this purpose we are preparing quarterly subscription cards. We shall have them in a few days ready; three or four hundred will be sent to each agent. Let the brethren rally and to our stationed pastors this proposal work. They are very good. Let them plain their duty to the people. Let them talk about it in their homes, in their mouths. The subscription is for one month at a time, and is only 30 cents. We aim at an enrollment at all who have been subscribers for one, two or six month or more, and thus give them something of the character of a permanent subscription. Brethren, try it one quarter and let us see if we cannot push our paper up to 10,000 by next January.

MURPHREESBORO, (TENN.) LETTER.

BY REV. A. W. THORNE.

African Methodism is taking the wave of the times in this section. We are now in the midst of a glorious revival. Dormant interests are quickened, and arrived. Backsliders are reclaimed. Worldlings are filled with wonderful effect to the hearts of the listening throngs, and sinners are being converted. Already 53 have made a profession of faith in Christ, and the Lord's machinery are made to succeed with the glad voices of the redeemed. The church is doing well in every respect, the members are united and to the help of the pastor. We have to make a strike here for African Methodism, the echo of which shall never die away.

Again, there is now in progress in our church an embryo High School under the management of that young but able and popular educator, Prof. William Jefferson Hale. We have 50 students and still they come. Teachers and assistants, energy and energy at the head we feel this season to be the best in the history of our school. Rev. Dr. Hunter, late business manager of the Publishing Department of A. M. E. connection, was in our city a few days ago.

John Wesley Cromwell, editor of the Washington Bee, is a communicant member of the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church.

OHIO NOTES.

Miss Lilly Logan, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is visiting in Waterville, the guest of Miss Lizzie Lee.

Elder R. P. Clark, of Cambridge, has remodeled and refitted his church and will be re-opened February 12th.

Mr. A. Thos. Lucas, traveling agent for the Cleveland Gazette, was in Westerville last week.

A revival is in progress in the A. M. E. and Baptist Churches of Wilmington.

The missionary exercises last Sunday at the A. M. E. Church, Toledo, were well attended.

The Baptist Church, Ironton, is carrying on a series of meetings. There have been seven conversions.

A John Brown Monumental Association has been organized at Ironton, by Rev. Edward Brooks, Sr., and A. G. Moore.

AN HISTORICAL SKETCH OF ST. PAUL'S, DANVILLE, VA.

BY MARY M. MARTIN.

St. Paul's A. M. E. Church was organized in the year 1866 with 7 members and Rev. Wm. Hall as pastor. He worked faithfully, with God to help them; and in one year 1 added 100 members against the little branch. But they soon divided on the good of every Christian minister to leave his church better than he found it. Rev. Hall remained only two years' before with the above results, he was succeeded by Rev. Jas. Hall as the salvation of the Lord in Sunny Hill Many at the brethren of the New Jersey Conference, and with them he labored to use to push the battle on to victory, and the Lord blessed them in their labors."

Obituary.

LEWIS ROMAN SEYMOUR.

Lewis Romes Seymour was born in Philadelphia, Pa., in the year 1812. His parents were of French descent. Having been born from Ben Jennings, Mary Jr., parents were Catholics and he (Lewis) was brought up in the faith and the sentences and customs of that church. But Sabbath Church being the only one in bothood where his parents lived, he was allowed to visit the church at inter vals. He was converted in 1832, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Soon after his conversion he was called to exercise with the necessity of seeking pardon for his sins. He was approved by his pastor, but the simplicity of the gospel preaching by the local preachers of that day had a large influence in leading him to Christ, and did not cease until he received the witness of the Holy Spirit. He was married in 1836 to Rachel Cooper, of Philadelphia, by Bishop Allen October 4, 1836. He served as class leader, superintendent of Sabbath school, leader of the choir and steward. He was elected a member of the Board of Olive Cemetery, which office he was holding at the time of his death.

FROM LABOR TO REWARD.

Sister Mary Maxwell fell asleep in Jesus February 8th, 1887. She was 86 years, 7 months and 8 days old. She had been a member of the A. M. E. Church more than fifty five years. She was a widow and left a large family to survive her. All are connected with the A. M. E. Church except one. Rev. W. Thomas Maxwell, of the Ohio Conference. She was a woman of great gentleness and decision of character. Indeed, a mother in Israel. She seldom prayed without closing with God's blessing on her children; she was a consistent Christian, an affectionate wife, a loving mother and a kind neighbor. She bore her long illness with patient resignation, saying to her children and Elder Grimes, "I am in the life boat waiting for God's command." He leaves a husband. She was buried from the A. M. E. Church on the 13th inst. Elder Wm. B. Norris and Rev. W. Quinn officiated at her funeral.

W. WILLIAMS, Pastor.

Mrs. Florence Magnolia Barksdale, beloved wife of Rev. J. D. Barksdale, of the South Carolina Conference, died February 5th, 1887, in Greenville, S. C., in her 25th year. She was born at Williamstown, S. C., and was the child of free parents, being the daughter of Daniel and Mary Green. She was the wife of Rev. J. D. Barksdale, by whom she lived 5½, the second two years, the third two years, and the fourth 2½ months. Before marriage, several sisters and brothers and a loving husband, to mourn her loss, left a most sincere, devoted and true Christian woman and so earnest Bible student that she knew more about the Bible than about any other book. She would read the Bible through in a few months, and never questioned the validity of the sacred truths of the Blessed Book. She was a faithful wife, a loving and good mother; stoical, sociable and companionable at all times. She seems to have had a premonition of her death. She had prayed and sung with a will, and then she would say, "Come, your wife is no more." We could scarcely believe it was true. We knew she was sick, but she passed peacefully over the dark river and is at the same time home. Her husband was writing her a letter and preparing a little parcel to send her. She was thankful for it, after lying for eight days in death's cold, icy arms, she appeared to revive a little, and with a pleasant dream. She is buried in the beautiful city that bears her first name, Florence.

"Then set gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee,
Though sorrows and darkness encompass the tomb;
The Saviour has passed through its portals before thee,
And the lamp of his life is thy guide through the gloom.

Yes, the Christian scarns is rest,
Reaped in the glorious strife,
Tranquil the life of the blest,
Death is swallowed up of life."

SMOKING.

An English journal recently offered a prize for the best argument against smoking. It followed by the letter to which the prize was awarded.

"Sir, I have seen the baneful influence of smoking. While under the influence of tobacco he is usually violently upset by it. When a person eats a new kind of fruit for the first time he may not like it, but he does not make a strike here for African Methodism, the echo of which shall never die away.

"Come all the world, come sinner thou, All things are ready now."

Oh, that all of the churches below may shine,
And shouts in Christ the living vine.
Those blessings are asked for Christ's sake. Amen!

SMOKING.

An English journal recently offered a prize for the best argument against smoking. Following is the article for which the prize was awarded.

"Sir, I have seen the baneful influence of smoking. While under the influence of tobacco he is usually violently upset by it. When a person eats a new kind of fruit for the first time he may not like it, but he does not make his mind up to like it. The writer once had occasion to engage a passage in a steamer on the Clyde, and the vessel swelled out at the desired time was a steamer which I had to cross the Irish Sea. The next day, but was then so old that doubts were entertained as to her seaworthiness. In spite of warnings on this point, he engaged his berth, and on the day of sailing he was awakened from a dream of shipwreck and drowning at Liverpool, to find that the vessel was in a dense fog, without serious misgivings and had a most agreeable and prosperous voyage. In this case the dream was evidently no supernatural warning, but rather the result of the writer's anxiety about the imagination by the brute brown oil regarding the supposed unseaworthy character. Praeotumenta of ill winds are almost invariably grounded on and where any real ground of presentiment is verified by the result, the explanation is to be found in the fact that previous to this instance our fears correctly anticipated the event.—Notes and Queries.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 21st, 1887.

Write for what you want. We send samples or goods as you wish.

Among the new black goods for spring are more of the silk and wools—silk warp, wool filling —that you liked so well. The Henrietta and Clairette and Convent cloths were revelations. They are here still, better if possible than ever. But such makers as Priestley are not content to rest.

That's why we have the Silk Warp Mourning Cloth, heavy and light, four grades of each. Fitted by their cloth-like effect for untrimmed costumes to be worn in deep mourning with crape bonnet and veil.

And the Warp Camel's Hair Mourning Cloth (to be known as Alya), presenting the desired camel's-hair surface and touch, and adapted to light mourning or black costumes worn with colors.

Two fabrics that you'll hear more of. The unseen silk warp gives elasticity to the folds and takes away the seeming burden of weight which some ladies object to in cloth dresses.

They are in the new tans, the new grays and blacks. The embroideries come in that exquisite Paris twist which we introduced just before Christmas.

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.

Officers and Members of the Connectional Literary, Historical and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have enlisted calling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in council were empowered to act in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of sub-associations, and, at the same time, saving traveling expenses, which, in many instances, was an important consideration. We have been frequently chided for not assembling the connectional convention; but to us it appeared the better part of wisdom to wait until organizations existed in all parts of the nation. Now, as that time has arrived and the important business demands the attention of the said convention, we do hereby call the convention to meet in St. Paul A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, at one o'clock, P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society throughout the land and every presiding elder who has connected with the previous of his or her duties during the associational year. Each delegate shall pay his or her own railroad fare, and be entertained by the people of the place where the convention is held.

You light a match to make it burn and burn a match to make it light.

THOMAS'S ECLECTRIC OIL is a sure remedy for consumption. Such testimony as the following is not to be disregarded. Mrs. Mary Ann Hodge, of Hodge and Dead, Tex., says: "The best known remedy I ever used for consumption was Thomas's Eclectric Oil. I have used it in my family for Diarrœa, Colds and Sore Throat, and found it to be a sure cure in every case."

Gleason's Sculptor Steam Soap is safe and unadulterated. Will not injure the most delicate skin. Sold by all druggists. Manufactured by Gleason's Sculptor Steam Soap Co., Boston, Mass.

"Well, what is it, Nora?" "Indade, Sorr, it's cold." What weather." "The hot weather, mom."

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED. To THE EDITOR:—Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease; by its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy free to any of your readers who have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully, DR. T. A. SLOCUM, 181 Pearl St., New York.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 3, 1887.

THE LITERARY convention in Nashville, March 22, should be well attended.

PASTORS are already arranging for Easter Sunday. Dr. Townsend is making the little Record do all it can.

BISHOP BROWN has ordered that the New York Conference meet in Brooklyn instead of Williamsburg. See conference list on fourth page.

BISHOP CAMPBELL returns from the South feeling as well as he has done for twenty years. This is saying much for a man in his fourth score.

BROTHER STARGES, of the New York Conference, has recently passed through the sore ordeal of parting with his faithful wife, to meet no more on this side the Jordan. A sad affliction.

THE DEFIANCE of life in Southern France and Italy last week by earthquake is said to have reached 2,000 persons. Probably when the truth is known the number will be found twice that.

OUR READERS would do well to remember that, however far they are from Philadelphia, they can order from Mr. John Wanamaker, with perfect safety, any goods whatever. They will do well to read his column carefully and avail themselves of the advantages therein offered.

THE SERMONS of Mr. Talmage must be exceedingly interesting to the colored newspaper readers, seeing that very many of those papers publish them regularly. Probably not many of the readers have an exchange list; so do not have more then one such sermon to enjoy weekly.

ACCORDING to the Star of Zion, the North Caroline legislature has voted $8,000 annually, we infer, to colored normal schools in the State. This is cheering news. Much credit is due the bold stand taken by the Colored Teachers' Association and to Professore Price, Goins and Rev. R. H. W. Leake for this victory.

SOME of our good coötemporaries having published that the A. M. E Church has no Bishops, one edited by a prominent A. M. E. minister quotes the blunder as a whole. Our greatest number was from November till December, 1884. We had ten then. Bishop Dickerson's death left us nine; Bishop Cain's death left us but eight. The probability is that if these were all in their prime they would advise the Church to not elect more in 1888.

THE EXAMINATIONS at Washington into the Washington county, Texas, outrage of last fall, develop the existence of the same old spirit that existed twenty years ago. Will this country ever become civilized? The slow growth of morals is by no means flattering to our pretentious as a leading country, for in it at all seasons raging to Christianity by the present methods and according to present understandings. The Church seems too extensively confined to the world, instead of transformed to the divine image of Christ Jesus by the renewal of the spirit.

REPRESENTATIVES of the A. M. E. Zion Church in Philadelphia have purchased the old Union Church property, built and owned by a society of the A. M. E. Church till three years ago, when they moved twelve squares west, where they now worship in the beautiful and commodious building described in these columns before. We are glad our good Zion brethren have gotten the property and are going to maintain a society of colored folks in that part of the city. There is little improbability that our own connection might have kept the property. Had Bishop Cain not fallen sick soon after coming to the work would likely have done so.

THE WILY editor of the Chicago Conservator compliments the Recorder on the enterprise of publishing the sketches of our Bishops and takes the opportunity to brush up a little for not stating most effectually in organizing, surveying and exploring expeditions. To gain the place of his birth. Unfortunately for us, we fail so many of our great men's lives beginning in a State, no mention made of town or county; and in a year, no mention being made of month and day.

We intend to publish sketches of several African Methodist laymen and African Methodist laymen if they will allow us so to do. Among the former we should like to include our good friend Clerk. We believe our people should be instructed concerning the men and women who have performed much of that which makes the unwritten American history extremely interesting. We now ask Brother Clark to forward his sketch.

MR. T. D. SCOTT writes to the Southwestern Christian Advocate concerning a statement in that paper, to the effect that "the graduates of Wilberforce are instructed to set against mixed schools," under the heading "There Is No Truth In It." The Advocate prefaces this caption making it read, "Are you sure 'there is no truth in it?'" and says, "A statement was made to us by Mr. John A. Hall, of Troy, Miami county, Ohio. Mr. Hall is a man worth $20,000, a prominent business man; his word is above par with everybody—white and black." Are you sure of it, Brother Advocate? To be at par is the ambition of most mortals. Mr. Hall is not in condition to know much about Wilberforce. Mr. Scott may be quite sure; though he may not be worth $20,000, he is worth a much confidence as Mr. Hall and $20,000. O! did not the Southwestern promise some months ago to give some of the unwritten history of Wilberforce University? Is this part thereof? History of some schools is doubtless quite interesting just now to the Southwestern's readers.

THE ELY-ARNETT bill having passed the Ohio legislature, removes from that State the last vestige of distinction between man and man on account of color only. Ohio merits the good feelings of all men for this step toward civilization. It gives to all citizens equal chances. It is remarkable how any State can constantly can expect any class to equal other classes if in that country it is not responsible and reliable citizenship, while prevented from enjoying all the advantages afforded to the best citizens. This is nothing on the question of equity to disenfranchise here. There is at least but one side to the question. There is an opportunity offered Ohio now to be as fair in the recognition of excellence in her public school teachers as she has been just in removing all offensive and foolish reference to color from her statutes. So long as any law is based upon the color of a man it is unjust. The people of Christian Statesvendore the burlesque of the existence of such law. Brother Arnett, as a legislator, has stamped his name upon the Ohio statutes to stay. Many will fall to regard his action with favor who can but regard it as just.

THE WORK of the colored American is in his own behalf. He has to run while others sleep. A thousand doors to usefulness and strength are flying wide for him. Let him enter these and not sit down on the step of the door that refuses to open to him. Let him use all the advantages afforded in the halls whose doors swing on golden hinges before his water his time in attempts to relieve old rusty hinges of their friction. The book world is open to him; the fountains of water are open to him; the markets are open to him; in many cases lectures are open to him, schools are open to him; the fields of moral excellence and religious purity are open to him; and afford wonderful appliances for ascending the highest plane of life. Besides these, the whole broad, deep realm of nature, both in silence and in speech, is open to him; the field of invention is open to him. By using these all conspicuously well, by using these colored men may win.

Idleness, which underlies much existing vice among other classes, also gets a start in among us. The openings to degradation are many, where millions of other races lie slaughtered, another thousands of our people. Shall we not awake and fly from the dens of vice—from the destructive, immoral habits and sinful practices that have proved them to the dust? Shall we not, for the sake of our boys and girls, who otherwise will have a life more like that of our fathers than like ours, begin at once a reformation in the race that will present us to the world in each conquering excellence that we shall not have to beg for entrance upon the highest walks of life, but will be diligently urged by those walking there to join them that they may enjoy our excellence?

If there is not a wonderful modification of the colored American and the white American, by the next half century, it will be the most marvelous building described in these columns before. We are glad our good Zion brethren have gotten the property and are going to maintain a society of colored folks in that part of the city. There is little improbability that our own connection might have kept the property. Had Bishop Cain not fallen sick soon after coming to the work would likely have done so.

THE WILY editor of the Chicago Conservator compliments the Recorder on the enterprise of publishing the sketches of our Bishops and takes the opportunity to brush up a little for not stating most effectually in organizing, surveying and exploring expeditions. To gain the vantage ground which Africa offers European and Europo-Asiatic nations for military and commercial passage, defense and tenantry, is at the bottom of the most of their schemes. The great object is to white man Africa, rather than Christianize Africa. True, there are prominent missionary operations going on there, but they all attach themselves to human government more or less. Their literature, their religious notices, their very life and character are made up very largely of the spirit of the people who, though religiously moved to suffer for the excellency of Christ to the black man among men, are charged with the foolish notion of the negro's irrecoverable inferiority. There are hundreds of exceptions, thank God, but this seems to be the rule

The most hopeful movement operating in the interest of Africa's senile seems to be the Bishop Taylor movement, under the auspices of the M. E. Church. Thus far this is an experiment. It is, under God, in the hands and heart of an old man. When he shall drop the mantle it may be troublesome to find a man possessing of his spirit and confidence in God to take it up. The black American's great opportunity is to have a hand in this Christianizing of Africa. We can not take the gold to them, but we can take that which is of more value than gold.

Our large religious bodies have hundreds of men and women who are not weak, shiftless, dependent, of poor judgment, inspratical, ignorant and unprincipled as a class, where millions of other races lie slaughtered, another thousands of our people. Shall we not awake and fly from the dens of vice—from the destructive, immoral habits and sinful practices that have proved them to the dust? Shall we not, for the sake of our boys and girls, who otherwise will have a life more like that of our fathers than like ours, begin at once a reformation in the race that will present us to the world in each conquering excellence that we shall not have to beg for entrance upon the highest walks of life, but will be diligently urged by those walking there to join them that they may enjoy our excellence?

If there is not a wonderful modification of the colored American and the white American, by the next half century there will be a vast field for more here; especially for colored men. We need now courage, coorege, courage sent to virtue, but over to the displacement of virtue.

AFRICA AND AFRICAN METHODISM.

Evidently almost all the extensive movements tending toward and operating in Africa, look upon its material value rather that its moral. Its minerals, its precious stones, its valuable woods, its rich soil, its vast area as an addition to already existing great governments—these are the attractions that operate

MURDER.

One of the foulest murders on record is that of Wakefield Gaines, a colored man in Philadelphia. Such murders as the Maxwell-Peiffer, the Unger-Bohlo, and the Webster-Parkman murders also are worthy to be classified with it. So far as shown at this writing, the whole affair was in the hands of a colored man and the mistress of a white.

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.

Officers and Members of the Connectional Literary, Historic and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have combined selling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in charge were empowered to act in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of sub-associations, and at the same time, saving the traveling expenses, which, in some instances, was an important consideration.

We have been frequently chided for not assembling our connectional convention; but to us it appeared the better part of wisdom to wait until organizations existed in all parts of the land.

Now, as that time has arrived and important business demands the presence of the said convention, we do hereby call the convention to meet in St. Paul A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society throughout the land and every presiding elder who has complied with the requirements of the law touching his duties toward the association. Presiding elders are therefore not elected, but are members by an office. We would remind the associations to select delegates by ballot. The following are the connectional officers: President, Bishop H. M. Turner, D.D., LL.D.; Bishops D. A. Payne, D.D., LL.D., J. M. Brown, D.D., LL.D., J. P. Campbell, D.D., LL.D., J. A. Shorter, D.D., W. F. M. Ward, D.D., J. M. Brown, D.D., D.O.L., R. H. Cain, D.D., B. W. Arnett, D.D.

Episcopal District Presidents: First District, Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D.; Second District, Rev. B. W. Hunter, D.D.; Third District, Prof. D. Sandy Schell; Fourth District, Rev. C. S. Smith, M.D.; Fifth District, T. D. Caldwell, D.V.M.; Sixth District, Rev. M. B. Salmon, D.D.; Seventh District, Rev. M. E. Bryant, A.M.; Eighth District, Prof. James Porter; Ninth District, Rev. J. H. Jones.

Recording Secretary, Rev. Richard Harper, B.D., Greenville, Ky.

Corresponding Secretary, Rev. J. T. Gaudier, M.D., Macon, Miss.

Treasurer, Lewis Winters, Esq., Nashville, Tenn.

Historiographer, Rev. B. W. Arnett, D.D., Wilberforce, Ohio.

Board of Managers: First District, Rev. William H. Thomas; Second District, W. G. Mitchell; Third District, Rev. Theo. A. Thompson, D.D.; Fourth District, Rev. J. C. Dewan; Fifth District, W. H. R. Bailey; Sixth District, Rev. L. R. Nichols; Seventh District, T. G. Steward; Eighth District, Rev. W. H. Weathers; Ninth District, Rev. M. Green, A.M.

Executive Committee: Rev. J. H. A. Johnson, D.D., Chairman; Rev. J. W. Beckett, B.D., John P. Reed, A.M., Rev. J. H. Upshaw, Rev. J. M. Cargile, Rev. Thomas H. Nance.

We anticipate the most literary gathering that has ever assembled in our connectional interest. While the management may all not necessarily be members of the association, yet we desire that who can to write and bring an essay upon some one subject, looking to the interest of the society or the betterment of the race. We will not name the subjects. Each member will be taken the prizes in their respective conferences, and the successful ones to the convention to be examined by the connectional prizes.

Rev. T. B. Caldwell, pastor of St. Paul, is assisted by Messrs. Bedford Gross, Mathew Mitchen, Dr. A. Thornton, who will provide places for the delegates. The brethren will soon be prepared to take care of himself if necessary. Those expecting to be entertained would do well to drop one of the pastors a postal card. Literary visitors who are not delegates will receive a cordial welcome.

W. M. TURNER, President.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE CALL FOR THE LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1st, 1887.

Whereas several communications have been sent to us, asking a variety of questions relative to the Literary Convention to be held at Nashville (Tenn.), March 23rd, 1887, I propose to reply as briefly as I can to the questions asked.

1. Yes, all of the connectional officers named in the call must be present, unless they are sick.

2. Yes, all of the Presiding Elders are members of the convention, by virtue of their office.

3. No. Would-be callers can take care of five hundred or a thousand if they choose to come, and are preparing to make the occasion the greatest in the history of the race.

4. No, membership to the convention is not limited to membership in the Church. They may be members of other churches or of no church, but they must be members of our connectional literary association.

5. I don't know whether the convention will confer any honorary titles or degrees or not. I have never seen the use of it if it does? Men who merit title ought to be thus rewarded, but as for those who have no titles to be honoring those who have not, I hope the convention will provide for conferring some kind of titles or degrees.

6. Yes, but I have left the programme with Dr. Arnett to arrange, which he will do, for the convention will give its own orders to change or modification it may chose to make. This will be the legislative body of our connectional association.

7. The very thing as provided for. Gen. T. Morris Chester will be the one to write down every word uttered as fast as they fall from the lips.

8. No, there was no intention to ignore the Fourth Episcopal District, and is the name of the conventional officers of the association, I most respectfully invite Rev. J. A. Johnson, Hamilton, Ont; Rev. J. O'Banyoun, Amherstburg, Ont; Rev. C. W. Dorsey, Chatham, Ont.; Rev. Charles H. Shreve, Toronto, and Rev. H. W. Miller, St. Thomas, Daniel W. Ivy, Rev. T. W. Croxby, Halifax, N.S., and such others as may come as delegates from their respective associations.

9. I selected who will be at the convention. My answer is, the brains of our church; not all, but a preponderous portion.

President.

All delegates coming to the Literary Convention will please to express in Nashville, Tenn., March 23, 1887, will please inform Rev. T. B. Caldwell, 732 South Cherry St., so that strangers coming may be made for their accommodation.

A mysterious and supposed terrible wild beast has horrified a social party at Kenosit last week, the West Chester (Pa.) Record says, turns out to be a large shepherd dog.

Chicago rejoices in the possession of a cross eyed cat.

With (to sick husband):—A gentleman downstairs, John, wishes to see you. Sick Husband—I'm too sick to see any one.

Wife—It's the minister, John.

Sick Husband—Well, I'm not sick enough to see him yet.—Life.

A BET OF FAMILY HISTORY.—Little Dick—"I'm awful glad you're engaged to sister Nell now."

Mr. Mossellon—"I feel quite grateful to have you say that, Dick."

"Yes, you always brings her candy and she gives me some, and its the kind I like, too."

"You have a choice, then?"

"Yes, sir; you see all the others brought chocolates, and I don't like chocolates."—Omaha World.

THE editor of the Calliecon (N. Y.) Echo states that his china-eyed doorkeeper assists in setting up the paper, and that our little compositor is in her ninth year, and no doubt is the youngest known in the trade. She sets the type, justifies her own lines, but is not yet able to empty her "stick." Incredible as it may seem, the little type-setter often sets from one to four stickfuls of matter at a single sitting, sometimes exceeding a slip in our grammar or spelling, and is never as happy as when sitting at the case "helping pap."

THE TREE OF DEATH.—On the New Hope battle-field is a tree upon which the soldiers called the inscription "Tree of Death." This tree was in advance of the left flank of the Federal line, and only 50 yards from the Confederate works. It was used by Federal skirmishers, who would stand behind it and load and fire as they cut at the tree. Confederate sharpshooters went along the Confederate line for nearly a mile in each direction, and when they found a man behind a tree that they could see behind it, would call out: "Look out, there is a man behind that tree!" It was dangerous to stand behind the tree as to stand in front of it, for the Seven Federals were killed behind the tree, and 21 Confederates fell under the "Tree of Death."—Atlanta Constitution.

VERSES IN THE CLOUDS.—A correspondent writes from Venice to the Pall Mall Gazette, that one day last week he was sailing from Venice to the Lido, when he saw what at first he took to be a flock of starlings, but on closer inspection he found to be a number of birds flying in the form of letters. The letters were large, and formed a sentence which the surface of a calm sea was discovered, with boats passing over it, and even a steamer cutting in two the sentence. The name in view, then, was a large, beautiful building, with a tall campanile, and as the letters became more distinct, the following words were made out: "Ecco bachetoni ed ova." Each bushel of cones yields about two quarts of seed.

AN IMPORTANT ARREST.

The arrest of a suspicious character on the street, appearance, movements or companionship, without waiting until he has robbed a traveler, fired a dwelling, or murdered a fellow man, is an important function of a shrewd detective. Even more important is the arrest of a disease which, if not checked, will undermine and destroy a human life. The frequent cough, loss of appetite, nervousness, languor or debility, pallid skin, sunken eyes and pains, announce the approach of pulmonary consumption, a fearful malady if arrested in its early stages, but certainly cured by Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Sold by druggists.

A Wilkesboro (N. C.) newspaper has received intelligence that his family was poisoned by a slave. Rudford Gross, Mathew Mitchen, Dr. A. Thornton, who will provide places for the delegates. The brethren will soon be prepared to take care of himself if necessary. Those expecting to be entertained would do well to drop one of the pastors a postal card. Literary visitors who are not delegates will receive a cordial welcome.

NEW BOOKS

that will be on sale by the Manager throughout the coming year:

"Fifty Years and Beyond;" or, Old Age and How to Enjoy It." A book of unmistakable value, and will no interest to all who have passed the meridian of life. 12mo cloth, $1.00, same in gilt edges, $1.50.

"Bible Heroes;" or, Bible Plea Views of the Creation in the Relation to Man. By the Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D., author of "Bible Studies," a connected chapter on "Christian Evidences," by Bishop Campbell. This is an intensely interesting book, especially to young people, old or young. It will contain about 250 pages, nice clean type, fine paper, and sold at the low rate of $1.50 per copy; a scarce in press order can soon imprint. Orders, $1.50, mailing 10cts. extra.

"Bible Heroes;" or, Stories from the Old Testament for Little Folks." Judging by my own children, no parent who would have his children instead the Bible spirit of Bible characters, could buy a better book. Our children devoured it at once. Price only 50 cents; by mail, 55 cents. Orders filled.

Rev. J. E. Webb has published an excellent Record Book for church trustees, with blanks for everything pertaining to their reports and business. Price, $1.25. It is well bound and well arranged. Nothing like it, nor half an convenient. Send for a book and see it. Don't let the first thing to sold in making out your list be the Book of Publishing House. Price, $1.50.

Orders for each or all of these works may be sent to us at once. Cash orders only.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 10, 1887.

HAVE A HAND IN IT.

Every member in the Church should count it an opportunity to honor himself to give a dime on Easter Day for the evangelization of Africa. All should take a hand in it.

HOW MUCH will you give for the African work on Easter Day?

MANY missionary mites make much money for the redemption of Africa on Easter Day.

WE THANK Prof. F. S. Delany, A. B., will continue his excellent "Pleasant Tales for the Young."

EASTER is April 10th; not long. If each minister will give his attention to the $10,000 for Africa, we shall win success.

REV. and Mrs. Frederick, our brother and sister, with their dear boy, are awaiting patiently to bear from our Easter doing.

IT IS injurious to our cause, as it is in any cause, to ascribe to one in this generation that we most of necessity recede from our standing in the next.

THE MOST of our Church squabbles are over small things. Each side argues that if it were the other side it would not waste words and time over so small a matter.

BISHOP WARD, at the Preachers' Meeting, Philadelphia, a few weeks ago, said he knew something about the duty of each minister to raise $1 for or from each member for general purposes.

FROM what we have heard from missionary headquarters, we are led to the belief that Easter Day of 1887 will mark an advanced step by the African M. E. Church on the subject of missions.

JUST as we go to press, the sad news of the death of one of the greatest men of the century, Henry Ward Beecher, reaches us; also the death of Presiding Elder George Hunter, of North Carolina.

OUR BISHOPS seem to be not only in the fullest sympathy, but the fullest practicable helpfulness with the Secretary of Missions in his efforts to raise $10,000. Bishop Ward makes it one of the principle topics in his work.

ONE OF the grave offenses of the Hebrews was their numbering the people. Too much numbering in our Church is about as sinful as was the Hebrew's in it thrill, but does not make stable and strong. We need more solidifying, better numbering—not more—and a sanctifying of ourselves.

PROF. H. T. JOHNSON will issue part second of his popular work in a few days. Part first sells rapidly. The introductory, by Prof. Scarborough, is easily worth the price of the pamphlet, 15 cents. Part second promises to be equally as valuable, containing about 30 pages. Send orders to this house.

THE Rev W. H. Morris, of Paducah, catches on to the Manager's new plan of securing subscribers very readily and sends in the names of thirty-two contributors at once. This is enterprise. It is so enterprise that pays the pastor well in the aid he gets from the superior enlightenment of his people, pays the people well and the book concern well. Three or four hundred preachers like Brother Morris in this respect will bring our business up to its proper standing.

IF APOSTOLIC success depended upon apostolic succession, there would be a larger number than we actually find of successful apostles. It is worth much more to any body of Christians to establish immediate connection with Christ than to establish the immediate connection through what is popularly known as apostolic succession. The defense of the claim to apostolic succession is more necessity, more uncertain, as well as of less worth, then is the defense of our relationship with God through his dear Son.

HOW IS IT that the Arnett jubilee was held outside of the honorable gentleman's county? Doesn't old Greene like that kind of representative fruit? The papers of the country do not seem to jubilate. Well, the work is done, and thoroughly done; friends in the old abolition county might as well take it graciously. The school oils will effect them about as little as in any town in the State of similar size, in all probability; for, like Philadelphia, they have the fortune to have so many colored families in one part of the city that they can easily retain a very fair separate-mixed school system.

BOTH Kansas and Pennsylvania are dealing with the nonsensical reference to color still sticking to their legislative backs, but the old Hoosier State is still solid. She does not yet dare to set herself in the calendar of freedom. She still holds on to the inclose rails of her power to turn her mighty engines against colored men when in slavery. Poor Indiana! How can it be illegal for any one to do anything, simply and only because of the color of his skin or his descent? Are morals distinguished by anything like the physical idea of color? Can we ever reach a proper state of morals under such wicked laws?

"THE ARNETT JUBILEE."

In Springfield, Ohio, February 1st, a large number of people assembled to express their pleasure over the success of the noble-like desfeasion in Ohio by the legislative repeal of the black laws, falsely so called. The bill having been introduced in the Senate by Senator Ely and in the House by Representative Arnett, these gentlemen were the leaders of the evening, notwithstanding the presence of other such distinguished gentlemen as Rev. G. W. Zeigler, ex-speaker Werree J. Keifer, James Buford, Senator Pringle, Capt. Asa Bushnell, W. S. Newberry, General Rawlins, Prof. W. S. Scarborough, Mayor Goodwin, Rev. J. Poindexter, O. M. Nichols, Rev. W. H. Warren, editr H. C. Smith, D. Wilkon, J. K. Mowery and Rev. W. R. Hoon, who was made chairman. Rev. James Poindexter offered the opening prayer, after which Governor Keifer made one of his characteristic strong speeches in favor of exact and even legal advantages to all citizens as requisite to all performing the duties of citizenship. After a short but worthy speech by Senator Ely, Representative Arnett made a rousing speech, carrying the audience with enthusiastic glee into the venerable James Poindexter made a noble appeal for and defense of the colored teacher. His words were to those of the profession golden grains, but alas! the distance between might and right ever appeared more distinctly than it will on this subject in Ohio next fall. The school teachers known as colored will not be needed. Of course a few will be employed, as there are in Philadelphia, teaching only colored children. The very fewest will be allowed opportunities equal to the best in the race for position. Ninety-nine per cent. must go. The night is well into Ohio's year toward the South or Southwest or toward some other voceless now. So it will be for a quarter century at least. Brother Poindexter says, "there is no reason if colored teachers can teach colored children, why they cannot teach white children." True, but does he not know well that nothing else depends upon reason so little as does race prejudice! Does he not know that the starving of the schools in his own city every colored teacher was informed that he need not apply! Did he not observe that no Caucasian speaker dared speak as he spoke?

Capt. Asa Bushnell advised his audience to "teach your children to vote the republican ticket." Professor Scarborough referred to the tardiness with which rights are dribbled out to colored men in this country. Mr. H. C. Smith, of the Cleveland Gazette, made an interesting and hopeful speech on mixed schools. During the meeting letters of regret were read from Governor Foraker and Congressman Kennedy.

From the wigwam the people, with fifty invited guests, went to St. James hotel, where General Keifer presided as toast master. Responses were made by J. W. Gazaway, J. S. Miller, James Buford, H. H. Thompsen, of Indianapolis, Mayor Goodwin, Dan. A. Rudd, G. W. Zeigler, W. M. Heskel, O. P. Hall, Rev. F. Hayward, C. H. Butler, Mr. Brooks, of Ironton, and John Mitchell. There is something in it worthy of your jubilation, friends; new comes the struggle against the same noble-like desfeasion in Ohio as was displayed in the course of history in relation to colored Odiesos. Just so far as the prejudices of classes of the people of a republic debar any one of said classes from all that goes to make it good, by honest and legal competition they should be educated out of it as early as possible.

—Rev. George Hunter, of the North Carolina Conference, has been very sick of late.

—Alexander, one of the colored cadets at West Point, will graduate this year, if they will let him do so.

—Mr. Powhatan Beatty has been appointed superintendent of the Young Men's Bible Club of Cincinnati, Ohio.

—Prof. P. H. Clark is a candidate for the position of Superintendent of Mail Carriers in the Cincinnati post office.—Ex.

—Madame Marie Selika, the renowned vocalist, will shortly remove from Boston, Mass., to reside in Columbus, Ohio.

—Mr. R. L. Livingston, colored, of Mississippi, has been promoted to a $1,400 clerkship in the Pension Office, at Washington, D. C.

—Miss Fannie Richards, a colored teacher in the mixed schools of Detroit, Mich., has been promoted, for merit, from a third to fifth grade.

—Strangers going to Boston will do well to call on Brother Tim Lee, at his dining room, 324 Pleasant street, near Boston & Providence Depot.

—Mr. C. O. Jacko, a colored artist of Little Rock, Ark., made a crayon of Gen. Grant, which adorns the walls of the House of Representatives in that city.

—Bishop Tarnee has appointed Rev. Daniel W. Culp, D.D., to Harrodsburg, Ky. Dr. Culp is a graduate of Wilberforce College and ranks as one of the finest linguists in the land.

—Samuel R. Holland, colored, formerly of Uniontown, has held the office of sheriff and tax collector of Chicot county, Ark., for twelve years. He owns a fine plantation of 500 acres.

—In Augusta, Ga., Henry Dodson, a white man, charged with vagrancy and being considered a nuisance, was, by order of the Mayor, sentenced to the highest bidder for a term of seventy days.

—The coincidences in two appointments made by the Bishop of Baltimore last year are striking. Bishop Cain appointed Rev. Mr. Brown to Newport, R. I.; Bishop Ward appointed Rev. E. M. Argyle to Newport, Ark.

—Miss A. C. Fleming, of Florida, late of the Florida Templar, who has been attending a course of lectures in the Women's Medical College in Philadelphia, leaves next week for the Congo Valley to join three years.

—A sketch of the life of President J. M. Burgan appears on our first page. Brother Burgan is a living instance of what it costs to develop educational work among colored people. Brethren reading it may apply it to our educators generally.

—A letter from Hon. John M. Langston was published in the Herald of February 24th, in which he gives his opinion of the Democratic want the colored vote, notwithstanding the position will obtain it. It is thought by many that Langston will not object to being a cabinet officer.—Ex.

—The Rev. Horace Talbert, of Owensboro, N. Y., has been mentioned very favorably for the Liberian mission. Brother Talbert is a very worthy, scholarly gentleman, whose representation of the United States on the African continent would be entirely safe factory and gratifying to a great number of colored Americans.

—Mr. Arnett's bill requiring that the effects of alcoholic drinks upon the human system be taught in schools in all public schools, also requires officers in control of schools to see that the law is enforced, or if they do not that they be removed; also that after Jan. 1st, 1888, applicants for certificates to teach shall pass satisfactory examination in regard to effects of alcoholic drinks upon the human system.—Xenia Gazette.

—Miss Helen D. Handy has been appointed to a janitor's position in the office of Recorder of Deeds. The is one of the few political appointments ever made in that office and whatever we may have said with respect to the appropriateness of the appointment or confirmation of Mr. Matthews, there can be no question as to the representative character of the appointment of Miss Handy.—People's Advocate.

ANYONE who has studied or taught French will appreciate the great need of a thoroughly practical and scientifically graded French reader, and will be glad to know that such a one is just ready from the press of Ginn & Heath. The author, Prof. Guillaume S. Conrad, has for several years been collecting pieces from standard authors, ancient and modern—the selections being made with different purposes of grammar, or to arrange them in the order adopted by all our grammarians, and what success he has had in the work of such a book will soon appreciate.

In the Philanthropist Series, No. 8, Aaron M. Powell treats on a delicate, clear and logical style, "Legal Protection for Young Girls." "If I hated a person I would not dirt with them so outrageously as you do with Frank, nor allow them to wear my ring."

You may look out for some love-letters Wednesday night."

Nan gasped. She s flirt! Why, she would not know how to flirt if she went at it. A thousand angry words rose to her lips. She could not utter one. She felt as though she were choking. She stood gasping and unclasping her slender hands. And Brother John, opening the door at that moment, was struck with amazement.

"Nannie, what's the matter? why Nannie!"

But Nannie had found her voice; she spoke, regardless of grammar.

"Tom Reynolds, don't you never never speak to me again, unless I first speak to you."

And she was gone. Like a young whirlwind she rushed up stairs, never stopping until she reached her own room, where she locked the door and threw herself, in a storm of sobs and tears, on the little white bed. How sacred it was to her memory with Tom. Ah, Stella, with Frank Saunders. She felt that she would never be forgiven by them. She would not take part in that meeting. She would send a note and say she was sick; she and Tad Bess would have their Christmas with brother John; all will go, but all of us won't stay though about the ring? Where was her little finger that had worn it? Ah, the finger of the party—that party. Could it be? Did Frank must have slipped it in her pocket and Nannie, who was busy, had not know it. Then the tears came again. Nannie was naturally one of the weeping kind. Tears were to her as a light tap at the door and a child-like confession and frankness to come in." It was Bess, and the touch of the little arms about her neck gave her self-control.

"Whatsis it, pet?"

"Nannie is sick, and pops says tant you tom 'tmedi'ly."

"Tad, you little rascal, how dare you call me sick, and pops says tant you tom 'tmedi'ly."

"Well, you is sick, and you said that is an old dress, too."

"Tad, you naughty girl," said an old lady to Tom. "What does she represent?"

"She is a star, the morning, a pearl; everything that is pure and beautiful," said Tom, looking at Nannie's flushed cheeks. Nannie!"

Almost like one of the family, the Rev. Dr. Buckner and his wife and Nan's soul at the sight of his face.

"Why, Nannie, you look feverish; a little shaken up by his fall. He will be all right in a week or two."

"Yes, I am sure of it," Nan's heart sank. This was Friday; next Wednesday the Rev. Dr. Buckner. Her dress would be the housework to be done and Tad cross and troublesome. Nannie and Tom one else. What should she do? Nan's dresses were not numerous. She always had a new one for Christmas. She was so lovely, soft, fleecy white, and the ribbon was to be loved as a pet. Now it was impossible to finish it. She could not have it done. She could not get the old black dress, with the other girls radiant in their charming costume. No, she could not. She would be ill—would go there to-morrow. But the next day Nannie was better, and Nan and Tom spring from a handsome carriage and gaily they ran to the lady's door, which Tom had taken pains to have fixed before. Tom came in, hesitated a moment, looked at her compassionately, then said, "Nannie, I think you are an angel."

"I don't doubt it," said Nan, coolly taking the hat and coat and turning to the mirror to adjust her curls.

"I say Nan, I think you are an angel."

"I don't doubt it," said Nan, coolly taking the hat and coat and turning to the mirror to adjust her curls.

"I say Nan, I think you are an angel."

"I don't doubt it," said Nan, coolly taking the hat and coat and turning to the mirror to adjust her curls.

"I say Nan, is that sarcasm?"

"No, indeed, it's citron," passing with the piece she was slicing for the cake and turning on him a look of seemed great assistance.

Then they both laughed, and so the ice was broken forever.

And he it recorded, for the space of one hour, that bright December after-noon, Tom and Nan, Tad and Bess, Brother Taylor, worked together in the kitchen.

Mrs. C. T. Shafer has been somewhat indisposed physically for several days.

Rev. C. C. Felts and the Frankford people had a good time last Sabbath. Quite a number were put on probation and one received into full connection.

Rev. C. C. Felts and children were in the city last week.

NAN'S CHRISTMAS.

BY "RCE."

"If I were married to a woman," impressively, "who left water standing in the wash basin, I would get a divorce the next minute."

"And if I were married to a man who did not appreciate a woman's work any more than you do, I would get a divorce the next minute."

Nan's black eyes flashed, the color deepened in her cheeks, and for the first time in her short life had a defiant tone that set the short black curls flying and dancing all over it.

"You know very well, Tom Reynolds, that I had my hands in the wash when Tad fell from the window, and I had to run to him, and I only just the minute I came back. I do think you are the most inconsiderate——"

Here her wrath and indignation choked her, and she paused for breath. Then, catching sight of Tom's folded hands and meek face, she laughed in spite of herself.

"There! after I vowed I would not speak to you again. All my good resolutions forgotten. Oh my birthday. Too, and only a week to Christmas. But I will not speak to you."

"I am a beast," said Tom, humbly, bowing to the floor. "I beg you to send pardons. Let's shake hands, Nannie, kiss and make up."

"I'll forgive and shake hands," said Nan, coolly ignoring the other part of his proposition, though its hell-like color rose in her cheeks.

"Here, you can send these raisins for me. I've promised Tad an especial fruit cake for Christmas, if they don't have a single fight before we get there, and then they'll have to have it all themselves."

"Poor little things! Their sentry sets a good example. If they could have seen you just now! How you did have on! But how is the kid?" Did he finish himself?"

"No bones broken," said Nan, who was flying from pantry to cellar, opening and shutting the stove door, and briskly beating and pounding with a great wooden spoon some mysterious compound, the promise of future delight to the "kids."

"He is a little bruised, but I plastered him up with brown paper, and kissed him. Now, thank goodness, he is asleep, and Bess has gone to 'dwess' mas.' Bless those children! I do think Tad is destined for something great, if he doesn't break his neck in the meantime. Surely such restlessness and mischievousness indicate great genius."

"Yes," said Tom, "I was just that kind of a child."

"I dare say, and you have n't outgrown it. Are you through seeding your raisins, Tom?"

"I am not seeding them."

"Why, I asked you to. What do you mean, Tom?"

"They were already seeded, and I am seeding them. Do you see, my dear?"

"If I hated a person I would not dirt with them so outrageously as you do with Frank, nor allow them to wear my ring."

You may look out for some love-letters Wednesday night."

Nan gasped. She s flirt! Why, she would not know how to flirt if she went at it. A thousand angry words rose to her lips. She could not utter one. She felt as though she were choking. She stood gasping and unclasping her slender hands. And Brother John, opening the door at that moment, was struck with amazement.

"Nannie, what's the matter? why Nannie!"

But Nannie had found her voice; she spoke, regardless of grammar.

"Tom Reynolds, don't you never never speak to me again, unless I first speak to you."

And she was gone. Like a young whirlwind she rushed up stairs, never stopping until she reached her own room, where she locked the door and threw herself, in a storm of sobs and tears, on the little white bed. How sacred it was to her memory with Tom. Ah, Stella, with Frank Saunders. She felt that she would never be forgiven by them. She would not take part in that meeting. She would send a note and say she was sick; she and Tad Bess would have their Christmas with brother John; all will go, but all of us won't stay though about the ring? Where was her little finger that had worn it? Ah, the finger of the party—that party. Could it be? Frank must have slipped it in her pocket and Nannie, who was busy, had not know it. Then the tears came again. Nannie was naturally one of the weeping kind. Tears were to her as a light tap at the door and a child-like confession and frankness to come in." It was Bess, and the touch of the little arms about her neck gave her self-control.

"Whatsis it, pet?"

"Nannie is sick, and pops says tant you tom 'tmedi'ly."

"Tad, you little rascal, how dare you call me sick, and pops says tant you tom 'tmedi'ly."

"Well, you is sick, and you said that is an old dress, too."

"Tad, you naughty girl," said an old lady to Tom. "What does she represent?"

"She is a star, the morning, a pearl; everything that is pure and beautiful," said Tom, looking at Nannie's flushed cheeks. Nannie!"

Almost like one of the family, the Rev. Dr. Buckner and his wife and Nan's soul at the sight of his face.

"Why, Nannie, you look feverish; a little shaken up by his fall. He will be all right in a week or two."

"Yes, I am sure of it," Nan's heart sank. This was Friday; next Wednesday the Rev. Dr. Buckner. Her dress would be the housework to be done and Tad cross and troublesome. Nannie and Tom one else. What should she do? Nan's dresses were not numerous. She always had a new one for Christmas. She was so lovely, soft, fleecy white, and the ribbon was to be loved as a pet. Now it was impossible to finish it. She could not have it done. She could not get the old black dress, with the other girls radiant in their charming costume. No, she could not. She would be ill—would go there to-morrow. But the next day Nannie was better, and Nan and Tom spring from a handsome carriage and gaily they ran to the lady's door, which Tom had taken pains to have fixed before. Tom came in, hesitated a moment, looked at her compassionately, then said, "Nannie, I think you are an angel."

"I don't doubt it," said Nan, coolly taking the hat and coat and turning to the mirror to adjust her curls.

"I say Nan, is that sarcasm?"

"No, indeed, it's citron," passing with the piece she was slicing for the cake and turning on him a look of seemed great assistance.

Then they both laughed, and so the ice was broken forever.

And he it recorded, for the space of one hour, that bright December afternoon, Tom and Nan, Tad and Bess, Brother Taylor, worked together in the kitchen.

Mrs. C. T. Shafer has been somewhat indisposed physically for several days.

Rev. C. C. Felts and the Frankford people had a good time last Sabbath. Quite a number were put on probation and one received into full connection.

Rev. C. C. Felts and children were in the city last week.

NAN'S CHRISTMAS.

BY "RCE."

"If I were married to a woman," impressively, "who left water standing in the wash basin, I would get a divorce the next minute."

"And if I were married to a man who did not appreciate a woman's work any more than you do, I would get a divorce the next minute."

Nan's black eyes flashed, the color deepened in her cheeks, and for the first time in her short life had a defiant tone that set the short black curls flying and dancing all over it.

"You know very well, Tom Reynolds, that I had my hands in the wash when Tad fell from the window, and I had to run to him, and I only just the minute I came back. I do think you are the most inconsiderate——"

Here her wrath and indignation choked her, and she paused for breath. Then, catching sight of Tom's folded hands and meek face, she laughed in spite of herself.

"There! after I vowed I would not speak to you again. All my good resolutions forgotten. Oh my birthday. Too, and only a week to Christmas. But I will not speak to you."

"I am a beast," said Tom, humbly, bowing to the floor. "I beg you to send pardons. Let's shake hands, Nannie, kiss and make up."

"I'll forgive and shake hands," said Nan, coolly ignoring the other part of his proposition, though its hell-like color rose in her cheeks.

"Here, you can send these raisins for me. I've promised Tad an especial fruit cake for Christmas, if they don't have a single fight before we get there, and then they'll have to have it all themselves."

"Poor little things! Their sentry sets a good example. If they could have seen you just now! How you did have on! But how is the kid?" Did he finish himself?"

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

Mrs. Lillie Peck, of Olallia, Ore., has killed seven bears this winter.

Lucy Larcom is spending the winter with Miss Ellen Carpenter, the artist.

Twenty-eight of the thirty-nine counties of Washington Territory have elected women as school superintendents.

Mrs. Frances E. W. Harper is engaged in temperance work in the West and is said to be accomplishing a wonderful work.

Up to december 14, 1886, there had been granted to women by 14 principal States letters patent for one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five inventions.

Mrs. Mary E. Haggart lately joined Esther Lodge, No. 1, of the United Order of Honor, and said, in her initiation speech, that she was "a born temperance shoot; until the shackles are moved off the very last sieve of sin. A church will be built and women are among the pioneers of the United Order of Honor. Sister Haggart has large heartad, far seeing man to understand and demonstrate that the race needs the help of women in every organized effort to improve humanity or to protect society from the evils around us. . . . No organization in the world can be a permanent hold on long life and shut women out."

A KENTUCKY VIEW.

Mrs. James Bennett, writing from Richmond, Ky., under date of February 6th, to the Woman's Journal, says, in opposing the efforts of the honorable Senator Blair to protect women in the constitutional "Letter of Amendment of the United States to vote," which has been unjustly put in this country, lately said in the United States Senate that "the ballot is the sword to protect the chosen vessels of God. They seem to be in every faction and fraction of the times of these battles. The squalls were frequent, but soon over, and the women are usually said to be loving as a pair of doves.

"Tad had no more devoted knight than Tom in the whole village; and Tom, no more fierce champion than little Tad. Brother, so he called her, after she had been paid into his hands on the wedding it my reply it to our educators generally.

He watched her lastly, thinking of all she had done for him and the two orphaned children, and how she had become dear to them and their father. She and Tom were engaged, but were, for secure, but nearly enough related for Tom to consider himself her natural protector, and Nan to look upon him with a certain jealousy of all the young man in town but Tad. Nan was a beauty, and had a charming a little maiden as ever ever was. Don't use a gossip, Nan. I heard what a good little woman she was. Such a kind, tender, yet firm mother to Tad and Bess. Enough, indeed, to make brother John depended on her. He was not quite ready to part with such a cook! So young, too, only twenty years. What a mass of curls and how it provokes her so often. Dear little Nan! How he wished he knew whether that ring was there! Tom knew that Frank was Nan's, as Frank said it was. It was love at first sight and love that never died. Several conversations to the effect had taken place between Tom and Nan, but never so plainly as this time. Tom's heart was heavy within him. He loved Nan with all his heart and soul, and he knew that Nan loved him, but with the love of a sister for a brother. Tom was a fine, manly fellow, and Nan was proud of him as the champion of her little brother, but she had never thought of him as a lover. Tom came in, hesitated a moment, looked at her compassionately, then said, "Nannie, I think you are an angel."

"I don't doubt it," said Nan, coolly taking the hat and coat and turning to the mirror to adjust her curls.

"I say Nan, I think you are an angel."

"I say Nan, is that sarcasm?"

"No, indeed, it's citron," passing with the piece she was slicing for the cake and turning on him a look of seemed great assistance.

Then they both laughed, and so the ice was broken forever.

And he it recorded, for the space of one hour, that bright December afternoon, Tom and Nan, Tad and Bess, Brother Taylor, worked together in the kitchen.

One blissful hour and the cake was done. Nannie, too; and Nan carefully deposited it in a box, and Nannie, in her gay brickly to wash the pans, like the cheerfully humming the refrain of the song Tom was singing, the grand concert Christmas eve night.

But Tom was a man, and being a man he must, of course, assert himself, even the wrong thing and so lose that which he had gained. In the present state of mind, he most wished to retain—Nan's love. Now that little lady was pleased to grant it.

"Brother Harner is here; saw her today. She has grown pretty."

No answer, but the song stopped suddenly. Stella Harner was Nan's particular "thorn in the flesh." A sight of the parlor, piano, fleecy, Nan had haughty bow to Tom, she signified her readiness to depart.

In silence they walked together, Tom forbidden to speak, and Nan too angry to speak. Nan's head had been bad imposed. In silence they entered the house. Nan proceeded to the dressing-room, when actually nearly talking all at once and the social excitement prevailed. Many were the remarks, audible and otherwise, concerning Miss Nan's appearance.

"How strange Nan should wear black; but it's the lovely!"

"I never saw her look so well, and that is an old dress, too."

"She is a charming girl," said an old lady to Tom. "What does she represent?"

"She is a star, the morning, a pearl; everything that is pure and beautiful," said Tom, looking at Nannie's flushed cheeks. Nannie!"

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.

Officers and Members of the Connectional Literary, Historic and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have omitted calling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in council were empowered to act in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of subordinations, and, at the same time, serving unavoiding expense, which, in some instances, was an important consideration. We have been frequently chided for not assembling the connectional convention; but to us it appeared the better part of wisdom to wait until exigencies existed in all parts of the nation. Now, as that time has arrived and important business demands the attention of the said convention, we most heartily call the convention to meet in St. Paul A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society throughout the land and every presiding elder who has complied with the provisions of the law bearing his delegate to the convention. Presiding elders are therefore not invited, but are members by merit. We recommend the annual connectional elect delegates by ballot. The following are the connectional officers: Bishop Henry M. Turner, Vice-President, Bishop H. M. Turner; Vice-President, Bishop D. A. Payne, LL.D., A. W. Wayman, D.D., J. P. Campbell, D.D., L. J. Coppin, D.D., T. M. D. Ward, D.D., J. A. Shorter, D.D., D.C.L., R. H. Cain, D.D., R. S. Disney.

Episcopal District Presidents: First District, Rev. Benjamin G. Shaw, D.D.; Second District, Rev. W. H. Hunter, D.D; Third District, Prof. S. T. Mitchell, M.; Fourth District, Rev. C. S. Smith, M.D.; Fifth District, T. B. Caldwell, D.V.M.; Sixth District, Rev. J. B. Salters, D.D; Seventh District, Rev. M. B. Bryant, A. M.; Eighth District, Prof. James Porter; Ninth District, Rev. J. H. Jones.

Recording Secretary, Rev. Richard Harper, B.D., Louisville, Ky.

Corresponding Secretary, Rev. J. T. Jenifer, D.D., Boston, Mass.

Treasurer, Lewis Winters, Esq., Nashville, Tenn.

Historiographer, Rev. B. W. Arnett, D.D., Dayton, Ohio.

Board of Managers: First District, Rev. William H. Thomas; Second District, W. G. Alexander; Third District, Rev. Theo. A. Thompson, D.D.; Fourth District, Rev. J. C. Owens; Fifth District, W. H. B Butler, D.D; Sixth District, Rev. L. S. Nichols; Seventh District, T. G. Denham; Eighth District, Rev. W. H. Weather; Ninth District, Rev. A. M. Green, A.M.

Executive Committee: Rev. J. H. A. Johnson, D.D; Rev. A. C. Garner, B.D., John P. Turner, M.D., A. W. Upshaw, Rev. J. M. Cogdell, Rev. James T. Morris.

We anticipate the most literary gathering that ever assembled in our Connectional interest. While the members may all not be necessarily be members of the church, we shall expect all who can to write and have papers read upon some subject, either looking to the interest of the society or the advancement of the church. We will not name the subjects. Such ministers as have taken the prizes in the annual conferences can hring or send their essays to the convention for examination for the connectional prizes. While Rev. T. B. Caldwell, pastor of St. Paul, assisted by Revs. Bedford Green, Nathan Mitchell, Dr. A. Thorn, etc., will provide places for the delegates, we hope each delegate will come prepared to take care of himself as necessary. Those expecting to be present would do well to drop one of the pastors above named a postal card. Literary visitors who are not members will receive a cordial welcome.

H. M. TURNER,
President.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE CALL FOR THE LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1st, 1887.

Whereas several communications have been received by us having a variety of questions about the Literary Convention to be held at Nashville Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, I propose to reply as briefly as I can to be understood.

1. Yes, all of the connectional officers named in the call must be present, unless they are sick.

2. Yes, all of the Presiding Elders are members of the convention, by virtue of their office.

3. Yes, Nashville can take care of five hundred or a thousand if they chose to come, as the reporting is made in the occasion the grandest in the history of the race.

4. No, membership to the convention is not limited to membership of our Church. They may be members of other churches or no church, but they must be members of our connectional literary association.

5. I don't know whether the convention will confer any honors or not, as to degrees or not, I have enough myself. What do I do it does? Make me intellectus ourht to have them, nor is it smart for those who have no duties to be bounding those we have; I hope the convention will provide for conferring some time of titles or degrees.

6. Yes, but I have left the programme with Dr. Arnett to arrange, which he will do. We have no doubt he will give us our own orders as to any change or modification it may please to make. This will be the legislative body of our connectional association.

7. That very thing is provided for. Gen. T. Morris Chester will be there to write down every word uttered as fast as they fall from the lips.

8. No, there was no intention to ignore the Tenth Episcopal District, and in the name of the conventional officers of the association, I most respectfully invite Rev. J. A. Johnson, Hamilton, Ont; Rev. J. O'Banyoun, Amherstburg, Ont; Rev. L. W. Dorsey, Hamilton, Bermuda, Rev. Charles H. Shaw, Trinidad, W. I.; Rev. H. J. Meyer, St. Thomas, Danish W. I.; Rev J. W. Crosby, Halifax N. S., and each ecclesiastic as may come as delegates from their respective associations.

9. I am also asked who will be at the convention. My answer is, the brains of our church; not all, but a preponderous portion.

H. M TURNER.
President.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE As a Tonic.

DR. JOHN GERDINE, Athens, Ga., says: "In dyspepsia, accompanied with prostration from mental overwork, I think it the best tonic."

Rev. Edmund Darrow, of Waterford, Conn., says the N. Y. World, was born in the same year of the week and the seventh day of the month, on the seventh day of the week and the seventh hour of the day, and is and always has been a Seventh-Day Baptist.

Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in the spring of the year, to purify the blood, invigorate the System, excite the liver to action, and relieve healthy tone and vigor to the whole physical mechanism. Remember the quality, not quantity, constitutes the value of medicine.

DEEP SEA WONDERS

exist in thousands of forms, but are surpassed by the marvels of invention. Those who are in need of profitable work that can be done while living at home should 'at once send their address to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and receive, free, full information how without cost, of all kinds of work that will bring them in from $5 to $25 per day and upwards wherever they live. You are started free. Capital not required. Some have made over $50 in a day at this work. All succeed.

A young man who was bitten by a strange dog, at Greenwich, L. I., five or six weeks ago, developed hydrophobia symptoms on Thursday. He was bound to his bed, and broke one of his legs on Friday while trying to release himself. He died later in the day.

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and many kinds of remedies without relief, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. Lawrence, 213 East 52d St., New York, will receive the recipe free.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are teething; it relieves the pain, cures wind colic, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

For him who knows what to do, when to do it, and how to do it, there is worth three times the Legislature should "teach on" to this fact.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 17, 1887.

THE Louisiana Conference, 16th inst., opens the spring list.

IT WAS subscribers, not contributors, for which we meant to thank our brother at Paducah, Ky.

YOU MAY visit Philadelphia now, and be sure to call at the RECORDER office. Street car fare is five cents all over the great city. We can conduct you over town. Of course you will bring along your subscription to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

THE EDITOR of the RECORDER is located in Thornbury, Saturday evening, March 12, to a good audience, remaining over and preaching Sunday. Thornberry is about 20 miles out from this city, an open country settlement, where much improvement ought to be made by the strong, intelligent young people.

WE WERE asked the other day why we were publishing sketches of great men. We replied that we wished to inspire youth and educate the masses. He is a boy of little pluck who will not attempt to climb the great heights when others the ladder by which the man already at the summit reached his present standing.

THE SEARCH of Bishop Shorter is, in the main, slipped from the "Bad-get." We cannot spread it out what we should like to give our readers concerning one of the men of our race, who has, by dint of good judgment, good morals and good application, reached a place in society where he has so great an influence for good.

AFTER Missionary day in ster next comes the sending forth to Africa. Indeed, Ind., the home of Secretary Townsend. The rallying cry now is $10,000 for Africa. After April 10th the old war cry will be in place, "On to Richmond," that Dr. Townsend, with Bishop Campbell, may, early in May, move on to the West Indies and forward money and a helper or two on to Africa.

WHAT if it is a show advertisement—Barnum's explanation of his unwillingness to be prohibition candidate for president of the United States, even though sure of election! The moral is fine. He says he would not forego the pleasure of educating the world, especially the boys and girls, for the blessing and brilliant office. For more than fifty years he has been America's great showman.

MR. BEECHER was a friend to the oppressed: as such he was a friend to colored Americans During the anti-slavery siege he brought a mighty influence to the aid of freedom. In the earlier stage of our freedom he rendered considerable service to the settlement of the new relation which threatened the three classes: the freed, the freers and the losers. A man of large heart, he never seemed to quite abandon the freedmen's cause, but did seem to become somewhat indifferent to it.

DON'T BE ill, brother—have a rally, quarterly meeting, jubilee, stewards' day, trustees' day or gleaning day on April 10th. That is the day fixed as such centuries before you entered your work; it is also Missionary day, so fixed by the General Conference three years ago. No other day will do for Easter day so well as the day the fathers settled upon; no other will do for Missionary day so well as the one the law commands you to observe and the one a large majority of your loyal brethren will observe.

FRIDAY, 18th inst., Bishop Campbell started out on a jaunt, to be absent till about May 1st, when he expects to visit the West Indies. He will in his Western tour spend some time in his district, especially so far as to include Southern Ohio and Southern Indiana, and some other sections. He will stop at Delaware, Urbana, Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton, possibly Cincinnati, in Ohio; and Richmond, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Princeton, Bloomington, Jeffersonville, New Albany and other places in Indiana. The Bishop expects to attend the literary convention in Nashville, 23 inst.

DR. ARNETT has declared himself not a candidate for re-election to the Ohio House of Representatives. The following is from the Xenia Gazette:

It is more than probable that he will be made a Bishop of the Church which is to greater distinction than to hold a place in the legislature.

If the Dr. has not succeeded in satisfying everybody by his course in the House he has at least made considerable reputation as a able and eloquent speaker and a great champion of his race.

It would seem that he has proven by no means a small champion of your own race, Mr. Chew. Former representatives have left them in the ludicrous position in which the white laws placed them many years. Arnett helped to release them. Surely the annulling of those silly laws reflects very favorably upon the Ohio Legislature. Yes, but the same Bishop expects to receive the literary from Green is responsible for it.

THE PHILADELPHIA ENDO, a busy and breezy little paper, thinks it a shame that our children do not get more from our Bishops and other leaders through the Child's Recorder. As to the Bishops, please inside the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, Brother Caldwell. How much good we are losing by the silence of their voice cannot be measured even by mind can know. It is true, we get Bishop Wayman's "Notes by the Way," which are interesting to many, but just think of the vast stock of anecdotes and stories of scenes that our beloved father has of every age this same good Bishop could give our readers; the moral lessons and instruction in the methods of domestic and common life he could give us. So we might easily go on in every one of our chief pastors. We do not hesitate to repeat, it is a shame that we cannot have something from at least one of them twice a month. We take advantage of this opportunity to beg them to come to the rescue of our youth and the counsel of our men and women through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

BROTHER RIDGEL is on the right track. Follow it up, brother. Though some of our good brethren ridicule the idea, we must do much more so black men and observe much more than black men have done before we become respected. Brother Ridgel is mistaken, however, in advising that we read only African Methodist literature or even literature created by colored men. This seeking us to shut out the light as it comes to the day and despise the light. Get the light, brethren. Never mind the color of the skin of the man who kindled it. Get the light. Those persons who advise that colored men's self-search, slipped from the "Bad-get." We cannot spread it out what we should like to give our readers concerning one of the men of our race, who has, by dint of good judgment, good morals and good application, reached a place in society where he has so great an influence for good.

AFTER Missionary day in ster next comes the sending forth to Africa. Indeed, Ind., the home of Secretary Townsend. The rallying cry now is $10,000 for Africa. After April 10th the old war cry will be in place, "On to Richmond," that Dr. Townsend, with Bishop Campbell, may, early in May, move on to the West Indies and forward money and a helper or two on to Africa.

WHAT if it is a show advertisement—Barnum's explanation of his unwillingness to be prohibition candidate for president of the United States, even though sure of election! The moral is fine. He says he would not forego the pleasure of educating the world, especially the boys and girls, for the blessing and brilliant office. For more than fifty years he has been America's great showman.

MR. BEECHER was a friend to the oppressed: as such he was a friend to colored Americans During the anti-slavery siege he brought a mighty influence to the aid of freedom. In the earlier stage of our freedom he rendered considerable service to the settlement of the new relation which threatened the three classes: the freed, the freers and the losers. A man of large heart, he never seemed to quite abandon the freedmen's cause, but did seem to become somewhat indifferent to it.

DON'T BE ill, brother—have a rally, quarterly meeting, jubilee, stewards' day, trustees' day or gleaning day on April 10th. That is the day fixed as such centuries before you entered your work; it is also Missionary day, so fixed by the General Conference three years ago. No other day will do for Easter day so well as the day the fathers settled upon; no other will do for Missionary day so well as the one the law commands you to observe and the one a large majority of your loyal brethren will observe.

FRIDAY, 18th inst., Bishop Campbell started out on a jaunt, to be absent till about May 1st, when he expects to visit the West Indies. He will in his Western tour spend some time in his district, especially so far as to include Southern Ohio and Southern Indiana, and some other sections. He will stop at Delaware, Urbana, Springfield, Dayton, Hamilton, possibly Cincinnati, in Ohio; and Richmond, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Vincennes, Princeton, Bloomington, Jeffersonville, New Albany and other places in Indiana. The Bishop expects to attend the literary convention in Nashville, 23 inst.

DR. ARNETT has declared himself not a candidate for re-election to the Ohio House of Representatives. The following is from the Xenia Gazette:

It is more than probable that he will be made a Bishop of the Church which is to greater distinction than to hold a place in the legislature.

If the Dr. has not succeeded in satisfying everybody by his course in the House he has at least made considerable reputation as a able and eloquent speaker and a great champion of his race.

It would seem that he has proven by no means a small champion of your own race, Mr. Chew. Former representatives have left them in the ludicrous position in which the white laws placed them many years. Arnett helped to release them. Surely the annulling of those silly laws reflects very favorably upon the Ohio Legislature. Yes, but the same Bishop expects to receive the literary from Green is responsible for it.

is greatest preacher, seconded by the pop.list, not the critical, opinion. For nearly fifty years Mr. Beecher has held the position of pastor in this country. In the midst of his peculiar and especial duties as pastor, he has been a vigorous writer, politician, lecturer and editor. In these positions he pronounced clear, asterisms and opinions, very often differing from those of the masses, have pleased he life in a crucible seven times as hot as that in which most men are tried. As a preacher he has ever been special, tive, original and independent, if not rash. This has brought many enemies against him. As a politician he has been bold, out-spoken and agressive. He has been a friend to the strong in the interest of the weak. He has been a friend to the weak in the interest of the strong. He has stood by the weight of the argument. Some one light is thrown by William F. Carne on this much studied subject, the boyhood of Washington; while "Paul and Micah! Is Aleho" is a characteristic story of a comparative unknown who became a national hero. There is a folk "Dog Story" by Oliver Ellsworth Wells, a blithe bird story by Frank Bellew, and other stories, including chapters of "Joan and Juanita" by Frances Courtenay Baylor, and "Scout's Boarding-house" by James Otis. Mr. Wesley Wilson and John Vance Cheney contribute poems. Under "Topics of the Time" Mr. Edward Everett Hale has another study of Brownies; and under "Science in Common Things" there are some more than the usual quota of pictures and jingles.

OUR WEST INDIA MISSIONS.

BY REV. N. B. STEWART.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CHRISTIAN RECORDER:

SIR—While reading your valuable journal—sent to me by Rev. Hadley, 30th December, 1886—I observed certain reports of our Church work in various parts of the terra firma. I interrogated, why do not the reports of our West Indian and the Guianese work be reported as those places which are shown to be established? Is it because the missionaries are willing that the world should not be aware of what we are doing in the West Indies? Is Bishop Dogget not aware of the work; when the presiding elder comes along it is the duty of the missionary to report. Rev. Mr. Lee, my friend and meet him, walk on him or he will be offended, and so on, these his boots for him or have them done by some kind wife. The people come to the ministry for nothing save to please the minister, and a pastor say with reference to his presiding elder, "I am going to see him," so? But judgment day is coming so I will not say what I will say. Rev. Mr. Walch is our midst and assure him that his efforts for improvement and progress will be supported by this paper.—Southern Leader.

Literature.

Another installment of Jefferson's unpublished letters to William Short is given in the March number of the Southern Bivouac, and addresses are lines and paragraphs that let us to light on the personal life of Mr. Jefferson and the condition of the people at that time.

The March number of the Century opens with a finely executed engraving of Edwin M Stanton, frontispiece. Mr. Gabley's "Grande Pointe," illustrated. The continuation of Abraham Lincoln, by John G Nicholay and John Hay, with pictures, and letters are lines and passages

LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 1, 1887.

Officers and Members of the Connectional Literary, Historic and Educational Association of the A. M. E. Church:

For several years we have omitted calling an annual convention, for the reason that it was rather a new enterprise. Then the Bishops in council were empowered to act in the absence of the convention, which they have generally done, thereby allowing more time for the establishment of sub-associations, and, at the same time, saving traveling expenses, which, in some instances, was very great on the blood people. We have been frequently chided for not assembling the connectional convention; but to be a success in the highest sort of wisdom to wait until organizations existed in all parts of the nation. Now, as that time has arrived and important business demands the attention of the said convention, we do hereby call the convention to meet in St. Paul A. M. E. Church, located at Nashville, Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, at one o'clock P. M. Delegates to said convention shall consist of all the connectional officers, one delegate elected from each literary society in existence at the time of every presiding elder who has complied with the provisions of the law touching his duties toward the association. The delegates who may be present and elected, but are members by merit. We recommend that the associations elect delegates by ballot in full. Following are the connectional officers: President, Bishop B. A. Payne, D.D., LL.D., Augusta, Ga.; Vice-President, Rev. P. Campbell, D.D., LL.D.; J. A. Shorter, T. M. D. Ward, D.D., J. M. Brown, D.D., LL.D., Rev. Richard Carey, D.D., Dismas.

Bishopcal District Presidents: First District, Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D., Second District, Rev. W. H. Hunter, D.D.; Third District, Rev. J. C. Embry, Ph.D.; Fourth District, Rev. C. S. Smith, D.D.; Fifth District, Rev. Benjamin W. Arnett, D.D., Wilberforce, Ohio.

Board of Managers: First District, Rev. William H. Thomas; Second District, Rev. Jabez P. Thomas, D.D.; Third District, Rev. Theo. A. Thompson, D.D.; Fourth District, Rev. J. C. Owens; Fifth District, W. H. Butler, D.D.; Sixth District, Rev. L. E. Nichols; Seventh District, to be determined; Eighth District, Rev. W. H. Weathers; Ninth District, Rev. L. M. Green, A.M.

Executive Committee: Rev. J. H. A. Johnson, D.D., Rev. J. W. Beckett, D.D., Rev. John P. Turner, D.D., Upshur, Rev. J. M. Cargile, Rev. Andrew J. Morris.

We anticipate the most literary gathering that ever assembled in our connectional interest. While his name has been may all not accessibly be members of the church, we shall expect all who can to write and bring an essay upon some subject, more looking to the interest of the society or the advancement of the race. We will not name the subjects, but will suggest as have taken the prizes in their respective conferences can bring or send their essays to the convention to be examined for the connectional medal. While Rev. T. B. Caldwell, pastor of St. Paul, assisted by Revs. Bedford Green, Nathan Mitchem, Dr. A. Thornily, etc., will provide places for the delegates, we hope each delegate will come prepared to take care of himself if necessary. Those expecting to be present would do well to drop one of the pastors above named a postal card. Literary visitors who are not members will receive a cordial welcome.

B. M. TURNER, President.

SUPPLEMENT TO THE CALL FOR THE LITERARY CONVENTION.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1st, 1887.

Whereas several communications have been sent to me, asking a variety of questions about the Literary Convention to be held at Nashville Tenn., March 23rd, 1887, I propose to reply as briefly as I can to be understood.

1. Yes, all of the connectional officers named in the call must be present, unless they are sick.

2. Yes, all of the Presiding Elders are members of the convention, by virtue of their office.

3. Yes, Nashville can take care of five hundred or a thousand if they chose to come, and we are preparing to make the occasion the grandest in the history of the race.

4. No, membership to the convention is not limited to membership of our Church. They may be members of other churches or be of no church, but must be members of our connectional literary association.

5. I don't know whether the convention will confer any honorary titles or degrees or not. I have never voted for it. What is it it it does? Men who merit titles ought to have them, but it is a shame for those who have no titles to be hounding those who have. I think the convention will provide for conferring some kind of titles or degrees.

6. Yes, but I have left the programmes with Dr. Arnett to arrange, which he will do, yet the convention will give its own orders as to any change or modification it may chose to make. This will be the legislative body of our connectional association.

7. That very thing is provided for. Geo. T. Morris Chester will be there to write down every word uttered as fast as they fall from the lips.

8. No, there was no intention to ignore the Tenth Episcopal District, and in the name of the Connectional officers of the association, I most respectfully invite Rev. A. Johnson, Hamilton, Ont; Rev. J. O'Banyon, Amherstburg, Ont.; Rev. C. W. Dorsey, Hamilton, Bermuda, Rev. Charles H. Shean, Trinidad, B. W. I.; Rev. H. Miller, St. Thomas, Danish W. I.; Rev. W. H. Crosby, Halifax N. S., and such others as may come as delegates from their respective associations.

9. I am also asked who will be at the convention. My answer is, the brains of our church; not all, but a preponderous portion.

B. M. TURNER, President.

are very uncertain property; for every payday mine a hundred exist that do not pay. But if you write to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, you will receive, free, full particulars about their business, and learn how some have made over $50 in a single day at it. You can live at home, and earn from $5 to $20 and upwards per day wherever you are located. Both sexes; all ages. Capital not required; you are started free. Send your address, and all will be proved to you.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. In All Complaints

Of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver, and Kidneys, Ayer's Pills are taken with excellent results. Being purely vegetable, they have no ill effects, and may be safely administered to any one, old or young, in need of an aperient and cathartic. Physicians, all over the country, prescribe Ayer's Pills and recommend them as a good Family Medicine.

"If people would use Ayer's Pills," says C. Gilbert, the genial host of Franklin, Ind., "of course, we poo direct, very few would suffer serious sickness. Our people usually prefer a dose of medicine to the liver and from the stomach, and when all other remedies and the best physicians fail."

CURE FOR THE DEAF

Invisible Tubular Ear Cushions. Whispers heard. Successful when all remedies fail. Write for book of proofs. F. HISCOX, 853 Broadway, New York.

CONSUMPTION

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Restores Color and Beauty to Gray Hair. Promotes a Luxuriant Growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Cures scalp diseases & hair falling. 50c. & $1 at Druggists.

I CURE FITS!

When I say cure I do not mean merely to stop them for a time and then have them return again. I mean a radical cure. I have made the disease of FITS, EPILEPSY or FALLING SICKNESS a life-long study. I warrant my remedy to cure the worst cases. Because others have failed is no reason for not now receiving a cure. Send at once for a treatise and a free bottle of my infallible remedy. Give Express and Post Office. It costs you nothing for a trial, and I will cure you. Address DR. H. G. ROOT, 183 Pearl St., New York.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full SIX months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. G. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of the highest grade of strength and purity."—Prof. CHARLES E. DETMERS, Ph.D., late Chemist Department of Agriculture.

"It is a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. "H. A. MOTT, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it perfect in purity and strength. I pronounce it the best baking powder I have ever tested."—ISAAC MAYER, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology.

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. I found it to be of the high It is composed of pure and wholesome ingredients."—S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award ever all competitors at the Vienna (1873), Philadelphia (1876), Paris (1878), Sydney (1879), Melbourne (1880), American Institute, New York, and at Santa Fe, throughout the country.

Royal Baking Powder is sold in all large cities. Its superiority and unequaled excellence have created numerous imitations, many spurious, scientific, and frauds of health and deserve the severest condemnation.

NOTE—The above Diagram illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by the Scientific Analysis and Reports made by Prof. Horsford. A pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Horsford is the only process which ever received the approval of the Powder Trust, whose leavening power is practical experience. But, while it reads a few cents per pound more than other powders, it is far more economical, and, hence, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair minded person of these facts.

"Science discovers some of the plain products to be of a higher degree of strength than other products ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that the latter are worthless. Many valuable products, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

Dr. E. V. WRIGHT, Saratoga Springs, N. Y. says: "I have used it for years, and my experience has proved beyond question that the peculiar combination of phosphatine renders it most valuable in the treatment of digestive disorders."

Scene in a menagerie.—Lion tamer. "Hallish, have comas my whit Let me get into a place of safety!" (jumps into the cage).

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, Catarrh, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. Lawrence, 212 East 9th St., New York, will receive the recipe free.

At Sidney, on island in the South Pacific, girls are kept shut up till they are married. If an island can be discovered where girls are made to shut up after marriage, it would probably be colonized in a hurry.

NEW BOOKS

that will be on sale by the Manager throughout the coming year:

"Fifty Years and Beyond; or, Old Age and How to Enjoy It." A book of unalienable value, as well as interest to all who have passed the meridian of life. 400 pages, cloth, $1.00, same in gilt edges, $1.25.

"Studies in Genesis; or, Bible Views of the Creation in its Relation to Modern Science," by the Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D., and containing an important chapter on "Christian Evidences," by Bishop Campbell. This is an intensely interesting book, especially to preachers, old or young. It will contain about 350 pages, 12mo. on clear beautiful paper, and sold at the low rate of $1.25. The work is now in press under our own imprint. Orders, $7.50, mailing 10cts. extra.

"Bible Heroes; or, Stories from the Old Testament for Little Folks." Judging by my own children, no parent who would have his children imbued with the Scripture spirit of Bible characters, could buy a better book. Our children devoured it at once. Price only 50 cents; by mail, 55 cents; registered, 65 cents.

Rev. J. E. Webb has published an excellent Record Book for church trustees, with blanks for everything pertaining to their reports and business meetings. It is well printed and well arranged. We have seen nothing like it, nor half so convenient. The book is arranged for four years. It is just the thing to aid in making correct records. For sale at our Publishing House. Price, $1.50.

Orders for each or all of these works may be sent to us at once. Cash orders only.

WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY.

The school will open Wednesday, September 7th, 1886. The university is situated three and one-half miles from Xenia, on the Pennsylvania and three-fourths of a mile from Flower's Station, on the Little Miami Railroad. It is the property of the colored people, and has been conducted for a few years rendered beneficial to them. Our aim is to make it a first-class institution, and to make it the best institution in the land. Our terms are as low as the best of the kind. We have a fine farm, over a mile and we intend to employ two well-qualified teachers to teach agriculture. For further information address,

The Great Success

Of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is due to the fact that it meets the wants of the people, being economical to use and always reliable and effective. Its ingredients are the best, and their combination the result of profound study and skill. Thus, for all diseases originating in impure blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla stands unrivaled.

"As a blood-purifier and general tonic no medicine has ever had a better record than Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

—Dr. Martin A. Gough, Matron of the M. E. Seminary, Yilton, N. H., writes: "Every winter, and spring my health, including myself, use several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Its experience has convinced me that, as a powerful blood purifier, it is superior to any other preparation of Sarsaparilla."

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives better satisfaction than our other blood medicine I handle."—Geo. W. Whitman, Druggist, Albany, Indiana.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

sooth a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and you need write no more letters for 60 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorised to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipts for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will set for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 31, 1887.

THE MOSES BROWN CHURCH, Philadelphia, will give a grand concert and exhibition April 28th.

MISSIONARY DAY, not missionary hour, Sunday a week. The whole day. The whole of each service; not the gleaners' collection.

MISS HAGIE TANNER, daughter of the editor of the RECORDER, had the sad misfortune to break her arm last Friday. She bore the setting heroically.

LAST YEAR some of our exchanges charged it upon certain Ohio colored men that they were treating off the blue S-whita law bill for the Wilberforce appropriation bill, but both are now laws.

IT WOULD enhance our missionary returns greatly to speak strongly of the necessity of pushing the Christian cause forward next Sunday, thus preparing the masses for their doig the Sunday following.

ONE WEEK from next Sunday is Missionary Day. It will be Missionary Day throughout the entire connection; at least so far as the spirit of enterprise, Christian enthusiasm and denominational loyalty is large and active.

THE WAVE of Recorder Trotter's sickness is very sad. We have regarded his appointment with pleasure and hoped he might serve his race and his government altogether satisfactorily. His life has long since had a wide bearing in the economy. It is not the office regulating the man, but the man magnifying the office.

THE MISSIONARY GEM contains the usual programmes, suggestions and Scripture selections. We think there is no doubt that the word Jesus in the first line of "Christ's Mission" should be Jesus. We observed it in the present form last year. The Gem reaches the point at which it aims so far as appearance goes. We hope it will reach the financial point, $10,000.

WHAT is a good sermon? A hundred replies are given, the best of which is, that a good sermon is a gospel sermon. Then comes the inquiry, what is a gospel sermon? Many replies come to this query also. A gospel sermon is characterized especially by "the truth as it is in Christ Jesus" as the all agree, but this fact has a great scope. No other truth is more extensive than that seared truth.

ALREADY the Ohio colored teachers are nestling about for something else to do. They should be brave, strong, normal and regular in presenting themselves to their respective Boards for reappointment. Not all would fail. But why is no doubt that by different possible arrangements some will be recomplayed. If they are not, Ohio will cover her glory in ousting out the blackwhite laws, by casting out some excellent teachship force upon the very principle upon which those foolish laws had been maintained.

THE GENERAL BUSINESS MANAGER has determined to do a big business in April. The opportunity must be used by the ministry and laity. But he has made a great opportunity for them. Is it more than fair that the favor should receive due recognition? It will pay conference book stewards to stock up largely. There are two hundred thousand hymn books needed in the Church Militant and fill in an important duty if they do not so advise and arrange that two thousand, one out of a hundred needed, be bought in April.

As we thought possible last week, so Wilberforce has gained the appropriation of $10,00 by the Ohio Legislature. Thanks to the legislature. Thanks to the people of Ohio for electing three colored representatives in one year—an unprecedented act among Northern States. Thanks to God for impressing the hearts of legislators and to President Mitchell for his importunate persistancy in pushing his cause. North Carolina, Missouri and Ohio have made special arrangements this year to aid colored youths to obtain higher education.

MANY of our best writers are cutting down their papers for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, but there are still some who are long-winded. The short writers will in the long run say the more. Don't send us any more, please; especially those that are of more than ordinary character. Don't send us funeral sermons; because they made a good impression upon the audience when delivered; when our readers peruse the CHRISTIAN RECORDER their surroundings are very different from those of your auditors and you are far away. We have enough sermons on hand to last two years. The paper has a very different field from the pulpit. The two should be largely characterized by a complimentary and supplementary relationship, not a sameness. A well sounding sermon usually fails to make a well reading composition.

CONSTITUENCY.

You have the world with you, shall? But what is the world? Who is the world? How often vein man cherishes with self-congratulation because he has the approbation of a large constituency, but afterwards sloths into a state of despair because the world has forsaken him. Among the world's greatest bewilderments are examples of persons once in the highest chambers of human confidence and following. It is one of the greatest blunders of which men are capable that they follow this popular delusion to its fatal end. Only a very few men live great and die great in the general mind. There are combinations in large constituencies of merit, the full and constant control of which can be acquired by few men. The rule is that one of said sub-combinations will eventually gain the mastery over the general constituency, its character varieties becoming the cardinal principles of the whole. The voice of the people is not nearly the voice of God. The support of the people is as nothing compared with God's support; the support of consel nee and reason, as that of a large constituency labors to conquer success by laws that appear to be right and to tend to success, God employs methods that have long since stood this test.

THE CONFERENCE WILL HARDLY DO IT.

The General Conference of the A. M. E. Church would see to it that the case of Rev. Moses Hogarth the Haytian Government is thoroughly investigated. Mr. Langston also says the citizen—made so by birth, naturally, but compromised for $10,000. The Haytian Government is not to be trifled with. Time of war is the poet, ordered there to reforce the order. The A. M. E. Church can never hope in have any future success in Hayti unless the matter is properly adjusted. We have it from reliable authority that the citizen has been very fair in dismissing Rev. Mr. Mossell having not taken such precaution as the Constitutional statute of Haytian law having enforced to be satisfied with the punishment of any political offender. Hence the Haytian Government offered to listen for his satisfaction.—New York Freeman.

The Haytian Government is very fair in dismissing Rev. Mr. Mossell having not taken such precaution as the Constitutional statute of Haytian law having enforced to be satisfied with the punishment of any political offender. Hence the Haytian Government offered to listen for his satisfaction.—New York Freeman.

This is the general impression. We feel that the Rev. C. W. Mossell was very poorly paid for what his exposure to the unfortunate civil irregularities in Hayti cost him. The Freeman will not

"CAN ANY GOOD THING COME FROM NAZARETH?"

BY REV. DANIEL P. BROWN.

The ancient prejudice which dictated the above question, though as expressive of incorrect conclusions, calls attention to a law long since recognized by thinkers, and which is exerting a powerful and much influence in determining character.

The spirit is in accord with the usual order of things to behold virtue and in its effect purity from the hands of pure and ingenuous Any man would be surprised to find a Bryant, a Webster or a Clay coming from the low savagery of Africa. Ignorance and vice bear their fruits. Child is reared by ignorant, senseless, depraved parents and, having in his breast the germs of hereditary influence, it is but natural to expect to find it low and vicious when matured. It is proper for us to ask concerning a man: what is his origin, what his parentage? Not only does such individual possess hereditary qualities, but also the social influences by early environments clings to him. True, "Honor" stems from no condition rise." Both are dependent upon environmental living; but that is limited or greatly controlled by previous conditions. America is prone to lodging exaggerated and delusive notions, and such are inspired by her vulgar democratic conditions.

The immortal affirmation "All men are born free and equal" is frequently misunderstood and erroneously construed. Many of the best of our foreign born are looked to be satisfied with the position of a citizen. Many a gentleman having refused to be satisfied with the position of a citizen. Many a gentleman having refused to be satisfied with the position of a citizen. Many a gentleman having refused

CURED OF DRINKING.

"A young friend of mine was cured of an insatiable thirst for liquor that had so prostrated his system that he was unable to do any business. He was entirely cured by the use of Hop Bitters. It effected a perfect and lasting thirst, and built up the appetite for liquor; made his nerves steady; and he has remained a steady and sober man for more than two years, and has no desire to return to his cups, and I know of a number of others that have been cured of drinking by it."—Tenth Owner's leading R. Three brothers, Spencer, Alexander and James, left Lynchburg, Va., for Louisa, Ross and Ann. The entire family were driven to the woods for shelter. My brother Spencer was killed by the falling of a tree. My mother was sold into Manchester, Va., by Albert Trexler, to whom she had her son heir through her marriage to Rice Allen. I will send from my stolen North all City Point, Va., abortive works after Lee's surrender; have not seen any of them since. Any information sent to Rev. L. J. Coppin will be thankfully received. Address, Rev. L. J. Coppin, 1803 Fitzwater street, Philadelphia, Pa.

INFORMATION WANTED OF MY SISter, Mary Ann Brown, who was sold in New Orleans in May, 1860, and was then sent to Tennessee. She was sold to Mr. Jesse Hall, a man named Bedford Seamour. Any information of them will be gladly received by her brother, Rev. A. E. Hudson, Lexington, Mo.

INFORMATION WANTED OF MY BROthers, Alfred and Bill Cawood, who were sold South before the war by Bob and Sarah Hicks, owners of the name of Bill Hicks, to whom estate we belonged in London county, Va. He resided then in the towns of Paris and Upperville. Our father's name was Sarah Cawood. William and John Isaiah Hickabaud ten years ago inquiring for his people. Any information of the above named persons will be gladly received by their sister, Mrs. Ann Eliza Holmes, No. 86 Alley 15, Wheeling, West Virginia.

IMPORTANT INQUIRY.—I, HENRY Wood, of Philadelphia, Pa., a member of Allen A. M. E. Chapel, Island Avenue, pay a visit to my original home and I desire to find my people, from whom I was forcibly separated since the war. I was born in Appomattox Co., Va., near where General Lee surrendered. My father's name was Wm. Flood; my mother's name Sarah Ann. CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility, and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noyes, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To the Editor:—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above named disease; by its timely use thousands of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy Free to any of your readers who have consumption, if they will send me their express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

Dr. T. A. Slocum, 37 Pearl st. New York.

A violent cough continued through the night, and Mrs. Partington remarked that with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar Wonderful relief and undisturbed rest would be the result. Sold by druggists, 25c., 50c., and $1.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the Christian Recorder. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the Recorder:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the Recorder, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their subscriptions for (50 cents), and give their receipts for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

NEW BOOKS

that will be on sale by the Manager throughout the ensuing year:

"Fifty Years and Beyond; or, Old Ages and How to Enjoy It." A book of inestimable value, as well as interest to all who have passed the meridian of life. 400 pages, cloth, $1.00, same in gilt edges, $1.50.

"Studies in Genesis; or, Bible Views of the Creation in its Relation to Modern Science." By the Rev. T. G. Steward, D.D., and containing an important chapter on "Christian Evidences," by Bishop Campbell. This is an intensely interesting book, especially to preachers, old or young. It will contain about 250 pages, 12mo. on clear beautiful paper, and sold at the low rate of $1.25. The work is now in press under our own imprint. Orders, $1.25, mailing 10cts. extra.

"Bibia Heroes; or, Stories from the Old Testament for Little Folks." Judged by my own children, no parent who would have his children imbued with the heroic spirit of Bible characters, should buy a better book. Our children devoured it at once. Price only 50 cents; by mail, 58 cents; registered 65 cents.

Rev. J. E. Wahl has published an excellent Record Book for Church trustees, with blanks for everything pertaining to their reports and business meetings. It is well bound and well arranged. We have never seen nothing like it, nor half so convenient. The book is arranged for four years. It is just the thing to aid in making correct records. For sale at our Publishing House. Price, $1.50.

Orders for each or all of these works may be sent to us at once. Cash orders only.

WITH A BOTTLE

Of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral at hand, one may feel comparatively secure against the various diseases arising from sudden changes of temperature, exposure to drafts and storms, and the inclemencies of spring and fall. "Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, and Kindred diseases, there are none, within the range of my experience and observation, so as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral." writes Thos. O. Edwards, M. D., of Monroe, Texas.

George W. Dick, of Newton, Mass., says: "Two years ago I took a severe cold, which, being neglected, was followed by a terrible cough. I lost flesh rapidly, had night sweats, and was confined to my bed. A friend advised the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I began to take this medicine, and, before finishing the first bottle, was able to sit up. Five bottles effected a perfect cure."

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 7, 1887.

NO, BRETHREN, we cannot do your donning though the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, neither for Florida nor Wilmington. The RECORDER is not a collector.

HON. H. O. O. ASTWOOD, Consul to San Domingo, is in this country. He was in our city on business last week. Mr. Astwood has proven a very satisfactory representative of our government abroad.

O. S. MAXWELL, ESQ., the successful colored lawyer of Xenia, O., for many years city clerk, is not candidate for a member of school board in his city. The Xenia Gazette justly and generously endorses his candidacy. Mr. Maxwell did a grand work in pushing the Wilberforce appropriation through the minds of the Ohio legislators. Mr. Maxwell is a staunch African Methodist.

DID EVERY Wilberforce alumnus and trustee read President Mitchell's appeal in our last number? Will every one act in keeping with his request? Individual results may be small, but these are many of us. The president reports $300 raised by himself. Rev. Mevs, of Hoyti, sent in $100. At this rate our alumni would send in next June several thousands. The enterprise is worth noble efforts.

EDUCATION is never complete until it reaches the religious and moral nature. The conversion of seventy young persons at Tuskegee College is as serviceable to the world as would be the graduation of many hundreds. Indeed, comparison is out of the question. Those seventy are prepared to join hands with the world's best instructors in controlling the appetites and strengthening them for their normal service.

WE MADE a very pleasant visit to pastor C. E. Herbert and his church at Chester on last Sabbath. We were very agreeably impressed by what we saw. The church seems to be in a flourishing condition, and, of course, the pastor is happy. There, as everywhere we go, the work of preparing for conference is pushed with zeal. If we are not greatly mistaken, Chester will hold a prued place in the reports.

SECRETARY TOWNSEND wishes us to call the attention of the ministry to the necessity of sending the minutes of conference in at once, Monday. He spents exceptional promptness on this point this year; as our missionaries must be waited on immediately. Besides this the Secretary wishes to settle up the results of the day immediately. He wants the TEN THOUSAND in hand next week. It will require earnest and especial action of each minister to secure this to him.

IT IS A real big way that the real big men of African Methodism in Texas does things. Whether making a plea before the Governor in behalf of his unfortunate people, directing a benevolent man in the proper way to dispose of his wealth to bless his race most, directing sinners to escape the wrath to come, looking after educational interests or dealing with the lash in the hands of rum to throttle the whiskey power in his State, Rev. A. Grant shows up a noble, manly soul.

MR. CYRUS VENA, one of the most prosperous of Xenia's (Ohio) citizens, will leave that place in a few days for Los Angeles, Cal., taking his family for permanent residence there. Mr. Vena is a member of the A. M. E. Church. We commend him to our brethren of the Pacific Coast as a first-class manin character, a far-sighted man and fervent Christian. Despite the fact that our home is no longer in the neighborhood of Xenia, we feel that, personally, we were losing friends, being well acquainted with Brother Vena's family.

"SCHOOLS for Colored Men" is the subject of a recent paper in the New York Sun of Sunday, March 27th, by Mr. J. A. Arseker, the colored tragedian and editor of the New York Rotorpine. He justly gives the schools in the African Methodist Church the first place in time among colored colleges; Union Seminary, out of which Wilberforce as a college in our connection sprang into existence in 1847, just forty years ago. The Fisk University, Howard University, Atlanta University, Virginia's Union University and the Tuskegee Normal all have a place in this well prepared paper. Mr. Arnesax comes in for a good share of praise for this enterprise, as well as of commendation for the loss of the Enterprise, his own newspaper.

IN THE Bercen Sunday School Journal of the January issue and the March issue, the question is raised as to whether the negro is a descendant of Ham. The Rev. Dr. B. T. Tanner, editor of the A. M. E. Quarterly Review, read an able paper before the Preachers' Meeting, Monday, 28th ult., dealing with the journal's statement. It is well known that science has been a long while bettering sawy et Dihlloi truths; now it seems to have entered not the pulpit only, but also the Sunday school.

Some of the largest societies in our connection ignore our own lesson system, persistently and unreasonably sticking to others; not because they are cheaper nor because better adapted to the wants of our people, but because they are cheaper nor because better adapted to the wants than those published by our own Sunday School Union in Nashville, Tenn., nor because these schools are better informed than the average; then why is it? It is high time all our schools had come to the support of their own departments. It may be that science will dethrone the Bible, but we are not prepared to believe it.

LAST FALL, while the editor was traveling, an article was published in the RECORDER in response to a paper written by Rev. J. T. Simmons and published in the October A. M. E. Review. Dr. Simmons sent his reply to early. Knowing that one reply would lead to another and having for many years believed that religion should not constitute a war field for Christians, we determined not to publish Dr. Simmons' reply. After due consideration, the argument of the former paper having been a personal character, we concluded it no more than justice to Brother Simmons that he have an opportunity to reply. Hence the reply appears in this issue. Much could be said in response to the Doctor's article, but unfortunately, so much of the paper to which it is a reply was written in a style that cannot be supported well. He was not critical nor careful in his statements. Dr. Simmons' reply is directed to statements as made by Brother Burkdale. As a matter of fact, Methodists like to go right along with Hapkins to the pile of lexicons and they always come away quite as well satisfied and quite as well supported. This whole topic has been discussed much more extensively than it will be again, in all probability. Methodists and Baptists have the right to investigate as they please to it, but thousands on either side cross to the other, on good record and denominational passports We Methodists and Baptists are both old enough to accomplished better results than can be shown.

NEXT SUNDAY is Easter. With all the tendency to measure up the scriptures by the line of modern science, the great fact of resurrection loses absolutely nothing in attractiveness. The probability is that never in the past did the anniversary day of the Lord's rising from the dead receive so large attention as in the past ten years. Denominations that formerly passed over the day unceremoniously, or indifferently, now show their appreciation of the glorious idea in "he is risen indeed," that many of their churches are dressed in flowers and their little folks are taught the great resurrection doctrine about and concentering in the Lord's resurrection with joy and song.

IT is well that men's hearts are sometimes overcome and dominated by evil, character or sin. Sunday School Union. Why do we tarry around the cross till this late day? Why visit the tomb? Why still connect the great act of conquest of the grave with the season of each year when nature is laying of her somber shades and putting on her beautiful garments? Simply because we cannot help it. Religion is in our natures; it is in our hearts, the power of the resurrection and the life is pressing around us. Circumstances coincided as of our own approach to the tomb and hope points us to the resurrected Jesus Then bring flowers and songs, prayer and praise, joy and love, truth and devotion—by them all at the feet of him who has gained the victory over death and given to us the power of everlasting life.

The "frequent rallies" attending most of our work are bad in effect. They tend to unsettling regular systems of church support and train the people as well as the preacher to depend upon them. There are probably many churches now waiting, for the camp meetings of the Pacific Coast as a first-class method of gathering in a far-sighted man and fervent Christian. Despite the fact that our home is no longer in the neighborhood of Xenia, we feel that, personally, we were losing friends, being well acquainted with Brother Vena's family.

The "frequent rallies" attending most of our work are bad in effect. They tend to unsettling regular systems of church support and train the people as well as the preacher to depend upon them. There are probably many churches now waiting, for the camp meetings of the Pacific Coast as a first-class method of gathering in their rallies to pay what might really be paid between now and camp meeting time by systematic giving. Much of our training with reference to general work is seriously injurious to true growth. Almost everything of this character is deferred till the day, or near the day, appointed for the collections by too many churches. Local missionary societies exist in too few churches. Hundreds of ministers have no organized missionary work. Their collections for missions are near the end of the conference year; sometimes regularly, but frequently the moneys for missions, conference contingencies and education, with other interest, occasionally Dollar Money, are taken in a lump, just before going to conference and divided arbitrarily by officers and pastors. Sometimes even a part of the pastor's salary comes out of this fund. It is possibly true that there is as much money raised as by regular system, yet it is hardly probable. The method is no truer to law than it is to the interest of people and pastor. Of course it is not in any matter to exchange from this to a better system; for the people, overstrained by their efforts to send their pastor to conference well prepared to report, are unable to enter upon the work of giving at once after conference. But it can be done. The year in which five-eighths of our whole church adopts it, as a few have already done, it is reasonable to believe the conference will make more progress, and complain more spiritual good and reader the church far less liable to misrepresentation. Another very wrong teaching is found in sending children and women out on the streets to beg promiscuously.

THE SONS of Multnomah Perro has the right ring Local preachers have great powers in their hands, but if they do not work hard in the way of accumulating learning and growing in grace this power will slip from them as it will under the same circumstances from the traveling preacher. The local preachers should have more work to perform than the average. They do average soon. They should have a systematic, local training under the pastor, where this is necessary, and this is nearly always. Pastors should observe closely the disciplinary requirements in regard to them into bands. Quarterly conferences should support the pastor's efforts by refusing to grant license or renewal to those preachers who object to receiving the instruction of the pastor and refuse to study. Again of the fest stated two weeks ago, that not more than one in a hundred of our local preachers take' the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We know of instances in which the pastor has to call the annual conference for admission having not taken their Church paper. An annual conference committee would do well to take cognizance of this fact. The local preacher, the local preacher, discards his Church literature, is liable to do as after he enters the traveling connection, excepting when he wishes to see his own name, thus setting the unhealthy example to the people that subscription secures the insertion of obituary is sent by them. Our local preachers must read up. They may secure some following not knowing what they are saying or proceeding in the pulpit, but let them think how much greater this following would be if they would come better qualified. It is useless to urge that this is also true respecting the traveling ministry; this goes without saying. It is well known that there are hundreds of noble exceptions in the local ministry where the local is equal to almost our best itinerants and the latter are many of them. Both must work up.

WHAT ARE YOU TEACHING?

To travel over the old fields, the fields occupied by our churches—se mens collected churches—for from fifty to one hundred years is to feel sensibly that the results of the past methods, though large, are not scripturally warranted in the philosophy of long endurance or proper growth. There are among those fields many places the progress of whose people is not superior to that of many places in that part of our country from which the children of slavery fell so recently. This is not because they have not had half respectable schools for a half century, so that two full generations have been offered their advantages, not because they could not have read the better books and improved their character as a result, but they have been shut up in their own selfishness and narrowness; in no other respect more than many of the songs they have sung, methods of collecting money, conducting service and training up in the physical feats of religion. Of course this is an abnormal term, physical feats of religion. We refer to the geographical feats, the literature of religion and the exercise of religion in its forms. Respecting all this our false notice that we must continue to do as we have been doing must be held responsible very largely. Our brethren in the States not recently released from bondage would certainly be surprised to enter many churches in the land favored with freedom for fifty years to observe their inclination to stick to old things that are perfectly unreasonable and many that are wrong. This is song especially. Our young educated brethren sometimes seem to feel that they must keep up old useless songs that never had much meaning and now have less, by loosing them as "original," selling them as from five to ten cents each, and being considered "able men."

As to our methods of conducting worship is about as good as those of other days in the main, but our methods of getting money in many cases are not at all commendable. It is, as a rule, not the people, but the preacher who is responsible for a church remaining from one-half to two-thirds as long to raise a few dollars as they had done to worship. It has a deleterious effect upon the tendency of our young people to spiritual worship, upon that of all the people to orderly worship and a proper sense of church responsibility. It necessitates the growth of false notions respecting ministerial duties and church capabilities. It reduces church management largely to a mixture of boast, jolliness, falsehood, foam and foolishness. Of course is persons to do more than they really ought to do in order to get relief from the effect of impotency. Our practice of prosecuting the idea almost every Sunday to raise ordinary sums, and considering to a congregation twenty or thirty minutes to raise from one to ten dollars, are among the chief features features that rep t very valuable items here from our connection. As ministers we can do much to educate our people into better habits—habits that will not cause us to remain weak,—but will cause us while we are growing in grace and increasing in the knowledge of the truth as it is to Jesus.

Leaving our churches to look into our Sunday schools; we find much teaching that needs changing. The old system of studying the scriptures in the order in which they occur in the Book brought very fair results from those who had very respectable attention to study. Our new system of taking our Sunday school studies, as some men select them for us, and having even questions and answers printed, is doing little good where the minister, superintendent or other person does not take the lesson in hand and teach it so that the questions and answers of the lessons shall be considered as a means to an end.

There are Sunday schools that have been over the past three months' lessons and g tten scarcely a new idea, having a very limited number of old ones, simply because they have not been taught. Teachers have read the questions from the "leaf" without study, paying little or no attention to the answers, and the superintendent has reviewed the school by reading the questions, without any preparation. When shall we ever get out of present stereotyped methods of marching! Do we intend to keep our people where our fathers left them by teaching only what they taught, and in no better way? The talk that our people will not be elevated by better methods is all a mistake. We can bring them into better methods. They are being brought into them by the thousands under others. We must do it, or our domination will be equal to our growth.

WARNING TO EXODUSTERS.

I wish to warn our people from emigrating to this part of Arkansas. There is no pascio good to run from bondage to bondage. No large farmer will hire his hands right has to boat hands it is only those for whom our old citizens will not work who go abroad for laborers. We have three of them in this county. They are slaves of the worst specie they have emigrated here. If the hands leave they will follow and bring them them put in jail. These three men always want hands

Now, my advice to all is, pay your own fare, if you do come to Arkansas; do not allow any agents to pay it for you. If you do not like the man to whom you hire at first, leave him and try another. THOUGHTS ON EASTER.

BY MRS M. B. LEE.

Again Easter, beautiful Easter, is here. No festival day, unless it be Christmas, brings such joy to Christians or to all humanity, as Easter Consideration in its two-fold nature, it is an occasion of temporal and spiritual rejoicing.

Nature, Oster, Angelo-Saxon Easter, the goddess of light and spring among the northern European nations. Their chief festival was held in honor of her, which was celebrated with many solemn sacrifices and feasts. The price it pay for the sacrifice was the eggs, so from this more spiritual good and reader the church far less liable to misrepresentation. Another very wrong teaching is found in sending children and women out on the streets to beg promiscuously.

There are among those fields many places the progress of whose people is not superior to that of many places in that part of our country from which the children of slavery fell so recently. This is not because they have not had half respectable schools for a half century, so that two full generations have been offered their advantages, not because they could not have read the better books and improved their character as a result, but they have been shut up in their own selfishness and narrowness; in no other respect more than many of the songs they have sung, methods of collecting money, conducting service and training up in the physical feats of religion. Of course this is an abnormal term, physical feats of religion. We refer to the geographical feats, the literature of religion and the exercise of religion in its forms. Respecting all this our false notice that we must continue to do as we have been doing must be held responsible very largely. Our brethren in the States not recently released from bondage would certainly be surprised to enter many churches in the land favored with freedom for fifty years to observe their inclination to stick to old things that are perfectly unreasonable and many that are wrong. This is song especially. Our young educated brethren sometimes seem to feel that they must keep up old useless songs that never had much meaning and now have less, by loosing them as "original," selling them as from five to ten cents each, and being considered "able men."

As to our methods of conducting worship is about as good as those of other days in the main, but our methods of getting money in many cases are not at all commendable. It is, as a rule, not the people, but the preacher who is responsible for a church remaining from one-half to two-thirds as long to raise a few dollars as they had done to worship. It has a deleterious effect upon the tendency of our young people to spiritual worship, upon that of all the people to orderly worship and a proper sense of church responsibility. It necessitates the growth of false notions respecting ministerial duties and church capabilities. It reduces church management largely to a mixture of boast, jolliness, falsehood, foam and foolishness. Of course is persons to do more than they really ought to do in order to get relief from the effect of impotency. Our practice of prosecuting the idea almost every Sunday to raise ordinary sums, and considering to a congregation twenty or thirty minutes to raise from one to ten dollars, are among the chief features features that rep t very valuable items here from our connection. As ministers we can do much to educate our people into better habits—habits that will not cause us to remain weak,—but will cause us while we are growing in grace and increasing in the knowledge of the truth as it is to Jesus.

Leaving our churches to look into our Sunday schools; we find much teaching that needs changing. The old system of studying the scriptures in the order in which they occur in the Book brought very fair results from those who had very respectable attention to study. Our new system of taking our Sunday school studies, as some men select them for us, and having even questions and answers printed, is doing little good where the minister, superintendent or other person does not take the lesson in hand and teach it so that the questions and answers of the lessons shall be considered as a means to an end.

There are Sunday schools that have been over the past three months' lessons and g tten scarcely a new idea, having a very limited number of old ones, simply because they have not been taught. Teachers have read the questions from the "leaf" without study, paying little or no attention to the answers, and the superintendent has reviewed the school by reading the questions, without any preparation. When shall we ever get out of present stereotyped methods of marching! Do we intend to keep our people where our fathers left them by teaching only what they taught, and in no better way? The talk that our people will not be elevated by better methods is all a mistake. We can bring them into better methods. They are being brought into them by the thousands under others. We must do it, or our domination will be equal to our growth.

—Dr. Livingstone's faithful servant, Susi, who, with Chuma, brought the body of their trusted leader half way across Africa, that it might rest in his native land, but recently been buried not by a member of the Universities' mission, but received into the church and be baptized, in memory of the noble man who first taught him what it was to be a Christian.

—Col. Robert E. Ingersoll is reported by the Interior to have ceased his war fare against God, and says that he has declared, "I have fought God long enough. I have given up fighting God." We hope that he may accept Jesus Christ as his Saviour and become a reverent worshiper of the God of the Bible, and as sincerely tell the story of the Cross as he has declared against it.

WARNING TO EXODUSTERS.

I wish to warn our people from emigrating to this part of Arkansas. There is no pascio good to run from bondage to bondage. No large farmer will hire his hands right has to boat hands it is only those for whom our old citizens will not work who go abroad for laborers. We have three of them in this county. They are slaves of the worst specie they have emigrated here. If the hands leave they will follow and bring them them put in jail. These three men always want hands

Now, my advice to all is, pay your own fare, if you do come to Arkansas; do not allow any agents to pay it for you. If you do not like the man to whom you hire at first, leave him and try another. The suffering of some of our people who has caused me many tears. Don't let your talk bind you to any one, without liberal conditions. You will have it hard enough without that burden to bear in semi-slavery. Entersting readers, read this and act accordingly.

CORRECTION OF A "RECORDER" STATEMENT.

BY REV. J. F. A. SIMON.

MR. EDITOR:—In "A sketch of Bishop A. W Wayman," Issue of Recorder, February 3rd, some mistakes are made. Bishop Wayman did together our people in Virginia, at Norfolk and Petersburg, and chapel. In particular I refer to statem's, "It was by the prompt and intelligent action of Bishop Wayman in 1863 that the Bishop Rev. M. E Church in Norfolk, Va., with $50 in money and several clearings, was added to the Baltimore Annual Conference, as M. E. Church." These are the main facts: The Bete Street M. E Church, South, Norfolk, more than 1,500 members, and Gasport Church, of 500 members, Sacramento, 50 members, were sporoached by me; I told them that the M. E. Church, the colored Bishops, of the possibility of their ministers being ordained, of the people having their own church and God under their own" Size and Sacramento to respond. My mother begged me not to leave. She literally prayed. I also remembered how haggard she looked and how her voice was choked with emotion, when I told her my poor dear mother, who had loved and cared for me from my infancy, "I will not leave you alone?"

"O, I'll send you all my money, mother," I said; 'we get pay in the army.'

"I'm not the money, my son. True, we are poor, but we are comfortable. I'm afraid of your money, my boy, are only child.'

THE VICTORY.

BY A. R. WOODEY.

All day long had the two contending armies been hotly engaged; still a long had the cannon roared and the shot and bomb-shells fallen; all day long had the drums been heard, and last the battle was over and the shout of victory shall I rally around the banner of freedom. But, comrade, will the Great Commander receive me in his army?"

"To be sure he will, my boy. He calls for volunteers. Will you enlist with him?

"I will with all my heart, comrades"

"Then, my boy, you will answer to a longer call than when you answered to here; with pride will you gaze on the Great Commander, and with shouts of victory more joyous than ever before you rave, will you rally around the blood-stained banner of Christ."

"Comrade, hand me that tattered flag." The flag was handed to the dying boy; he pressed it to his breast and in a weak and broken voice said, "With the stars and stripes upon my breast, and the sounds of victory in my ears, I go to meet my Great Commander—yes, mother dear, I'm coming, coming—"

The clarion voice had spirit had flown, his soul had gone back to the God that gave it; and he was one more soldier with the dead.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

Mrs. Zerelda G. Wallace is lecturing in Ireland for the woman suffrage amendment.

The Connecticut legislative committee has reported favorably a bill to give women school suffrage.

Miss Matilda Hollis (Colonel Allen's Wife") has written a new book, "Sonnets at Saratoga."

Mrs. Lyon in Lincoln has left $500,000 to establish a school in New York for the education of poor girls.

The Temperance in the Higher Education or Woman, at St. Petersburg, has been closed by order of the Czar.

Mrs. Rosenberg, of the Treasury Department at Washington, is one of the most successful inventors in the world. She gets $1 800 a year.

Mrs. J. T. Gilbert, of Milwaukee, has ordered to give that city a copy of Miss Anna Whitney's statue of Leif Ericson, the Norse sculptor.

Mrs. Fanny A. Howe, a woman vote, the law expressly provides that there shall be no discrimination on account of sex in the pay for any kind of work.

Jeabelle Y. Prince, of California, has been elected Grand Chief Queen, to establish a school of Domestic Science. Her people in Africa call her "Queen Jeabelle."

Miss Alice B. Jordan, who took the degree of LL D at the Yale law school last June, is the first woman admitted to practice in the Superior Court of Michigan.

The Lotheens are about to introduce into this country an order of deaconesses. Bishop Potter, of Philadelphia, has given $1,000,000 to establish a home and school for them in that city, which three deaconesses shall be employed, and a school for their education.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore, in a recent address to the students of Bates College, Lewiston, Me., took a look on a healthful body as the foundation of a vigorous mind. She maintained that health was the first requisite and the greatest enough by nature, and needed only to be developed.

Mrs. Lamadria, a charitable New York woman, has started in the lower part of the city a place where for 5 cents, where hot meals are sold for one cent. The success of the undertaking is great. She began about three months ago, and is now running nine booths within gunshot of the poorhouse.

Dr. Julia McNutt, at a recent meeting of the Iowa branch of the Association of Collegiate Alumnæ, said that 10,000 of the yearly deaths in the city of New York are of children one year old, and that the great death rate was due to the ignorance of mothers, there was not trained nurses for the babies, but many were cared for by women "sent to the Island for sixty days."

A WOMAN'S TAUT.

Mrs. Lesley, in her published recollections of Sydney Dobell, gives this instance of the elder lady's quickness of repartee:

A death had occurred in an Irish family. Everybody crowded to see the body, and there was hardly room for the mourners were sensitive and to suggest disinfectants. Among the callers was one of these Mrs Lyman sent over a plate of chloride of lime, covered with flowers, to be placed on the coffin. The lady was pleased and grateful. No one suspected the sanitary purpose.

TEARS TEACH MORE THAN BOOKS.

Among other valuable lessons learned by the people is the fact that for a very long time Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has been the favorite of liver corrections and of all disorders, being the household physician of the poor man, and the favorite prescription of physician to the rich patient, and praised by all for its wonderful power in every efficacy in all diseases of a chronic nature, as malarial poisoning; ailments of the respiratory and digestive organs, liver disease and in all cases where the blood becomes contaminated or impoverished.

CATARRH CURED.

A clergyman, after years of suffering from that loathsome disease, death and ruin, and vainly trying every known remedy, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed envelope to Dr. Lawrence, 212 East 9th St., New York, will receive the recipe free.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.
MR. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are suffering from pain and exhaustion from cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate child, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

Be Sure
To ask for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if you are in need of a Blood-purifier—the only certain and reliable remedy for impure, thin, blotched and all other impurities of the skin. As an alterative,
Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
after a trial of nearly half a century, is universally recognized as be the best ever discovered. It is agreeable to the taste, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed.
An old lady of eighty, Mrs. Mary C. Jones, of Rockport, Ind., after forty years of suffering from a frightful humor, which broke out in blotches, limit in Erysipelas and other distressing symptoms on the skin, at last began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking two bottles, she is now, she says, "as smooth and fair as ever."
Frank Jones, 262 Eighth ave., New York, writes: "I suffered from impurity of the blood, which showed itself in troublesome eruptions and scaly, pimples on my face, neck, etc. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a complete cure. I feel perfectly free from any reputed blood-purifiers without benefit."

Subscribers who fail to get their papers regularly will please notify the publishing office, the administration, republican, like its predecessor. The Mayor, Mr. Edwin H. Fitler, has the fullest confidence of the citizens. The late administration was unsatisfactory to a large majority. The present administration is the first to control the city under the new law known as the Bullitt law, according to which the chief magistrate has the appointment of which over the respective departments and who have full charge of the operatives in their departments. The Director of Public Safety is ex-Mayor Stokley, who is known as an untiring buster of dives and shums. Already he has manifested this peculiar characteristic.

WE INTEND to relieve the Book Concern from its indebtedness next fall and place it upon a good business basis. Will you aid us?

THE EASTER decorations and services in Philadelphia churches were very attractive. At the one-o'clock service into Campbell Chapel, Bethel, Allen Chapel and Mt. Pisgah. There were good speakers, sweet flowers and sweet songs.

ALABAMA orders are coming in for what is probably the lowest price hymn books ever sold at the A. M. E. Publishing House. Presiding elders are wisely seizing the opportunity to supply their district with books. That is right. One pastor in the Philadelphia Conference took fifty hymn books.

REV. JAMES MADISON, of the Missouri Conference, A. M. E. Church, delegated by his conference, recently bore fraternal greetings to the Central Mission Conference of the M. E. Church, in session at Sedalia, Mo. In his address he gave an outline statement of the material and spiritual wealth of our connection.

IN THE Young People's Musical, Social and Literary Society of Allen Chapel, Philadelphia, there is established a Richard Allen Day. The chief object is to encourage persons to save odds and ends of their moneys. The establishment is under a good system. It would be wise for fifteen hundred other churches to imitate this example.

THE people of Allen Chapel, this city, gave their pastor, Elder Coppin, an entertainment April 6th, with a purse of $10. Brother Coppin has served them three years faithfully. His works in all legitimate ways are plain and prominent. So the people think, and from the apparent signs, would be glad to have him remain another year.

THE ELECTIONS of last week made Rhode Island a democratic State, Michigan a non-republican State and Chicago and Cincinnati republican. Who can foretell the ways of politics? The labor vote played a strong hand in those elections. This shows the increased dimensions assumed by this power. It compromises capital to respect the poor as well as all men to be careful how they exercise their power.

AMONG the many hints and advice to the next General Conference might be inclined the advice to correctness in statistics. In 1880 our report on education contained a list of subjects, some of whose works had not, nor yet have, any existence. In 1884 similar incorrect statements occured relative to our schools. At least $10,000 worth of non-existing school property was included. This is foolish as it is wrong. We have no Garfield University, Ward Normal School nor Turner Academy.

WEST CHESTER, PA., has been mentioned in this paper frequently, so has its pastor, Rev. L. C. Chambers, but it is a place, and he is a man, worthy of mention. There is probably no place in this State where an equal proportion of colored men are engaged in mercantile and mechanical business for a living. There are two very good groceries kept by colored men. Elder Chambers is completing his second year's work there in the second series, he having served the place three years in a previous series. His work has been blessed in all respects.

WHY MAY not a minister be appointed to the same charge twenty-years as legally as six years in close connection? The law is as favorable to the one as to the other. The five and six years' appointments will ultimately create more trouble then they will avert. The place where time limitation ends is right where the defiance of law begins. Is it wise to step over the line? On the other side weeds grow much more rapidly than on this side. They will not require much time to gain a general compromise of this single law point and, in addition, scatter their seeds over the entire legal field of our Church.

IN ITS VERY fine illustrations and writings of "The New South" the Harper's Weekly makes showings that are encouraging to all who love humanity for its own sake and love this earth for humanity's sake. As a rule, for years, every painting of the South, "new" or old, shows that the labor is in the hands of the black race and the mind of the white race. The new South could afford to place more of its business into the mind of its black sistaens, and they can afford to get hold of it. Colored Americans of all sections must seize the vantage ground of the present in attaching themselves to large business interests.

ON THE 4th inst, Philadelphia passed into the hands of a new municipal administration, republican, like its predecessor. The Mayor, Mr. Edwin H. Fitler, has the fullest confidence of the citizens. The late administration was unsatisfactory to a large majority. The present administration is the first to control the city under the new law known as the Bullitt law, according to which the chief magistrate has the appointment of which over the respective departments and who have full charge of the operatives in their departments. The Director of Public Safety is ex-Mayor Stokley, who is known as an untiring buster of dives and shums. Already he has manifested this peculiar characteristic.

O, THAT we could be induced to think of the inevitable consequences of disregard for the laws under which we have agreed to act. Last Sunday was not Missionary Day in all our churches. In some it was quarterly meeting day, though for that another day would have done quite as well, but the pastors seize strictly set the law in defiance. It was their way. It is very unfortunate that on these days, fixed by General Conference for certain duties, there is not sufficient feeling of loyalty to assure an absolute co-operation in all the laws of the Church. Young ministers, of all men, should be careful' to " keep our laws, not cement them" nor discard them. All the beauty of order and the sweetness of harmony are discarded as well as the law. Brethren would think it strange if they were held before the conference to answer for this indifference to law, but why should they not be so held? Here they are violated their obligations! Our obligations are very sacred and very valuable. Next Sunday will not do as well as last Sunday.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE bill is disorganizing business considerably, among the first steps of the commission will be that of interpretations that are really modifications of the law. Some of our strongest democratic papers, as the New York Herald and Atlanta Constitution, claim that the new law does for labor and gentlemen designated as colored what the annulled civil rights law did; as it provide against discrimination by railroads against any traveler. There is little doubt that this incident will so would sek so far as law goes, but what is law when it does not agree with the public sentiment? It is clear that the formation of this law, like the greater part of the works of this nation, forget that sow to the wind reap the whirlwind; so walk that men may see your good works, which God is not unrighteous to forget. So run that you may obtain. Every man inspired to the hope of being like him, at his appearance purifieth himself. Let us not love in aord neither in tongue, but in deed aed in truth. Little children keep yourselves from idols. Present your bodies a living sacrifice, which is your reasonable service, and be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind.

IT would be fair to infer that the editor was out when this proposition was written did he not intimate that the utterance relieves him of what he has had shut up within him for years. A horrible impression has been in the face of the end state of existing morals, in the face of the efforts of the Christian Church, in the face of Almighty God. Newspapers cannot afford to oppose Christianity. They should be made to feel the Christian cause; but the Christian cause is the cause of morality. Nothing said in the article referred to redeems it, for the proposition stands as the caption of an editorial—a clear, simple, categorical proposition in plain, unmodified English. It cannot be explained away; because it cannot be misread. What will our respected exchange do with it?

There is not so much in the proposition to startle as there is to awaken regret and humiliation. If moral edncation is a humbug wherein lies the good of the blood of Christ? He taught that men are blessed in exercising the moral nature consistently with the latter; hence "to do the right as God gives us to see the right" is paramount to all ideas of doing what will capture a General Conference. All decent men among us must be disgusted at the setting forth of such gush and twaddle excreised through the Recorden and many other means eighteen months before each General Conference short claims of individuals upon the franchise of General Conference. Everyone who observes widely and closely must be disgusted with the machine in ecclesiasticism. Shame should be used instead of the word "disgust." There are men at work on annual conference delegate slates, and General Conference slates, who might accomplish much more good by applying their strength to the duty lying nearest. Does the Church owe them busy, assiduous men aspiring? We think not; as brother—brethren—don't commit the editor in among those who are preparing a bill of claims to present to the A. M. E. Church through its '88 General Conferees.

Personal.

—Mrs. Bescher and her daughter, Mrs. Scoville, have gone to Florida.

—Rev. Dr. Haney, of Darby, Pa., was badly injured last week by being thrown from a horse.

—Bishop Wayman was in Philadelphia last Monday, having spent Sunday at Fort Deposit, Md.

—Rev. Dr. Handy, of Washington, D. C., was in our city and preached in Bethel Church on Easter morning.

—Dr. J. S. Tippins, a well-covered gentleman, has been elected by the Republicans of Rendville, Ohio, as mayor, by a majority.

—Rev. J. H. Johnson, of Trenton, New Jersey, Philadelphia, but his church will spread for the Easter Missionary service.

—Dr. Lansdell, the English missionary, distributed in one year no less than 56,000 Bibles among the natives of Siberia.

—Mr. Hans Shadd, a prominent member of Bethel Church, Philadelphia, is slowly recovering from a long and severe illness.

—Dr. Ray Palmer, author of the celebrated hymn whose first line is "My faith looks up to Thee," died at Newark, N. J., recently.

—Dr. J. M. Townsend, Secretary of Missions, has had the sad misfortune to lose his house, barn, grain and farming implements by fire.

—The Rev. F. T. Harvey, at his revival, had fifty-one conversions, forty-five of the persons attaching themselves to the A. M. E. Church.

—President J. C. Price, of Zion Wesley College, N. C., will deliver the annual address before the societies of Wilmington University.

—Amherst College will raise $50,000 to establish and endow a professorship of physical culture in honor of Henry Ward Beecher, its most illustrious alumnus.

—Rev. H. T. Johnson read an able paper before the Philadelphia Preachers' Meeting last week, on "The Christianity of the Negro from Ham."

—Tung Wing, a native of China, who has been a resident of this country for twenty years, has been elected president of the Connecticut Congregational Club at Hartford.

—Elder C. T. Shaffer will hold quarterly meeting at Union A. M. E. Church, Sixteenth street and Fairmount avenue, next Sunday. Bishops Beckett, Harbert and Lee will assist him.

—Father Ander'sey, the successor of Father Becker as the superintendent of the Jesuits, is noted for his skill as a pugilist. He is powerful and strikes all important engagings with facility.

—The Chicago Tribune says that during Francis Murphy's five weeks' work in Chicago nearly 9000 signed the pledge, and among them five saloon keepers who have since gone out of the business.

—The Secretary of the Treasury has awarded a silver medal to Frederick Douglass, and that, therefore, colored men may as well be satisfied that they have already more rights than they deserve. That will settle it.

—The LETTER of Bishop Brown, together with the circular, is just what we are pleased to hear. Few utterances in our official documents or advisory lists have been of more value to us than the one which was clear and emphatic.

—Rev. C. Wright has had a rally for the purpose of collecting money to build a new church in Harrisburg, Pa. He expresses hope that soon the capital city will be blessed by a beautiful A. M. E. Church building. He seems to have the full co-operation of his membership.

—The genial editor of the Star of Zion visited the Recorden office last week. Mr. Dancy was enroute for Boston to meet the conference of his Church. He will attend several conference before returning to North Carolina. Under his management the Star of Zion has improved greatly.

—The Rev. W. S. Lowrey, pastor of the A. M. E. Church in Allegheny, Pa., has been for sometime engaged in a libation concerning some property in dispute, placing persons in his city on the defensive. Sunday night, 3rd inst, while preaching, he was shot twice through the window from without by some unknown person.

—In his address before the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Sabbath afternoon, Rev. Graham said in substance that this is the only protestant country in the world that began its existence with the Bible in its hand, that discriminates against our people on account of color. In all other protestant countries a man passes for what he is worth, let him be black, white or any other color.—Xenia Gazette.

Literature.

Vick's Magazine for April contains among other interesting matter papers on culture, agriculture, etc., interesting articles on "Early Potatoes," "Cottage Design," "Pear Blight," "Rearing and Training Tomatoes," "Pruning Indoor Roses," "Restoring Branches to Trees," and "April Work."

The April Pansy embraces in its contents stories, poems, sketches historical and biographical, teeming with prescient truths and praises, with life adapted to the needs of its every reader. The Easter poem, as well as the paper on "Some Remarkable Women," are of important and interest. The former as adapted for a recitation, and the latter being a sketch of Frances E. Willard, with a good portrait, illustrated throughout, is demanding his return another year.

One of the events of the season was the grand concert last Friday evening at the Metropolitan A. M. E. Church. "The Chamber Scene," by Prof. Jardine, of New York, was the principal instrumental attraction. The solos by Mrs. Handy, Holmes and Warring and Mr. J. T. Layton were well rendered.

The Supreme Grand Council 33d and last degree of A. A. S. Rite Masonry of the Southern Jurisdiction U. S. A. was closed last Friday by M. P. Sov. Grand Com. Jas. J. Handy. Ill. Bro. John G. Jones, of Chicago, Ill., was in the city last week attending the Council.

Mr. John S. Durham, of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, visited our city last week.

At Bethel Literary on Tuesday evening the subject of Mr. Lucas's address and simple way the whole story of the Cross. Rev. Dr. Lee spoke of "Found People."

The book is mostly a collection of poetry on many subjects of nature and history, by Dr. Handy. It will be well suited for the parlor and leisure hours.

Next we offer a splendid home book on the life of Abraham Lincoln. "Pioneer Boy." Every boy should have and read and profit by. It is good for all readers.

Next, we call you to our two and last best of all. We have just received from the publishing house of the A. M. E. Church the publishing house of the A. M. E. Church in Philadelphia, and I see no reason why by December 1st, 1887, we will not have a hymn book that may not be paid and a sum sufficient, we trust, to pay the debt on the old and publishing interest on its feet. Besides our property free from debt (I) we need and must have a steam press, (2) we need a book binding department; (3) we need a number of type and (4) more credit firmly fixed. The cash bo done if the Bishops will save up and give not less than one dollar as a Thanksgiving offering and a work that will commend itself to everyone.

The Publication Department of our Church, and of all denominations, look to us to supply them above other interest how to go. It is the lamp that has been for the Church feet to guide in their are to-day. There is not an interest in the Church so identified to the existence. The mission, the circuit, the station, the preacher, the teacher, the principal and the principle are identified of our schools and colleges, our educational work, our work, our Sunday and missionary departments have all reaped from and have been our Publishing Department has planted.

Then is it too much for us to ask each preacher and friend and friend to speak to God and his cause one dollar next November 1st and December? My dear brethren, a united and vigorous effort put forth by every preacher and publishing pers controlled by our friends and brethren all over the United States of America, and in other parts where the African Methodism is, will bring to us grand results. Let us make our report to the next first circular. Very soon our committee will make engagements as to our centennial celebration which will be observed. The work is one—the object is one. Yours, very truly,

JOHN M. BROWN.

Next we offer a splendid home book on the life of Abraham Lincoln. "Pioneer Boy." Every boy should have and read and profit by. It is good for all readers.

Next, we call you to or two and last best of all. We have just received from the publishing house of the A. M. E. Church in Philadelphia, and I see no reason why by December 1st, 1887, we will not have a hymn book that may not be paid and a sum sufficient, we trust, to pay the debt on the old and publishing interest on its feet. Besides our property free from debt (1) we need and must have a steam press, (2) we need a book binding department; (3) we need a number of type and (4) more credit firmly fixed. The cash bo done if the Bishops will save up and give not less than one dollar as a Thanksgiving offering and a work that will commend itself to everyone.

The Publication Department of our Church, and of all denominations, look to us to supply them above other interest how to go. It is the lamp that has been for the Church feet to guide in their are to-day. There is not an interest in the Church so identified to the existence. The mission, the circuit, the station, the preacher, the teacher, the principal and the principle are identified of our schools and colleges, our educational work, our work, our Sunday and missionary departments have all reaped from and have been our Publishing Department has planted.

Then is it too much for us to ask each preacher and friend and friend to speak to God and his cause one dollar next November 1st and December? My dear brethren, a united and vigorous effort put forth by every preacher and publishing pers controlled by our friends and brethren all over the United States of America, and in other parts where the African Methodism is, will bring to us grand results. Let us make our report to the next first circular. Very soon our committee will make engagements as to our centennial celebration which will be observed. The work is one—the object is one. Yours, very truly,

JOHN M. BROWN.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

REV. DRS. LEE AND EMBRY:

My Dear Brethren—The "Centennial Celebration" will come off in November, 1887. Will you, for your own benefit, also that of "Bethel Recorden celebrating one of the grandest events in the history of the negro race, and of the entire continent, it is our object to raise $100,000 during the year, on the principle of the Jubilee, as noted for its skill as a pugilist. He is powerful and strikes all important engagings with facility.

—The Chicago Tribune says that during Francis Murphy's five weeks' work in Chicago nearly 9000 signed the pledge, and among them five saloon keepers who have since gone out of the business.

—The Secretary of the Treasury has awarded a silver medal to Frederick Douglass, and that, therefore, colored men may as well be satisfied that they have already more rights than they deserve. That will settle it.

—The LETTER of Bishop Brown, together with the circular, is just what we are pleased to hear. Few utterances in our official documents or advisory lists have been of more value to us than the one which was clear and emphatic.

—Rev. C. Wright has had a rally for the purpose of collecting money to build a new church in Harrisburg, Pa. He expresses hope that soon the capital city will be blessed by a beautiful A. M. E. Church building. He seems to have the full co-operation of his membership.

—The genial editor of the Star of Zion visited the Recorden office last week. Mr. Dancy was enroute for Boston to meet the conference of his Church. He will attend several conference before returning to North Carolina. Under his management the Star of Zion has improved greatly.

—The Rev. W. S. Lowrey, pastor of the A. M. E. Church in Allegheny, Pa., has been for sometime engaged in a libation concerning some property in dispute, placing persons in his city on the defensive. Sunday night, 3rd inst, while preaching, he was shot twice through the window from without by some unknown person.

—In his address before the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Sabbath afternoon, Rev. Graham said in substance that this is the only protestant country in the world that began its existence with the Bible in its hand, that discriminates against our people on account of color. In all other protestant countries a man passes for what he is worth, let him be black, white or any other color.—Xenia Gazette.

CENTENNIAL OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

EPISCOPAL ROOMS, AFRICAN M. E. CHURCH,
No. 1426 R. I. AVENUE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 3, 1887.

TO THE 4 BISHOPS, 12 DEPUTIES AND 37 MINISTERS OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH:

BRETHREN—Mr. Lucas, secretary, read, learn and inwardly digest" the subject-matter of our circular, "Centennial Celebration of African Methodism." Its contents are more than a mere passing interest. "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: Ask your father, and he will shew thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee. Remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these hundred years in the wilderness!"

Next November will be one hundred years since Richard Allen and his coadjutors left St. George's M. E. Church in the city of Philadelphia, (1787) and the Bishops of the semi-annual meeting decided the following Preamble and Resolutions:

WHEREAS: November next, 1887, will be one hundred years since Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and coadjutors left St. George Methodist Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, because "the Lord was in this place, and we knew it not," and

WHEREAS, Although we have the fullest Society of Philadelphia convened in order to take into consideration the evils under which they labored, arising from unkind treatment at their prayer meetings, and more especially at the time of the public worship, and the use of the place of worship, and even pulled them off their knees, while in the act of prayer, and ordered them in the most insulting manner from the house of A. M. E. Church Discipline,]

AND WHEREAS: The in the most decisive and firm manner, but Devil was a magnificent repenter. He could beat any man of his day sinning, but he also beat all repenters of his day.

I have often wondered where the great Methodist Church would have been had not Allen so amplified the birds and cats mental agencies.

Now, brethren, I ought to be glad because he had made me. I asked him if he could make cosmos out of chaos. Well, he did make cosmos out of dirt.

If elegant preaching could have saved Sodom, the world would have been saved long ago Old fellow, my indulgence ought to be refreshing to you.

Now I'm done. The people who can beat me in living right, but there shall be few who can beat me in repenting or anything I do wrong.

I like to see boys play ball, but if I see a boy or a man put to a contest for the world it is to see a great big man with whiskers running after a ball.

I like to see boys in the car of salvation with our left hand, and Republican, that is the Democratic party, a young girl born in America of Chinese parents, is a pupil in the Sunday school, a teacher and bar mother lately went to San Francisco and bought a fine horse and buggy, with which she intended to amuse herself and numerous Caucasian playmates. Before she could purchase to drive the team from San Francisco to Grass Valley. Some time since, while on a visit to the latter place, she was accosted by a young girl of her own race, a child of Caucasian parents, who had several times played with her in San Francisco. The child begged the Chinese girl to intercede with her mother to allow her to go to Grass Valley with her. The mother consented, and the child went. She was successfully assisted some of the native children in their studies. Her progress seems to be both fun and independence in the school. Now they are transplanted to an atmosphere where such an opportunity is denied them. Here the father is an educated Chinaman, who has saved money in the country.

Mrs. Logan gives a striking instance of the deep interest made in the day of government slants on account of sex. In the year 1870 it is allowed the same salary in the higher grade of clerkship, as the junior lieutenants in the higher salaried desks, and many of them are doing in those positions, but do not receive the pay. Mrs. Logan thinks it has happened that in cases of illness or disability, other girls have volunteered the duty of their husbands, drawing the salary as if they had performed the work. Mrs. Logan says the wife kept up her husband's desk for the full salary, though she continued the same work, her salary was nine hundred."

HER HUSBAND MADE FUN OF IT.

Some people value remedies according as to whether they are frightful in appearance or nauseous to the taste. When such folks hear about Compound Oxygen, and learn that it is something not to be swallowed but simply to be inhaled, and that there is no unpleasant taste or odor with it, they have no idea that it can do any good.

A Montana lady who had been troubled with lung disease, and had much, writes her experience:

"My husband is very favorably impressed with the Oxygen, and is willing for me to take another Treatment. He thinks I am fun of it, as I do not like to eat boiled sp, but he don't think that way now."

When we come to inquire why the husband entered making fun of Compound Oxygen we find it in what the lady says of her improvement:

"I am feeling fifty per cent better than when I commenced taking Oxygen; indeed, I would think I was in perfect health but for the slight cough and occasional pain in my lung. My appetite is excellent, and my bowels never trouble me even a little."

That will do. It cures. Write to DR. STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch St., Philadelphia, for a little book which tells in good earnest a great many interesting facts about Compound Oxygen.

For 14 hours successively, and with no other refreshment than some beef tea and an occasional cigar, a Cape Colony physician, named Woodcock, played the piano at Beberian recently, "finishing in capital condition."

WANAMAKER'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 14th, 1887.

If you write for what you want our trained buyers select it for you.

On the 4th of April, we made a grand occasion in Dress Materials. We surprised ourselves as well as our friends. Our experience has taught us more of our own organization than we ever knew before. The result was a rush for Serges and Silk Goods, when fairly brought out, like an army in review, taught us the power of our own goods-gathering.

It has been already said that only here can be found such a Dry Goods Museum. Its true beyond doubt or question. We know it now.

Here are bits from a few of the newspapers:

The Record:

Here lies a reputation than a store. It's a liberal education to keep up in such matters. Wanamaker's is a wonderful institution, and the system and the order and the buying and selling are wonderful. * * * The safest fact in that line is personal observation. Go and see.

The Times:

The display was made regardless of expense, and regardless of time. It was a display of the best goods that were given, either by this store or by any other. Wanamaker's has the reputation of always giving the value of the goods in sight.

The Daily News:

The magnificent display of Dress Goods took place yesterday at WANAMAKER'S and attracted thousands of visitors. The immense lunchroom all day long, looking at the fancy goods, and the millinery, and the dress goods, and the silks, and the laces, and the embroideries, and the tastiness and knee and the total value of the display. It was a fine show, and a fine day. The first dress goods of the building, including the Chestnut street front of Grand Hall, was filled with the throng.

The Inquirer:

Crowds of people stopped through the counters of goods and other attractions at Wanamaker's yesterday afternoon. The display of novelties in every one was true the latest and most fashionable. The display of dress goods was a fine one.

The Ledger:

TO WANAMAKER'S is due the credit of the great Exhibition of Dress Materials now open.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested the wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send the recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using, free of charge, to all who desire it, by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A SOLDIER'S widow earnestly desires the address of two or three living members of the Fourteenth Rhode Island regiment, Company M. Address pastor A. M. E. Church, Marysville, O.—Cleveland Gazette.

It is to be hoped that our pastors will interest themselves in behalf of this soldier's widow.

THE Darby, Pa., Sunday School gave a concert last Thursday night. A long programme and a crowded hall rolled the occasion of much of its inspiration by. The performances by the children were good. Mr. W. T. Moore, of Morris Brown Mission, was musical director. His work was well done.

THERE are many more colored men in other business than that connected with morality than we are apt to think. There are not half as many in such positions as might be if they would. Of the hundreds of young colored men receiving business and mechanical education should be set to work by the wealth in colored men's beards.

ELDER J. T. Rex speaks in very high terms of the excellent service rendered him, in his three years' pastorate in Atlantic City, by prominent white citizens; notably, Dr. Malsbary, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, also many of his good members. Should Brother Rex be appointed to a new field he will ever remember kindly the good hearts that have aided him.

THE discovery by the Pan Handle Railroad that oh at seven-tenths of all those accomplishing the freight crews here for some time been engaged in stealing freight is another sad commentary on the morals of our times. Like the horrible murder of five colored prisoners in South Carolina, another and other revelations crimes everywhere, it indicates that this is an ewinue time to declare moral education a humbug.

"O, rue, it will make him feel good, you know," stands as the excuse for much nonsense and much vice. Vain applause, silly comment and beguiling flattery are made to get in their work in making him feel good. So exaggerated has the esteem become that some men turn with disgust from their names in a newspaper. This "taffying" is played upon our feeling men for all it is worth. Of course we have learned from the practice of our teachers. We had keep pace with them, if we do that. It is none the less demoralizing.

THE HOLD which the manufacturing, calling and drinking of intoxicants have on the people of our times is terrifying. It is just among the possibilities that the whiskey powers will force actual civil war upon this country yet; at least a state of demoralization that will be equivalent to war. Such modifications as Maine, Kansas, Iowa and a few other of other States include all the prevailing side—such as it includes only a part. The RECORDER has recovered from its shock long ago. The law in this matter has been compromised to such an extent that it hardly seemed likely that to discuss the propriety of modifying the law in General Conference to accommodate circumstances that certain ancestors of the law have declared sexually incompatible with the law would be astonishing. As a matter of fact, there is little doubt that compromise has been made in cases where it was absolutely necessary. We believe in law and have, like the Bishop, been shocked at the disregard for law and the subverting interpretations of law that we have observed in our Church.

It is plain enough that it is not best to publish anything in the RECORDER that tends to impede easy and regular government in the Church by Bishops, elders or others in authority; yet it is frequently impossible to know just where a writer is striking.

The preaching of Sunday is in itself a good thing in many respects. It is an office, however, which, though as old as Methodism, has for many years been subject to just about such discussions in other Methodist bodies as it now is. There is very little of our work where the office could not be supported well if the proper men could be selected to fill it.

REPUBLICANS, THE NEGRO AND US.

Ex-congressman Wise, of Virginia, was in Philadelphia last week, the guest of the Young Republican Club. He spoke in glowing style of the loyalty, grace and patience of the negro as a republican and citizen. He prophesies a grand victory for the Republicans in 1888. Mr. Wise is the gentleman who does not allow negroes as gentlemen, even though his State's representatives, to call upon him in his parlor, but in his kitchen. It will require much harder work to secure Republican victories than formerly. Since Republicans allowed the white South to do what it would with the black South, so it but only left them the federal government, many colored men have concluded that they had better bow to the will of the white South and get a State, without patronage, than to have the ire of democrats with the more mockery of patronage. Republicans may not expect to carry the black vote in 1888 by Mr. Wise's argument, a little taffy. Colored men are, if not naturally, logically republicans, but the next national campaign will not find them republicans simply on the sentiment of politics to the extent that former campaigns have done. The popular sentiment of the country and the spirit of the laws of this great government must be brought to a state of justice, or the negro cannot be made as joyful everywhere and the laws as effective everywhere for men known as "colored" as for other men. We shall not ask for any more repetition of the speech or our pastimes, our loyalty, our progress and our fealty to the Republican party; we shall want parties to say outright what they will do to encourage us to prosecute the journey of life here in the hopes of heaven. If we do not ask this, we should do so. We want guarantees against our youth on petty offences being torn from their homes and degraded by the chains, the stripes and general stigma of the penitentiary to be less severe. We should ask that we be admitted to all the avenues of honest and noble manhood. If the Democratic party can guarantee that it will be the Republican party for us; if it will be the Republican party can guarantee this, it will be the Democratic party to us. Much as has been said is praise of Senator Sherman for the single act of refusing to favor the color prejudice of the Alabama hotel landlord, who refused to allow him to receive colored gentlemen at his hotel, and as high as he stands above Mr. Wise in considering the colored man (both Sherman and Wise being republicans) yet Mr. Sherman's speeches in the South were temporising and patronising, differing from his speeches in his own State in emphasis and in substance. Colored men ask of white Republicans a brave support in the South. If white republicans dare to be strong and true in the South, black men dare to be republicans in the South. But Mr. Wise's speech is open letter parlor to black men in circumstances that he would to white men and Mr. Sherman must be as brave to speech as in action. Republicans in the North should know that they cannot count on votes by taking note of color. It were better that we organize a stay-at-home clubin every Northern town then, after accepting the treatment of indifference visited upon us as municipal and State politics for four years, be hustled in ranks on the old war cry. We can better afford to stay at home in 1888 and let the brethren comfort welfare among themselves than to join either side just for the sake of the meanest recognition they can get along with giving us afterwards. All colored men should join with the best of other voters for a pure ballot, discarding all money overtures for their votes, and make stitesonship a religious fact. Live for the future in this world and thet which is to come.

Personal.

Literature.

That very interesting serial, "A Step in the Dark," opens Cassell's Family Magazine for May, and brings us down to the death of eccentric old lady Vane and the loss of her will. This is followed by a paper describing with pen and pencil, "How the Queen Travels." There is a diagram given showing the situation of the coaches with the names of the occupants, and we are also shown a view of the interior of "a royal day saloon" and of the royal train as it leaves the station. Among the practical papers of this number are one on "Kitchen Physic," describing the preparation of certain foods for invalids, a suggestion of especial value to those of Providence District, and on the 24th of May, and one on "Cycling," destinated. My district is 230 miles long and 40 wide, and will be from the 15th to the 25th north, Hunter on the south, Maxwell on the west and Mt. Hope on the east. I-meds my appointments and started out. Elder Webb has a fine congregation at Mt. Providence, and they are series are continued, and we find plenty of poetry and pictures, together with the admirable fashion letters from Paris and London.—Cassell & Company, 15 cents a number, $1.50 a year in advance.

St. Nicholas for May opens with a beautiful frontispiece illustration, by Bihm, to "Cadmus of Venice." The "Historic Girl" whose romantic history is related by E. S. Brooks; while Mary Ferry, in "An Only Daughter," tells of a very modern and possible girl; while the story is, however, none the less interesting on that account. How many boys will be interested in "Marching Through Georgia" know the story of "Sherman's March to the Sea"? General Adam Badeau tells it in the May St. Nicholas, and it reads like a tale of chivalry, and in fact it is—the biggest adventure in modern times. It is illustrated by Theodore Davis, who was with General Sherman on the march, and by E. W. Kemble, W. L. Sheppard, and W. St. John Harper. There is also begun in this number a three-part story of life at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, by a recent graduate. It is entitled "Winning a Commission," and shows how the future Shermans of our country are being turned out. There is a delightful selection of "St. Nicholas Dog Stories," for girls, by Celia Thaxter; one for boys, by E. P. Roe, and three for both, by the body by other people. The "Brownies" go canoeing, perhaps a little early in the season, but none the less merrily. Lieo Hewthorne Lancaster contributes a very little story called "Lindie's Portrait," with a drawing by Frank Dey; Alice Wellington Rollins tells the story of "a day" in "Rainy May Day in Central Park;" illustrated by Jessie Curtis Shepherd; there is a droll account of "Dolls' Hospitals," by Harry Pattee, and the end of a series of "Child Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder. "Jean Ingelow's Jack" is told by Frances Courtney Baylor, and "Jenny's Boarding-house," by James Otis, contain chapters of progressive interest; while the miscellaneous contributors are fred Brennen, Frank Dempster Sherman, Joel Stacy, and others.

ARTICLES OF BELIEF.

BY REV. J. C. C. OWENS.

An annual report from our district secretaries of education, submitted to our annual conferences, is like the bank showing the amount of money raised on Endowment Day and how disbursed, would greatly strengthen the cause of general education among us and help to swell our collections on next Endowment Day.

Every local school under the control of the African M. E. Church should report to the Church, to the president of Tougaloo University, Mississippi, or to the corresponding denominational universities on the American continent.

Our Publishing House, located at Philadelphia, should be pressed to the next General Conference free of debt, and the amount raised on our votes by the Mooazer be made known to the Bishops before their next annual meeting, and brought down to the (50) annual conferences, requesting them to pay a certain amount of the whole between now and April, 1888. It can be done.

The Christian Recorder should then be made at least twice its present size, and the brethren see the necessity of selecting other denominational journals to patronize.

Something should be done to make our Church Extension work more effectual in the West. This branch of our church work should receive special attention at our next General Conference.

Our missionaries at home should be better provided for in the future or our Church will feel the dreadful consequence of her neglect in the near future. I know we are poor and have a very great deal to accomplish, but we must not overlook the missionary, who must live while he is breaking up the ground and sowing the seed of African Methodism.

The setting apart of the colored members into a separate conference by the Rev. M. E. Church, in Macon, last spring and the appropriation of $2,500 for missionary work is said colored conference means that they will not give up the struggle without making an effort to take the field for Christ and Methodism. Let us wake up and back one home missionary work with a seed sufficient to sustain him.

If the system of presiding eldership is continued in part or as a whole by making presiding elder districts, the conference should take into consideration the fact that there are a great many other contingencies to be looked after besides the presiding elder's allowance; hence he should not be confined to eight or ten weak mission charges who sometimes fail even to meet his traveling expenses; but he should be given a district large and strong enough to support him, if it takes the whole State to do it. I know a presiding elder who has twenty-six points; one of his strong churches having three hundred and seventy members, is only assessed seventy dollars a year for presiding elder's allowance. While others are not paying over two hundred and forty dollars a year for the same thing. All this should remedy and our missionaries will have the fresh courage and go forward with new vigor.

The matter of electing one, three, or more Bishops should be settled solely to the judgment of delegates in the conference. I know a presiding elder matter what other influences might be brought to bear, that is why he was not elected for, to look after the best interests of the Church.

The question of rotation is a grave one and should not be hastily entered into. I believe in this law, but I do not if the member be insisted upon, it should be carefully weighed in the Episcopal committee in the presence of the Annual Conference.

The literary now being used in some of our churches is no more a part of our Church than the Methodist Episcopal Church of 1856. Gen has just as much right to call it the Methodist Church as the other; neither is obnoxious, simply essential to the saving of souls.

The language of coarse, decorum and unwise legislation at the next General Conference is not found in leaving a number of the former delegates at home unless we can fill their places with better men. If we do not we will by studying and watching the movements of the delegates. Visitors and representatives are changed slowly. We have the Rev. Alonzo Nevis Missouri Conference is doing his best to make his work's work a success.

CORRECTION OF DATA.

BY REV. J. W. MALONE.

While so much is being said about the late Bishop H. M. Turner, I deem it seem to omit one part, and thereby take from him one year of his ministry, therefore I allow me to add the omission. In August, 1856, Rev. H. H. Cain met the Indiana Conference in session still, and was admitted into the traveling connection and stationed at Muncatine, Iowa. In August, 1857, he met the conference in New Albany, Ind., and was returned to Muncatine. At the conference in 1858 he was ordained a deacon and transferred to the Missouri Conference and stationed at St. Paul's Chapel, St. Louis. I wish to correct or add in this link for the benefit of those who may speak or write in the future. I add another year to his ministerial life.

THE LAW ON MISCEGENATION.

THE REPLY OF THE HON. JAMES H. A. JOHNSON, D. D., TO MR. A. PARLETT LLOYD.

MESSRS. A. S. ABELL & CO.:—Being absent from the city finally and fairness of The Sun, I seek a hearing through its columns. The paper that is the most unfriendly to colored people to the city of Baltimore terms the law on the subject of marriage "a base and prudent law." Before going one step further I stop to ask the writer—Does the writer assert than that call evil good and good evil? If not, just define for light and darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter?

If the law in intermarriage there is nothing wise nor prudent, nor good, nor Christian, nor moral in the Decalogue. Jesus Christ was born in an unlawful period. It is hed in the sight of all people, and was one in the sight of God. No greater expression of antipathy to all colored people has been given during the present days than Jackson than is made by the establishment of the Code of Laws, which I understand is now in force in Maryland. I do not propose to make a speech, but I do propose to make a few statements in reference to the law, for it is lamentable to a fearful extent the feeling of prejudice which they give rise to. Indeed, I could not realize, until this matter was brought to my notice, how colored people who pray for white people, and strive to do their very best for their interests in all circumstances, were objects of such signal hatred. Still it stares us in the face as a fact, that the prayers of the best colored people of Maryland shall be offended, even to the shedding of blood as well as black have to be trampled in the dust and every palladium has a good cause to be destroyed. Is it possible that you think that this is wise? Would be not rather assume that you are not among the most flagrant method ourraging humanity?

But let us now come down to a close consideration of the law as to the effect of which has caused so much fear. What is it first asked? What is law? There can be no law without a penalty, says Sir Burke. He says: "Law is beneficence acting by rule." Law in its very essence is beneficial to society. Law in no other sense is acceptable unto God. "Because sentence against an evil work is not done speedily, therefore the heart of men is fully set in them to do evil." Law is not and above everything else a blocker law that is against the moral sense of man. It squares itself upon the fundamental principles of right; and this is done for the benefit of all. Law is not made for a man as the Apostle Paul says, and with good will unto all men. Does any one dare say that this is the character of the Maryland law on miscegenation? What writer, what confessor, what moralist can clarify is there in it? Hatred, oppression and degradation. Also of the grandest class of citizens. Col. Ha Kyd Douglas, holds that it is in conflict with citizenship, and that it is so in its practical effects. The time is coming when universal suffrage will be granted to the women of the United States.

When women are allowed to vote they will be less disposed to be practiced at the polls. The young man, instead of seeing how much rum and whiskey he can drink, will see how much of the true spirit of manhood he can exhibit. He will not be found in saloons drunk. There will be less of the beastly passion that is exhibited at true manhood. Woman are not public enemies of this grand republic. They simply demand their rights as citizens. In the correct man and always share the sorrows of the national disaster. Frederick Rev. James Freeman Clarke is correct when he declares that there is no reason why they should not vote, but many reasons why they should vote. There is a lack of manliness exhibited at the polls that nothing but a woman can supply. There is a glory in the spank of the Massachusetts woman; 3,741 petitioners for suffrage and only 31 opposers. The majority is not to be sneezed at. We believe that in the future a grand politician will be that wants the women of this grand republic.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, of this city, has appointed Doctors Anna Broomall and Clara Marshall assistant medical examiners. This innovation marks a new departure from old-time prejudices and exclusiveness. It is the first instance in the history of life insurance in which women have been appointed to such a position.

There are at present eighty women employed in the Treasury Department at Washington, and it is proposed in view of the pressure for these places to increase the number to one hundred. The chief clerk of the department says months during the year and furloughed without pay for the remaining three months. This will furnish employment to a large number of women while effecting a decrease of expenditures in the service.

The will of the late Miss Catherine Lorillard Wolfe, of New York city, who died on the 8th. In it she bequeathed her collection of pictures and ENGRAVINGS to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, on condition that the trustees of the museum provide for the collection a suitable well-lighted fire-proof apartment, gallery of separate from the main building, and that water colors and drawings shall be permanently framed and glazed and that the collection shall be designated and continue to be known as the Catherine Lorillard Wolfe collection."

Joel Saville, the Peruvian, who has bequeathed five hundred thousand dollars, will found an asylum for poor girls in New York, laid the foundation of his fortune by the secret purchase of Chinese into his native country. He came to this country with invested funds and built railroad securities. He was a very successful speculator and his fortune is estimated at several millions of dollars. Before coming to this country he had occupied the position of Minister of Finance in Peru. He had a high admiration for New York. Saville left this country about a year ago and died in January at Lima.

SHALL OUR WOMEN VOTE?

BY REV. R. O. ROBERTS.

Whatever may be discussed through the columns of our great Church organ—the Christian Recorder—it is conceded that all should consider. There are many spheres in life to which women have labored, and which they have appeared to make a successful failure, but instead of having been a success as a teacher, as a student or as a teacher; in the pulpit, at the bar, or leaning medicine to the sick and afflicted, they have been a success. Next we call you to our two last and best of all. We have just received from the publisher a new book, "Home." Here is found a scripture lesson, of five to eight verses, for every morning in the year, and a comment on the teaching. The passage by Rev. A. B. Earle, D. D., the well known Evangelist. CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

REV. DR. LEE AND EMERY:

My Dear Brethren—Our "Centennial Celebration" will come off in November, 1887. It will give, by your newspaper, six ads up? Besides celebrating one of the grandest events in the history of the negro race on this or any other continent, it is our object to rescue and cherish the relics of the first and grandest work of the African M. E. Church—the publishing house of the A. M. E. Church in Philadelphia, Pa.—and see no reason why by December 31st, 1887, every Church in existence need be in debt to that house. Let us be modest but earnest with what the first quarter of a century has done for us. Let us be proud of the efficiency of our historic old institution, and the wisdom of our episcopal management. All the circles are to be in full dress. Let us celebrate the financial work of the district this quarter by grand. The success of this district, now so flattering and encouraging, is very greatly contributed to the efficient and faithful work of our accomplished presiding elder, Rev. Richard Graham, of this city. Having strong integrity, pure, stainless character and progressive manners, as a preacher he is a logical and forcefully spiritual. He is an executive man and presiding officer of the first class, where the Church is greater. Such men as his, and such only, are sufficient for the presiding eldership.

Obituary.

At Metropolis Ill., Thaddeus W. E. Bell, aged 27 years, beloved husband and Alice A. Peterson, age 1 year 11 months and 5 days, died on the 20th of March 8th, after a short illness of sixteen hours. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved and sad hour. Their loss is heaven's gain.

Rev. Richard Tiers departed this life on the 20th inst., at the age of 72 years. Mich. He was born in Albany county, N. Y., and was converted in 1840. Joined the Union Chapel M. E. Church, $20.05; 10, 5 and 2, under the patronage of Rev. Mr. Ritter, one of the faithful in the day, $67.35. February 8th had been named to succeed Bishop Wayman in Missouri. He remained two years and was transferred to Indiana Conference in 1877, and was appointed by Bishop Shorter to the Bethel Church, Indianapolis, Indiana Conference until the organization of the Indiana Conference, from which time he was appointed to Adrian, where he remained until his death. His funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon, March 6th, at the above-named Church, by Rev. J. H. Alexander, of Jackson, Mich., Rev. J. J. Simpson, of the Indiana Conference.

The Board of Managers of the Parent Home Missionary Society, having learned with deep sorrow of the death of Rev. Mrs. A. Shorter, wife of Bishop Shorter and Rev. Mrs. Shorter, mother of Rev. Shorter, desire to put on record their appreciation of the virtues of the deceased, as a co-laborer in the cause of missions. Her labors abounded in the most excellent devotion, and was always ready to answer any call for pecuniary aid in the work of missions. As one whom we have always felt that we could depend upon. Her life was one of faith and prayer. We mourn the loss of one whose place as a co-worker in the missionary work of church work it will be difficult to fill. We sympathize deeply with our beloved Bishop in the irreparable loss he has sustained; a loving companion, a faithful wife, she was to him a true helpmate; we commend him to God, the loving Father, who comforts the bereaved, believing as we do that our loss is her gain. She resteth from her labors, and her works do follow her.

S. E. TANNER,

E. PARKER,
Committee.

TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE LUCRETIA MOBBIS.

WHEREAS, Almighty God has, in his infinite wisdom, seen fit to remove by death from our midst our beloved sister, Lucretia Morris, who joined heart and hand with others to form the body, which the Church militant is made up of, and she believed in every way worthy to fill their place in the Church triumphant; and she has been a most devoted member, always giving her presence and consecrated her means to the support of the Connectional system, and the wisdom of our episcopal management. All the circles are to be in full dress. Let us celebrate the financial work of the district this quarter by grand. The success of this district, now so flattering and encouraging, is very greatly contributed to the efficient and faithful work of our accomplished presiding elder, Rev. Richard Graham, of this city. Having strong integrity, pure, stainless character and progressive manners, as a preacher he is a logical and forcefully spiritual. He is an executive man and presiding officer of the first class, where the Church is greater. Such men as his, and such only, are sufficient for the presiding eldership.

A NEW LEASE OF LIFE.

When one has been suffering the agonies of a severe attack of rheumatism, neuralgia or cricket, and has experienced relief from a few doses of Salvation Oil, he feels as if a new lease of life had been granted him, and he has been known to embrace those who, after trying physicians and numberless remedies, have found relief and been restored to health. Every one should send to their nearest druggist and procure a bottle of this wonderful pain cure. Only 25 cents.

SCALDS and BURNS Should have Prompt and Proper Care or they may prove very dangerous and perhaps FATAL. ACCIDENTS are constantly happening. A kick of a horse or cow may cause a bad bruise; the slip of an axe or knife may result in a Serious Cut. Any of these things may happen to one of your family at any moment. Have you a bottle of PERRY DAVIS'S PAIN KILLER ready for use in such cases? It has no equal for the cure of Scalds, Burns, Cuts, Swellings, Bruises, Sprains, Sores, Insect Bites &c. All Druggists Sell it. PERRY DAVIS & SON, Prop'rs.

HOW NOT TO BE SICK.

To fight disease AWAY, and keep it out, is, in a nut-shell, the solution of the whole mystery. To this and activity, vitality and health are synonyms. What malaria and consumption make is what a stable system has been established and is therefore ready to be managed by them. The weakened system and cause a villainous Scabs to help build up. Compound Oxygen, a remedy which has achieved the most conspicuous triumphs in building up the feeble, restoring the prostrated and driving from the vanquished diseases and which has threatened the destruction of their victims. The way in which Compound Oxygen does its work is plain and simple. There are no drugs to swallow, no annoying experiences to be endured; but through it the circulation, the digestive organs and the whole system receive new life, and thus acquire power to throw off disease and to resist new attacks. To follow up this interesting subject process from Drs. STARKEY & PALEN, 1329 Arch street, Philadelphia, the treatise which they send by mail to any applicant free of charge.

WANAMAKER'S

PHILADELPHIA, April 18th, 1887.

Our skilled buyers pick out anything you write for.

Some of the richest stuffs in the store are the creams. Rich to the eye, to the touch, and for little money. Look at the veiling, albatross, loulé, serge, and cashmere. Were creams ever creamier? 37½ cents to $1.25. For a trifle a costume fit for any woman.

Scotch Twilled Zephyr Ginghams. Like worsteds. No pretence. So good that they look more than cotton. Gain in the make up and wear as they look. 30-inch, 40 cents.

Crinkled threads, twisted wicks, cords in clusters; the newest and the best weaves in Scotch Dinghams. In plaids, in stripes. Something to admire and buy. 29-inch, 40 cents.

A Spring Overcoat may be very dressy without silk-facing. The $7.50 brown diagonals are not silk-faced, yet they are as well-fitting as a top-coat need be. The $8.50 light coats have the silk-facing and the fit, too. All our coats fit. It's the finish of the material, not the fit that marks the difference between a $25.00 melton and the $7.50 or $8.50 diagonals.

Market street front, east of main aisle.

As much thought of fit in Boys' Clothes as Men's. Not apt to be. "Anything's good enough for the boy" has been the say too long. Suits, $3.50 up. For $7.50 what we think to be the snuggest, toughest, dressiest outfit for a boy you can find in town.

April showers or snows. Gossamers good for either. Women's or men's, $1.50 to $12.00. Nothing make-believe in the cheapest.

Worry enough in housecleaning time without worrying over the Carpet Sweeper. The Wanamaker Sweeper makes you smile. Does broom work and saves your back as well as your temper. $3.00.

No trick about those light, mealy, "flaked" Potatoes served at the Dairy tables. The Keystone Culinary Beaters do it. Wonderful things those beaters. Sponge Cake without baking powder, white of egg added in 15 seconds; a hundred other surprises. You've taken nearly 100 dozen beaters in a week, and not a complaint. $1.25 to $5.00.

STERLING, ILL., August 29, 1885.

We feel we must write something of the success of Hop Bitters. Their sale is thribble that of any other article of medicine. Hence we feel it but justice to you and your bitters to say that it is a medicine of real merit and virtue, and doing much good and effecting great cure.

Yours, J. F. & H. B. UTLEY.

HAYNEVILLE, OHIO, Feb. 11, 1884.

I am very glad to say I have tried Hop Bitters, and never took anything that did me as much good. I came to them two bottles and I would not take $100 for the good they did me. I recommend them to my patients, and get the best of results from their use.

D. S. MERCER, M.D.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Sept. 15, 1885.

We take pleasure in giving you a notice and 4 nice, strong ones, as it (Hop Bitters) deserves to be. It, and we know it deserves it.—The Register.

HOP BITTERS MFG. CO.:

I know Hop Bitters will bear recommendation honestly. All who use them order from them the highest encomiums and give them credit for making cures—all the proprietors claim for them. I have kept them since they were first offered to the public. They look high even for them, and maintained it, and are more called for than all other medicines. So long as they keep up their high reputation for purity and usefulness I shall continue to recommend them. Respectfully,

TURKISH CEMETERIES.

In an article on "Life Beneath the Crescent" in the April Chautauquan, Mary Mills Patrick says:

According to the Koran, the deceased is the owner of his grave in perpetuity. Hence it is considered a work of merit to bequeath his property to mosques, to schools, to hospitals, to fountains, and in Scutari, the room occupied by cemeteries is almost as extensive as that covered by dwellings. Within recent years it has been found necessary, in order to open roads through, to have much needed, to curtail and even suppress some of the cemeteries; but it required an express order from the sultan, which made the silence utter the wail of grief.

The cypress is pre-eminently the funeral tree, and it has its place in every town. And Turkish cemeteries become glorious gardens in which to impart to certain Oriental landscapes an aspect singularly still and somber. It is upon the cypress that the Turkish mind centers and found in the greatest abundance. Baltimore, Md., Feb. 20, 1886. And the field is fortified by human remains, reach a prodigious size and height. The largest of these I measured at the entrance visit is that of Scutari, upon the Asiatic coast of the Bosphorus, which must have been more than six miles square.

The tombstones are in the shape of an oval, wider at the top than at the bottom, and surmounted with a turban or a fez, the form of the latter being greatly indicates the rank of the deceased. A gilt inscription in Turkish characters, cut in relief on a blue back ground, gives the name and sometimes the virtues of the deceased, and impresses divine mercy in his behalf. These inscriptions are frequently quite elaborate, sometimes leaving very much. In the letters which are cut in the stone of the tomb, intended to catch rain for the little birds that come to quench their thirst.

The dead are not buried very deep, and the rains, which are frequent, because more sickness than it does. A large proportion of the epidemic of dysentery and typhoid fever which invade the low quarters of Constantinople can be traced to this source. The proximity of the cadavers to the top of the ground seems, moreover, to encourage digitis, particularly in swampy and damp cemeteries, a myriad of phosphorescent lights, which dance and play around the tombs; and these myriad years of fire, while inspiring the poets, also frighten children.

THE POOR LITTLE ONES.

We often see children with red sraphlike faces, and heads, round, and skin, and often sores on the head. These things indicate a diseased scrofulous condition of the blood. In the growing period, child'en have need of pure blood by which to build up healthy bones and healthy bodies. If Dr Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is given, the blood is purged of its tal elements, and the child's development will be healthy, and as it should be. Scrofulous affections, rickets, fever-sores, hip-joint disease or other grave maladies and suffering are sora to result from neglect and lack of proper attention to such cases.

The Best Remedy

For Dyspepsia is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Other medicines may give temporary relief; but Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes a radical cure. Dyspepsia, in all its forms, and in the most aggravated cases, is completely subdued by this remedy.

"My stomach, liver, and kidneys were in a disordered condition for years," writes R. Wild, of Hanlo, Texas, "and I never found any medicine to relieve me, until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than six bottles of this remedy cured me."

Mrs. Joseph Antles, of Holyoke, Mass., was for a long time a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia, trying, in vain, all the usual remedies. At last she began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and twenty-five bottles restored her to perfect health.

"I have proved through terrible suffering, from Dyspepsia and Indigestion," writes F. J. Pedemer, 145 Columbia st., Cambridgeport, Mass., "that I can really enjoy Ayer's Sarsaparilla has cured me."

PHILADELPHIA, APRIL 26, 1887.

IN ANSWER to inquiries recently concerning the Pope's willingness to give up temporal authority for the sake of reconciliation with Italy, he replies, no.

Rev. W. J. JOHNSON, B.D., Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, O., had appointed April 10th as a day for a grand rally, expecting to raise $100 for repairing the new church. Remembering after the appointment that that was not legal day, but Missionary Day, he gave the day entirely to mission collections and raised nearly $25 for that cause. He appointed Monday night for the rally instead of Sunday. The people came together and turned into the treasury of their church nearly $900. Thus the Sabbath was not violated by the extra business attending such collection, the law of the Church was not violated respecting the mission collection, and it is altogether probable the sum raised for the church was quite as great as if raised on Sunday. Dr. Mitchell, of Allen Temple, assisted in the collection on Monday night. Here is at least a significant hint to those who say, "well, I know my business better than the General Conference."

AN ILLINOIS "ALABAMA" HOTEL PROPRIETOR.

Last Thursday W. H. Bristol, proprietor of the De Seta House, Galena, Ill., ordered a young colored man named Wright, the baggage manager of Company C, Illinois National Guard of Freeport, out of the dining room. Captain Writtbecker and his company, as promptly as John Sherman, sought breakfast elsewhere.

AMERICANS FIRST.

The North and the South may forget their animosities and cease their antagonisms. The schools, the business, the social circles, the family ties, the press conquests and the religious organizations of the land may bring them to this end; but because of particular race ties, because it is a part of human habitation, because it is a part of God's creation and care, and because so large a number of its inhabitants are subjects of pity and mercy considered from several standpoints. But we may know that the sun is too high to ever shine again on any continent of black men, or any continent of white men. White men never emigrate, black men are everywhere. Both are everywhere to stay unless there is in the law of the survival of the fittest some secret power developing itself out in the especial interest of a class of men for no other reason than that they are of a given variety. The peculiar work of future civilisation will be a work of harmonising and reunifying the human race.

Africans in all colors will work out a neutral and moral homogeneity that will tolerate the common existence of all men. So it will be in America, es in Europe, and so in Asia. Black American caste need not be driven to do penal service for not turning over to Africa all their weakness and ignorance to be lost in African heatheeism. Churches, according to their genius and profession, must be interested, deeply interested, in all those who sit in the shadow of death.

Personal.

—Dr. Atnett is attending Eastern conferences.

—Bishop Turner spent last Sunday in Philadelphia, preaching in Little Wesley Church.

—Rev. C. E. Herbert, B. D., was one of the chief speakers at a recent temperance coercion meeting at Chester, Pa., a few days ago.

—Rev. A. A. Williams will deliver the annual sermon at the commencement of Bethel University, Little Rock, Ark., Sunday, May 22d.

—Wednesday, 20th inst., the people of the three points included in the Thornbury Circuit, Philadelphia Conference, made their pastor, Rev. H. W. Brown, who resides in Philadelphia, a rousing donation visit. The pastor appreciated this friendly call very highly.

—Under the direction of the Rev. L. C. Chambers, the West Chester (Pa.) A. M. E. Church has amended its charter so as to bring it in perfect harmony with our Discipline. The A. M. E. Church at Frederick, Md., under the pastorate of Rev. T. H. Collet, has done the same.

—Rev. N. D. Temple holds his last quarterly meeting for this year at Mercia Brown Church, Philadelphia, next Sunday. Dr. Thompson will preach in the morning. Mrs. F. J. Coppin will address the Sunday school and Rev. J. J. Coppin will preach and administer communion at night.

BOOK NOTICES.

"Hymns and Metrical Psalms," is a cluster of chaste and spiritual hymns, by Thomas MacKellar, Ph. D. There are fifty charming, lyrical poems in the work, hymns for the family and the sanctuary. Porter & Coates, Philadelphia.

"Annie Burton's Journal," by Mrs. E. S. Willett. This is a charming little book of 150 pages, cloth bound, on good paper. It is just the book to place in the hands of children and youth to engender and develop virtue. Price, 75 cents. Cranston & Curts, Cincinnati, O.

"Natural Law in the Business World," by Henry Wood, is as fine a little work on the vexed and perplexing topic of capital and labor as can be found. The author treats the topic from a noble, philosophical standpoint. The work is constructed on the basis that through all the ramifications of the extent of the relations of employer and employes, there is a natural law and that to observe these laws is the necessity of the hour from those on either side of the question. Lee & Shepard, Boston.

"Memoirs of Henry Ward Beecher," by Rev. Lyman Abbott, gives a short but intensely interesting sketch of the great preacher and distinguished citizen—a brief history of the many phases in his position, will not be excelled. Equally interesting with the sketch is the appended collection of nearly five hundred of Beecher's most pithy, epic and graphic gems, illustrating almost every form of thought and christalization of human experience. These are of especial value to ministers and parents for their sermons and addresses. Wellings & Bollins, of a trip to Yellowstone Park, in which the publishers is interspersed with accurate description. A dozen illustrations are furnished by Harry Fenn, Weldon, Graham and Brush Dunn. The second best part of Ralph Meeker's article, "Through the Cascades," reveals the strange features of Southwestern Oregon, witnessed at the time of the recent Terre-Haute-Indianapolis excursion. The most elegant "Gem of Kars" is one of the illustrations by P. D. Millet, Jr., engraved by Kingsley. Kirby's article, "Kars," is exquisitely illustrated by Edwin A. Abbey, one of the drawings serving as the frontispiece to the number. Charles Dudley Warner's "Mexican Notes" is the second part describing Cuautla, the fashionable resort for tourists and invalids. The travelogue-like, its unique baths, coffee plantations, and quasi-cane. The second series of Professor Richard T. Ely's "Labor Problem" is begun with a consideration of "The Nature and Legal Basis of Corporations." The departments hold their usual abundance of interesting matter. The tribute of the Easy Chair to Mr. Bancroft is specially interesting. The Study Table contains a review of the new books. The Drawer contains eight pieces of humor, with illustrations by Miss Lucy Van Schaick, Hyde and Du Maurier.

A portrait of Francis Parkman by F. Juengling, with biography of the St. Botolph Club, Boston, is reproduced as the frontispiece of The American Magazine, which contains the May issue. Mr. Parkman's conclusive answer to the communist theory that all land should be the property of the State and not of individuals, is presented in a short and very interesting comparative tables of the present Americans state of affairs, followed by a thorough beyond question are correct and modest in the main, strike one at first as being extravagant. The word is a flexible binding. Rev. J. F. Dyson, B.D., Office of A. M. E. S. S. Union, Nashville, Tenn.

Literature.

The frontispiece of the Quiver for May is not a fancy picture, the illustration to a poem as is usually the case, but an incident in the life of the late author. General Grant's habits as to the use of wine and spirits are exactly stated, from trustworthy and personal knowledge, by the Rev Dr. John P. Newman. There are two finished stories in this number; the scene of one, by the Rev C. Van Norden, is laid in the West Indies; of the other, by J. G. Preston, in the mountains of Virginia. Ernest Whitney, E. F. Litzbee, Bessie Chandler, and others contribute poems. Under the head of "Our Ancestors and Ourselves," a description is given of the circumstances under which the earliest American Magazine was published in 1741, with fac smile of the title-page and quaint extracts from the prospectus of that ancient publication. A supplement contains several short essays, chiefly on methods of Christian usefulness, by American divines, among whom are the Revs. G. H. Tiffany, David Swing, W. W. Washburn, and Leonard W. Bacon; letters to the editor, under the heading of "Tinsely Topics," and a "Parcel" of humorous anecdotes, illustrated. The American Magazine has been placed in the editorial charge of William C. Wykoff, for several years a member of the staff of The New York Tribune, and more recently Secretary of the Silk Association of America.

The A. M. E. Quarterly Review for April is elevated thought and interesting topics in a superior manner. It opens with a picture of the late lamented Bishop Cain. Dr. J. C. Embry and W. B. Derrick follow with sketches of the Bishop's life. Dr. Embry is the straightest word picture of prominent characteristics of the life of the Rt. Rev. Richard Harvey Cain. Mr. Derrick's of Dr. Derrick's is a brilliant, comprehensive review. Dr. Sutton E. Griggs, Phillips discusses problem; Dr. Sumner gives a comprehensive review of the powers and duties of trustees. Every trustee in our connection should read and study this article. "Sunset" is a poem of the highest literary merit. "Night" is by Mrs Josephine D. Heard. Rev. John Hurst, the history considers the subject. "Baptism." "Shall our Schools be Mixed?" is answered in the affirmative by the Rev. D. C. Ames, A. M. ministerial article. Miss Lucinda Bragg has a fine article on "Music and Its Relation to It." "National Perils," by W. S. Powell, will well reward its readers. From the pen of the lamented Mrs. Mary Ella Mossell, we have "Domestic School and Home" which the last sentence well the reputation of its departed author. It is full of wise, practical, patient, faithful and thoughtful women of the race-variety. George T. Woodbey contributes a beautiful tribute to his father, in "The Life and Times of Thomas Downing." Part III of "Ambassadorship in Nigritia," by Dr. Blyden, is especially interesting and much more easily understood by the masses than its scholarly part I. Mrs Ella E. Buckner contributes "Yes-day," and "Bermuda." Susan S. McKinney, "Mormons' Infamism," and Thos. V. Gibbs, a sketch of the interesting and serviceable public life of Mr. W. J. Moses, first colored member of the United States Congress and present editor of the Southern Leader. The editorial department has especial attractiveness in "Uncle Allen's Christian Strength." The department is full and strong, as are those of books and magazines.

MINISTERIAL NOTES AND NOTICES

Mr. W. W. Glenn, Meridian, Miss., reports Rev. Wm. Watson, pastor and presiding elder, as succeeding nicely.

Rev. L. Reliff says the West must have a Bishop and nominates Dr. James Matthew Townsend for that office.

Rev. James M. Geory, Belton, Tex., states that Rev. George Conner has undertaken to build a church at Belton.

Rev. W. J. Lewe, Galesburg, Ill., reports, under date of March 28th, some great meeting in progress, nineteen souls converted.

Rev. A. J. Hampton is glad he is an African Methodist because the Church is conducted and supported by colored men. Don't blame him for that.

The Meetecello (Fla.) District Conference sat March 9th on the Mt. Olive Circuit. Unfortunately the correspondent does not give the presiding elder's name.

R. A. Colbert, Sparta, Ga., writes: "Quarterly Conference has been held by Presiding Elder L. H. Smith, April 9th. Missionary Day was attended with good meetings.

Rev. Jesse Montgomery, Mechanicsburg, O., writes: "Dr. T. H. Jackson will baptize several persons here next Sunday. At our series of revival meetings twenty-six persons were converted."

Rev. A. Weelon, presiding elder, announces that the Semler, (S. C.) district conference will meet at Bishopville, April 30th. He desires all the brethren to comm fully prepared to render their reports.

Rev. M. S. Bryant, Presiding Elder of the Hannibal, Mo., District, writes: "I am concerned that the place of meeting of next district conference, owing to inability to accomodation, has been changed from Shelbina, to Paris, Mo., June 1st.

Rev. T. Reves, Oskaloosa, Ia., states that the church there is prospering. Upward of twenty conversions. They have sold the old church and bought with intention of building, in a better part of the town. Sunday school work is doing well. Easter services were well attended.

Presiding Elder W. D. F. Pyle, D.D., Revs. E. Jordan, B. Doyl, and J. Anderson, with Messrs. S. Vaughn and A. Turner, announce that the Bethel College for the Texas Conference to be held at Austin, and the General Conference will sit in Palestine, second day in July. On July 14th the Sunday school convention will sit at Austin.

"Hardy," of Washington, D. C., denies the statement by our worthy Washington correspondent, that Dr. Stevenson either "charged" or received $50 for his recent speech at the Metropolitan. He also states that the white man, Mr. Jardean, is the constructor of the $3,000 organ in the Metropolitan; hence could afford to come to look after his work.

THE MINISTRY AND THE WAGE LABORER.

BY REV. R. M. ARGYLE

Why are intelligent ministers of the gospel so indifferent to the welfare of the poorer classes? Why do ministers oppose laboring men uniting themselves in labor organizations? Why do ministers of the gospel, remain neutral between labor and capital? The press of this country has combined with the capitalist to oppress the poor men; politicians combine against the poor man; and if he does not unite he is left to oppressors, what is he to do? The ministers are a great resource the leaders of our people, yet when our poorer classes begin to look around for some one to better their condition temporally, the ministers as leaders are silent. Our ministers cry, Educate! educate! Economy! economy! Temperance! temperance! Work! work! God! We are to educate ourselves; accumulate wealth; become independent; be men; be courageous; strike for liberty from the terrible curse of ignorance. Boi how, oh, merciful God! Shall we organize in the name of Christ and unite ourselves in one brotherhood, and by the power of God, and the help of the Holy Ghost, and the help of the Holy Ghost, and the help of the Holy Ghost

The advertising genius of Lee Antelope is colossal. The other day Hiram Fowler went to dedicate a church and was interviewed with much success as to the effect of climate on the religious nature of the people.

A "seance" in Boston was stealthily invaded by a police lieutenant on Wednesday, and he turned up the lights when four sizable females were exhibiting. He arrested two of the spacitizens, one male and the other female, and they are awaiting trial on the charge of obtaining money by means of deceit and fraud.

Hair Neglected

Soon becomes dry, harsh, coarse, and full of dandruff; it loses vitality, and turns prematurely gray, or falls out rapidly and threatens early baldness. A careful dressing daily with Ayer's Hair Vigor—the best preparation for the purpose—will restore the hair in all its luxuriance and beauty to a good old age.

"My hair was faded and dry." writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Indianapolis, Ill., "and after using only half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became black and glossy. I cannot express the gratitude I feel."

Frederick F. Cogswell, Bookseller, 31 Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass., writes: "Some six or seven years ago I had a painful spell of nervous illness. In consequence of being side fourteen months entirely bald and was compelled to wear a wig. A few months since I began to apply Ayer's Hair Vigor to the scalp, and, after using three bottles, has a good growth of hair started all over her head. The hair is now thicker than before the illness, and growing freely. The result is a most gratifying proof of the merit of your admirable preparation."

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 5, 1887.

THE SECRETARY OF EDUCATION thinks the outlook for the year encouraging.

AS YET WE are not permitted to tell the brethren who labored to make Missionary Day a success, whether the $10,000 was raised for our African mission.

BETHEL'S oldest child, Wesley Church, Philadelphia, has done for her pastor according to the training of her mother, and has presented him an enstrippped her mother, giving her pastor a donation of $70.

THE INCREASE of crime is no greater than the increase of methods of crime and the power to elude the most subtle inquiries. The increase of those who are related to their murderers by ties of kindred, betrothal or marriage, and murder whose cause cannot be found are also worthy of note. All civilization may well join in the awful expression: Q, murder!

FRAGMENT B. B. GOINS, of the Kittrell School, N. C., attended the Virginia Conference and secured the co-operation of the conference in the future development and management of said school. This is a big step in the right direction. A little more concession in respect to the location of our schools, an increased willingness to support them will give them a successful standing.

WE HAVE resumed the publication of sketches of useful men. There are points of interest in the life of Dr. Johnson, whose sketch appears in this number. Next week will appear a sketch of Rev. James H. A. Johnson, D. D., of Baltimore Conference; the following week a sketch of either Rev. T. Gould, of Philadelphia Conference, or Rev. John Turner, of the Colorado Conference, and so on.

IT IS NOT a favorable comment on the morals of "higher" circles that the death of a great man is the signal for displaying his unfortunate tempers and actions. The public seems quite willing to give the world the "tilt" between General Logan and General Sherman. Logan is beyond the power of answering back. Sherman says "let them come." Of course the living will be left free to make his case good, but if the dead "lion" were allowed to speak it might be different.

HON. H. C. C. ASTWOOD, whose article in the Quarterly Review has been read so extensively, proposes to follow up the ideas therein set forth by an article proposing to change the title of the African M. E. Church to the Allen M. E. Church, thus retaining the A. and a distinction equal to that borne at present. Brother Astwood believes the change would do much to better adapt the Church to modifications constantly going on in the social and religious relations of our people in this country, as well as the work undertaken in the West Coast; in the same time, enable us to press the cause of Christ in Africa and elsewhere with equal success to that possible under any other name. It is deserving of longer young African Methodists.

THE IOWA CODAY failed to find the murderer of the Rev. Dr. Haddock, who was murdered in Sioux City; so three or four men representing the rum power, pounced upon and murdered Dr. W. T. Northrop, at Haverhill, Ohio, last week. Yet men ask, "Is not the sole of strong drink a legitimate business?" The great editor of the Philadelphia Ledger, probably with the belief that a millenium will never come, defers the accomplishment of prohibition till that event transpires. Very soon the rum power itself will force an issue. The cause of whiskey, like the cause of slavery of other days, is so mixed with men's money that men's minds will stick to it against reason and against better moral judgment till driven from their stand by the volume of moral influence now accumulating.

THE PRESENT state of the Church is altogether promising and encouraging. The work in the West and South, where our numbers are greatest, is reported as of consistent men to man at the same time our important charges and the presiding elder offices is one of the reasons the presiding eldership and all other offices in the connection suffer. If our Bishops are to rotate—and there are many in our Church who hope they will do so—we must retain the office in full.

UNFAIR PRESENTATION OF THE NEGRO'S CASE.

The disadvantages under which colored men live in this country appear in nearly every phase of our civilization. If one commits a serious crime or be accused of so doing he is published as "a brutal negro" by many of the papers most friendly to the cause of the colored man's success, giving the race a disadvantage of associated as well as the crime and the criminal. Last week appeared in one of our great city dailies the statement of a single crime by a colored man, "A Brutal Negro," and eight crimes of equal meanness and magnitude, by other men, but saying nothing about what race they represented. Why did they not head these adverticements with, "A Brutal Caucasian," bringing the whole variety before the world's cases with murderers' clothes on? Why is this? Is it because these colored murderers represent their race variety any more truly and in larger ratio than do white murderers—than the Caucasian variety? The statistics of crime as presented in that single paper would not show the negro to be any more likely to murder than the Caucasian. One to eight is not commonly our ratio. The unit must include about 5,000,000 in this country; but, if it were slightly against him in single proportion, would it be in compound proportion, consisting of all legitimate environments?

This wretched way of virtually branding the entire variety with the sins of each individual is but in keeping with the customs of our country throughout its history. The negro is "lazy," "shiftless," "pauperized," "unreliable," "immoral," everything but virtuous; because some negroes are so. This might do, if in turn his prominent good qualities as displayed by a majority of individuals, were given like prominence, or it might do so far as any one of these qualities, represented a majority of the variety. As a matter of fact, if the negro is more dishonest than the Caucasian, it does not appear by any of the common means of illustrating race variety proclivities and qualities. The lower among colored people steal, hardly ever those in whom much confidence is imposed, but with the white wealthy, the cultivated, the honored, the religious men in high places, and they steal in large quantities. The colored men who have risen to positions of honor, trust and high emolument have more than held their prospective integrity and honesty. The black man in America cannot be branded as a rogue nor a moral nuisance.

In Africa everybody accords the race variety with being highly and strictly honest in respect to the cardinal sins of white men. Missionaries tell us that the white man's civilization plays ruin with the African's morals in many respects. The African is not characteristically a liar, a thief or a violator of the Seventh Commandment; so far as his conception of that commandment goes. In respect to it he does not sin against his knowledge and his conscience equally with the white man. If being subject to the vilest lessons that the white men is capable of giving in this country, two hundred and fifty years have not degraded him to an undue proportion of the wickedness of this country, he certainly ought to be relieved from bearing the odium attached to the worst crimes simply because one of 5,000,000 has committed one of these crimes in any instance.

The effect of this misrepresentation is to set men at home against the race and to state to the world abroad that which is American is characteristically a wretchedly bad fellow. Only a few days ago, sitting in a car in the B. & O. Philadelphia depot, a white man told a white woman about having some clothing stolen. The woman asked, with an admissive emphasis, "Was it a darky?" The reply came "No, it was a white man." "O—o," was the reply. This ended the matter. The white people did not receive the effects of the point of this conversation, neither did I; for the fact had been fired off prematurely at the time, many "darky"—used half generically—and the loss of the clothing was all that received for discussion aside from the morality of a white individual.

Beyond question, colored men are too dishonest, so are white men. It would improve the condition of this country greatly if the strong laborers among white men, for the decrease of vice and the increase of virtue would cease offering any obstruction to the greatest progress of the colored race and use the same efforts at co-operation from this source as from any other.

But the negro must stop muttering. He must cease those habits that lead to high crime, or scarcely underlie it. There are some white men and women who are accomplishing much in the way of making it easy for us to do well and grow in grace, but there are many more indifferent or preventive. This make it more incumbent upon us to use the powers within us and the benefits of divine favor.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE NOTES.

BY REV. H. W. TRAVERSE.

As the annual conference approaches the more ardent the brethren are in their efforts to obtain the reports. We anticipate some changes as usual at every session of the annual conference. Some brethren will be disappointed in themselves in the paraphernalia of conference.

Rev. John H. Collett is doing a fine work on Frederick.

The Rev. Henry Hutton has had a glorious revival at Easton.

The Rev. C. W. Fitzhugh, of Annapolis, has also had a glorious revival.

Rev. A. W. Upshur and J. M. Cargill, the former of Providence and the latter of Newport, R. I., paid a visit to the brethren recently. The Rev. J. M. Cargill rendered efficient service at Mt. Moriah A. M. E. Church, Baltimore.

The writer preached a special sermon to the Baltimore Preachers' Meeting, Monday, April 4th.

The Rev. T. W. Goldsborough, of the Quaker Bottom Circuit, who has been suffering from an attack of the vertigo, is now convalescing.

The colored ministers and friends are agitating the question of colored teachers for colored schools. Prominent among these are the Revs. James H. A. Johnson, P. H. Bennett, E. J. Adams and H. M. Ross.

Rev. J. M. Morris, of Port Deposit, was in the city and represents his work in a good condition.

Rev. P. H. Green, of Havre-de-Grace, represents his work prosperous.

The classes of St. John's A. M. E. Church gave a reception and reunion on the evening of the 4th inst. Brother Wm. H. Bright, one of the oldest members of the Church, presided. Bishop Lane was present and made the opening address. Rev. Dr. Derrick followed in a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Lee, of Sharp Street Church, made a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Handy, of Union Church, followed in a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Hood, of Asbury Church, made a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Wheeler, of Madison Street Church, made a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of Bethel Church, made a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of Bethel Church, made a few remarks. Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of Bethel

"No, George," she said very feebly, but gamely, "I cannot be your wife. Father is old and feeble, and since mother's death has no one to care for him but me. If it were otherwise, 'she want on to a lower, softer, sweeter tone, "and I were free to listen to—but ah, no," she finished with a sigh, "it cannot be—it cannot be!" "What's the matter with waiting, dear?" responded George, with infinite tenderness and love, "perhaps the old man may skip soon."—Puck.

FORTUNE'S FAVORITES are those who count fortune—those who are always looking out for and investigating the opportunities that are offered. Send your addresses to Hallett & Co., Portland, Maine, and they will mail you, free, full particulars about work that you can do while living at home, wherever you are located, and earn from $5 to $20 per day and upwards. Capital not required. You are started free. Both sexes, all ages. Some have earned over $50 in a single day. All is new.

A sudden and unaccountable cure of paralysis, without the suggestions of superstitious aid, is reported from Bilin (the Sista), where Isaac Bailey, who previously had to be fed by an attendant, and who had not had the power of his lower limbs for years, got up on Sunday morning, made a bee line for one of the table-linen-stores of the Soldiers' Home by going about as freely as if nothing had ever ailed him.

"THE PROPER STUDY OF MANKIND IS MAN," says the Illustrious Poet. If he had included woman in the list, he would have been nearer the truth, if not so poetical. Mrs. E. V. Pierce has made them both a life study, especially women, and the peculiar derangements to which her delicate system is liable. Many women in all parts of the land have acquainted with Dr. Pierce only through his "Favorite Prescription" bless him with their hearts' hearts, as he has brought them the panacea for all those chronic ailments peculiar to their sex; such as incorrhœa, prolapsus and other displacements, bloating, "internal fever," bleeding, tendency to internal cancer, and other ailments. Price reduced to one dollar. Of druggists.

The books in the British Museum, it is stated, are bound on a principle, historical works being in red, theological in blue, poetical in yellow, and miscellaneous in green. Besides this each part of a volume is stamped with a letter by which it can be distinguished as Museum property, and of different colors, thus, red indicates that a work was presented, that that it came by copyright, and yellow that it was presented.

NO TROUBLE TO SWALLOW Dr. Pierce's "Pellets" (the original "little liver pills") and no pain or griping. Cure sick or bilious headache, sour stomach, dizziness, and constipation. One a dose. Of druggists.

A Hungarian gypsy band, which played on several occasions before the Czar of Russia, was not received with such frank confidence as to induce it so much to make life pleasant. On each occasion their musical instruments were carefully examined by the police before each concert, and they were not allowed to play, during which time the complicated instruments were taken to pieces, and a man in uniform with a gun placed with a policeman stationed behind his back.—Public Opinion.

A Phenomenal Enterprise.

The "Keely Motor" was first heard of about eighteen years ago. Since that time it has had the advantage of being heralded by practical mechanics, scientists, and the contribution of many thousand dollars by enthusiastic shareholders of its stock. One feature serves to keep it alive in the minds of the people: the profound mystery which surrounds its whole being. It is the veritable Modern Sphynx!

Now, tried by the test of RESULTS, what have the developments of eighteen years to show? Some pieces of timber broken, and some missiles shot out of a tube. If anything practical has been accomplished the knowledge of it is the exclusive property of the Sphynx.

When, in any line of human action surprising results have been achieved, there is an innate desire in the mind to investigate such results, and to trace out the relation of cause and effect" in them. As we have seen, great causes may be a long time in operation, with (apparently) trivial results. The "mountain may groan in labor to bring forth a little mouse."

Almost contemporary with the heralding of the "Keely Motor Company" was what we heard of. Let us compare results. That these effects, flowing legitimately from the manufacture and dispensing of our agent, are phenomenal, we think no one will deny, be he friend or foe.

What are some of these? We have ministered to more than 50,000 persons now living, who would at once declare that our ministration has been to them a boon! In consequence, proprietors of sanatariums have, naturally, been stirred up to "put a stop to this thing, you know!" Hence they get learned Professors of Colleges to analyse specimens of Compound Oxygen "Home Treatment," to prove (?) that they contained no curative property. These analyses have been industriously made public by publication. Again, we have excited many physicians to unite in their corporate capacity to crush out the Compound Oxygen Institute. Again, these results have encouraged a small army of imitators to spring up in different parts of the country. Nor is this all. We challenge any man, or set of men, to produce, or to have produced so brilliant a record of cures as we are able and willing to show. It will not detract from the remarkable character of these results to bear in mind that almost the whole of them have been accomplished in the last ten years—the first completing its first decade the present month.

The reluctant admission of our interested enemies is, that our enterprise, as a business, is successful. It is also in evidence that we have treated 50,000 invalids, although each one is required to invest fifteen dollars in order to make the trial. The fact of our success then being established, the question of greatest importance to those who are seeking restoration to health is, what is the secret of it? Of course the first answer to the question is of no concern to them, only as it involves another: "is the financial success legitimate?" In other words, has the enterprise prospered thus, mainly, because it is genuine and a greater good than any other similar agency? According to the solution of these questions we are ready to stand or fall.

What are some of the evidences that we have of our testimonials as his own, till he was threatened with prosecution for so doing. The other class show more courage, at least. They boldly proclaim that they dispense an agent far superior to that of Starkey & Palen's.

Both classes make a bid for patronage by reducing the price of their commodities below that of our Compound Oxygen. Does not our unbroken prosperity prove the superior excellence of our curative agent? And is not this presumptive evidence of its genuineness?

Again, we know positively that many busiwhich we hold to-day. The ness enterprises are built up by grossly fraudulent representations, some by publishing purely fictitious testimonials. We have never published a testimonial for which we had not the voucher, save, possibly, at very few of the earliest ones which may have been lost before we had perfected our system of filing.

Well, what is the force of that? Simply this: the results of our treatment are such that we are not tempted to manufacture testimonials. In this case, at least, truth is stronger than fiction.

Another evidence of the legitimate character of our success is that we can afford to treat our patrons on terms of good faith and "square dealing." We have returned to the senders many hundred dollars which have accompanied orders made conditional upon our favorable judgment in the case. That this kind of conduct is appreciated is proved by the confidence which our patrons are continually practising towards us. It is interesting to know that in not a few cases, after we had, thus permitting an invalid to test our remedy without risk, the patient would, with peremptory order for the Treatment, and numbers of them have got WELL, thus cruelly falsifying our prognosis. But even in this calamity we find it times a crumb of comfort, in the fact that we have restored to prolonged health many invalids who had been pronounced incurable by physicians whose ability to judge could not be reasonably questioned.

Apropos to these cases we will relate a very extreme one. If we could not verify the whole statement by living witnesses we would not dare publish it:

On December 1, 1885, a clergyman brought to our office a victim of laryngeal phthisis—consumption of the throat. Upon examination of the case we said: "we can do you much good. You will have to give up your abominable habit—tobacco—smoke, stimulants, et cetera!" These act merely as props, at the best. Being taken away you will feel let down —miserable for a time. But, once on 'hard pan,' we shall be sure of our ground." He took the Home Treatment.

On the 27th of the next month the clergyman friend called again. He then gave a brief history of his friend's case. He had suffered six years from the effects of the disease—tuberculosis of the larynx. (For the satisfaction of those who do not fear to read long words, we of course must be smart), and who, in fact, has seen less sick than any of our older children, owing, no doubt, to improved ante-natal health of his mother.

My son, sir, whose life was saved by the use of Compound Oxygen Treatment, is now well, and performing greatest labor as a writer and speaker. Outside of my family, many very critical cases have been cured or greatly benefited by our agent, and permit me to particularize. I write this to answer the many inquiries I have received as to the permanency of the cures, etc., many having conceived the idea that, like many quack nostrums, it might afford temporary relief only. Now I can cheerfully say that permanency of cure is one of its chief virtues. By publishing this I have no doubt I shall greatly enlighten the public on this point, and save me the answering so many letters on the subject.

I am, more sincerely than ever, T. VROOMAN.

We have hundreds of other testimonials, copies of which may be had for the asking.

We have something more to say upon Compound Oxygen as a wonderful healing agent, and may appear to you again in these columns before many days.

In the meantime do not fail to send to our address for a brochure of 200 pages. It will be mailed to you free on request, and will furnish some entertaining and profitable reading. If consumption or any other ailment you will be likely to also get a monograph upon that affection. Address STARKEY & PALEN, 1529 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Read! Read!

We have just received, and have on sale at our Book Room, the following list of splendid new books:

"Bible Teachings From Nature," by Rev. J. Smith, D. D. Price, $1.50.

"Capital for Working Boys," Price, $1.00.

This is a capital book in every sense of the word.

"General Grant from the Tannery to the White House." Price, $1.50.

This book tells us in a pleasant and simple way the whole story of the humble life of Grant from boyhood to the grave. Send your order at once.

"What to Get for Breakfast." Price, $1.00.

This book is just the thing for our ladies.

"Tact, Push and Principle," by Wm. M. Thayer. Price, $1.50.

Who of us does not need this book? Well, send for it and you'll be glad.

"Recitations and Reading for Young People."

This book is mostly a collection of poetry on many subjects of nature and history, &c. Handsomely bound, it is well suited for the parlor and leisure hours.

Next we offer a splendid home book on the life of Abraham Lincoln. "Pioneer Home" is a book that no one can read and perish by. It is good for all classes.

Next, we call you to our two last and best of all. We have just received from the publishers "Morning Hour." Here is found a scripture lesson, of five or eight verses, for every morning in the year, and a command on the teaching of the passage by Rev. J. H. Earle, D. D., the Rev. Dr. Evangelist, a large octavo, handsomely bound. Only $2.00.

The other book we speak of is a hymnal, called "Songs of the Church," by Rev. A. B. Earle. It contains nearly all of the very best songs that have been used for the last thirty years. It is not a "trashy" thing that will blow away in a breeze, but a winnowed company of golden songs that will do us good to sing, and especially vital. No church or congregation can sing these songs and not get "warm" in the love of God. Send for it, and be the salt, the fit and the unfit, the proper and the improper, will be seen to be upon the companionship of vicious persons and induce him to seek the society of the virtuous.

This disposition and this explanation of the Lord's Prayer, and the Lord's Supper, is a natural, logical and scientific process suited to the threefold nature of man. In this critique we shall not appeal to the writings of any of the writers on moral science, ancient nor modern, but to the Scriptures, the Bible and the prophets—to the Infallible Word, the Holy Ghost. In their light Bishop Turner has gone to univerch himself, and there shall we go to dislodge him.

1) Before the formal announcement of any bloody tyrannical or fiendish atonement of sin and human regeneration, we have just read the statement that first inspired teacher of ethics, "And the Lord said, Shall I hide from Abraham the thing which I do, seeing that Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him? For I know him, that he will command his children and his household after him, and they shall keep the way of the Lord, to do justice and judgment; that the Lord may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him." These history—inspired—gives us the basis for a true system of moral education. The father is the instructor, the teaching is in the home circle—and, the end is that the children and every member of his household may discriminate between justice and the injustice, between a truth and a lie, between right and wrong, between the good and the bad, in order that in every act of the moral judgment their acquisitions might be in harmony with the will of God, the will of God is moral law, from which legally flows "moral education." which Bishop Turner denounces as "a humbug."

b) Moses is not only the first man authorized to give us some sketch of moral education; he is also the first man divinely commissioned to teach moral principles and moral sentiments, and he was divinely commissioned to formulate these principles into the shape of what we call Decalogue, or moral code or moral law. This was given first to the Jewish Church and to the ancestors of the Christ has become the rule of life for the Christian Church.

c) The first four of these laws relate to every man's religious life; the last six to every man's social life. The first four prohibit the worship of any being and any thing but the Lord God Almighty. The last six prohibit any action and every action injurious to the happiness, from our life, and commend our brothers down to the most distant neighbor. Hence obedience to parents and honoring parents is commanded and the converse prohibited. Killing is prohibited and the converse commanded. Adultery is prohibited and the converse commanded. Stealing is prohibited and the converse commanded. Covetousness is prohibited and the converse commanded.

d) But Moses does not stop with writing down a code of morals on tables of stone; by divine authority he commissioned the Jewish people to teach these laws diligently to their children, when sitting in the house, walking in the streets, lying down in their beds and rising up out of their beds. And Moses, did not content with this requirement Moses said, "lest your days and the days of your children be multiplied upon the land which the Lord sware unto your fathers to give them, as the days of heaven upon the earth." Moses was the first man to teach the doctrine of heredity. He first taught that the character of the children was dependent upon the character of the parents. This inspired leader commends Israel to give his children moral education, and tells them not to regard it as a trivial thing, because life and longevity depend upon it. Moses was the first man to teach practice; but the unlimpaired prostate says "it is false and misleading." One thing, perhaps, above all characteristics of Moses as a leader of God's people is the fact that he never separates the idea of religion from that of morals, the antagonism religion and morality. But Jesus Christ—greater than Moses, separates and antagonizes them!

Having heard the inspired leader of Israel on what he thinks the language of the post king, the warrior king, the prophet king of Israel on the subject of moral education, we will

2) Go the very first psalm he begins with moral ideas. Hear him, "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful; but his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night." Here we have the beauty and force of the blessed man who delights in the law of the Lord. The law of the Lord and whose delight is that of the Lord, never forgets it. David means the Ten Commandments—only four of which have the religious tone. The six are the ones that teach the moral perfume.

Again in the 15th Psalm, "Lord, who shall abide in thy tabernacle? Who shall dwell in thy holy hill? He that walketh uprightly, and worketh righteousness and speaketh the truth in his heart. He that backbiteth not with his tongue nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor. In whose eye a vile person is contemned; but he honoreth them that fear the Lord. He that sweareth to his own hurt and changeth not; he that putteth not out his money to usury, nor taketh reward against the innocent. He that doeth these things shall never be moved." In this psalm we find the same question and reply, and actions affirmed as a worthy member of the Church of the living God, and the same actions denied as unworthy. In these two psalms we find moral principles enunciated and applied with the adult servants of God, not children, but men. They are all the time educating their moral sentiments to be more fore, valued by the inspired songster than the gold of Ophir or the wealth of Bishop as "humbuggery." The same moral code is found in the 24th Psalm and the 119th Psalms. The study of the works of God in nature and in history is necessary to keep the delight of this great man; but it is equally true of the law of God, and the law, the life of the leader of God's people, he never separates religion from morals, but never errors them in conflict with each other.

3) Now listen to the views on the importance of moral education, especially in behalf of children and youth. He expresses himself in the 78th Psalm: "Give ear, O my people, to my law; incline your ears to the words of my mouth. I will open my mouth in a parable; I will utter dark sayings of old, which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us. We will not hide them from their children, showing to the generation to come the praises of the Lord and his strength and his wonderful works that he hath done. For he established a testimony in Jacob and appointed a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers that they should make them known to their children; that the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born, who should arise and declare them to their children: that they might set their hope in God and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments, and might not be as their fathers, a stubborn and rebellious generation, that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit was not steadfast with God." In this does not give us authority to teach the religious sentiments as essential principle, in the family, and through the family in the Church, but he does give us authority to teach the moral principles as essential principles, and to teach them in the family. The inspired leader commends Israel to give his children moral education, and tells them not to regard it as a trivial thing, because life and longevity depend upon it. Moses was the first man to teach practice; but the unlimpaired prostate says "it is false and misleading." One thing, perhaps, above all characteristics of Moses as a leader of God's people is the fact that he never separates the idea of religion from that of morals, the antagonizes religion and morality. But Jesus Christ—greater than Moses, separates and antagonizes them!

Having heard the inspired leader of Israel on what he thinks the language of the post king, the warrior king, the prophet king of Israel on the subject of moral education, we will Hear him, "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful; but his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in his law doth he meditate day and night." Here we have the beauty and force of the blessed man who delights in the law of the Lord. The law of the Lord and whose delight is that of the Lord, never forgets it. PHILADELPHIA, MAY 12, 1887.

THE STATISTICS of our Church as shown by conference minutes indicate a large increase of members during the past twelve months.

TRUSTEES OF Wilberforce, observe the Secretary's call to attend their meeting, which will be held on Tuesday, June 14, 1887.

"INQUIRER" will find the 9th verse of the 8th chapter of Esther the longest in the Bible. It contains ninety words and four hundred and twenty-five letters.

THE Philadelphia Preachers' Meeting of last Monday passed resolutions of appreciation of the mission of Bishop Campbell and Dr. Townsend, who were present.

AS we go to press, we learn that Bishop Campbell and Secretary Townsend will immediately to San Domingo, instead of Hayti, this day—Thursday—on the steamer Clyde.

CHILDREN'S DAY is near us. Less than a month to June 12th; yet all have been preparing for the day, more or less, by thinking the general work carefully and thoroughly.

THE CANTATA of QUEEN ESTHER was rendered at Horticultural Hall, this city, Thursday evening. The work was the study of any minister who does not feel too old to learn. The Rev. W. H. Moore of the North Alabama Conference, seems to get at his presiding elder work most after the manner of Presiding Elder Strange.

THE SECRETARY OF MISSIONS says the $10,000 has not been reached, but returns are much better than last year. He thinks it strange that so many brethren delay reporting and that each indifference marks the course of so many others; some have taken no missionary collection, others having taken up collections on missionary day, but sent only a very small part to missionary headquarters Strange it is. A study of the subject will show that the loyal, liberal one has will be in just as good condition a year hence as the tight-fisted, narrow churches.

AN INQUIRER wishes to know whether a pastor should receive pay for the Sunday on which he is absent. The custom of the laity have many rights which the pastor is bound to respect, but the pastor also has a fee that the laity generally feel is to be respected. The layman would hardly pay a pastor wages for his absence from church on any given Sunday. The pastor is no more bound to the layman than the layman to the pastor. Members may be in duties away from their regular pulpits as well as laymen from their regular pews. Doubtless each finds it to his advantage, as a matter of duty, to be in his place as much regularly as possible.

THE REV. A. J. MILLER reports over two hundred conversions in the Natchez church; one hundred and thirty-seven accessions to our Church. More than thirty must have gone to other churches. Well, thank God that he has used us to swell the number in the kingdom, regardless of the sect connections.

WILL THE CLASS-MEETING have to go? This would be answered in the affirmative are Christians exempt from sorrow, disappointment, bereavement, temptations and losses; but while these remain, though the majority declare against the class meeting, there will be a precious minority clinging to it for a long while.

FROM A LETTER from Meridian, Miss., we learn that the colored Baptist Church has been destroyed by fire and from the S outhwestern Advocate that the M. E Church in the same town has been likewise destroyed. These churches are in the popular part of Mississippi. Whether this had anything to do with their destruction does not appear.

SECRETARY ARNETT reports the condition of general Church finance as much better than at any previous time during the past seven years, notwithstanding the eppulent given the Metropolitan Church. Most of the episcopal districts have made a large advance on the work of their first three years' work in the previous quadrennium.

MR. BENJAMIN F. GOULD, of Bridgeton, N. J., cousin of the editor of the RECORDER, met with death in a sad manner a few days ago. He was working in a sand pit, getting out moulding sand, when the bank caved in on him, killing him instantly. He was a young man of excellent character. His bereaved parents have our sincere sympathy.

RELIGION FOR this world is the chief event of men. The full display of Christianity in this life is the sign of a fit religion for peace in the life to come. The constant working out of salvation in fear and trembling is the strongest sign of saving faith in Christ. To claim the benefits of the atonement while doing nothing else but believing is to show lack of the only merit we can bring—obedience.

THE COLUMBIA (S. C.) CONFERENCE has set apart the fourth Sunday in May as a day for a general rallying in behalf of Allen University. Vice-President S. H. Jefferson, of the Board of Trustees, has issued an urgent card to each member of the conference asking for at least 10 cents per member. This ought to be realised easily. In all probability it will be; for Carolina is justly proud of her school.

THEOCON THE courtesy of the Rev. F. J. Peck, M. D., Topeka, Kans., we have received copies of the Fifth Biennial Report of the State Board of Agriculture, Kansas, and from Auditor McCabe Fifth Biennial Report of Auditor of Kansas. Both are full of valuable statistics. Mr. McCabe has made a good record, as one of the few grand men of the North placed in so responsible a position by white men's votes largely.

THE SOUTHERN BIVOUAC has been absorbed by the tuxury. The Biennial has been a vigorous magazine in the especial interest of the Southern idea of the civil war. Its services were appreciated by those who like to read as seen by others as well as themselves. Many of the popular stories of colonial days, in which prominent parts were played by Southern men, were recast by the Bivouac and certain long standing tenets were controverted.

REV. JACKSON STRANGE, of Portsmouth (Va.) District, Virginia Conference, seems hardly to get into the saddle after his appointment before his circulars of blank reports, etc., are in the hands of ministers of his district. His style, clear-cut and terse, is next to the study of any minister who does not feel too old to learn. The Rev. W. H. Moore of the North Alabama Conference, seems to get at his presiding elder work most after the manner of Presiding Elder Strange.

THE SECRETARY OF MISSIONS says the $10,000 has not been reached, but returns are much better than last year. He thinks it strange that so many brethren delay reporting and that each indifference marks the course of so many others; some have taken no missionary collection, others having taken up collections on missionary day, but sent only a very small part to missionary headquarters Strange it is. A study of the subject will show that the loyal, liberal one has will be in just as good condition a year hence as the tight-fisted, narrow churches.

AN INQUIRER wishes to know whether a pastor should receive pay for the Sunday on which he is absent. The custom of the laity have many rights which the pastor is bound to respect, but the pastor also has a fee that the laity generally feel is to be respected. The layman would hardly pay a pastor wages for his absence from church on any given Sunday. The pastor is no more bound to the layman than the layman to the pastor. Members may be in duties away from their regular pulpits as well as laymen from their regular pews. Doubtless each finds it to his advantage, as a matter of duty, to be in his place as much regularly as possible.

THE SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN Advocate publishes a private letter addressed to its editor by a friend, among other things, making some silly strictures on the law of the A. M. E. Church, and the inclination of an African Methodist minister to politics. The writer acknowledges that he himself has fallen from grace. It would seem that he and the African Methodist minister both stand in need of the prayers of all good people. We should like to hand this Indiana African Methodist minister, who leads men into the lower views of political slums, over to the tender mercy of Bishop Campbell, but, alas! the Advocate gives the name of neither the minister nor the A. M. E. preacher.

AT THE recent session of the Interstate Railroad Commission at Atlanta a colored delegation, composed of J. S. Flipper, H. A. Rucker, J. N. Blackshear and J. W. Yeney, appeared before the commission setting forth the wrongs suffered by colored persons traveling through the South. Their bill of items was exceedingly strong, but will they be heard? There can be little doubt that the commission will receive itself from action on this subject on the ground that it was not the intention of the bill that it should regulate matters of this kind. It can certainly do this as well as the Supreme Court could declare the Civil Rights bill unconstitutional.

IT is pitiable to see the list of books by colored persons with the authors' names as they appear in some catalogue. With little care more accuracy could pertain as to both books and authors' names. Why not publish the names carefully? The following list might be added:

"Domestic Education," Bishop D. A. Payne.
"Church Polity," Bishop H. M. Turner.
"Sermons Revised," Rev. T. G. Steward.
"Death, Hades and the Resurrection," Rev. T. G. Steward.
"Systematic Divinity," Rev. T. G Steward.
"Autobiography," Rev. David Smith.
"Autobiography," Richard Allen.
"Book of Poems," Mrs. F. E. W. Harper.
"History of A. M. E. Z. Church," Bishop Moore.
"History of African Methodism in Texas," Prof. H. T. Kealing.
"Dies et Mea Dona," Gen. B. W. Roberts.
"Wool Dyer," Lieut. H. O. Flipper.
"A Brand Plucked from the Burning," Mrs. Foote.

THE MOST ministerial success is that won by a consistent serving of Him who maketh his ministers flaming fire. The minister is the friend of mankind, but in bearing a message of warning to sin, he may be taken as the enemy of the sinner. This has been so from the first. Always a man accused of a charge with flying colors, having left little positive good in the field, other than conversions. These are all to be placed to his credit by the council on earth and the council in heaven, the great Captain of our exhibition has by example and precept made it obligatory upon all ministers to teach rivals as well as to warn men against sin indifference to the blood of Christ. A minister who is conscientious should be unsatisfactory if it has not modified the general life of a community more or less.

THERE ARE several ministers in the Philadelphia Conference who are doubtless glad to see this week, they having been without work all the year, though men were transferred into their conference and given work and young men on probation last conference were given work. Wise as all this may have been, the mischief has not likely appeared to them. Conference should count their appointments, their available men and their conference strength, when candidates are presented for admission. The point where action must begin is at the time of reception. If men who are presented are worthy and well qualified, there being already as many men as appointments, these candidates must be sent back for proper instructions. There is no excuse for the promotion of men who are largely unqualified.

THE SURVIVAL OF THE FITTEST

This doctrine as taught by many scientists has a sort of general following by all men, but if it is a truth, there must enter into the meaning of the term finest many things generally overlooked; for they that survive and they that fall seem very much alike. This is true in whatever realm we may choose to make inquiry. The whole system of existence is supported by principles chiefly beyond human knowledge and has nothing else so clear and so definite as revelation. But revelation, thus far, has not opened to inquiring men the secret chambers wherein are hidden the springs of life so that he can some into other relation to them than that of faith. This much is revealed: that in the end right will prevail; but that does not imply that in reaching that end the right shall not suffer greatly, or that the survival of the fittest in this sense destroys the less fit. In all the contests in life there play many elements unknown. Good and evil are associated so very generally that were the results left to facts for which we can account by our own investigation it is hard to tell which would conquer, but facts for which we cannot account, but which we accept because stated by scripture, are taken into account and we believe in the ultimate success of righteousness.

Canon Wilberforce lectured in Philadelphia on the topic of intemperance. "The Enemy of the Anglo-Saxon Race," as if the subversion of that race were all the world existed for, or that Christ died for, or if the salvation of that race guaranteed the salvation of the human race. The notion has apparently stolen into the minds of many members of that race that the "fittest" for survival is the race that has done most.

In our approach to this category the first thing that confronts us is the color-line. Whether it be white race or color-chasm or color-gulf, since Ives suggested something which we have now seen, or blotted out or broken down, trodden under foot, matters not.

The color breach is as destructive as Negara and as deep as Hades. It is an impassable gulf in the sight of slavery, which the monster casts incessantly into the air during his fiery dance in the full state at his unsuspecting victim on the other side. Its presence should be does the air with its din of confusion and terrific roar, mean it uptorns dirt and rock and the sand and gravel, whatever the objects it cannot reach. O, monster of hell, thy power is great! O, fiery despot, I hate thee Thou art neither God nor devil, but a thing which has intellect thyself x creature of color, thou hast no name. Is white a color, an idea, or a thing? Is it a theological philosophy and has thy science from the Bible? Is it a thing which has a name whither art thou tending? Thou wast conceived in iniquity and born from the womb of slavery. Thou art of thy father the devil and thy mother is queen of all passions dark and base. Thou hast no thou dost to augment human safety, what to destroy the peace of my people? is thy mission not yet ended, after thy long reign of terror? After all conquests acts of cruelties, thy illicit legislations, thy wholesale butcheries, thy atrocious deeds of lust, thy unbridled ambition, vanity and blood, dost thou still live? Thy day is long in its duration, but thy sun is setting, O, tempora! O, mores! Thou wilt be judged in the name of Jesus, and thou shalt be driven forever and ever from this asylum of the oppressed and the outcast thee in the name of humanity we say, in the name of God, by the wrongs upon a people too magnanimous for retaliation, too merciful to wreak on beseech thee in the name of God, by the wrongs upon a people too merciful to retaliation, too merciful to wreak on beseech thee in the name of God, by the atrocious deeds of the past, by the day of terrible consequences, to forever quit our shores. Thy ghastly form, thy ghostly shadow, thy spectre-like presence, thy cursed pen portray or picture, will all soon shall vanish forever. Thy delighful balloon and its dragon stag is extracted.

NORTH CAROLINA LETTER.

BY REV. WILLIAM H. GILES.

The Rt. Rev. J. F. Campbell, D.D., LL.D., has promised to visit us soon. We are making preparations for him and all the people will be glad to see and open to see him when he comes.

March 31, 1887, 11th, 1887, Arah graduated from the Normal and Theological Department of the Rt. Rev. Bishop Campbell presided over the holding-a-class exercises. Bishop Campbell delivered the diploma. Rev. Dr. Basnet performed the ceremony.

It seems there that is no rest for the R. R. Church in the State. There was one to be some trouble in the Wilmington district. Rev. Dr. Basnet witnesses the Rev. A. J. Chambers and Rev. Mr. Lee.

Fayetteville, under the pastoral care of Rev. J. S. Brown, is prospering. Sunday, April 3rd, was his grand rally day A Prayer meeting at 4:30 o'clock A. M. preceded the day. The Sunday school numbering 376 scholars, met at 9:30 o'clock. Rev. C. C. Jones preached an able discourse at 11 o'clock A. M. Rev. J. J. Cain preached, after which the pastor very nice pair was given at the Supper. The evening services were conducted by the pastor assisted by the day eleven persons joined the church. Rev. Mr. Lott has been elected Collector of Patron, Ill. He is the first colored man ever elected to such a position in that State.

Rev. B. W. Lee, of Smithfield, N. C., member of our church Financial Board spent an hour in our office last week. He is recovering his health slowly.

The Darby, Pa., church gave Rev. H. Brice, their pastor, a reception last Friday night. Brother Brice has served them faithfully four years; they can afford to show their appreciation thus.

The Metropolitan folks gave Dr. Steward a handsome recognition of their esteem in the shape of his service as pastor at Wesley for the purpose of getting married. Let us pray for him, for he is a young man of great promise.

The library of the State University at Chapel Hill contains 46,000 volumes. These books are for the use eyes and brains of the white man only, as by the law of the Faculty Brother L. S. A. Murphy has been admitted into the library on equal footing with the professors and students. He is the first colored man to receive such recognition as the University of North Carolina. This demonstrates the principle that, as a people become more and more virtuous and educated the more will we receive recognition at the hands of our white brethren. In order to make the Children's Day Day a success; the many new and well organized ideas just issued by the Sunday School Union and its work by Bishops, presiding elders, district stewards, and pastors throughout the whole Church; and the resolutions favorable to the Union and commending its work which were adopted by district and annual conferences and Sunday school conventions, warrant the belief that the sum collected this year in Children's Day Money will exceed any collection hitherto taken on that day.

Pastors will be guided by the following information:

Rev. Dr. Jubilee Gem has been mailed to the post-office address of each pastor, as given in the minutes of the annual conference. We have sent to each pastor one envelope containing a supply of Jubilee Gems as he reported officers and scholars, at the annual conference. In the case of districts where two annual conferences are held, we sent sufficient with the law, under the commissionership, to supply the inexplicable if the statement as to the number of scholars was not correct.

The only answer to the riddle is the old one—"The boy lied."

4th Do not send us postage stamps. We shall destroy them this year.

The other day, a bicycle was seen coming down the principal avenue in New York. A tricycle stood by its side, and fifteen more bicycles were stacked on the church grass. Their owners were attending the marriage of a wheelman and his wheelwoman. Some day we shall see a bicycle and tandem, loaded with fresh paint colors, and wheeling away on their marriage trip for a twenty-hundred mile ride.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat accepts the statement of certain liquor dealers that "the use of liquor is a cure for many diseases when skilfully used." Kansas sees chiefly the demi-monde; and expresses itself puzzled by the fact that the men who consume the liquor do so well satisfied with the law, under the commissionership, to supply the inexplicable if the statement as to the number of scholars was not correct.

If a minister is deeply conscious of entering his parish at Sabbath with a message from God on the most important subject, and finds upon his inferior away thirty, forty, forty-five or fifty members in attendance, a quiet, hearty, spiritual singing and simple, inspiring worship, and the people manifestly prepare and qualify both speaker and hearers for the Gospel sermon; but, when refreshed by the worship, instead, &c., answers, can we wonder at an impatient desire to know the reason why our ministers on themes Divine?

The only answer is, the lack of a dedicated, perfect, digested, and the darker hell is ringing in the stomach, before the real object of the assembly appears. When thirty-five to forty five minutes are gone before you begin to speak, the opportunity you have wished for and prayed over all the week is gone, too. Attention is occupied with physical questions, special collections or announcements of sacrifice, society meetings, concerts, suppers, lectures, excursions, picnics, or worse, the silent, official business, etc., etc. How will you answer to your Lord for such unnecessary and sad perversion of the precious hour in which he expects you to preach him and to offer up the salvation of these congregations kindly that hereafter all will be read for the minister before the time of public worship. Ask the stewards to take the collection after preaching. Let the Lord's Supper, during which the people are not free to attend to the sermon, be administered at the close of the sermon, and not before. Let the sermon be the first thing in order after the opening prayer and singing. Then you will accumulate an honest fortune, and confer the greatest blessing on your fellow-men that was ever conferred on mankind.

A STUDENT'S TESTIMONY.

My wife and I were troubled for years with blotches, moth patches and pimples on our face, which nearly ruined our beauty. We spent nearly one hundred dollars on the thousand infallible (?) cures, with nothing but injurious effects. A kind friend, of Syracuse, N. Y., who had had similar experience, and had been cured with Hop Bitters, induced her to try it. One bottle has made her face as smooth as her hands, and I am free to say that I think Hop Bitters is the most powerful, speedy and effective blood purifier and beautifier of the day. Not a blotch, pimple or blemish can be seen on her face, and I think I have gained a few pounds in flesh.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility, is desirous of making it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. A Phenomenal Enterprise.

(Advocate No. 11.)

A little time since an article with this caption appeared in these columns, accompanied by a hint that there might be a sequel.

There we attempted to make the impression that in the Compound Oxygen we possess the safest, the most pleasant, and the most powerful curative agent that has ever been known. We endeavored to substantiate this by giving evidence of various results of our labors in this field.

We gave in evidence that although it cost each one of them fifteen dollars to make the trial, we have been patronized by more than 20,000 people, who are ready to declare now that the Compound Oxygen has been a boon to them; that our success has stirred up a small army of imitators in different parts of the country, that physicians have considered our success of sufficient importance to make a united effort in their corporate capacity, to brush out the Compound Oxygen.

There are other evidences of the sterling character of our Compound Oxygen Treatment, showing that we deserve success in the enterprise. Four or five years ago, as has been stated above, a number of interested persons—not interested in the public weal so much as in the plethora of their own pockets—procured samples, (so they say), of Compound Oxygen and got them analyzed by about a half dozen professors of chemistry in as many different colleges and universities. These professors analyzed over their own names, that the samples analyzed did not contain one ingredient possessing an iota of curative power. These statements, backed with the weight of such ponderous and multitudinous credentials, were published broadcast.

What institution that deals directly with the public could withstand assaults like these? Not those, unless it were founded and made up of the most sterling elements?

What were our means of defense?

First.—They gave no evidence that any of the analysts had manipulated a specimen of our Compound Oxygen.

Second.—We brought forward the statement published in every edition of our Brochure, that:—"It is a preparation of which chemists know nothing, and it differs essentially from all other substances used in medical inhalations."

Third.—We put in as a rebuttal, (in the event of their having analyzed a specimen of our Home Treatment), the names and testimonials of Judges, Congressmen, Clergymen, Authors and others; whose intelligence and integrity are admitted by no one, in all of which cases the results of the Compound Oxygen Treatment had astonished them and their friends.

Do you wish to know the effect of these calumnious assaults? At first there was a manifest falling off in our business, but in the years immediately following, the increase was greater than it had been before.

Now in the chronological analysis merits a moment's consideration; mainly because there are still some interested specialists who continue to publish their belief, based upon said analyses, that there is nnt a particle of curative power in the Compound Oxygen. None of the analysts (and it is slightly amusing that no two results of these analyses are at all alike), pretend that there is anything the least harmful in the Compound Oxygen, but simply that it is inert! Why then will not those who are interested in publishing these assaults have the decency to explain how it is that we have accomplished in so many thousand cases, many times over what themselves have been able to do? Surely, if our compound is inert, that of others must be doing an immensity of harm!

In the above we have endeavored to give our readers a jen-spicture of our business. We wish to show them a little of the trouble which we occupy to those whom we are able and willing to help. If we have made ourselves appear conceited, it is from a multitude of confirmatory facts which lie at our hand.

There is one feature in our enterprise to which we attach a good deal of importance, and which we here express, at the risk of appearing to give further evidence of our conceit. We claim to be competent, educated, skillful and practical physicians. We devote our requirements in this line to watching over and caring for the welfare of our patients, so long as they remain under treatment. In this work, which has long since increased beyond the ability of two men to meet, we have the assistance of four other active medical graduates.

With all these advantages, and we earnestly believe from to be superior to those possessed by any other similar institution in the world, we are not ashamed to acknowledge ourselves as candidates for the confidence and patronage of those who are earnestly seeking for lost health.

"But, do you cure everybody?" Happily, no! The age of miracles is past. We refuse to treat any who apply to us, because disease has made them completely its own. There are many others whose condition is such that only a trial can determine upon which side of the fatal line any given case may be. It is a painful and damaging experience to secure a trial of a remedial agent, by holding out hopes that will be disappointed. But knowing what has been accomplished in many seemingly desperate cases, we prefer, at times, to risk our reputation as prognosticators, and the censure of the friends, to losing one chance for the life of the sufferer.

There are other circumstances over which we have no control, which cause failures. The statement of cases in writing, by the patients, or their friends, is liable to decided imperfections. Again, human nature presents very diverse phases. It is no less eccentric when it manifests itself through a body tortured and warped by disease. Is it not easy to see the difficulty of securing the conditions necessary to a successful issue of the Treatment in any given case, especially with patients whom we never see?

We have now said our modest "say" about Compound Oxygen. Some writer, in the near future, will make this appear like puny tatalizers in the light of developments which are now transpiring in the line of this phenomenal enterprise.

No one who keeps up with the current literature can fail to be struck with the evidences of mental activity in these developments. A healing agent which cures almost all the ills that flesh is heir to, by restoring the whole nervous system, centres, trunks and branches, from foundation to keystone, and through these channels the whole body to a state of healthful integrity, is indeed a boon. Such a healing agent can but modify, if it do not revolutionize the healing art in every department.

Now we have said the least that can be truthfully said of the Compound Oxygen. It will be a good word who will say the lawful best."

In the above it may be thought that we have made many assertions without verification. We are ready to be put to the test of proving them all. But the proof of them is of less interest to those in search of lost health than the proof that others, like themselves, have been successful. Of course for want of space we can give you very few, but they are taken from hundreds of others equally worthy of publication.

A PRESIDING JUDGE'S EXPERIENCE.

"Rev. T. O. Steward, D. D.

"Dear Sir:—As you are aware, I have been a subscriber for the Brooklyn Christian Recorder for many years, and have read with much interest and profit the contributions of Compound Oxygen, but as I have suffered from this terrible disease. The time came when I had to resign my pastoral charge, and for two years I was unable to preach. I was confined to my house most of the time, and suffered untold agony. Among all the disorders who have used it, do not know of one who has been benefited more than myself. I feel that I owe it to suffering humanity to say what it has done for me, and I hope that all who are afflicted with Asthma will give it a fair trial. I feel that I have received new life and vigor since using it, and am able to preach the Gospel with power and unction. I am sincerely grateful for what it has done for me, and would take this method of saying so.

Yours truly,

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 19, 1887.

IT WILL BE observed that Bishop Payne calls the meeting of the Bishops for July 27th, at Cape May. This fact states that the joint meeting of Bishops of the A. M. E. and A. M. E. Z. Churches will take place at Long Branch in August.

"THE A. M. E. CHURCH" is the name of a miniature paper published monthly by Rev. R. M. Chaska to represent the church in Africa. This is a wise step. All pastorates would be doubly effective were this auxiliary used. Such a paper might contain forecasts of sermons as well opinions of strong points in preceding sermons and notes on Sunday school lessons.

A CARD DATED May 12th, from Rev. J. W. Malone, presiding elder, Des Moines Iowa, states that the Rev. J. W. Taylor died in that city May 9th, leaving just fifteen days of three years since the Rev. G. W. Hann died in the same charge and but about five since the stalwart Cheeke lay down to rest in the same city. All three were young and apparently healthy men. This lends to the thought that should these men go to an especial missionary work in Africa and fall within five years, the climate charges that African civilization and Christianization are too expensive. Hint it all pays. Christianity by African Methodism is bringing thousands of souls to the altar that would otherwise rust out. Thank God that he counts no mete for our Master's use.

THE CHURCH is called upon especially to remember Bishop Campbell and Dr. Townsend in prayer. Their mission is fraught with greater interest than many may think. For forty years there has been more or less talk about an episcopal visit from our Church to Hayti. This is the realization of the talk. When Bishop Campbell shall have visited San Domingo, Hayti, perhaps St. Thomas and Trinidad, and returned to us, we shall know a little about what's under God, we are doing in the West Indies. There could be no fitter person to accompany the Bishop than Dr. Townsend, who possesses the confidence of all at home in the interest of that both here and abroad. To this it is quite necessary to know somewhat of the foreign field by actual personal observation. These brethren expect to return to us in July. When they reach San Domingo, they will communicate with the Church through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

STILL THERE is too much why all committee of by colored men, too much by all colors of men. Our pulpits most pay more attention to the morals of the people. No spiritual enthusiasm can be too great in setting forth the efficacy of the blood of Christ, the one fact that must ever remain a wonder to men and angels, but the teachings of Christ exist to resurrection of the moral life. If it is true, as it appears to be, that colored men are as good as other men, still we must cry out for reform, improvement. Sometimes those "colored" are going down under the weight of immorality which they are placing upon themselves, then a race morally hardly must take up the business of civilization. Why shall the not be the African race? But, if the white race does not go down, yet must we work up in the moral life; for surely we cannot secure a proper place among men till we shall put on a higher grade of manliness. We have an enormous work to do, but, under God, "we are able." Let us strike sin with earnest blows, let us exert ourselves in behalf of purer lives.

THE ARRANGEMENTS for the ecclesiastical of African Methodism are being made as rapidly as possible. If, at their session in July, our good Bishops should appoint on especial agent to act as commissioner from them to inform the people concerning the day by regularly prepared circulars from time to time, make personal appeals to as many congregations as possible and take in hand in a general way the arranging for meetings at central points. There are ministers who could enter upon this work and make it successful.

Committees are usually unwieldy when composed of persons living long distances apart, as must be the case with this committee. A lively centennial commissioner would have his hands quite full to make proper arrangements by November. If something of this kind is not done, we shall come for short of such results as should be resolved. Of course such commissioners should work in harmony with the general committee and would make work for the committee. It will be well if the Bishops can see their way clear to make such appointment.

ACCORDING to the report of the Commissioner of Education for 1885-'85 there are 19,222 schools educating colored children. In the late slave States there are 4,315,556 white and 22,093,398 colored children who ought to attend school, about 62 per cent. of the eligible white children and about 54 per cent. of the eligible colored children attending schools. This comparison is reduced to the figures which we have to people, but taken alone we still have 40 out of every one hundred eligible to school advantages failing to enjoy them. This 40 per cent amounts to 1,013,233. These are too many to have subject to all the false educating influences of ignorant adults, the vicious classes and their own carnal tendencies.

The report for 1886-'87 shows 17,107 schools for colored children, 1,956 fewer than the year following; and 1,026,119 pupils, 21,814 less than the year following. The difference between 1877 and 1887—ten years,—in number of schools, 4,313; in pupils, 412,041. It is understood that these figures do not include the hundreds of Christian schools of all grades where minds are not supposed to have any color. Heckneyed as this has become, we say repeats, we the morals of the colored Americans in the arts, religion and learning have never been equalled" and will probably never be surpassed.

THE "VOICE," prohibition organ, is terribly shocked because R. D. Gambrell, a temperance lecturer, was murdered in Mississippi, May 7th. The Voice is right. Who could but cry out against murder! Who especially when it is backed by a perfect system for maintaining the motives of "right" We colored people, Brother Voice, have been not only shocked, but perfectly paralyzed for a long time by the murderous methods by which we are "kept down" on notions of "right" no less "bad a thing" in the same breath that bears to our weary ears, "now look at President Cleveland!" Yes; we look, and look, and look; to see what? A man whose chiefest only expression in defense of the colored American have been a sort of generalities and sentimental theories. This miserable slaughter of colored men meets with little pointed, emphatic condemnation from either the President or his party.

When a high official degrades questions like this down to a nominee level with general politics, the colored man who talks of such official's being our friend, is simply out of his head. The greatest opportunity offered any President since the days of Lincoln are offered President Grover Cleveland to become the friend of the friendless, by not dealing out general platitudes, but, standing as the leader of his party, the chief of the Nation, he could become the great moral obsequion. He could at least do something especial. The colored man who throws his moral influence in favor of the Democratic party, that party being composed very largely of the slant of men who erk, when a crime is charged against a colored man, not "why was it done?" but "show us the nigger," is to least, inhuman.

These two Texas men had defended themselves against the mean cowardsmen upon and outrighteous robbery of them of their rights on a Texas railroad. The coroner's jury find that the man who, at this writing, is dead, came to his death by unknown hands. Texas is satisfied, are not the Philadelphia Times, the Presidents of the United States and the Democratic party to well satisfied? Are not too many professing Christians, and too many eloquent preachers and humanitarians too well satisfied? Where is our "white" line? Where are we to draw in bitter complaint against "our n'der," with a sigh and a "well, we can't help it." These reflections would lead to the idea that we need in this office just what we cannot get—a good men for every post.

May we not hope that as the wisdom and Christ-like spirit necessary to proper communion increase within us we shall succeed with the presiding eldership! Brother Woods will deal a number of presiding elders in the connection who get their salary. Dr. Steward, don't subject brethren to competitive examinations. You know that A. M. Green suggested something of that kind in 1880. Brethren said "no."

There are many who agree that there should be a condemnation of what are known as general offices or at least such interests as are of a common class; as publishing. To centralize in our present course in this matter is to do almost all in our power to prevent the general material interests of the connection. We called the attention of the Church to this subject long ago. The very thing we feared we think then and who are glad to render us any service in their power as in some sense the debt of their race to ours, but the great majority of them pay little attention to the matter, seeming to allow it to pass as a matter of course. Recently the Southern Christian Recorder, published a list of the inquiries after friends made in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. The Gazette has more than once kindly referred to this apparent lack of appreciation on the part of the world of newspapers published by white men will pay very little, if any, attention to it. It is remarkable that such a sad plaint should go up to this intelligent age, but it is true. Our statement feel largely responsible for the pains that underlie it, with so little impression. It is remarkable that the pulpit, as well as the press of the land, is not so quiet on the subject. We received on exchange one of the most prominent church organs in the United States, representing the most powerful body of Protestants in America, perhaps in the world, and including several hundred thousand of this suffering people as its communicants, a little to one side, it is true, but still insisting them. We have not seen a single paper issued through the South, write glowing editorials on his trips, its incidents, the colored people, the African Methodist brethren, etc., etc., but very seldom does his pen speak his appeal for the outraged and down-trodden black Americans as it could do. It condemns outrages upon the Chinese, outrages upon the Indian, outrages upon youth, outrages upon speculation, but no terrible outrages are done the colored man and brother seem to be masters of course. The New York Christian Advocate is probably going to leave that to take care of itself largely.

It is remarkable that in the South, where the colored people are most numerous, most abused, yet most held to when they attempt to leave in large numbers, most protested against exodus agents and most abandoned to lynchers, the religious press and the pulpit are so easy on this subject. It is remarkable that the press will so very generally accept the unreasonable fallacies concerning the murdering of colored men and send them up North. It is remarkable that Northern white papers so largely copy their versions. It is remarkable that when these facts and ages it has been ascertained after these comwardly assaults upon imprisoned colored men, that the wrong men have been slaughtered, there is so little attention paid to the matter, and white murderers of the bloodiest kind are well received in good society in high circles. Will the white American ever give the black American a respectable choices in the human race?

GENEROUS TREATMENT OF GENERAL TOPICS.

It serves well to have the brethren do the presiding eldership and the new Bishop talk all up at once in this issue. But our friend Dr. Steward need not look for any reply from the ones of men in whose behalf he has interested himself especially. Candidates are like dead men, they tell no tales.

It is the man strong who cries out; who is going to acknowledge himself stroak! Brother Steward and Brother Crosby seem to coincide on the Bishop question as well as Brother Crosby and Brother Wood on the presiding elder question. The latter two are quite severe on the presiding eldership as it now pertains. Presiding elders have a herd but in many cases, like other pastors, but, unlike other pastors, they are more removed from the people; less in touch with sympathy that is accorded to pastors. It would be a fair question to ask Brother Woods whether the average salary of the presiding elders of the Iowa Conference was not about equal to the average salary of other pastors? Another fair question to ask him would be whether he still respects the conference ban not famished under this system as rapidly and greatly as under the former system; especially as to finances, including pastors' salary?

There is no question that presiding elders have vast powers in their hands. Whether of service or blindness to their economically depends in their case, as in that of others, upon the men very largely. When presiding elders lash their men into certain lines of personal support and patronage, they abuse their powers, but when they use their powers to educate the ministry to a noble, independent Christian life, they exercise their own influence. Such presiding elders are the men for any church in any work. The others will have a certain kind of power, but these have an imperishable influence. Presiding elders who seem to have unlimited control of "their men" might have them sweep in a broom as Annals, that spends hundreds of thousands of dollars, seeing to it that men do not maltreat their donkeys and dogs; that they do not protect the animal life generally, that even the humanity of the blank men! O, where is Christianity? Were it not for faith and hope, blessed angels to man, we would ask, where is the Christ? Shall we look for another? But shattering all in his promises we plead with him yet to avenge us of our enemies, even though, like the Philistines with Sampson, they take us down with them.

THE CRUELTY OF AMERICAN CASTE.

Reviewing the record of the colored people in America it would seem that we had suffered enough to atone for the sins of Canaan, Ham and Noah, if capable of suffering for the sins of others. There are thousands of the more highly favored who think thus and who are glad to render us any service in their power as in some sense the debt of their race to ours, but the great majority of them pay little attention to the matter, seeming to allow it to pass as a matter of course. Recently the CHRISTIAN Gazette, published a list of the inquiries after friends made in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. THE CRUELTY OF AMERICAN CASTE.

There are thousands of the more highly favored who think thus and who are glad to render us any service in their power as in some sense the debt of their race to ours, but the great majority of them pay little attention to the matter,

Rev. H. O Boyd, Woodstock, Ga., writes: "I am in the extreme part of the North Georgia Conference. I am one for white persons to our colored here. The people are very poor, but very kind and willing to do the best they can, though some own good houses. Our church is improving. The Sunday school is improving. I would like you to be with them on the Lord's day. It is true we have some bad people."

Rev. J. W. Williams, Forest, Miss., writes: "When I came here in September, everything looked gloomy. It was said that I was from Africa because I represented the African Methodist Church. I found two preaching places on the circuit; now we have twelve. Frankie Elder Watson will appoint another minister on a part of the work. He will have to suffer some, but by God's help he will live. March 6th we held a memorial meeting with reference to the life and death of Bishop Cain. Unless we get our church in Carrollton, we lose the debt. I herein call upon all pastors to kindly send money to help us out. Address Rev. J. W. Williams, Forest, Miss."

J. H. L. Clerk, Ostlipolis, O., writes: "The sending of Rev. Tolliver here, though unthought and unexpected, has been a great blessing. The A. M. E. interests here bed grown almost a thing of the past, but now we hold up our heads. We have had over 50 added to our church roll by submission and 15 by letter, and we are now rejoicing in hope Dr. Tolliver has often been mistaken to us as a second. The conference of D. D. upon him has not puffed him up, but humbled him, making him more energetic for the work of the Master. We have the wisdom of God to thank for sending Dr. Campbell to sending to us the leader as we have. The elder's wife is a great church worker and is beloved by our church and by the community. Many people a few days ago were saluted by the pastor and his family with benevolent tea parties, which were highly appreciated by the people. The conference is leaving them cheerful and happy to continue the work of God."

Rev. B. F. Ballair, O., entered upon his work at that place last fall with but 61 members. They have now reported that sum and by almost one-half and collected nearly $500 for building purposes. Among other things he says the following is from a Bellair paper: "The ceremonies of the corner-stone laying of the new A. M. E. Church, Sunday, were impressive and were very largely attended. Services were held in the Elysian theatre at 10:30, Rev. J. H. Ford of Wheeling, W. Va., preaching the Yolock services were held at the same place, Rev. Ford and others assisting, after which the audience repaired to the site of the new church, where the corner-stone was laid by the Masonic Lodge of Wheeling, with the usual ceremonies. The new church when the new building will be a frame 30x50 feet, and when completed will be the finest church of the colored people in this section. Rev. Harry Harrow have been a tenet for the building and it will be rapidly pushed until completed. Rev Harrow is a very popular young man in this matter. He has labored earnestly and persistently for the new edifice and has the satisfaction of seeing it nobly so."

G. M. Brooks, Edgefield, S. C., writes: "The Rev. N. W. Edwards arrived here January 2nd, 1886. When on the 31st Pisgah circuit he built a church with six months after his arrival. He also built a parsonage at New Hope and also built a church at Mt. Moore, in charge. He has repaired and completed several churches. He built a log house of worship 52x30 at Moores, in which he has services. The church at which, after repairing, he turned into a school house. He is one of the best workers in the State. He is a friend to me with the Hon D. A. Straker, he does the standing of the legal business of the church. At no time has African Meth Episcopal Church been more united. On the instance of our quarterly conference, 19th inst., the Sunday school supplied itself with a beautiful library top table. The trustees have purchased a new buggy for the use of the pastor of the circuit. The Rev Edwards began his studies in the Colleges public, to illustrate and continued them under such eminent ministers as Dr. Cain, Prof. Jeckins, Rev. W. J. Gaines and others, and is really nearly completing a course in the University of South Carolina. Also the Wade Hampton government ousted all colored students. He has written a pamphlet entitled, 'Fourteen Questions About African Methodism,' a worthy little book. He is also writing a book on the 'Rise and Progress of African Methodism in South Carolina.' Should the next General Conference have been a member of the Philadelphia Conference.

—Rev. J. S Shaw is working hard to pay off the debt on the Greensboro, Ala., church.

—Mrs. J. W. Rackine has organized a new missionary society in her husband's work.

—Rev. F. F. Smith is having some difficulty in entering upon his work this, his third year.

—Rev. A. Weston, presiding nider, held district meeting at Bishopville, S. C., May 6th.

—Rev. J. W. Rackine seems to be a busy presiding elder. He has a hard field—really a mission field.

—Rev. I. S. A. Murphy has transferred from the North Carolina Conference to the Philadelphia Conference.

—Rev. J. C. Ayler was in the Baltimore office last week. He was much pleased with his appointment at Princeton, N. J.

—Rev. J. H. Pierce made the RECORDER a pleasant visit a few days ago He has several interesting items upon his new field of labor, Burdoetown, N. J.

—Rev. J. H Bean has led his flock out of the church building at Cape May, N. J, and building having been sold by the sheriff, and is worshiping with them in a hall.

—The Trenton, N. J. people gave their pastor, Rev. W. H. Yocum, a beautiful gold watch and other marks of their good leading towards him during the session of conference, and then sent him up North.

—Bishop Taylor is evidently on the side of the argument on the Missionary Bishop question in the A. M. E. Church that makes the Rev. William Taylor a general superintendent though doing service in Africa.

—Mrs. Bishop Brown has been called to her home, Louisville, Ky., to witness the death of her mother, Mrs. Eliza Lewis, an old and highly respected citizen of that city. She passed away Sunday evening, May 15, 1887.

—A church of Mr. Logan is contributed to the June number of the American Messenger by Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton. The article includes some interesting anecdotes of the period when General Logan was serving in the field.

Church News.

Rev. D. R. Crosborn, Freehold, N. J., writes: "I have in the place the hearty co-operation of many of the best citizens. The church and I have gotten along harmoniously. During our series of meetings forty four persons were added to the Church. I am now entered for a second year's work. Under God I hope to succeed."

I would like you to be with them on the Lord's day. It is true we have some bad people."

Rev. J. W. Williams, Forest, Miss., writes: "When I came here in September, everything looked gloomy. It was said that I was from Africa because I represented the African Methodist Church. I found two preaching places on the circuit; now we have twelve. Frankie Elder Watson will appoint another minister on a part of the work. He will have to suffer some, but by God's help he will live. March 6th we held a memorial meeting with reference to the life and death of Bishop Cain. Unless we get our church in Carrollton, we lose the debt. I herein call upon all pastors to kindly send money to help us out. Address Rev. J. W. Williams, Forest, Miss."

J. H. L. Clerk, Ostlipolis, O., writes: "The sending of Rev. Tolliver here, though unthought and unexpected, has been a great blessing. The A. M. E. interests here bed grown almost a thing of the past, but now we hold up our heads. We have had over 50 added to our church roll by submission and 15 by letter, and we are now rejoicing in hope Dr. Tolliver has often been mistaken to us as a second. The conference of D. D. upon him has not puffed him up, but humbled him, making him more energetic for the work of the Master. We have the wisdom of God to thank for sending Dr. Campbell to sending to us the leader as we have. The elder's wife is a great church worker and is beloved by our church and by the community. Many people a few days ago were saluted by the pastor and his family with benevolent tea parties, which were highly appreciated by the people. The conference is leaving them cheerful and happy to continue the work of God."

Rev. B. F. Ballair, O., entered upon his work at that place last fall with but 61 members. They have now reported that sum and by almost one-half and collected nearly $500 for building purposes. Among other things he says the following is from a Bellair paper: "The ceremonies of the corner-stone laying of the new A. M. E. Church, Sunday, were impressive and were very largely attended. Services were held in the Elysian theatre at 10:30, Rev. J. H Ford of Wheeling, W. Va., preaching the Yolock services were held at the same place, Rev. Ford and others assisting, after which the audience repaired to the site of the new church, where the corner-stone was laid by the Masonic Lodge of Wheeling, with the usual ceremonies. The new church when the new building will be a frame 30x50 feet, and when completed will be the finest church of the colored people in this section. Rev. Harry Harrow have been a tenet for the building and it will be rapidly pushed until completed. Rev Harrow is a very popular young man in this matter. He has labored earnestly and persistently for the new edifice and has the satisfaction of seeing it nobly so."

Rev. B. Brooks, Edgefield, S. C., writes: "The Rev. N. W. Edwards arrived here January 2nd, 1886. When on the 31st Pisgah circuit he built a church with six months after his arrival. He also built a parsonage at New Hope and also built a church at Mt. Moore, in charge. He has repaired and completed several churches. He built a log house of worship 52x30 at Moores, in which he has services. The church at which, after repairing, he turned into a school house. He is one of the best workers in the State. He is a friend to me with the Hon D. A. Straker, he does the standing of the legal business of the church. At no time has African Meth Episcopal Church been more united. On the instance of our quarterly conference, 19th inst., the Sunday school supplied itself with a beautiful library top table. The trustees have purchased a new buggy for the use of the pastor of the circuit. The Rev Edwards began his studies in the Colleges public, to illustrate and continued them under such eminent ministers as Dr. Cain, Prof. Jeckins, Rev. W. J. Gaines and others, and is really nearly completing a course in the University of South Carolina. Also the Wade Hampton government ousted all colored students. He has written a pamphlet entitled, 'Fourteen Questions About African Methodism,' a worthy little book. He is also writing a book on the 'Rise and Progress of African Methodism in South Carolina.' Should the next General Conference have been a member of the Philadelphia Conference.

IF WE KNEW.

But we don't know. We sometimes criticise our neighbor's short-comings when we do not know of deeply-hidden sorrows under which he suffers, he has lost an arm, or if he is so lame that he has to walk on crutches, we can see his infirmity and pity him accordingly. If he is afflicted in some secret disorder which does not affect his gait, nor make any great difference in his outward appearance, he has very little sympathy from any one. He may have some tremendous weight of mental worry oppressing him, but he gets no pity from those who know nothing about it and cannot appreciate the hidden troubles under which he labors. Thousands of men have made failures of their lives by carrying burdens of worry and trouble which consisted of their nerves, demoralized their brains, and wrecked them beyond remedy. I would be well for all such to remember that Compound Oxygen cures nervous depression, insomnia, neuralgia, and all ills which make life a burden. Hundreds of cases are on record in which this gentle and powerful agent has worked wonders. Dr. Starkey & Palen, 1529 Arch street, Philadelphia, Pa., send a treatise giving these reports free to all applicants.

LISTEN TO YOUR WIFE.

The Manchester Guardian, June 8th, 1883, says: At one of the "Big Shows"

Looking on the wonderful ways! Where shows of rhododendron and great masses of May blossoms ! There was an interesting group.

It included one who had been a "Cotton spinner," but was so

Terribly Crippled

That he could only bear to lie in a reclining position.

This refers to my case.

I was first Attacked twelve years ago with "Locomotor Ataxy" in paralytic disease of nerve fibre rarely ever cured.

And for several years barely able to get about.

And for the last ten years not able to attend to my business, Although

My doings have been done for me.

By the superintendent and workmen

Yet years ago I was conducting the Home for Incurables

In Manchester, in May, 1882.

I am no "advocate;" "For anything in the shape of patent "Medicines"

And made many objections to my dear wife's constant urging to try Hop Bitters, but finally to pacify her—

I consented ! !

I had not quite finished the first bottle when I felt a decided change for the better, and before I had taken three bottles I said to my room companions, "I was sure I could Walk!

So started across the floor and back. I hardly knew myself. I then walked around the house ; an gaining strength every day, "in fact I felt like a new man.

Hop Bitters

Do support,

And when taken as directed, and kept from all poisonous drugs, and hope soon to be able to take myself to my living again. I have been a

"Royal Recipient"

For more than three years and was most heartily congratulated on going to the room on Thursday last, to say goodby to my friends.

MANCHESTER, (Eng.) June 21, 1883.

To Whom it may concern:

I, the undersigned, was cured of Paralysis by the use of Hop Bitters.

ONE EXPERIENCE OF MANY.

Having experienced a great deal of "Trouble" in life, I have seen so much so that I came near losing my Life!

My trouble always came after eating any food—

However light,

And a good appetite.

For two or three hours after a time I had to go through the most

Excruciating pains,

"And the only way I ever got"

"Relief"

Was by throwing up all my stomach contained ! ! No one can conceive the misery that I had to endure for years.

"At last!"

I was induced "By that for three weeks I lay in bed and Could eat nothing ! ! !

My sufferings were so that I called two doctors to give me something that would stop the pain.

Their efforts were no good to me.

At last I was induced to try

"About your Hop Bitters"

And determined to try them "

I took a bottle—in four hours I took the comforts of Sleep ! ! !

Next day I was out of bed, and have no more

"Sick!"

Fear, from the same cause, since.

I am a living witness to hundreds of others. I am

NOTICE.

To the Ministers of the Board on Publication Department. Brethren:—On account of the Presidency of the Board in the room of my late colleague, Bishop Ceke, it becomes my official duty to address you this notice, after full consultation on the subject. We find it impracticable to call a meeting of the full Board, as such a meeting involves a very heavy expenditure. We are obliged, therefore, to see the members of the Publishing Board to meet me at Wilberforce University, Tuesday, June 14th next, being the day before commencement at the college. Each manager is notified to bring the smoting all books and vouchers, etc., for audit and examination as heretofore. The Executive Board are: Rev. Thomas Stringer, Mississippi; J. H. A. Johnson, Baltimore; Wm. B. Derrick, New York; C. Asbury, Pennsylvania; and M. W. Beckly, of Missouri. We shall be glad to see as many as can conveniently from others who can possibly come.

I am, dear brethren, fraternally yours,

JAMES PYLE'S

PEARLINE

THE BEST COMPOUND

EVER INVENTED FOR

WASHING AND CLEANING

IN HARD OR SOFT, HOT OR COLD WATER

Without Injury to Fabric or Hands.

SAVES TIME, LABOR, and WEAR

It is the only article that will do washing thoroughly, and it gives whiter and more beautiful colors than can be obtained by any other means. IT IS ECONOMICAL, as 1 lb. will do as much work as 3 lbs. of any other soap. IT IS PERFECTLY HARMLESS, and will preserve the most delicate fabric longer than any other soap or washing compound. IT IS ONLY SAFE and PERFECT METHOD OF WASHING ever introduced. Beware of peddlers who say the same as PEARLINE, or "it is the same as" or "as good as." IT IS NOT. Ask your grocer for PEARLINE, and insist upon having it. Millions use it every year. PEARLINE is sold everywhere, but never peddled. If your grocer sends you an imitation, honest man will send it back. 567 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Be Sure

To ask for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if you are in need of a blood-purifier—the only certain and reliable remedy for pimples, blotches, and all other eruptions of the skin. As an alterative,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

after a trial of nearly forty a century, is universally conceded to be the best ever discovered. It is agreeable to the taste, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed.

"A old lady of eighty, Mrs. Mary H. Anson, of Issaquah, Wn., after both years of suffering, being induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, effected a complete cure. I had pronounced mind entirely prejudiced blood-purifier without benefit."

Manager's Notes.

What we must say now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and we add the word now. Now, approximate, like Shibboleth of old, the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

seems a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will set for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shafer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

Subscribers who fail to get their papers regularly will confer a favor by notifying the Publisher immediately, by Postal Card or otherwise. All subscriptions will begin with the first of the month. Remittances received before the 15th will be credited to the first of the month following. After the 15th, to the first of the month following. All our bills are sent from the office.

NOTICE.—All questions and business pertaining to advertisements must be addressed, and letters containing correspondence to the RECORDER, should be addressed to Rev. J. C. Embry, Business Manager; not to the editor. There is no part of the business of the establishment with which he has to do, and he is thus relieved of much perplexity, and to him is due the success of the establishment. All orders for changing address of papers, with the name of the post office to which the paper is sent, must be sent to the Business Manager, and in order to receive attention, must be accompanied by the money. All orders for changing address of papers, sent by mail to the Business Manager, and to the Editor, without including first notice for publication, or letters pertaining to the business of the paper, will receive neither, and delay to him unnecessary.

PHILADELPHIA, MAY 26, 1887.

THE PHILADELPHIA CONFERENCE shows a steady growth, increasing in nearly every respect yearly.

NEXT WEEK in the RECORDER will appear a sketch of J. S. Thompson, D.D., and the week following a sketch of Rev. M. B. Salter.

THERE is no more use of your "carrying out against the CHRISTIAN RECORDER in your conference" than of carrying out against yourself, dear brother. Both have their faults and both are yours. Don't cry out against your own.

IN HIS REPORT for the year ending March 31st, Meesger Rubry shows a reduction of the indebtedness of $1884 by at least $2,000. Of this every African Methodist will be glad. The healthfulness of this Department is increasing beyond all possible doubt.

THE LINCOLN HISTORY is the June Century will review the story of the assault on Senator Sumner, and summarize the history of the Dred Scott decision, and Judges' opinions in the case, together with the opinions of Lincoln and Douglas in the Lincoln and Douglas debates. If famous "Lincoln and Douglas debates" will be described.

HOWARD CHURCH, Philadelphia, reported eight hundred and forty-two dollars Dollar Money. This excels all previous annual payments of that church. It speaks well for the faithfulness of pastor and people. The nearest Bethel came to this le the past was about twelve years ago, under the pastorate of Elder Gould, raising $812.

J. H. VINCENT, D.D., writes all the way from Constantinople to Prof. H. T. Johnson, denying any knowledge of the degradation of the columns of his Sunday School Journal to a level with the unblushing science, "so-called," of today, in declaring that there is doubt whether Ham is the father of the black race. To think us as strange as he in Dr. Vincent should be guilty of so mean an imposition upon the millions of young people dependent upon his conceptions and explanations of Biblical truths.

APRIL 25TH, Dr. and Mrs. Hurley, of St. James' Chapel, New Orleans, celebrated their twentieth anniversary in married life. A strange coincidence in their marriage, the doctor's receipt of license on a pre-ch, and his entrance upon pastoral work all occurred April 25th, as follows: marriage, 1867; receipt of license, 1866; and entering the pastorate, 1869. The evening of April 25th was made especially pleasant to them by a celebration in which many friends participated. We heartily unite with them in the wish for good life and prosperity to the genial couple of twenty years.

THE A. M. E. ZION PHILADELPHIA and Baltimore Conferences met in session in Philadelphia last week. They left a very good impression of their earnestness, eloquence, thrift and Christianity.

Bishop Lomax was assisted by Bishop Hood in presiding. Delegates were received from the Genesee, New York, Virginia and North Carolina Conference. Mr. J. O. Busey, of the Star of Zion, was present. General T. Morris Chester stenographed the important addresses. Many of the ministers of the city visited the conference. Many of them made fraternal addresses. The discussion of reports from important committees were warm, intelligent and forceful. The eloquent W. Howard Day, who for more than thirty years has thrilled audiences, made very happy speeches. Rev. Hester, of W. Washington, D. C., and Goler, of Salisbury, N. C., made telling speeches on several occasions. Elder Hester on one occasion begged to respond to Bishop Hood on the plea that if he did not the conference vote would be carried by the Bishop, but if he were allowed to speak he would carry it. He spoke and carried the point.

Rev. J. P. Thompson, whose success has been almost marvelous in this city, and whose character here is a tower of strength, had generously provided to entertain the conference. He has verily transformed Zion Methodism in Philadelphia, having led the people from one inferior church building to a beautiful, commodious one in better quarters and purchasing a second one also, thus establishing their second place of worship here. The Rev. Coles, of New York, made a glowing report, which stood fairly till Rev. Goler, of North Carolina, compared the work of New York and Philadelphia with that in North Carolina, with reference to supporting the general interests of the church. Rev. Goler said the Southern church raised the largest sum of money on Children's Day of all the churches in the connection—$75.00. From our own experience at a school of learning, we can assure Elder Goler that Livingstone University located in any other city would have made the Children's Day fund comparatively equal to that at Salisbury.

"THE CHURCH," that is the Protestant Episcopal Church in South Carolina, is in a bad state. A colored brother who has been bonus enough to be afflicted by the historic power of the "establishment" persisted in remaining in the diocesan convention. The illshe persisted in acknowledging him as "man and a brother," but a large majority of the lay delegates and a considerable minority of the clergymen insisted that when the Church laws under which they were acting were made, the term "clergymen" meant white men. That law, they claimed, still held good. But the Rev. Nondescript—in South Carolina episcopal language—though quiet seemed to be there to stay. Finally the laymen of fourteen parishes, together with three clergymen, voted to withdraw, with all the prestige of the grand historic connection with the fathers, the great west of some Africus Methodist brethren, United the convention. They were determined that their historic prizes shall be used to their greatest extent to keep the brother in black "in his place." Poor brother in black, poor inconsistent mockers of the Apostles and the Christ.

The convention was characterized by boisterous ecbdeet and the apoltolic (!) spirit of the English Parliament played to a useless for "clotur." Though of race about as much as cannot be included in the term clergymen, we can but truly feel sorry for these foolish, deluded white Christian degraders. But this is the New South. Let the new car Novis ers magazines and dailies teem with bristling praises of the New South. If the white people of the South would great the black people of the South repeatedly and publicly recognize they would contribute largely to the successful solution of the race question, as it is called. Really it is only a plain question of simple manners, and applied to all other subjects of human life. A correspondent of the "Voice" writes from Copiah, Miss., where the eeprovoked, unredressed, sanctioned, horrible outrage was perpetrated, and says that the court-house "within the recollection of men now living," praising said town for being absolutely "dry." The same moral force that protects the outrage against impertinence in drink could protect it against intemperate feelings and actions towards colored men. There is little hope for quiet living in the South, because of a reigning false moral philosophy.

LICENSE and prohibition divided the question of temperance as discussed in the A. M. E. Zion Conference. A majority divided on each antibalanced utterance can but cause sharp discussion, so they had it. One side said, "no license" and the other, "no liquor." Of course it was easy for each to point out the impracticability of the other. But no license and law license also same in-fer a share of consideration. There can be no doubt that, regarding license to sell strong drink as a permissive only, it is the duty of every lover of his race to manifestion or regulation of as evil it is recognizing the existence of wrong. Prohibition is right, but cannot be, attained by a political party; simply because the moral sense of the nation is toxinexet cannot be prohibited before the impulses underlying them are subdued. The unrighteous greed and strife for the control of money must be modified before unrighteousness can be prohibited. The present standing of this greed is such that men unblushingly rear their children in the midst of the bar-room scenes for the sake of giving them "a start;" great sin is swayed to and for like a drunken mask, because of the money wielded by the rum power. Legislatures of all grades, from that of the borough to the imperial, are effected largely by the rum power. House, strong drink will be made and sold. On the other hand, he fanon men are fond of it they will have it made and sold drink to. Thousands of otherwise good men, liking their drink, take it, defiant of popular opinion and confident of their own will supremacy. Thus the best of men, otherwise considered, are divided on this subject; hence prohibition, perfectly right, can only be a remote accomplishment for in the future. The most unfortunate feature of the undertaking is that the great Christian Church is not at one on the subject. Were it on the Lord's side, it and it alone would be the asylum of the passion-lashed penitent and the sorries-scarred whiskey boodler. Though we did not attend the session, we properly understood, properly received and lived, would champion the cause of temperance and save man from intoxicating practices and connections. The church is too soft and easy on the subject. It is not a question with the church why Jesus turned water to wine, nor why the great Biblical leaderette were in several instances affected by drunkenness; the one fact is clear that intemperance is wrong and must be positively discarded by the church.

"THE HERO DEAD."

Such is the heading of a full colu.e in the Southern Recorder on the death of a large, loyal, leading African Methodist minister, the reverend and venerable Andrew Brown, of the North Georgia Conference. A veritable hero, he has fought many battles in the interest of our Lord's kingdom, but now he has laid down his arms to enter into the joys of our Lord.

Personal.

—Bishop Ward was in the city last week.

—Rev. L. Patterson has been appointed to Thorntsville.

Literature.

The departments of the coming June Harper's are freighted with rich contents, as usual, George William Curtis, in the Easy Chair, discusses the relations of author and publisher with his characteristic good-sense, and also shots pleas for a uniform "Training of the Shores" at Daly's, noble public gifts recently made in New York, and the ocean yacht race. The Editor's Study is devoted this month to the subject of criticism, and the opinion of a leading novelist like Mr. Howells upon the American and English methods of criticism, and their respect fullity is full of integer. Charles Dudley Warner's department, the Editor's Drawer, has a large fund of humorous anecdote, with an illustration by Hyde.

George Kennan, who has recently returned from his Siberian trip for The Century, made a visit to Count Tolstoi, at the urgent request of Siberian State exiles, who wished the Count's intercession to know the horrors of their situation. The forthcoming Century will contain an account of this visit and the circumstances leading to it, told with considerable detail and showing the Count's striking character and peculiar beliefs, together with his method of life. His views on the problems is of the day, as brought out in conversation, are presented. The Mormon and Chinese questions attracted his comment; and among Americans he spoke with particular admiration of Wm. Lloyd Garrison and Theodore Parker. A reminiscence portrait of the novelist in his passion blouse will be given.

The exciting feature of Cassells Family Magazine for June is the conclusion of that very interesting serial, "A Queen in the Dark." The denouement is extremely unexpected and a very cleverly arranged one. The author's "Life's Race for Life" fills the place of the just concluded serial most acceptably and has not reached its fifteenth chapter. The "Family Doctor" this month describes "That Horrible Nightmare" which he largely attributes to overloaded stomachs. There is interesting chapter on "Higher Education for the Blind," which shows how this last cause of blindness is secured by modern science and pedant work. Miss C. L. Gordon Cumming has a paper on "The Social Condition of Divers Races" which is amusing as well as instructive. "Stars and Stripes" and "Cross Flags of Field and Flood" are continued, the "Stars and Stripes" of the United States, and the "Stars and Bars" of the Confederacy (those sentiments of discussion. The fashion letters from Paris and London are full of the important objects which lead fashionable. There is no excuse for anyone who reads and prefix by these letters being unstylish. The very latest hints are always found in Cassell & Company, $1.50 a year in advance.

The Quiver for June is as good a number and has for its opening article a paper by Lady John Manners giving instances she has known of long and honorable domestic service. She quotes the funeral hold of the Duke of Rutland, where the coachman died at a ripe old age, having for eighty-two years, and other servants from periods ranging between thirty and sixty five years. English servants take pride in their faithfulness and their employers appreciate such devotion. The Quiver has instituted an "Order of Faithful Servants" whose members are awarded Bibles or medals according to the years of their faithful service on one family. Perhaps if such an order was instituted in this country it might be an inducement for the best class servant girls to stay more than three months in one place. "By the waters of Babylon" is the title of the new serial which opens well. There are also several sonnets, poems, religious papers and Bible lessons. Among others is an article on "Travelers' side and Priendlies" which our young Women's Christian Associations, although they be, might take some hints from. An interesting paper is "Miss Whatsley's Work in Cairo," which is accompanied by a picture of this energetic and devoted woman.—Cassell & Co. three cents a number, $1 50 a year in advance.

THE STUDENT.

BY R. C. RANSOM.

The student has lived the life of all people—the bibelisants of every clime He has been citizen, subject and slave of every empire and kingdom. He has worn the mantle of peace, and, Methens-like, he has been bound to the rock of all defeated theories and unfortunate faiths. A mid cogitating double his faith he has wrought the highest conscientious; and in the night of dark despair, from every high desire, hope has forged three-like wings to bear him to the skies. He has heard the Jewish maiden's cry as she wept by the rivers of Babylon, and with reverential awe has bowed before the Ark of the Covenant in the temple of God. Through history he bridges the years of time and makes all scenes and great events to pass in quick succession as though enacted in a single day.

The student is older than mountains; he has seen the germs of a star girl universe floating in the void and through unbounded space. He has witnessed Adam's forbidden feast of knowledge fruit; and from that day to this time, he has caught a glimpse of the shoulder and the leader of humanity. He has feasted with Belshezzar; desert ed by heaven and tempted of hell; he has fasted in the wilderness forty days; he has been the thunders of Sinai, and sacrificed to Olympian Jove; he has seen Socrates with philosophic composure drink the hemlock and die; he has marched up the steps of Calvary, and without pity has seen the thieving Nazarene drink vinegar mingled with gall; he has seen Judith in a Bethulian's bed, walked with singing and dancing by Apollo's side, and with Jesse and Nathan he has dined with kings and sinners.

The student has been victor and vanquished upon all the battle-field of time, from the gates of Troy, across the plains of Marathon, over the towering snow-clad Alps with pointed spear and glittering shield he comes. At Waterloo he bears the shout, "Vive l'Empereur!" drowned by the more victorious, "God save the king." He has witnessed the coronation of every king and the manumission of every slave. He has beheld the death throes of despotism and the birth of the child freedom.

The student has seen all sights. He has been a pilgrim in all lands and a voyager upon every sea. He sailed from Palos in a little bark and spent a year of his journey until he beheld a new continent, rising like Neptune from the sea; he has beheld the polar ice mountains sparkling like the diamonds of crown of the Northern sun; he has beheld the full-grown, full-clothing throat of Vesuvius and walked among the buried cities of the plain, the mummies of Egypt, the Colossus and Pharaohs that have stood so long and are still sleeping; the pyramids and sphinx tell him the story of the olden times. Buddha and Brahm, Lao-tse and Confucius, altars of fire and temple of Jose are alike familiar to his much traveled eye. He has explored old ocean caves; has walked among the ruins of geologic time; and with telescopic eye he has visited the solar worlds and the milky way. Not with bottle ax and sword, but with cannon's roar and bursting shell, but by the invincible forces of an infinite mind, he has conquered more lands than all the armies of time.

The body was interred in the Soldiers' Burial Lot in Lancaster Cemetery and is the first colored person ever buried in that cemetery. This is to be a story for reason and righteous-

A COLORED SOLDIER'S BURIAL.

BY A. C. LEONARD.

William Jones, formerly a member of Co. K., 32d Regiment, U. S. Colored Troops, who died of consumption Thursday last, was buried from his late residence on North street yesterday morning at 10 o'clock by the Grand Army of the Republic Burial Committee.

From Jubal Cain to Mozart and Beethoven he has breathed forth symphony and melody until all the chords of music have thrown back sweetest echoes from the harmony that dwells in his soul. In the student's brain every invention that had its conception and his birth. It was he who first taught the lightning how to speak; hitched the wandering winds to the ships of the sea; and with fire and water kindled up the iron horse in his horse of iron. He was at Athens in the days of Pisistratus, bringing the people into marble statues and ornaments of gold. With Raphael and Angelo he has gathered all the colors of a resurrected world and made them express a thought, and with Phidias wrought out the ideal.

The student has thought all thoughts, felt all feelings, and dreamed all dreams. He has lived all lives and died all deaths; he has suffered all defeats and won all victories.

JONES' SERMONS SIFTED.

When you tap up a horse, if he don't want to go along, the next best thing he can do is to kick, and a lazy Christian is like a lazy mule in the team. He is the man to tap up, and a horse that responds to a tap is a forward movement that I haven't got time to stop and kick.

A boy gets $10,000 in the Louisiana state lottery, but I would rather be a boy who had ploughed a whole week for $1. I would slap that dollar into my pocket, rush my breeches under my head at night, and the whole of that dollar would turn into a blighting and skinning to sleep.

Suppose you go down some day and try to hypothecate your Methodism for some dry goods. How much do you suppose you will get for it? Why, my dear, the sign-keeper will say: "I can show you the names of Methodists on my books who have been owing me for 20 years."

Every time you come to church you bring a bucket or basket, and you say: "Lord give me something." "Why, what do you want?" and you reply: "Anything you may have." And then you have brought your bucket or your basket for it, crying: "Lord give me something." I say to him: "Lord, give me marching orders," and he turns and sent a man to the front without sending a forage waggon with him.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send this recipe, free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

To THE EDITOR:—

Please inform your readers that I have a positive remedy for the above disease; that by its use hundreds of hopeless cases have been permanently cured. I shall be glad to send two bottles of my remedy FREE to any of your readers who may have consumption if they will send me their Express and P. O. address. Respectfully,

In All Complaints

Of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver, and Kidneys, Ayer's Pills are taken with excellent results. Being purely vegetable, they leave no ill effects, and may be safely administered to any one, old or young, in need of an aperient and cathartic. Physicians, all over the country, prescribe Ayer's Pills and recommend them as a good Family Medicine.

"If people would use Ayer's Pills," says Col. B. W. Bowman, of Franklin, Ky., "it would be unnecessary to enumerate the many of the serious ailments that come from torpidity or derangement of the liver and from material infections would be avoided. I have used these pills myself and given them to a number of others, and found them to be a sure and reliable remedy."

Herman Brinkhoff, jewelry engraver, Norwalk, N. J., writes: "I continually suffered by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic. Ayer's Pills afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me in health."

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 2, 1887.

THE SCALA of crime must be lowered. The figures given in another column by Mr. N. F. Mosher are startling. Notwithstanding the familiarity acquired by the constant sights and sounds of crime. The inability to manage ourselves is plain. Is this a civilized country, where murderers stalk abroad like beasts in the wilds of Africa! With all our boasted institutions crime is on the increase. What are we going to do about it!

THE 13th session of the Philadelphia Conference passed off very pleasantly. Nearly all the brethren seem well pleased with their appointments. Being the first held here by Bishop Ward, it may be said to have been presided over to the satisfaction of all concerned. The impression of the session on the people of Columbia was very good. The religious services, as well as the business sessions, showed this the conference is composed of ministers throughly in earnest.

IN THIS NUMBER of the RECORDER our readers will find an exceedingly interesting article from our Senior Bishop, "Critique the Second," in which he gives an exegesis of the teachings of our Lord on moral education. In the next he will give the teachings of the Apostles on the same subject. The current paper is a strong rebuke to any scores or flings at moral education. For the sake of checking the trend to lax morality it would be profitable to read it in every congregation in the land.

THE OHIO CONFERENCE BIBLICAL Institute will sit in Paul Quinn Chapel, Chillicothe, O, August 9-12. First, to examine thoroughly all candidates for Holy Orders and for admittance to conference, and, second, to interchange opinions on subjects relating to the work of the ministry and the general interests of the people. The programme is commendable. If carried on it will make a highly serviceable meeting. The ministers in the conference will treat important topics in papers, which will be discussed by the body. The "Obio Idea" in church as well as in politics, is to keep in the front ranks. The primary aim of this institute, to aid brethren in preparing for admission to conference, is worthy of emulation by all our conferences.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD of Publication met at the establishment last Wednesday, Bishop Wayman presiding. The session was pleasant and serviceable. The affairs of the Publishing House were found in good condition. Bishop Ward was very generous toward the Department in the matter of fares and in holding the session, in the absence of Bishop Campbell. Revs. Drs. Derrick and C. Asbury, always faithful in attendance, even when at great drawvantage to do so, were also present representatives of the Board. The outlook for the A. M. E. Publishing House is encouraging. The prospects are that the next General Conference will find a comparatively small debt resting on the Book Concern. This is the object of the centennial committee. The Church can do no better thing than to make that celebration much more than a mere pleasure occasion.

THE GOOD TEMPLARS, in their joint meeting of the American and British lodges at Saratoga, have agreed to unite. This is very wise; sin unites with sin, shall not sin-destructive forces unite with others to meet this formidable union! If free masonry, odd fellowship and the whole list of oath-bound societies continue to make their oaths of very little effect when those oaths would lead them a cross race lines, they are unworthy the respect of men. Only very same thing is true of churches. Down with everything that shuts out its sunlight from a race, for no other reason than that he has blue eyes, a fact which in itself has no natural less preventing the entrance of light. It is the ruling strong class's unchristian treatment of a weak class that drives it to separate church organization, not to exclude the strong, but to enjoy itself. It is the unrighteous treatment received by the weak class from the strong that forces the latter to separate organization. The religion of a country seems to be modified very largely by the sentiments of that country, as well as to be a modifier of sentiment.

THE NECESSITY of study in Sunday school work requires great attention from our ministry. Any alloo observer will be struck at the slavish sticking to the Lesson Leaf and Journal, which characterizes both student and teacher, superintendent and pastor. Questions are asked with the eye fixed upon the text, so that independence of thought and the benefit of knowledge are lost. A little attention will reveal the fact that all over the school the same question is being asked about the same time, answering pupils reading from the lesson. This is not teaching nor is it learning. When on review day the reviewer holds his journal and makes his questions his questions and the school makes its answers theirs, the farce is complete. Of course there are noble exceptions, in which the student studies, the teacher teaches and the reviewer reviews. It is a remarkable what little attention is paid to the real life, the soul, of the lesson; so the contemporaneous, civil and religious history, and the geography connected with it. The routine is too often gone through about as follows: Teacher, "What is the topic!" Whole school reading, "Zoobezus in the Tree." Teacher, "Yes. What is the Golden Text!" Whole school reading, "He that humbleth himself shall be exalted." Teacher, with eyes lifted from the page long enough to reply "Yes. Now, what is the outline!" Whole school, "The short man exalted. Now for knowledge of Jesus and sitting together at meat." "Correct," says the teacher. "What verse teachers the necessity of climbing a tree to see that which is hidden from your present standpoint!" Whole school, "The sixth verse." Teacher, "Right. Will you tell me where in this chapter we are taught to expect to be heard in our prayers in the Lord!" Whole school reading, "The seventh and eigth verse." So on and on, week after week and year after year, the bum drum of question and answer according to the strictest order of the lesson paper is kept up. Two minutes' intelligent questioning after lesson leaves are all gathered by teachers would be more serviceable to the school than an hour spent in bowing the head to read answers and raising it to state them. Twice every month, at least, the lessons should be talked over without a single leaf in hand. As for the teacher or reviewer holding the journal to ask questions it reminds one of the young minister who was rigidly examined by one of our Western southern committee men; his questions being all read from the books. After the examination was closed and the candidate had retired, "Brethren, we have a young nation," the young minister justly said he did not know how he could be expected to answer the questions that had been asked without a book, when his committee had to hold books in their hands to ask the questions.

MORAL REFORM.

Upon the best principles of indestructing and modifying mind, seeking would seem to be in circumstances calculated to discourage them from vice and lead to virtue. The anguish of conscience and the shame of open offending good taste, the compunctions of conscience, the physical and civil punishment of crime, the scenes at the asylums for the demented, the indigent and friendless, the prisons for the guilty, the incorrigible and the violent, the awful object lessons of the gallows and all the cases of heart-crushing that are not confined to the atoning ones, but are common and observable in every human habitation—anguish intensified by the ties of affinity and consanguinity with the sinner—these would seem sufficiently effective to retard crime. The pleasures and pleasure of a good conscience, the satisfaction of a good standing in society, the honor of a good name, the inspiration of liberty from prison wardens, the blessedness of being surrounded by peaceful friends, the healthful effects of looking upon a harmonious and healthful moving of society in general, the almost numberless personal advantages resulting from upright living, the success attending a close observation of God's law—these would seem sufficient to inspire men with superior determination to be on the Lord's side. It would seem sure to lead the race to a decided success very soon. The philanthropist who wrote and talked a thousand years ago had not dreamed of seeing the world so slowly coming to the point of love to righteousness and sin not." Godliness, godliness is the great desideratum of mankind. Give temperance, respect for the Sabbath and all that enters into our ideas of ethics, men lacking godliness are far from safe; you may expect them to lapse into their former state sooner or later, hence the slowness of reformand transformation of men to the glorious image of our Lord.

NOT FOR A DAY, BUT FOR ALL TIME.

It being an axiom that the best evidence of the value of any undertaking in behalf of public or private welfare is found in its having the quality of endorance, of permanency, we find in the report now before us of one of our well known institutions, an especial claim upon our careful consideration of its high aim in the prosecution of its good work. The fifteenth annual report of the Franklin Reformatory Home, 911, 913, 915 Locust street, announces its especial aim and object to be the permanent and thorough reformation of its inmates. Its work for the past year may be summarized thus: At the beginning of the year ending March 31st, 1887, there were 50 inmates remaining in its care; 319 received during the year, making a total of 369; 332 were discharged; 37 remaining at its close. Of those 156 were considered, when discharged, to be thoroughly reformed. There were 104 provided for by the Home from; 125 paid their expenses in part and 60 in full. The total receipts from all sources were $18,147.12; total expenses, $12,908.06, leaving balance in treasury, $239.06. The Home has an efficient and unique helper in the Godwin Association, named for its president, Samuel P. Godwin, Esq., and composed exclusively of the former inmates. Its especial work is to aid their fellow brethren to rise again, and having risen, to stand firmly and worthily in the right way. Their financial report for the year shows they are doing their work practically and well. There was distributed by them to the regular fund $1,768.28; of this $231 was paid the Home for board and $146.58 for relief of inmates, and the handsome sum of $1,334.75 was raised by special collection and presented to the Home as their annual gift. In fifteen years the Home has sheltered over 3,500 men and positively claims fully 40 per cent of them as thoroughly reformed. Mr. O. J. Gibbons, the Secretary, may be says, "It excludes the real prosecution of the aims and achievements of the Home, which cannot fail to interest and instruct all in sympathy with the good work with which he has been identified for over ten years. The following circular accompanied the report;

The balance sheet of the Home shows the small sum of $239 06 to carry on the institution's charity. The efficient work of the Home needs no eulogy at our hands, the great number of men who have been restored to usefulness; the many families made comfortable and happy through this work, and the positive evidence that it is practical Christianity, guarantees the right to ask our friends to respond to our call for means to carry it on. Contributions sent to C. J. Gibbons, Superintendent, 915 Locust Street, A. C. Sinn, Esq., Treasurer of Hood, Bonbright & Co., or the President, will be thankfully acknowledged.

"WHAT OUR CHURCH DID."

Under this heading H. W. Simmons says some very foolish things in the Southwestern Christian Advocate. No man at the same time truthful and sensible will say the A. M. E. Church is the only church of Christ, or has ever been, further than by so far forth as a man who defends himself against another may be called his enemy. It is may enough for some colored members of the M. E. Church to talk thus; to say as it is for them to dippantly ask, "What has the A. M. E. Church done for the elevation of our race" and so say as to insure that "A race church dishonors Christ," by being called the A. M. E. Church's e race church. If it is, then every local M. E. church society of colored members in a town having a white, or a society in a race church, society in an opposition more emphatic than that of our connection Every exclusively colored M. E. Conference covering the same territory occupied by this Conference is, in truth, more race-protecting than can the African Methodist Church be as a denomination. There is a church, and probably but one, in the country that is exclusively colored, a race church, a race church, society in an opposition more emphatic than that of our connection Every exclusively colored M. E. Conference covering the same territory occupied by this Conference is, in truth, more race-protecting than can the African Methodist Church be as a denomination. There is a church, and probably but one, in the country that is exclusively colored, a race church, a race church; is the C. M. E., which will not receive other than colored persons. The M. E. S. Church is more liberal than its black child; it does in some cases hold colored members. In late minutes there are over six hundred colored communicants reported. If our good colored brethren mean to be manly and Christian in their writings about their connection they should express upon the C. M. E. Church, that is exclusively and protectedly racial, and the M. E. Z. Church, that seems next to it! Why do they not study to be true, to be just, to be manly! O. H. M. Simmons, if he has tried fairly to know anything about this matter, shows a bad spirit when he says the "A. M. E. Church is a church for a particular race." When he says, "It excludes the great majority of mankind," he utters a falsehood, perhaps through ignorance, but for that no less a falsehood.

There is nothing in the wording nor the spirit of the Discipline, the polity nor the history of the A. M. E. Church as a body, to warrant this twaddle that some members of the M. E. Church occasionally feed out to their credulous readers. The fact is that this foolish talk, like some talk by members of our Church, such as the Southwestern so often publishes, as if it represented our connection, is unworthy a true, noble manhood or a noble religious paper.

The good done for the colored race by the A. M. E. Church is not likely to be seen by one so blinded as this one writes. Privately nearly any one of them will talk as much race talk, exclusive race talk, spiteful race talk as the most exasperated African Methodist could do. But "the African Methodist Church! The African Methodist Church! Oh, the African Methodist Church!" It's such a narrow church, a Northern church. It has not done anything for the race," and all that, for what! Not for truth, not for the glory of God. The world, i.e., that part of it in which brains reside, knows better; the other part may be pardoned for its delusion.

The African Methodist Zion Church people talk as much as the African Methodist people about white Bishops, etc., but it is not they; it is the miserable African Methodists who must be thrashed for their sins. Well, cow, brethren, if you conscientiously feel properly called upon to do this especial work, superexogatory though it may be, no one can prevent you. It would seem that are long Christianity would suggest an investigation of the sources where the call came. The men in our Church and years can ill afford to waste precious time in misrepresentations and falsehood. On either side we are liable to narrow-mindedness. On either side we need grace and benevolence, consistency and wisdom.

THE PRESBYTERIANS AND CHRISTIANITY.

Last week the Presbyterian General Assembly, at Omaha, Neb., acted perfectly equitably on the subject of equal rights in church, but the Southern Presbyterian Assembly at St. Louis fired it up after the manner of fifty years ago. A Mr. Vaughn, of Lexington, Va., speaking to the subject of union between the Presbyterian and Southern Presbyterian Churches, declared in effect that it would not do; bosses the negro, a slave race, divinely so settled, Gen 1 Tim. 6th Chapter; if all were equal place in the ecclesiastical body, would be found crowding the immaculate race for equality in social life, and by some means use his sinful repulsiveness to the belief in the negro's holiness and promenade. How could this be brought about, Mr. Vaughn! Will not repulsive always repel! Again we have an instance of the fact that idolatry must ever be the policy of the church, if the character of Christ is in any sense breathed in that memorable prayer, "That they may be one, even as we are one." These foolish, morally depraved people would stamp on the cross and sneer at the blood of Jesus, if they suggested absolute fellowship of mankind on the basis of faith, following and fraternizing.

While these philosophers pay so much respect to the purity of their race blood and to the impassable barriers which Nature has established between them and us, what are they doing to shock the fearful tide of race destruction by the ungovernable lusts of the white, and the pitiable weakness and degradation of the colored race! This especial crime against sctors, against race and against God is left to itself too largely; yet it is laying the foundation of future wickedness and sowing the seed of destruction more rapidly than many think. The simple question is are we, the colored people of America, to be driven away from the best advantages of civilization as seen by an outsider—this gives us the inner thought and character of the men Then again this book has been prepared as the labor of a loving heart. It is from the work of a more loving Mother. It opens from the author's preface: "Home sense, religious philosophy and sound the platform; but in the calm restfulness of a private life we see the ease and delight, a balm to wounded spirits, a cheer to the despondent, a charm in the social circle, and fortress of defense. We be had enemies, yes; that he had seen the devil. His enemies he read until this day, and it is time now for his friends to read. Let us, as one of his friends, to be showed affection when a boy, whom he counselled wisely in youth, whom he aided in manhood, whom he loved and had sentiments of regard and to whom he will devote consecrating the leisure of his head and heart, I find great satisfaction in following the brief life of one so pre-eminent, and defined as the author of the wisest, heartiest, simplest, greatest man I ever knew." In this spirit this book has also been able from his intimate knowledge of Mr. Beecher's affairs to give us most interesting facts concerning his early and successful years; also of his expenses, gifts, library, art treasures, paintings, precious mementoes of distinguished men and etc., etc.; matters not likely to be found in any other life that may be written. This is in truth a unique book, most delightfully prepared and full of interest from first to finale. It contains a perfect portrait in steel, and many other beautiful illustrations, and in typography, paper and binding is a superior book. It is a work of an immense circulation. Had Mr. Beecher attempted an autobiography no could not with propriety have put so much of his real nature into it as is given so spontaneously in this volume.

PENSACOLA (FLA.) NEWS.

AT S. D. JACKSON.

The late session of the Florida Annual Conference of the A. M. E. Church at Spears as pastor. A great many of us have had the pleasure of hearing Spears, usefulness, activity and the intellectual manner in which he presides. He takes a great interest in his race, reads the newspapers owned by colored men. He is a ready writer, delightful, unreasonable and nihilistic doctrine of blackness being a curse is true. It and the Bible cannot both be true, but the Bible is true. He who hates blackness hates one of God's thoughts.

Personal.

—Dr. Tanner attended the Good Templars' Union Meeting at Saratoga last week.

—Rev. G. W. Gibbs is stationed at Langhorne, and Rev. J. B. Hill was returned to Centerville.

—General T. M. Chester acted as reporter at both the A. M. E. and A. M. E. Z. Philadelphia Conference.

—Our office was blessed, last week, by a cordial visit from Revs. Offley, Smith, Dungsted and Wheeler, of the Zion Conference.

—The Rev. L. J. Coppin completes a course of study at the Church (Episcopal) Seminary, Philadelphia, next week. A noble task completed.

—Dr. A. L. Byrne has established a drug store in Selma, Ala. The doctor needs "the doctor" to prevent him from overwork. He extensive practice and drug store together will overtax one pot in him? The people say, "I will not go to hear him preach; I will not give him any of my money; he has no religion." So he keeps from the church people and money out of the treasury of the Lord. I am an admirer of boss and politicians, but I hope that the next General Conference will make a drive at these politicians a thing of the past. We feel proud of the record of Revs. B. W. Arnett and J. M. Townsend, but even their pluses could be filled by non-ministers.

—Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, we were at the M. E. Church, South-street, greeting, cheerful and bright gentleman of medium size arose and said, "My text can be found in Exodus 20, 14." This was the Rev. C. L. Chilcoe, the pastor. It has been my pleasure to hear some of the Bishops of this Church, but I have never heard anything to equal this from any divine. His self-confidence was mean only. This reverend gentleman is doing a great deal of good and could be employed in getting the people to take his advice Peasnuts would be a much better place than it is. Our people have, or some of them, a beginning or read colored newspapers. Gradually they are seeing the importance of so doing; but there is a class of men who will not read them still they will take a daily paper that is suitable them in the very worst language imaginable. I am a constant reader of the Recorder and New York Freeman, and I think that they are worthy of the patronage of every man and woman who has any interest in the race —We are abundantly supplied with ministerial aspirants, who are willing to work from the ground to the topmost round of the ministerial ladder at one stride, instead of step by step. Our Bishops, as a rule, are wise, guarded, or, to make it plainer, they won't move a step in advance by the Bishop until they can get a first-class appointment.

—Rev. Kate L. Kelsey, of Macon, Ga., Wife, lately received an earnest invitation to enter into partnership with Dr. Mary Jackson, of Philadelphia, one of the people of Menominee would not let her go. They raised her salary and made physician, elected her to the school board, made her handsome presents and boarded her free of charge. Excellent housekeeping her.

—Miss Andrews, one of the Wellesley professors, knows Hewalian, and greeted Queen Kapiolani with a complimentary address in her native tongue. Queen Queen visited the college. The Evening Star says that "It will now be believed by outsiders that, if 'she' herself should chance among us she would be found to some one ready to welcome her in her own tongue."

—The vote for the Calhoun monument, just unveiled in Charleston, S. C., was raised by electors. Mr. Calhoun was elected vice president in 1854. When the war broke out, the funds amounted to $50,000, security in stocks. The intelligence and fidelity of the treasurer, Mr. Edmund Bellinger, saved the fund. The wreck of war, although all her private property was destroyed in 1865, when the books were examined, it was found that through the business-like manner in which the fund was managed, the accretions had become worth nearly $60,000.

—The N. Y. Nation seems to have been imposed upon in a communication dated Atlanta, Kansas, and signed Ellis, and written by one "Edwin Willis Moore," giving an unfavorable opinion of the effect of woman suffrage in that city. How such person, nor any person with those initials, is to be found in the Wichita Directory of 1886, although there are thirty-five persons by the name of Moore in the Directory. The editor of the Wichita New Republic writes: "I don't think any such person exists, or ever has existed, in Wichita; at least, he has never published such a statement here, and I don't think he ever will."

HONORING THE MEMORY OF A DEPARTED MINISTER.

On Thursday, April 21st, the people of the church at Milton, [illegible], assembled with members of the presiding elder district, to erect a tombstone in honor to the blessed memory of Rev. Andrew Massey, who died May 12, 1885, aged one hundred and ten years.

Revs. J. W. Norris, J. T. Hammond, J. Evans, A. J. Buckley, Messrs. J. Baines and C. Fales and others were present. Rev. Buckley, from the committee appointed by the district conference, presented the stone, which we learned by private letter, is a beauty.

Sermons were preached by Revs. J. T. Hammond and J. W. Norris. All churches in this district were prosperous last year and desire the return of their pastors.

NOTICE TO MINISTERS.—We have on hand 200 copies of that great work, "German Methodism," or, Mezak history of the Creation, by Dr. T. G Steward. To cover the expense of stereotyping, &c., we make a special offer of these 200 copies at 75 cents per copy, or 10 copies for $6.50 cash all are sold. Remember, this is the last offer at this rate Every preacher and intelligent layman ought to have a copy of this work. Address the publisher,

AN ADDRESS.

Brethren, dearly beloved, of the Ohio, North Ohio, Indiana, Pittsburg, Michigan and North Carolina Annual Conference—

GREETING:

Through the blessings of God we have passed through the revolution of another year of labor, toil and endeavor, which has been very pleasant to me. This brings us to the last year in the quadrennium, and I submit the attention of the presiding elders and preachers in charge to the Quarterly Financial Secretary, who has traveled and is now traveling and visiting the conference; that "the winter and spring conference have all increased their Dollar Money, Lay Servant Shoe Store, at North Eighth street. State the date of the sale and the price to be paid, where you read, and give the number of the volume in order of reference.

SUMMER CORSETS.

It will be very comforting for ladies to know that Dr. Scott has just introduced his new Electric Summer Corset. It is a perfect fitting, comfortable, durable, and thoroughly ventilated garment. We invite the attention of our lady readers to Dr. Scott's advertisement within to-day. It strikes us as being just the thing required for Summer wear.

WANAMAKER'S

PHILADELPHIA, May 8th, 1887.

You can order what you want by sending a letter if you can't come to the store yourself.

There's just as much art in the coarse Hamburg Embroideries as in the finest we've got. The designs are as handsome. The same kind of a machine takes every stitch. If there were a few more stitches in each pattern the price would be many times three times as high, maybe four times what it now is.

You'll be surprised when you see these Hamburgs that so little money'll buy them.

Flouncings, 35c. to $1.25.
1-2 Flounces, 50c. to 75c.
All-overs, 25c. to 50c.
Narrows, 2c. to 10c.

For light stubbing around, climbing hills, tramping on sand or grass, there's nothing for the hot months better than canvas Shoes, leather or rubber soles.

Women's, Misses', Men's or Boys', $1.75 to $2.50; Children's, $1.25 to $1.75.

Straw Slippers, 25c. Daintily turned, light enough for fairy feet, cool, cosy. You think of Cinderella. No finer work of the kind was ever done. Black and fancy colors, $1.50.

Sizes. The Children's Day Money must not be used to buy Sunday school supplies. It is to be directly applied to us.

Yours, fraternally,

C. S. SMITH.

Read! Read! Read!

We have just received, and have on sale at our Book Rooms, the following list of splendid new books:

1. "Thoughts From Nature," by Rev. J. F. Smith, D. D., LL. D.
2. "Capital for Working Boys," Price, $1.00.
3. This is a capital book in every sense of the word.
4. "General Grant from the Tannery to the White House." Price, $1.50.
5. This book will be a pleasant and simple way the whole story of the great soldier's life from boyhood to the grave. Send your order at once.
6. "What to Get for Breakfast." Price, $1.00.
7. This book is just the thing for our ladies.
8. "Taxi, Push and Privilege," by Wm. Wells Brown, M. D.
9. Who of us does not need this book? Well, send for one and read it at once.
10. "Recitations and Readings for Young People."
11. This book is mostly a collection of poetry on many subjects of nature and life. It will be found useful, and is well suited for the parlor and leisure hour.

Next we offer a splendid home book on the life of Abraham Lincoln. "Pioneer Home" is the name. I recollect to read and profit by. It is good for all ages and classes.

Next, we call you to our two last and best of all. We have just received from the publishers "Morning Hour." Hast is found a scripture lesson, of five to eight verses, for every morning in the year, and a comment on the teaching of the passage by Rev. A. B. Earle, D. D., the well known Evangelist. A very octavo, handsomely bound. Only $2.00.

The other book we speak of is a hymnal, called "Songs On Song," by Rev. A. B Earle. It contains nearly all of the old and new hymns that have been used in all the churches for the last twenty years. It is not a "trashy" thing that will blow away in an hour, but a winnowed company of golden songs that will never die, set to music equally vital. No church or congregation can sing those songs and not get a "warm" in the exercise. We are going to sell two thousand of them this summer. Send for one. Only 30 cents. By mail, 35 cents. No discounts allowed. Send for sample copy at once. We can tell of more next time.

Mexican Hammocks. The most reliable. Weather proof, fast colors. 14 feet long, 6 feet wide; weigh 4 pounds. White or colored, $1.25. You'll be asked $1.50 for a shorter, lighter, poorer Mexican Hammock in some of the stores.

Not fit alone, you want fit and quality in Clothes. They are poor, mean things (common enough, too) in which you get just a little of either. The fit is easy to judge; you must be cloth-wise to know quality. Eyes and fingers must be trained. How many of you have eyes and fingers trained in that way? You must trust somebody.

Sam or Boy, we've the Clothes for rough or for best in every stuff that's suited to the season.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION,
HOW THE SCIENCE OF MEDICINE HAS BEEN HAMPERED.

"PROFESSIONAL ETIQUETTE" WORSE THAN EASTERN CLOTH—A LETTER FROM A PHYSICIAN WHO FOLLOWS THE "SCHOOL" BUT PERSONAL HONESTY TO "PROFESSIONAL ETHICS."

While the medical profession has made great progress in the past few years, it is not to be regretted that that progress has not been as great as it might have been. That such is the case is due to the fact that the profession has laid on it the restraint of a code of ethics, which, though it be but the code of the chivalric, honorable, and high-minded, should not be allowed to stand between the practice of medicine and any disease which your physician has failed to cure, send to Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and he will tell you honestly whether he thinks he can cure you or not. If he cannot, he will say so, and not take your case for the sake of the dollars. If he can, he will tell you so, and charge you fairly for his services. Thousands have been cured by him after all hope had been abandoned by their family physicians. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for Consumption, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Lingering Colds, and all Blood Diseases, is unequaled. Sold by druggists.

This Institute has been established and equipped to accommodate the large number of invalids who (at home from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the Staff of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-celebrated Institution.

A FAIR AND BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER TO INVALIDS.

We earnestly invite you to come, see and examine for yourself, our institution, appliances, advantages and success in curing chronic diseases. Even as a matter of personal interest, for the benefit of our local [illegible] of medical science. Nobody knows nothing of us, our system of treatment, or means of cure, yet who never lose an opportunity to interpret and endeavor to prejudice others against us. We are perfectly willing to risk the decision of any candid person who will visit us. We are confident that you will find that our Institution is not a pretentious one in any particular, our Institutions, advantages or success, we will promptly refund to you your railroad fare both ways, and all hotel bills you may incur while visiting us. Our success is so marvelous, and our methods so different and unlike those of all other institutions, that we are doing for suffering humanity

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

sorts a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 50 cents and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to any one who will receive the enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full SIX months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Mementoes Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. As excellent book.

The Best Remedy
For Dyspepsia is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Other medicines may give temporary relief; but Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes a positive and permanent cure, as thousands can testify all over the country.

"My stomach is liver, and kidneys were in a disordered condition for years," writes R. Wild, of Hotto, Texas, "and I never found my medicine to relieve me, until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than six bottles of this remedy cured me."

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of Holyoke, Mass., was for a long time a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia, Itching, Piles, and all the usual remedies. At last she began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and only three bottles entirely cured her to perfect health.

"I have gone through terrible suffering from Dyspepsia and Indigestion," writes C. J. Bolcomer, 125 Columbia st., Cambridgeport, Mass., "and can truly say that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has done me more good than all other medicines I ever took."

WHILE in North Carolina we had the pleasure of meeting Hon. C. W. Hoover, member of the North Carolina Legislature from Wake county. Mr. Hoover is one of the most intelligent gentlemen of the legislature. He has done good work for his county and the colored people

PROF. W. H. CROSSLIN has brought the case of his ejection from a car in Tennessee, and attendant outrage, before the Inter-state Railroad Commission for settlement, demanding $25,000 damages. Our Colored Brigg Keane Prof Connelll, and speaks very highly of him, as well as of the necessity of railroads recognizing the rights of men. This is very fortunate for Prof. Connell. Railroads will become strangely humble here, Tennessee and Georgia are no worse on this subject than New York was twenty-five years ago.

THE KITTRELL NORMAL SCHOOL

The commencement exercises if this institution took place Tuesday, May 31st. As many as two thousand persons were scattered over the beautiful campus before 12 o'clock, sil colored, ranking from school children to teachers, editors, preachers, etc.

This school is situated in the northeastern part of North Carolina. The locality is very healthy. The sixty acres of good land belonging to the institution is well adapted for agricultural use. Besides several acres of tillable land there are groves, springs and streams of mineral waters, whose medicinal properties have been applied to several lives in many instances, even to the them of their infirmities.

The Faculty is composed of President B. B. Goins, Mrs. Goins and Prof. J. W. Hawkins. They all seem confident of success, neither is fatigued and has a buoyant with hope, but not messy about being rubbed for the money they make. There were about seventy students in attendance last year, many of whom were from the cities able to keep them there a long while.

The essays and declamations by the children and adults were delivered in good style; songs rang were charming. There was evidently been good work done at Kittrell. The Trustee Board met 31st ult. Rev. R. H. W. Leak, the chief spirit in this enterprise from beginning to the present, is chairman of the Board. Besides having effect by the of the officers of the school, the Board received a commission from the Virginia Conference, asking to become partner in the ownership and control of the school. The commissioners were Rev. J. Strange, W. D. Cock, W. H. Hunter, J. E. W. Moore and E. H. Holden. Revs. Holden and Cook were not present. He will find that not a few of that have once been endowed with funds excelling all that the Church has given Wilberforce are unable to support themselves. Princeton, a century old, begs for aid.

We heard a wise woman make a remark like this of Brother Edwards' eight years ago. Wilberforce is no richer now than it was then. The fact is, colleges do not grow wealthy with age but with giving. The untiring support is the thing upon which they are sustained, not the accumulation of years. There is nothing in them as a business.

THE "SOUTHERN RECORDER" EXPLAINS.

The following occure in the editorial columns of our good contemporary of May 27th:

Bishop Payne's review of our position on our moral education, published in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, is gladly reprinted in this paper. We shall reprint as many as he writes, and at the proper time reply as we should to a kind and wise father. Yet, we wish a man more our equal in years and in hors was our critic; for how can we take exception at anything Bishop Payne may say when we have been accustomed for years upon years to sit and listen to his words as oracles divine. Our reverence for him forbids it. All we shall say at present, is that we concur in everything our senior says. The difference is simply, he is advocating and defending moral training, culture and discipline, while we are denouncing the theory that schools can make Christians without being justified by faith through our Lord Jesus Christ. But we propose to wait his reply in silence, and then say God save Bishop Payne! Yet we shall speak at the proper time, though in terms mild and tender, for our subject is one of great importance. We will not read to the free of the current month After the 5th, to the free of the month following. All letters are agents for the paper

NOTICE.—All questions and business pertaining to advertising, subscriptions, etc., should be sent to the business manager. All orders for the insertion of this establishment requiring money to be sent to the editor, but communications to the RECORDER to the Manager. All orders for changing address of the paper must give the name of Church or Conference to which the paper is now sent, as well as the address to which it is to be sent. Please remember, in writing for articles for publication, to write only on one side of the paper.

NEXT SUNDAY is the grossing day for the Sunday School Union. Children's Day has become one of the most popular days of the Church It has been attended by more enthusiasm than any other of our general days for some time. The enthusiasm has been accompanied by generous contributions, and these have been used to establish a good and growing Sunday school business. The prosperity of the Union should encourage the connection to be liberal in efforts this year. The patronage of the department is doubtless becoming quite general, compared with that of two years ago. The probability is that the Union will be self-supporting after the next General Conference.

A FEW DAYS ago we received a communication urging, among other things, "Wilberforce University is old enough to be self-supporting." We advise our good brother to study the history of institutions of learning. He will find that no university can be made self-supporting till it has an endowment fund equal to at least five times as much money as Wilberforce has ever handled, from all sources. He will find that not a few that have once been endowed with funds excelling all that the Church has given Wilberforce are unable to support themselves. Princeton, a century old, begs for aid.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 9, 1887.

NEXT WEEK will appear an interesting sketch of Rev. E. H. Dixon, of the Alabama Conference.

WE SHOULD have said all Scripture is against this notion instead of "this question," in editorial, last week, under subject, Presbyterians and Christianity.

WE were made to say, last week, "The A. M. E. C. Church sends a report to the C. M. E. Church in unreverence on the race question, whereas we meant to say the M. E. South.

HAVE NOT both sides of the Bishop election question and the presiding elder question been discussed as extensively as the people care to have it, seeing that the discussion cannot make one hair white nor black?

LETTER FROM BISHOP CAMPBELL.

MR. EDITOR:—It is our intention, by the grace to God, to keep our promise made to you upon leaving home, to write you from time to time of our travels and what we are doing at every opportunity, therefore, you may expect to receive a series of letters from us, namely, one by every mail weekly, if possible as we have already commenced that series by the last steamer for New York. The Rev. Mr. Faris from Ohio and our dear people who are interested in the cause of missions will be over anxious to hear from us. You will learn that we have reached the Island of Hayti once we left Turk's Island. We expect that when you hear from us we shall be in Port au Prince, Hayti, leaving that our articles or letters may be of such interesting and profitable to all who may be pleased to read them,

I am yours truly,
J. P. CAMPBELL

NORTH CAROLINA NOTES.

BY REV. W. H. GILES.

In your publication of "North Carolina Notes" in your last issue it was stated that Rev. T. J. Bell had been broken down in health and had gone home." I wish to state that this is a typographical error and that it was Rev. W. G. Catas instead of Rev. W. J. Jordan, Brother Jordan is well and at his post. He is building a large church 70 by 90, and it is to be located at the place of classes, prayer meetings, Sunday school and other holy purposes.

We received letters from Revs. C. H. King and A. J. Chambers stating that they were engaging in a revival work, and on the 27th inst. St. Stephen's M. E. Church would hold a two days' camp meeting, to which every minister of the North Carolina Conference will be personally invited. We received a cordial invitation, for which we extend our thanks to the writers, and to say that we regret that we cannot attend on account of the educational duties which will soon cumbent upon us here.

Rev. Dr. Harris and Rev. D. James' A. M. E. Church, Kinston, will be held Saturday, June 18, by the Masonic fraternity. Bishop H. M. Turner has been announced to be present and deliver the address on this occasion—Rev. W. H. Giles, pastor.

Rev. B. J. Arnold, South Lowell, has been quite ill, but is now improving, though quite slowly. His flock is attending to him faithfully.

Western North Carolina. This is a large territory, war and is included in what is known in the North Carolina Conference as the Presiding District Rev. F. D. Roberts, presiding elder. This brother is pushing the work forward and expects to produce great results.

Morganton Station, Rev. Ed. Robinson, pastor. This society is in a flourishing condition, both spiritually and temporarily; a good many have been added to the church.

Hickory, Rev. A. A. Hamilton, the missionary, though a young man, is doing well and his work will commence to develop. Rev. Mr. Records has a mission near Hickory, under his charge.

Lincolnton, Rev. J. Carpenter, in the July American Magazine, will describe the amazing difficulties in regard to costumes which the Methodist missionaries in Japan have to contend when they take part in friendly entertainments.

—A letter from Mr. D. M. Roberts, Jefferson, Tex., states that his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. B. Harper, of Jefferson, visiting her daughter, fell dead from a paralytic stroke. Mr. Roberts is a faithful Christian and a member of the M. E. Church.

—Rev. D. D. Williams, formerly a compositor on the RECORDER, and brother to the present foreman of the paper, has become editor and publisher of the Daily Post, of Greenville, Miss. He is thoroughly an editor as a thorough printer amply qualify him.

LETTER FROM BISHOP CAMPBELL.

MR. EDITOR:—It is our intention, by the grace to God, to keep our promise made to you upon leaving home, to write you from time to time of our travels and what we are doing at every opportunity, therefore, you may expect to receive a series of letters from us, namely, one by every mail weekly, if possible as we have already commenced that series by the last steamer for New York. The Rev. Mr. Faris from Ohio and our dear people who are interested in the cause of missions will be over anxious to hear from us. You will learn that we have reached the Island of Hayti once we left Turk's Island. We expect that when you hear from us we shall be in Port au Prince, Hayti, leaving that our articles or letters may be of such interesting and profitable to all who may be pleased to read them,

It was the editor of one of our esteemed morning contemporaries who once characterized a "rout" as being a vulgar traction of gentleman.

"Now, woman's sphere"—began Mrs. McS. "Oh, I know what that is," replied her husband. "Well, what is it?" "Why woman's fear is e mouse."

One of the old settlers at the Isles of Shoals seeing the name "Hyrbe" on the hull of a yacht, the other day, spelled it out slowly, and then exclaimed, "Well, if that isn't the most cur'ous way to spell fish!"

Talmage says that "the man who can sing and won't sing should be sent to Sing Sing." That would be to severe. It is the man who won't sing and will sing who should be sent to Sing Sing.

Dean Howson was joint author with Dr. Conybeare of the "Life and Epistles of Saint Paul." It was very sharp to Dr. Thompson, after hearing Dean Howson preach, to say, "I never realized before what an able man Dr. Conybeare is."

THE POOR LITTLE ONES.

We often see children with red eruptions on face and hands, pimples, sore skin, and often sores on the head. These things indicate a sluggish condition of the blood. In the growing period, children have need of pure blood by which to build up strong and healthy bodies. If Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is given, the blood is purged of its bad elements, and the child's development will be healthy, and it will not be sickly. Scrofulous affections, rickets, fever sores, blood disease or other gravy maladies and suffering are cured by those of the blood. PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 16, 1887.

"IN THE MIDST of life we are in death; as Job says," was cut out of an obituary notice published this week. Job did not say that, brother, nor did any Bible writer. It is English, not Jewish.

THOSE WHO wish to secure good maps for Sunday school use would better write to M. H. Vaughn & Co., 503 S. Custer street, Springfield, Ohio. They sell both outline and full well maps and hand maps of Bible lands, patriarchal and royal charts, &c.

REV. R. C. RANSOM was assisting a committee of ladies to decorate the Allentown (Pa.) Church for Children's Day when we unceremoniously rushed upon him last Saturday, after learning where his church was and rousing there to be back to the train, all within "twenty minutes for supper."

IF TO COOLING, dear brethren, to ask that we give place in the RECORDER to more harrowing, with reference to what may be said concerning General conference or anything else. We do desire that the CHRISTIAN RECORDER shall be serious and manly. Please do not expect us to publish slipshod communications or reports composed of street slang, as the silly expression, "cuss words."

IT IS PLEASANT and promising to observe how much less complaint and unkind criticism is heard than formerly of ministers preceding present incumbents in the pastorate. We were highly gratified to hear from the pasters at a recent session of the Philadelphia Preachers' Meeting, embracing many in both the Philadelphia and New Jersey Conferences, very high expressions concerning their predecessors. Rev. Theodore Gould, who succeeds Dr. Jeoffer's six years' pastorate in Boston, says, "Dr. Jeoffer has recently done a wonderful work there," and enumerates his good deeds with an enthusiasm that would well become him, if speaking of his own work. Thank God for his promise of the end of, "When I came to my work was all torn up;" "Brother X didn't do this and that, but I-I-I-I have done next to everything—of course—under God."

THE COMMENCEMENT at Lincoln University is said to have been very entertaining this year. Many of our noble, thoughtful and leading men have come from this institution, whose education seems to make good Methodists, Baptists and Episcopalians, as well as good Presbyterians. The Alumni Association held their annual meeting in Allen Chapel, Philadelphia, where they were given a grand reception by the genial pastor and accommodating people This is fraternity and good sense combined. The interests of have not been much alike; their community feelings and principles should be given as full opportunity to play as is possible. The speeches at the entertainment are said to have been of a high order; same taking leave with the drink-limitation of Lincoln to give a more liberal American character to her education for the more present status of the colored American.

A CORRESPONDENT in the Southwestern Christian Advocate states that a local preacher of the A. M. E. Church murdered a man in Louisiana recently. This is sad enough, if true. We add the phrase, if true, because we remember the Advocate once stating that Rev. J. L. J. S. Sweve was a minister of our Church, when it could easily have known better. We called its attention to the mistake, but it seemed to prefer that the mistake should stand, though it had the opportunity to know that Brother Sweve had been a minister of its own Church more recently than of ours; but there was a chance to cast a reflection on the A. M. E. Church by the false statement of which the Advocate availed itself; for Brother Sweve was said to be in a suffering condition.

Last week a paper stated that Rev. E. Wiseton Taylor, a member of the A. M. E. Church, was in prison on the charge of arson to secure insurance, but this was a mistake. Rev. Taylor is the worthy witness brought before the public by the New York Christian Advocate some months ago to prove that the Advocate told the truth when it said a Bishop of the A. M. E. Church did a certain thing in Atlanta, S. C. He was then a member of the M. E. Church, but has since become a member of the A. M. E. Z Church. He was at one time member of the A. M. E. Church, but, like other noble men spoken of complimentarily by the New York Christian Advocate in connection with the Allen affair, he would not submit to "their (A. M. E.) methods." We do not believe the charge against him is true, but if it is, neither of the churches of which he has been a member is to blame, but only his own bad nature. It was our intention to say nothing about it; as it is our rule not to spread the failures and unfaithfulness of Christians, but these occur in any church whatsoever, where we can see no necessity of doing so; but we feel that it is well to say this much here.

AGAIN AND AGAIN, brethren, do you know that the editor has no control of the advertising that appears in this paper? He can neither insert nor decline it. The first page and the second page are almost all the space at his disposal. Occasionally he can secure from one to two columns in addition to this. It would not do to crowd the first page with reports of district conferences. Some may not see this; nevertheless, it is true. The fact that such reports are about one thing as to business, ought to appear plainly to all observers. A resolution from a good, able minister says, because his district conference report was not published, "They say nothing from the West now to gotten to the Recorder. I had hoped it was not so." Yes, "they say" makes a good deal of trouble among men that would be avoided if they would "see" instead of "say." We fear our good friend does not read the Recorder sufficiently to look for his article, the report, though even then he might see that only one issue of the Recorder, if that, since his article was sent in, has failed to have an article from the West. This is nonsense and oakishness as well. "When I write I don't write for the waste-basket," is an expression among the many kind thoughts extended to the editor. Of course not, brother, but that fact does not stretch the face of the RECORDER. With you it makes little difference who also goes to the waste basket so only you do not. The complaint that comes from the West comes from every other cardinal point, with equal blindness and inconsistency. Coming from all quarters, it must be false in some cases, else there would be nothing in its favor. We should issue a blank. The plea that "I don't write often" is urged as a reason why "I should be heard." This reason must be respected, but you do not know that those who write often will every new and then get in while you may come just at the time to fail. There are good writers in the West, whose experience in newspaper business leads him to append to each article sent to the RECORDER, "I submit this. If from want of room or its unworthiness you do not publish it, I shall be satisfied." Brethren, we writer fails to appear from my prejudice of the editor, nor succeeds in appearing from any favoritism.

"BECAUSE YE ARE STRONG."

This strength is assigned as a reason for the disciple whom Jesus loved addressing young men. "The glory of a young man is his youth." The greatest achievements of mankind have been accomplished between the ages of twenty-five and forty years; whether we consult literary, mercantile, military, political, philosophical, pedagogical or moral reformatory agencies. Of course there are notable exceptions. Youth is always more or less dependent upon age and does well to show its appreciation of this fact, but age is by no means independent of youth. It does well to remember this. The two are naturally happily associated; so they may be practically. None but the most friendly and complimentary feelings should characterize their joint life.

It is a mistake for a father to think his son is yet to be "broken" all the time. Of course men are widening their experiences continually, but methods must have a stage as well as an age. If we count men boys too long we fail to secure from them the proper amount of manly labor; on the other hand, if we consider men mentally of respect, power or and consideeco beeome of their age, simply, we may again deprive the world of much good.

WILBERFORCE FOR THE WHOLE CHURCH FOREVER.

Brother N. W. Edwards' article, in this number of the RECORDER, is well worth reading. We referred to it last week, respecting a remark made concerning the self-support of Wilberforce University. We take this occasion to say that the mistake of Brother Edwards is in limiting Wilberforce to any State or States, less than all the States. The Ohio Conference would be less liberal than they should be if they know no other educational interests than those connected with Wilberforce University. The same is true of the New England Conference. It is a mistake made by some elders and by some Bishops, that because church educational needs are great in every point of our work, therefore church schools should be established at every point. Education by the Church, in the special line of the Church's theology and polity, is a universal need, but this does not necessitate the establishment of a school in every town, Md., called at the RECORDER office last week. He is working very vigorously and working earnestly in behalf of the people whom he serves.

—"Brutus," in the Boston Advocate, certainly gives the "unkindest cut of all," in his criticisms on some men talked of for the Boston Church; for "Brutus" knows who was expected to go there.

—Rev. J. H. Morgan cites brethren to the New Jersey Conference wishing to secure their "cots" either less in his conference history to Editor Gardner, of the Sentinel, 717 Sansom street, Philadelphia.

—Mrs. Ada A. Harris, teacher in the Raleigh (N. C.) schools, after taking in the Livingstone University commence ment, May 31st, came on to spend the summer vacation with her father, Rev. A. H. Newton, in Bridgeton, N. J.

—Rev. C. H. Giles, of Lima, Ohio, has twenty-five members. He sells forty copies of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER weekly through the summer and thirty-five through the winter. His own share of the sales last year paid his house rent for six months.

—Mr. Parnell, the great Irish leader and defender, who has carried on such extraordinary warfare in Parliament, has never decided a case in favor of landlords and to allow the Tory government to accomplish its end in the passage of the coercion laws and that the sooner the better.

—Mr. Theodore Gould, Jr., completed the post graduate course in the Yale University of Pennsylvania last Wednesday. Mr. Gould takes high rank in his classes and in his church. A thoroughly polished gentleman, he has been elected by the Philadelphia Conference as one of its trustees to Wilberforce University. We verily believe that every school in the connection will grow faster and stronger by all our conferences maintaining about the same relation to Wilberforce University that they have at present, or even a little nioer and stronger.

We write this jist prior to leaving our office for the commencement at Wilberforce University, believing that if God of May the conference of Zion Methodist Church visited the home. Solicitous meetings have been held on each Sabbath, and conference of many hearts and souls of sons of our laws as I see them.

First, I would say to the brethren composing the conference, see to it that you send to the next General Conference men who are not only good men but workers, men who are truly devoted to the cause of African Methodism, men who will dare to speak the truth, dare to do right and who will lift their voices boldly in behalf of the down trodden people and the great needs of our people, especially in the South. And to you, brethren of the Colombia, South Carolina, Conference, now in session, I would say be sure to turn your thoughts in that direction, and as we are satisfied you are interested in the matter

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

cents a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER.

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this prospectus to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will set for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 23, 1887.

THE Cosmopolitan Magazine is now published in New York City, instead of Rochester, as formerly.

THE COLORED people of Georgia own nearly eight acres of land to every colored voter in the State.

ON AUGUST 4TH Zion Mission, Murray Chapel and the A. M. E. Publishing House will take out an excursion to Chester Heights, the popular campground, for a day's pleasure.

IT IS USELESS for colored men to compare themselves with white men as patterns on the score of morality. A man is what he will be, as a rule. The colored American is about as pure as other men.

THE IMPULSE gained by observing the growth of our youth are among the greatest for race development that we receive. A visit to a school in action or on exhibition, commencement days, is worth very much to aid in elevating our thoughts.

HON. JOHN SHERMAN and Governor Foraker failed to reach Wilberforce University in time for the commencement, but Judge Lawrence was there and made a stirring speech. Drs. J. C. Embry and J. C. Price addressed a large audience very entertainingly on the occasion of the Alumni Association's anniversary.

AGAIN death has visited the home of our friend and brother, Dr. R. F. Harlow, of New Orleans. His eldest child, Clarence, was drowned while bathing in one of the city basins, June 14th. He was a Christian. Only a year and a half ago Dr. Harley lost his eldest daughter. Brother, "earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal."

THE ACT OF Bishop Sherrar in his gracious donation to Wilberforce, like that of Mr. Hill, of Texas, goes far to establish the coordaidtion of the statement that the negro likes education, begs others to assist him, but does not make sacrifices to educate himself. Portunately the refutation of the charge does not depend upon these acts alone; for hundreds of colored young men and women are acquiring an education in circumstances as adverse as any other people.

OHIO is setting off the colored teachers quite rapidly, though there will be a few colored teachers retained. Cincinnati closes up the Gaines High School, which has been for colored people.

A gentleman, member of the school board of a large city, informed us that if the board had abolished the colored schools, the principal of said school would have certainly been elected to teach in one of the mixed schools. Other towns may do the same way. Hence, there will be a sufficient number of teachers left of the State's force to affect business among colored people considerably. Many arrangements made last year for payment of moneys, etc., will not be violated, owing to this fact. But the same persistent courage that opened all schools to colored children must be brought to bear against invidious discrimination in the schools of location. The battle will be better than that for recognition of colored pupils, since it asks a division of the money in school treasuries, while the old fight resulted not only in a saving of money to the treasury, but in turning that which was spent into the white man's coffers exclusively. But persistency is a just cause must win.

IN OFFERING back to the ex-rebel States the battle-flags that had been wrenched from them by our troops, President Cleveland has made a most graceful bow to the "lost cause" and furnished to admirers and all others proof that he is in favor of the greatest undertaking ever made to destroy this government. He did not add personally in bearing their flag, nor in tearing it down, but after his fall to bestows to inform them that he has it at their service. He does not even so much as ask that they give back to the loyal States, or the federal government, the flags which they may have captured in their unworthy struggle. Now, take which ever bore of the dilemma they please, his friends must choose between consummate ignorance and special favoritism or disloyalty as the foundation of the stupendous blunder of the object of their devotion.

THE BUDGET for 1885-'86 is out, full of valuable information. The mechanical work, though not what it should be, is better than we usually get in the Budget. The same lack of care that has characterized all previous numbers is manifest in this, respecting spelling. The Budget being an annual, and the present issue a biennial, we should have throughout the work the same accuracy that characterizes the greater part of the work. Doubtless the absence of the editor from his office, attending to official duties at the Eastern conferences, should be accredited with much of the poor proof reading. The matter contained in the book more than compensates for all shortcomings. It is a vast affair. This Budget idea must be set down as the greatest service of our present Financial Secretary. Its historical data are the finest ever collected and published in our Church.

The current issue contains interesting sketches of the rise and progress of the various Methodist families. You will do well to send to Dr. Arnett, Wilberforce, Ohio. There is probably no other book that gives the comparative and relative history of the three colored Methodist churches so done this. The historical comparisons sustain the church age-quotation, showing that Bishop Campbell, and not Bishop Heed, was correct in the controversy of ten years ago.

THE COMMENCEMENT exercises of our schools have occupied the attention of the students, faculties and trustees for the past two weeks. The Allen University leads in the number of her graduates this year. Four young men graduated from the Law Department—Messrs. E. J. Dickerson, of Aiken; T. A. Saxon, of Laurens; A. F. Jamison, of Abbeville, and A. F. Hampton, of Richmond. The normal department turned out nine young gentlemen and eight young ladies. The degree of A. B. was conferred on six young gentlemen of marked intelligence. The entire Board of Trustees of the two conferences was present and presided by Bishop Shorter, the senior bishop of the school in the fall with a corps of fine teachers and Prof. J. W. Morris as President. The Board of Trustees elected Rt. Rev. Bishop A. Shorter, President; Revs. S. H. Jefferson, Vice-president; C. M. Crosby, Secretary; R. E. Wall, Treasurer; W. H. Heard, Financial Agent. With this efficient executive board the work is in trim for a successful year. The prediction for this school a place in the foremost ranks of our colleges. The curriculum is up to the times for such schools. The normal and industrial departments, so organized, will educate the oldest and least. The "Age," a weekly newspaper, will give employment and a useful trade to students. The Slater Fund should find its way into the treasury of this institution as well as to the other schools of the South that are doing the same work for the same race. Colored men are at the head of this institution, but the number of its graduates and the thoroughness of its work is commend it to those who control these funds for aiding in electing colored people of the South.

A GIFT TO A UNIVERSITY.

At the meeting of the Board of Trustees of Wilberforce University, Bishop James A. Shorter formally presented to said university one thousand dollars on his own account and paid over one thousand bequeathed by his late wife, Maria A. Shorter. This Wilberforce gift has been rapidly brought to a few colored teachers retained. Cincinnati closes up the Gaines High School, which has been for colored people.

A gentleman, member of the school board of a large city, informed us that if the board had abolished the colored schools, the principal of said school would have certainly been elected to teach in one of the mixed schools. Other towns may do the same way. Hence, there will be a sufficient number of teachers left of the State's force to affect business among colored people considerably. Many arrangements made last year for payment of moneys, etc., will not be violated, owing to this fact. But the same persistent courage that opened all schools to colored children must be brought to bear against invidious discrimination in the schools of location. The battle will be better than that for recognition of colored pupils, since it asks a division of the money in school treasuries, while the old fight resulted not only in a saving of money to the treasury, but in turning that which was spent into the white man's coffers exclusively. But persistency is a just cause must win.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

COMMENCEMENT AT WILBERFORCE.

Thursday, 24th inst., was the twenty-fourth commencement anniversary at Wilberforce. The anniversary of Philomathean Society was held on Friday night, June 10th. An entertaining programme is always guaranteed by this society of young ladies. Some what was present think that of the present year was quite equal to the best.

On Sunday morning the President delivered a very able baccalaureate sermon. At night the annual sermon was preached by the RECORDER editor.

On Monday night the Sodalian Society's exercises were highly entertaining. I have never witnessed better programs at the University. The star occasion was on Tuesday night, when Rev. J. H. Price, D. D., President of Livingstone College, Salisbury, N. C., delivered the annual address before the college and alumni. Dr. Price is a man of almost matchless eloquence and strong argumentative power. His oratory has the sweep of a tornado with the variety and beauty of the bow in the cloud. Hearing him, one wonders no longer what is the secret of his popularity as a preacher. On acquaintance with him shows that he is a man of soul-stature consecrated to God's willingness and ability to save the Negro race with all others. His brilliance in the race as possessing a future of power and goodness. The Dr carries away from the institution the appreciation of almost every one. He may be a little too radical on the idea of the special work of the race, but in this he is a splendid fault.

Wednesday afternoon class day exercises took place. On Wednesday night the Annual Rhetorical and prizes were given. The latter is always an interesting meeting. There were two prizes awarded; one a gold medal, by Dr. W. H. Derrick, to the best essay by a young lady, and the other, by Rev. Mr. Lee, a first interest on $100 to the best orator.

At this writing the exercises of the commencement week have taken place. The Trustee Board began its sessions Thursday, 9th inst., holding daily sessions till Thursday.

The Rt. Rev. J. P. Campbell, D. D., LL. D., President of the Board, being absent from the country, the Vice Presidents, Rev. W. H. Heard, of Nicholasville, Ga., presided. The attendance was unusually large. Among General Secretary Dr. W. J. Gaines, C. L. Bradwell, S. H. Robertson, Rev. Scott, Rev. Mr. Heard, S. H. Jefferson, F. W. Jefferson, N. B. Starrett; Pennsylvania, W. H. Brown, G. G. Sampson, J. C. Lee, D. T. Tanner and J. C. Embry; Ohio, O. J. Mann, W. S. Scott, W. S. Trotter, J. C. Coleman, T. A. Thompson, J. G. Mitchell, B. W. Arnett, O. L. Maxwell, Walter S. Thomas, G. H. Graham, J. G. Brown, J. Dickerson, A. D. Delney, W. H. Dupp, A. A. Shorter, J. Buford, Hackney, J. N. Abbey, G. H. Burke, L. F. Lindsey, B. Harper; North Carolina, W. U. Ashly, I. H. Welch, S. Wales and G. Grey, Mississippi, Rev. Porter, Arkansas, R. M. Dickerson; Tennessee, B. Green, S. Reed; Michigan, C. H. Thompson. There may be others not noted.

The business of the University was attended to promptly. It was shown by the report of the treasurer that the University debt had been slightly reduced. Still it is not great. It is yet far too large for the health of the school. During the year new buildings, new appropriations and bequests have been made, from $100 up to $5,000.

The gift of Bishop Shorter and the bequeathment of Sister Shorter of $1 000 each are to be placed at interest; the principal to be invested forever. Next to the interest is the State appropriation for the establishment of a Normal and Industrial School. While this is to be a State affair, it is a benefit to Wilberforce University.

The agent of the University in the State of Indiana, for last year, Rev. J. Bundy, reported favorably. His report was re-appointed. The members of the faculty were re-elected to their respective chairs. Miss Mary E. Church, whose resignation was received by the Board with regret. The place of the lady Principal, Miss Anna H. Jones, has been accepted. Miss Jones is a graduate of the Holy Spirit, with whose connection she has been for a number of years, to the blowing of the wind. Also the blood of the life of immortality. She has graduated with the circulation of the greatest systems of the world; but pre-eminently, the right sort of a Christian. She seen symbolized in the vastness and stability of the ancient.

The word law is a term denoting the manner in which it is required to be done. Everything is done by law. It cannot descend from this platform and point to the rules of Wilberforce. It exercise ten thousand requirements of law. We may not enter these halls, the law may not be manifested; the night may be dark and we may not see the materials—it is there; and acquittance will not excuse us for the violation of the law.

The will of God is the supreme law of the universe. Its execution in the universe in its various departments set for the enforcement of law. They are all held so strict to execution for the due performance of duty, while as to disregard of position, fulfillment, punishment, law range from the blade of grass to the highest intelligence in the universe.

The lawyer, whatever the circumstance, like the doctor and preacher, stands under moral obligation to execute the interest of mankind.

Once, in traveling, I transferred my baggage through Philadelphia and was left to take the train on to Baltimore on the river. Expecting to find my baggage on the farther side, I at once boarded the ferry boat, but to my chagrin, I stepped to the baggage room in Philadelphia. I had left a valuable article on the boat. The man said, "You can get your trunk by the next boat," and before I could get the set check for Burlington, the boat prepared to start. I asked the man if he knew there were among the crowd of passengers, one had the baggage check. He answered, nay, I decided to leave both checks in his hands, and went on to Baltimore, and simply passed over and returned upon the same boat next trip. Entering the boat, I found the trunk in the office. I didn't you wait for your check?" I tried to explain, but I did not open the door. Finally I said, "Where is my trunk?" "In Burlington." "But is that is where you said, is it?" "Yes," said I. Ending the matter he said, "Well, I'll be d——d, what's the use of a check for it?" "I see that, too; it is double checked." "Well, how am I to be able to claim your baggage." "Why, by the check, of course." "But what I claim it for?" "I don't know, but you will have to claim it."

On arriving, I said to the other agent; "There is my trunk; it came on double checks and your baggage man claimed it by my was." I don't know, my friend," "Well, I said, "that is my trunk, and the agent there said I must ask for it here." "Well, then," said he, "claim it." I said, "I will." "Then," said he, "you be replied, "that will not do; I don't know you from Adam." "But how can I shall I claim it?" After beating about for awhile, he said, "Now, sir, you tell me three articles in that trunk and we take out you key and open it. If all is correct you can take it." I will call the articles A, B, and C. I then took my key, and opening the trunk, said: "Now, sir, A, that is B and that is C." He replied, "It is your trunk," and I came off a wiser and gladder man. Now, to make a great talk about our rights, but the fact is, our rights have become antiquous. Benediction by Rev. R. E. Wall. M. Saxon won the prize for the best oration.

COLLEGE DEPARTMENT.

Exercises were held Thursday night, June 9th. Prayer by Rev. F. W. Jefferson. Salutatory and oration, "Civilization of the mind," Mr. D. T. McDaniel, Greenwood, S. C.; "Theology the science of science," Mr. J. C. Campbell, Wanshore, S. C.; "The necessity of moral culture," Mr. A. J. Rivers, Laurens, S. C.; "We are not satisfied," Mr. A. F. Jamison, Greenville, S. C.; "Which train will you take?" Mr. T. A. Saxon, Clinton, S. C.; "The Rewards of Industry," and valedictory, Mr. C. Dorsey, Clinton, S. C. Annual oration by Dr. W. D. Johnson. Conferring degrees by Prof. J. W. Morris. Benediction by Rev. T. J. Harper.

Prof. Morris delivered the conditions and praise of the race. No set of teach has done more for the colored people. They have stood at their posts and have done duty in the face of stern adversity. While foes within and without were assaulting the University, when it seemed that its destruction was sure and certain, Prof. Morris and his faithful few have stood by and have labored and encouraged in the discharge of their duties. Many times they have been on the verge of success. The students stood high in their examinations, averaging about 92. Their deportment was unexceptionable well. The bursts of sacred eloquence, the songs of Zion, the prayers, pastoral and general, the historical, geological, the facts of science, the facts into the spiritual world, the dealing with the animal kingdom, the rhetorical display, the mathematical problems, and the skill the pupils had been in the hands of a master who had been in the world.

This closes one of the most successful years of Allen's existence. There are many who would like to see the University fail and go down. It was the opinion that the Allen would be the last sale while the Trustees were in session. So it has come to pass that the Allen University is not for sale, that it is a real, Real University. Though a debt is owed in order to maintain there is no chance of a sale. The Trustees have appropriated $1,000 for the year's work, and the school will have a full corps of teachers. Rev. S. L. Lee, A. M., principal, assisted by Rev. B. L. Wall, Treasurer; Rev. C. M. Lee, Financial Secretary; Rev. W. H. Heard, A. B., Lincoln University, and Rev. E. Z

It is an interesting fact, says the Medical Times, that there is now a larger number of Jews in Palestine than at any period since the days of our Lord. There are also nearly a thousand Jews in the fatherland—almost the same number as returned from the captivity in Babylon.

Sixty-five thousand persons, now residents of Europe, will sicken in the course of the year, and many will die, who, if they were in the United States, would be cured by Ayer's Pills. Why not go where many great statesmen, but they don't appear to know how to make life worth living for their fellow-citizens?—Boston Globe.

Men who are threatened often live long. Men who anticipate an early death are frequently victims of hallucination. The less likely we are to die from the pestilence that walketh in darkness, from the pestilence that destroyeth at noon, and yet outlived nearly all of his contemporaries, dying when over 70. It is not that he was a living skeleton.—Evanston (Ills.) Ind Blad.

A seven-ounce potato was declared to produce his records or a copy of them. Secretary Rusk, of the State Board of Agriculture, at Tuesday, in a hearing in which the records were necessary to make a private fair case against a dealer, sent in a liquor prosecution, the judge ordered the Collector to jail, although the latter was acting under what was claimed to be instructions from Washington.

A mule with an artificial throat is the latest thing in mules in Macon. A veterinary named at Hillsboro about a year ago found all of the mule's life. Finding that it would soon be impossible for the animal to breathe through his windpipe, a portion of the pipe was removed and a silver tube was inserted, and now the mule breathes freely. It was a delicate and risky surgical operation, but was successful, and whether the mule can whinny his thanks or Mr. Tom Barkley for saving his life.—Savannah News.

The most hideous industry in this country is a factory in Jersey, near Alton, Illinois. The proprietor raises snakes of various kinds, but most of them are of rattlesnakes. A firm in Philadelphia has given a standing order for all the rattlesnake skins it can possibly get. They are worth $2 25 each when they attain the length of four feet. These snakes are bought to be stewed into soup, all which is advertised to cure rheumatism.

Dr. O. W. Wears, Marion, O., says: "It has a fine effect on the nervous and circulatory both to patient and physician."

In the South, or in many of the States, a great wave of business and prosperity has come, such as that region of the country never had before, and in a county every instance it has come to the State in which prohibition has been in operation. Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee are the three States which have had the most prosperous, Texas being next.—Iowa State Register.

Whether by land or sea, who are liable to be out of reach of first-class doctors, would do well to have a supply of Ayer's Pills at hand. For this purpose, the Pills are put up in bottles as well as boxes, and may be conveniently carried in one's pocket. Six of the most distinguished physicians of Syracuse, N. Y., in giving their testimony as to the excellent medicinal combination of Ayer's Pills, make this point: "Their beautiful coating of gelatine and sugar is a great advantage, in that it protects them from change by time or climate, and renders them as pleasant and active agreeable to take."

"During the twenty-five years I have lived on the frontier, within Black Mediwoah, at Swanwicker, Ind., "Ayer's Pills have been my best friend. I have lived, mostly, where there was no doctor within twenty miles, and have had to hard sick several times. I always kept Ayer's medicines on hand, and used them, and the Almanac, also pulled through. I have also doctored others, and believe I have saved more valuable lives by the use of Ayer's Pills."

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousand of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

The Bar, a liquor paper of New York, says: "Too prohibitive movement has made such progress that not only has it created a local law upon every street in the greatest States in the Union, but by repeated attempts it has made itself felt and made the amendment to the Federal Constitution possible and probable."

CONSUMPTION SURELY CURED.

PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 30, 1887.

THE ALUMNI association of the University of Pennsylvania, at its late session, resolved that hereafter none but graduates of the University should be admitted to its membership.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOLS of Wesley A. M. E. Z Church, Zion Mission A. M. E. Church, Union A. M. E. Z. Church and Moses Chapel, of Philadelphia, go to Nonhaming Falls July 20th.

JUDE 12rm, Dr. John G. Mimbell raised in Allen Temple, Cincinnati, Ohio, over $2,000. He would probably have raised $3,000, as he had hoped to do, had he been permitted to supervise the arrangements in his usual way, but he was enlisted so that he could not move about as he would to inspire the people. Two thousand, however, is a very well dostor. He had the sympathy and cooperation of many young persons, outside of his membership. The fact is he is popular in Cincinnati; because his measures and lab.rs are backed by energy and sympathy with the people, and because his life is as strong in morals as it is serviceable in business. He does not appeal to our lighter side, as Herpe's Weekly would amply like a well ordered preacher must do to succeed.

READ the article of Rev. W. D Chappelle. There are points in it worthy of calm consideration. Instance the idea that our Bishops might will be more widely situated in the connection. The fact that the great bulk of our people have the presence of so few Bishops reasonable, and the fact that the representative man, in some minds, is the man who is a sample of the average man in his consciousness. With others, the representative man is the man who, knowing what are the wants of his conscientiousness, is able to set them forth clearly and strongly. He may be very unlike the majority of those whose ears he presents to the world; but he must know them thoroughly. He may be far in advance of them, but must reach back to them and bring them forward as rapidly as possible.

The man who is more like the masses in feelings, wants and tendencies may be a very poor representative of them in the better sense. The people must produce their representatives. As a rule they who are educated in circumstances similar to those whom they attempt to represent succeed best.

PRAYER FOR THE SICK.

A minister, a friend of ours, called on a sick minister a few days ago. After conversation, he made a short prayer in behalf of the sick. When the prayer was ended, the sick minister said, "That's a sensible prayer. Short and strong. A brother prayed with me so long the other day that I fainted, being very sick." There is a moral in this. Long prayers are not serviceable to sick nor well as a rule, but especially not to the sick. There are some clear-meet-to-seem to feel called to go to the sick with long talks, long prayers, long hymns and long Scripture lessons. They seem to think if a sick person cannot endure what the rest of the household can, he will not be able to stand death. They sometimes say, "Better have some noise here than to have it all hereafter," sic, causing sudden shouting. Some sick persons can stand this, some enjoy it, but not all do. Ministers should visit the sick with as much preparation and consideration, at least, as physicians do. They cannot be profitable unless they do. They cannot be unpleasant thing connected with their visits any more than can physicians guarantee that they will not make trouble in order to secure peace. Yet they should go intending to be of service to the sick, as do physicians. Nothing is more cheering to the sick than the appreciation of friends. They are often permanently benefited by small favors.

THE WILBERFORCE COMMENCEMENT.

No fairer day could have been asked for this important occasion than was June 16th. No greater evidences could have been asked of public appreciation and indorsement than was evinced by the thousands of visitors. Every year the number of those who attend this interesting anniversary seems to increase. The entertaining capacity at the university does not seem to grow as rapidly as the number of attendants. We do not refer to the literary and oratorical capability nor to the domestic hospitality that has always characterized dwellers in the neighborhood, but to hotel accommodations. The Arnett Home, the college boarding department, and the several eating houses are inadequate.

The exercises of the graduating classes were very good. The orations of Messrs. Alex. Smith and George W. Branch were equal in most respects to any we have heard at the University. All were highly commendable.

The music was furnished by the Wilberforce Harmonia Association and the "Big Six" cornet band of Springfield. To undertake to give the names of distinguished men present would require much space and dissatisfaction; for we should inadvertently omit some of them. We mention only Bishops A. W. Wayman and J. P. Shorter, Rev. B. Murdy, Senators O'Nall and Judge Lawrence. The expectations of the people to meet Senator John Sherman and Governor Foraker were not realized, but Judge Lawrence, one of the best talkers and most reliable statesmen of Ohio, together with Miss H. Q. Brown, the Wilberforce elocutionist, and others gave the fullest satisfaction to the thousands who assembled in the afternoon to witness the anniversary exercises of the Alumni Association.

"POPGUNS EDITORIALS."

We copy the second letter of Bishop Payne from the CHRISTIAN RECORDER to this issue, as it reflects a positive opinion upon the theory of moral education. We regret, however, that our learned senior is so self-contradictory in his second letter. It is not as able as his first in general respects. Yet, it is fine reading and will be of great benefit to the church. We commend it to the careful perusal of all our readers, while we are waiting for the Bishop to show us the failure of any Bishop or General Officer to attend to the official exercises that they know nothing about in evidence of sectionalism. This word sectionalism has become a very convenient bridle recently. The fact is, it is not a very large stick in our Church to batter all. In this case it seems to be used under the misapprehension that Wilberforce University is a school of Ohio alone, as Allen University is a school of South Carolina alone. There is nothing sectional in the matter nemplained of. There are several men for whom we can speak freely, who would be glad to attend commencement at Allen. We have reason to believe that some of our Bishops would do so were they concerted with it as they are with Wilberforce. Try this plan, Brother Chappelle; it can do no harm.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN.

There is frequently discussion respecting the claims individuals make of being representatives of "the people." The difference of opinion usually arises from considering opposite sides, or the double meaning of the terms. A Marriage with a deceased wife's sister has not yet been legalized in England.

It is said that 8,000 to 4,000 brave men are killed in Spain yearly in bull fighting.

NOTICE.
To the Pastors of the North Ohio Annual Conference of the African M. E. Church:
Greeting—The committee appointed at the last session of your conference on camp-meetings grant permission to hold the same on the following conditions:
First, that the prime object of the meeting shall be to bring sinners directly to God and to advance the interests of the church.
Second. There shall be no buying, selling or traffic of any kind allowed on the grounds on the Sabbath day provided, however, that the boarding tent may be used for the sale of refreshing meals, but will not be allowed to sell, trade in, or in any way dispose of water as baker, ice cream, fruit and such like.
Third. That the Sunday school sessions shall not be dispensed with; they shall be held at such hours as the pastor, church, or the pastor and superintendent may elect. Provided, however, that the children shall in no manner free to the grounds of the Sunday school service that intervenes between them, and that no local preacher shall be allowed to hold camp-meetings.

Be Sure
To ask for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if you are in need of a Blood-purifier—the only certain and reliable remedy for pimples, blotches, and all other symptoms of the skin. As an alterative, after a trial of nearly half a century, it universally conceded to be the best ever discovered. It is agreeable to the taste, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed.
An old lady of Ashby, Mrs. Mary C. Amos, of Rockport, Me., after forty years of suffering from a humor in the blood, manifesting itself in Erysipelas and other distressing eruptions of the skin, at last began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking six bottles, she is now able to say, "as smooth and fair as ever."
Frank Jones, 261 Eighth ave., New York, writes: "I suffered from impurity of the blood, which showed itself in troublesome eruptions and watery pimples on my face, neck, etc. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a complete cure. I have previously tried many reputed blood-purifiers without benefit."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 7, 1887.

BISHOP JAMES A. SHORTER.

Last Friday morning the sad news came to the Recorder office: "Bishop Shorter died this morning. Heart disease. B. W. Arnett." Thus ends, to the world, the life of a hard working, unassuming, pious, able man. Only two weeks before the day of receiving the sad news, we had enjoyed his hospitality in his new home and shook hands with him, receiving his hearty "God bless you," and good-bye. How little we dreamed then we were preparing to meet only in the great beyond!

James A. Shorter was born February 5th, 1817, in Washington City, D. C. He went to Galena, Illinois, where he was converted in 1838 and joined the M. E. Church. Coming East in July of the same year, he united with Bethel A. M. E. Church in Philadelphia, then under the pastoral care of Bishop Morris Brown, who was pleased with the outspoken zeal of the youngster. In the month of September, having married Miss Julia Pierce, he returned with his bride to his birth city, Washington, D. C., and united with Israel Church, Rev. John Cornish, pastor. He was received in the Baltimore Conference in 1846. Came out on slavery and its concomitant evils, and with a view of educating his children, he transferred to the Ohio Conference in 1851.

In 1868 the General Conference met in Washington, D. C. At this conference James A. Shorter was elected Bishop of the A. M. E. Church His first field of labor included Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas. In 1872 Bishop Shorter was appointed to the First Episcopal District, composed of the New England, New York and Philadelphia Conferences. He presided in the annual Conference at Trenton. At the end of his term his was declared the "best district," having received the largest amount of Dollar Money in proportion to the number of members. In 1876 he was appointed to the Fourth Episcopal District, embracing Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Territories. He did another good district. In 1880 he was appointed to the Third Episcopal District, which includes the Ohio, Indiana and Pittsburgh Conferences. The General Conference of 1884 assigned Bishop Shorter to the Sixth Episcopal District, embracing the five great conferences in South Carolina and Georgia, and the most populous episcopal district of the A. M. E. Church. He was one of the delegates to the Methodist Ecumenical Conference in London, England, September 7, 1881. He visited France and Switzerland. He was President of the Parent Home and Foreign Missionary Board.

From its incipiency to the present, James A. Shorter has been second to none in interest in Wilberforce University. He stood by the side of Bishop Payne as soon as the latter had determined to purchase the property, probably advising him with reference to the purchase. It has been one of its treasures since it came into possession of the A. M. E. Church, and has probably contributed as much money to its support as any man in the connection. For many years he was its treasurer and president of its Executive Board. His counsel has done much to support the management under all its presidents, from President Rust to President Mitchell. We noted two weeks ago that he had given the university $2,000.—The loss of this wise man to Wilberforce University is almost irreparable.

The mental, moral, religious and ecclesiastical growth of James A. Shorter was regular and natural. He grew like the oak; like the oak withstood the storms of life and afforded protection and secour to those around him. His conversion was pronounced, his learning definite though not great, and his judgment usually correct. From the ground up he was a man. His very first appearance in any company made that impression. Though a man of rather fine traits respecting the art of appearance, he was so simply natural that the nobility of his own personality always eclipsed anything that the arts of dress or the prerogatives of position could give him. The openness of his character was remarkable. What his very expression face, lighted by remarkably brilliant eyes, failed to say of the thoughts within, the tongue would certainly utter in no uncertain sound, when it was deemed necessary. He could never have made a faithful devotee to the mysteries of our popular secret organizations; since, with him to know was to use without let or hindrance. To illustrate: When the Council of Bishops was considering a certain difficult subject during the General Conference of '84, the majority agreed to a given plan of action in laying an important proposition before the conference. The same majority resolved that given facts should be kept secret. These were the very facts that helped to settle Bishop Shorter on the side of the minority. Some men would have considered it best to join the majority in the impression of these facts, but Dr. James A. Shorter felt obliged to make his position known. So he said to the other Bishops "You see this little hole here," pointing to the opening left by extracted teeth; "it's more than likely a tooth will be broken there." The expression of his face settled it with all the other Bishops that Bishop Shorter would not help them keep the secret. Seen enough, before the conference had closed, he was asked and some of the leaders in the conference of a dangerous point that had better be mentioned while passing upon the report that the Bishops were about to make.

His staunchness of character was marked. He was in this respect a Martin Luther. While he was not regardless of human distinctions, this did not prevent his measuring human rights according to the standard of the Gospel as enunciated in the office of Bishop, he was a fearless advocate for the right of individuals, in conference and elsewhere, to express themselves freely and boldly on subjects that they had a conscience to feel. He could not endure for himself nor for his brethren cringing or cronishing before a men simply because of his more exalted position. He respected position; but position, unless accompanied with the one position, he would have done had his relative standing been different.

As a Bishop, he grasted to all other men just what he had exercised with reference to Bishops, both generally, in connection with the outspoken zeal of the young Bishop Campbell and Secretary Townsend arrived home Saturday, 23d, but, well and cheerful. Bishop Campbell remained in Philadelphia till Saturday, the 25th, and took the train for the sad scenes incident to the burial of Bishop Shorter at Wilberforce. "Dr. Townsend went directly on Westward to his home. They report the outlook in Texas for many promising than appeared before their visit. They organized a conference in Hayti and one in San Domingo, ordained several ministers and made several appointments However, he will present his report to the Church.

"THE MOUTHPIECE" is the title of one eight page monthly paper to be published in Chicago, as we hear, though no streater to that effect has come to our notice. We did not attempt a critical sketch of Brother Edwards' articles. Had we done so, we should have endeavored to do so with the highest respect for him in his position. We made no strictures on his notion respecting the 25 per cent. We are not the least troubled about that. To say one reading we carefully we were the more perplexed that the whole Church should have the benefits of Wilberforce, than that Wilberforce should have the benefits of the whole Church. Respecting the three teachers of Allen, we did not understand Brother Edwards to say that his housekeeper says she thought Bishop Shorter had cold stew and soup when they were on this earth. We are sorry to learn, and can see as we look at him. When she went into the dining-room to set out the breakfast, she remarked, "I'd better 'e on a high lift this morning." After eating an ordinary breakfast, he went upon the floor and died. Say to my Jessie Torchlight. He moved pleasantly, and smiled at all who passed. His grandson came over that he desired any letters. He then went into the house and dictated several communications.

Young Anderson had scarcely crossed the yard into his home when they were alarmed by the calls of the housekeeper. The Bishop had stepped out the door, and drove the horse into the stable yard, leaning as he went. "I feel a little sick." He returned in a moment, and passed leaning upon the fence, and found a heavy grass and calling his little grand daughter Eliza. He again groaned. She brought her pepper-box. He shook it. Emma came over, she also found him on the his sofa, where he had fallen, his hands on head and feet being cold. She made hot applications to him, and sent for the other members of the family. The doctor was telephoned for. Mr. Clark arrived and directed that to do. Soon other members of the family came, but alas! the Bishop died before they arrived. Professor Shorter came into the room as he was dying. The Bishop and several times while Mr. Clark, his son-in law, was trying to make him comfortable, "Jesus save, Jesus save." He is able to save," said Mr. Clark. "Yes," replied the Bishop, "he is." These were the last words that the Bishop uttered. Glorious words! Jesus is able, is willing in ways; he saves me now."

The writer was on his way to the residence following Mrs. Clark and Professor when a messenger announced the death. The same messenger met the wife of Professor Shorter and Mrs. Dr. Jackson, who were in a buggy hastening to the Shorter residence. Their dreams last night would meet their gaze when they left home for one "I'm Shorter" who was reported "real sick."

The remains of Bishop Payne, whose premises adjoin those of Bishop Shorter, came home from his Eastern trip last night. Professor Payne was accompanied by his grand-daughter, Miss Laura Clark, of the Tuskegee Normal School, Ala., who is also the granddaughter of Bishop Shorter. They came a day earlier than expected to make a pleasant surprise for relatives, but just in time to see a town full of weeping relatives and neighbors. The funeral occurs in Xenia on the same day at Wilberforce; both men and women and non-taxes, for nearly all Xenia had been in a delightful state of excitement before on the street. He stock bands played all day. The congregation was so often seen to that stricken household in the early part of the day. Did they think, they said, "that they would, the next morning, be preparing the body for burial?"

Both Bishop Shorter and his lament wife possessed remarkable powers of self control. When their daughter died, in Dallas, in 1884, having left a family of such family of little children, "Ma Shorter" said, she must not give way to Very thin, slender shavings of wood are now used in France, not only for packing but for filling mattresses, litter ing cages, filtering liquids, making horse-collars, and so on. The material is known as wood-wool," and when derived from resinous wood is said to be preferable to hair for bedding, its resin preventing it from absorbing moisture. In work-shops this wood-wool is even replacing cotton waste for cleaning machinery, as it costs far less.

No medicine is more conscientiously prepared, more powerful, or more highly concentrated, than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Its standard of excellence is the result of careful study. This preparation is acknowledged by the medical profession to be the best blood purifier.

A hundred years ago Abiel Pease started the great clock-making industry of Connecticut. He arrived at Enfield and there made with a jack knife his first clock. From this rude beginning has grown up an industry which employs a great portion of the world with time pieces.

An ounce of acontin was furnished lately by a druggist in Nashville (Tenn.), to C. G. Harris, a negro, who was fond of practical jokes and thought that a dose of the drug would kill him quickly. The old man drank the mixture, but lived to tell others to say that he had no idea that he had really been given poison. The druggist thought Harris was lasting and that he would not drink the drug.

Probably Innocent.—A Despatch from London, Kentucky, under date of May 23, says: "Samuel Barnard, who was cooked in the Laurel River jail, kept out a sentence for smoothing expected a mule in which he was charged with murder to be called here to-day. Three days ago he was released from jail. He had no money and walked 57 miles in two days, reaching here in time to appear as a witness."

Practical Use of Photography.—One of the latest uses to which photography has been put is that recorded by the Fall Mall Gazette lately. A correspondent in the Pacific, writing a description of whist the Fall Mall calls "A Reign of Terror in Tonga," stating that his MS. would be lost in the anticipation of having every lotio photographed. To prevent this our contemporary printed was from a photographic duplicate.

NOTICE.

To the Pastors of the North Ohio Annual Conference of the African M. E. Church:

Greeting—The committee appointed at the last session of your conference to plan camp-meetings grant permission to hold the same on the following dates, to-wit:

First, that the prime object of the camp-meeting shall be to glorify God and to advance the interests of the church.

Second. There shall be no buying, selling or traffic of any kind allowed on the premises, but the same shall be provided, however, that the hoarding tent may be allowed to prepare ordinary meals, but will not be allowed to sell; traffic in, or in any way dispose of wines, liquors, cordials, candies and cakes.

Third. That the Sunday school sessions shall not be dispensed with; they shall be held on the grounds or at the church, as the pastor and superintendent may elect. Provided, however, that the Sunday school be solicited to hold its regular session at such hour as the committee may, in its sole fac, see.

Fourth. That the Board of Bishops at Cape May on the date above named.

Fraternally,

D. A. PAYNE.

NOTICE.

All commissions intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name at the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Yet same addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new quarters and expect to remain for some.

C. S. Smith, Secretary.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the Christian Recorder. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the general illness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

Rests a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the Recorder:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the Recorder, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shafer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

Hair Neglected

Soon becomes dry, harsh, coarse, and full of dandruff; it loses vitality and turns prematurely gray, or falls out rapidly and thereafter only baldness. A careful dressing daily with Ayer's Hair Vigor—the best preparation for the purpose—will preserve the hair in all its luxuriance and beauty to a good old age.

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel E. Hardy, of Delaware, Ill., "but after using only half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became black and glossy. I cannot express the gratitude I feel."

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 14, 1887.

THE "Signal and Cyclone" is not a blustering, pretentious 16 page paper, but a neat little folio, book size, published by Rev. M. M. Maye, of Port Gibson, Miss., in the interest of St. Peter's Church at that place. There is much good to be done in this way.

OUR NEW RITUAL, suitable for carrying in the pocket, will be out very soon. It is intended to meet the wants of ministers in all the sacramental and ritualistic services, including the scriptural and hymnal selections for those services, with litany, etc. The book is to be in flexible binding. It will satisfy a want felt by our ministry for many years.

NEXT SUNDAY afternoon, at 3 o'clock, there will be a meeting at the Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Persons, West Philadelphia, to commemorate the death of Sarah Marshall, whose death was mentioned in these columns, as well as her generous bequeathment of nearly three hundred thousand dollars to benevolent institutions of colored persons, and to others where, with reference to her bequests, it is stipulated that no discrimination shall be made against persons on account of color or race.

PAOT GREENSA thinks too many colored persons walk through the country with a chip on their shoulder. If the Professor's face were several shades darker, or were he observed, we feel sure, soon learn that the chip theory is not necessary. There are certain walks in life which it is not intended that the negro shall tread. His very presence there is considered a banter. It is best for him to have no one to talk of his carrying a chip. It would be well if he entered a little more fully into the "chip" business.

THE WHITE people of the South, or some of them, pretend to believe that the formation of labor leagues among the colored people is equivalent to their organizing an insurrection. The colored men of that State seem to live always under terror of white organizations; it is no wonder that the terrorizers are sometimes think the terrorized are about to exchange places with them. However, there is scarcely any danger ahead. If the whites Southerners, and Northerners as well, will study to aid rather than harass in their inoffensive struggles, they will be troubled with very few illegitimate struggles by them.

THE GEORGIA STATE BOARD of visitors to Atlanta University have reported to their legislature that foods appropriated to said university by the State are misapplied, simply because being appropriated for the education of negroes, they are also legislated away from four Caucasians. Here is another case of superior wisdom. Of course the five white students have been enjoying a small part of the appropriation since it was made, but the outcry against it is just now heard. Poor Georgia. We would suggest that her very tender conscience be eased by turning the whole appropriation over to Morris Brown College.

THE BISHOPS' MEETING at Atlantic City, next week, will doubtless have many grave subjects under consideration. Twice, already, they have been obliged to recast their districts. Now they are called upon for the third time in this quadrennium. Surely their work if holding over forty conferences within nine months after full conferences begin will be all that seven Bishops can do, though we observe that Dr. J. H. A. Johnson, in this number, counts but six. It is plain that delicate questions are involved in difference of counting. But it is probable that, all things considered, there are some strong reasons for saying, "Nay, master, we are green."

THE LOCAL committee appointed by the Philadelphia Conference to arrange to co-operate with the general committee in celebrating the one hundredth year of African Methodist history next November met at the Publishing House last Monday, the Chairman, C. C. Felts, presiding. All members present. Provisions were made to render this occasion one of the most interesting in our history here and to suggest an elaborate programme to the whole connection. It is important that the entire Church become inspired with the importance of the affair. If the ministers of all localities feel as much enthusiasm as was evinced in this Philadelphia meeting, the starting point will be very favorable to general success.

THE GENERAL interest of the whole connection has a splendid opportunity for demonstration in the suggested centennial celebration. The men and churches that wish to go down in history as thoroughly African Methodist will be found earnestly engaged in this matter. It is the opportunity for the great enemy here, the hundreds of societies that have become a part of this great bend of struggling Christians and philanthropists, long since the historic days of Allen, to come forth cheerfully and heartily to the celebration of the event that under God sent out the freedmen, while the galling chains were yet threatening the entire subjugation of him and his fellows forever, to preach the unsearchable riches of the gospel, proclaim the year of jubilee and herald to the captive the will of the Lord that he should go free.

THE CORRECT catalogue of Kittrell Normal School, Bethel University, Allen University and Wilberforce University, all schools connected more or less closely with the A. M. E. Church, have found their way to our table. These institutions, with others, appeal to all the manhood of our Church for aid in sums that cannot be unheeded. Neither property nor income constitute a reasonable income for indifference toward them. If the next Endowment Day turns them off with results that cannot be published, we might as well acknowledge our inability to conduct our educational system. Any less than $10,000 raised on that day, not $40,000 counting all moneys raised by the regular methods of the schools themselves, will justly subject us to ridicule or pity. If Bethel Church, Philadelphia, would become the standard for all of our churches, we should feel up the nloe little sum of $128,000. The Philadelphia Conference alone gave $582.99, within $206.80 of double as much as the next largest sum, that of the Ohio Conference. Seventeen conference contribute $2,200.64. The Phila lelphia Conference thus contributes $631.28 more than one-fourth of this sum.

This $2,200.64 is no money for the First Educational District to raise. It is nothing compared with what it will raise if properly worked. The idea of Kansas and Missouri reporting less than $50 from their three conferences is too ridiculous to talk about. Our Church must begin to do, in this matter, as in closing up ranks and husbanding strength. Almost every church organization of white members shows its distaste to our holding and enjoying the full and perfect rights and immunities of equitable membership. There is nothing plainer to the man who is inclined to look the matter in the face squarely, than that this class of Christians, with golden exceptions, has no notion of allowing the true Christian logic to have full play in this country. They regulate their own bodies to please their fancies and perfect their schemes. They are the same people who, when they wished to hold us in abject slavery, lashed the gospel into their lives and made it do their bidding. When they wanted to disprove our absolute moral equality, they made the Bible support them. When millions of their devotees and members handed us down like beasts to lash, outrage, shoot, burn and hang, for the sake of intimidation, they found scores of texts in the sacred promises. They have used the "Hag" curse for a hundred years in the north and stuck to it long after they have learned that they have been the dupes of blind leaders and all the rest of the world has learned that it is doubtful whether either Ham or his son was divinely cursed.

When common sense and decency deprive them of this standing they declare that the colored race shall be cursed anyhow. Whether or not Ham was cursed and whether or not Canaan was cursed of God, and whether or not this curse on Canaan, who did not settle in Africa, may be supposed to stop across and settle on his brothers' line from God, the negro shall be cursed. This sentiment, it must be admitted, is not so strong as it once was, yet it is too strong for the health of colored Americans. If colored men organize to protect their families, to protect themselves against the unjust encroachments of wealth, they are arrested and sworn to bury this means of self-protection. The whole Northern press, with few exceptions, joins with the South in treating the matter with indifference or favor. Meanwhile the religious press and the pulpit say very little against it in any part of the country. Who cares that a hungry colored man cannot secure food in the restaurants of New York or Atlanta? These men who refuse, who jeer and who are silent are all of some of these great churches, which, if they would, could, and by the methods used to crush out what their philosophy considers unendurable evils, drive these unjust practices from the face of our civilization.

The unrighteous discrimination made against us on public highways could be overcome by the application of the proper moral forces, but when may we expect the moral forces in white churches that are so very fearful of the full logic of Christianity to stop them? There is no mistake; the Christianity that has been strongly in favor of nations and tribes that have become powerful must be allowed its full force upon and within us. The colored race must husband and utilize its moral forces. It must not rely in the day of sinful motive within, exhibiting the vile passions; it must govern the actions without, that its moral growth may be superior. The existence of numerous wisdom organizations among us tends to the encouragement of vice in some respects. The fact is, the maintenance of those separate existences depends upon a selfishness that is, to say the least, sinful.

The movements of the Roman Catholic Church for and among our people are not insignificant. They are powerful movements of a mighty force. Reasoning from the standpoint of policy, we may expect great effects from this great cause. A scattered Methodism will not offer half so strong an opposition as would united Methodism among us. The possibilities of Methodism of colored people are immense.

The most serious question of all on this subject, as we have said before, is, can we find sufficient organizing and executive talent there at the quarterly manage them? To study our history and observe the indications of top heaviness in our organizations is not encouraging. To manage great bodies of men great wisdom is required. The weaker and less informed the people, the wiser must be the government. But the government of churches like ours grows out of the masses. This is the one thing to be watched in all attempts to unify large numbers.

OCEAN GROVE CAMP-MEETING.

The National Temperance Society will hold a five days' temperance camp-meeting at Ocean Grove, N. J., under the management of J. N. Stearns, Corresponding Secretary, commencing Wednesday, July 27, and ending Sunday the 31st. Among the speakers expected are George W. Bain, John B. Finch, Rev. Dr. J. C. Price, Edward Carswell, General Clinton B. Fisk, Rev. Dr. George K. Morris, Rev. Dr. Thomas L. Poulson, Rev. Dr. J. B. Dunn and Rev. W. C. Steele. Geo. C. Stebbins and other well-known revival singers, will be present during the meeting, which insures the musical success of the programme.

Notice to ministers barring the school question from the district at stockholders' meeting. Owing to the high prices now asked by publishers for these books, we can no longer furnish them at the rates published in the BACCALAUREATE catalogue of last winter.

We do not expect to make profit on these books to students, but we must have our money back for their cost and expense of handling. We are compelled, therefore, after this week, to raise the prices on most of them to cover cost and expense. We change our rates this week.

—Rev. G. N. Carter, of Kenerville, Texas, is making great preparation for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of African Methodism next November. He is pastor of Trevis Chapel, which is thriving under his administration.

—Rev. I. J. Copper, pastor of the Bethel Church and the church last Tuesday night. Allen Chapel is usually ready for the generous to the ministers' call. This reception to Bishop Campbell attended by a large crowd. It is in keeping with its general goodness.

—Rev. C. C. Felts will open a woods meeting at Freeford, Pa., Friday evening, August 5, and continue it for two Sundays. The Rev. will endeavor to provide the thousands who leave Philadelphia on Sundays to worship instead of revelling in sin and dissipation.

—Rev. J. H. Garner, pastor at New Richmond, Ohio, held his quarterly meeting June 27th. Rev. Garner is doing a very good work. He believes in Methodism. His preaching elder, Rev. J. G. Mitchell, baptized twenty-three children there at the quarterly meeting.

—Rev. C. C. Grace, of Snow Hill, Md., had a rally at his church July 3rd, at which $131 was raised. The elder says their church has been praying hard for an old claim for salary. This is to be permitted. It is better to settle these little difficulties without waiting for lawyers' fees.

A GOOD MAN HAS FALLEN.

BY REV. A. W. TALBERT.

Brother Curtis Smith departed this life on Thursday, June 23d, at 1 o'clock P. M. He died in the triumphs of faith. Brother Smith was born in North Carolina forty-four years ago. He was brought to Missouri when quite young. There he was converted and joined the church—he was sold away from them. In '57 he married a Miss Francis I Gaines, by whom she has since died. He served her a faithful and devoted wife. Brother Smith was the father of seven children, three of whom preceded him to the gates of pearl in their early childhood. As a husband and a father he was affectionate, faithful and devoted. He was converted many years ago under Sweet Springs, in Randolph county. An old gentleman who was present at the occasion said, "Brother Smith was powerfully converted, he was so happy that day we could not do anything with him." Brother Smith has lived an earnest and consistent Christian. He was a member of the M. E. Church, South, for years, but when the banner of African Methodism was first unfurled to the breeze in Huntsville, Mo., and a call for voices to be made, he fell in line and body, time, talents, prayers and means. He served the church in the capacity of local preacher for about twenty years, since which time he has been a faithful dispenser of the gospel of Christ. He was a great lover of African Methodism quite a number of our preachers of the North Missouri Conference know him, in his community, when the people were without a public school, Brother Smith left no stone unturned to securing the great and indispensable necessity for the people. The white people, I am told, threatened to mob him and thus defeat the education of the negroes of that district, but Brother Smith was brave and bold, therefore none of those things moved him. Brother Smith was a true and tried friend to education. He was a leader among the people of his community in the strictest sense of that term. On Thursday morning just before his death, he called his eldest son to his bed and committed the care of the family to him, and said "I am glad my son born to die!" He then lined the following with his dying breath:

"Happy, I'm with my latest breath
I may but gasp his name;
Preach him to all and cry in death,
Behold, behold the lamb."

He then fell asleep and whispered as he crossed the stream of death, "All is well, all is well," and softly the watchers said, "he is dead." And Brother Curtis Smith was on more. All was done. Alas, a good man has fallen. The mourners go about mourning. He leaves eleven children, a devoted wife and a host of affectionate friends to mourn his departure. Peace to ashes.

HONORABLE MENTION.

THE LATE STEPHEN CLATAROON, OF WADDING, O.

It has been our purpose and desire, for more than three months past, to say a word to the BECONNAS concerning the life and death of this noble patriarch; but, like many cases of the kind, it has been simply impossible. The letter of Brother Chavis, stating that Sister Clayborne and family are all down on the RECORDER because the sketch of his life has not been published, is a case in point. A similar case; and it is no use to explain—no explanation will do.

We have known of Father Claybrook for many years as one of the ablest supporters of African Methodism in our native State. In the days when Willis H. Revels was in the Senate of Georgia and Bishop W. P. Quinn was in his prime, Father Claybrook, as a local preacher, in the good cause then sweeping the State. He was a member of the Colored Organization of the church at Medison, and I think was at the first annual conference held in the city of Atlanta in connection.

It is impossible for us in a few lines to do justice to the memory of such a life as his. He died on the 3rd of last April, leaving a widow and a host of friends.

One by one the old heroes pass away Wm Paul Quinn, Geo. W. Johnson, Bishop Wayman, Bishop Campbell, Bishop Winslow, Wm. Douglass, Horace B Smith, and many more who were giants in the days of our childhood, including many man like Father Claybrook, have left all behind and gone to their eternal rest.

RECOGNITION OF SYMPATHY

WILBERFORCE, O., July 8, 1887.

In the loss of our Chaplain, Bishop Shorter, we, his children, have been so supported by the expressed sympathy of the whole world, and the methods pulse is strong within us to write to each one individually. Yet, remembering the many telegrams and letters received, with kind offers of help present, and especially of those into whose hands came voluntarily the task of decorating the church during the services and the service, we must simply the present means of declaring ourselves sincerely and forever grateful for every attention.

A VOICE FROM THE MISSIONARY DISTRICT OF THE NORTHWEST.

BY REV. J. W MALONE.

While some are writing and discussing upon the Presidency, the Episcopacy and the Bishopric, etc., and others complaining and knit-finding about the and its discipline and work, the Missionary District are moving right along, trying to make the work a success. Souls are being saved and churches built. This is true that we have had many drawbacks and difficulties to contend with and overcome that other districts of the connection have not, but we say we take courage and go on trusting in God, praying for Christ and his cause and for the extension of African Methodism.

The district conference held in May, the committee on the spiritual state of the district reported that about two hundred conversions and additions to the church had been made during the year. It must be remembered that our district is mine five pastors by death, sickness and other circumstances, more work for the presiding elder. The Church Extension Fund is in the Dan Moinas District—two now in course of completion in that district soon. Lois bought and others to be as soon as possible. We have some stirring, energetic, good pastors in the district, but more are needed. The field is truly great, but the laborers are few. Give us holy, godly men for the ministry, men that will live and work for God—men of God, and by the help of the Lord we will capture the Northwest for Christ and the African Methodist Episcopal Church. Therefore, let us have more consecrated ministers and do more work for Christ and his cause. Let us not deal with the flesh, the self-aggrandisement, but for the glory of God. Let us not deal with the flesh, but for the salvation of souls. Let us not use the glories of the outside world, but the good of the people morally, religiously, socially, intellectually and financially, preaching to and teaching the whole man—body, mind and soul; by speaking the truth in love, preaching the doctrine, sound speech, which cannot be condemned; in all things showing ourselves a pattern of godliness, having reverence for God, Christ and his cause, not walking in craftiness, but by manifestation of the truth, commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God

In regard to the Bishopric, Presiding Eldership and pastorate, let the office seek the man and not the man seek for the place. Pastors of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, to the front in all things pertaining to the Master's cause. To succeed as a pastor, prosper, it takes the Holy Ghost, common sense, management, discretion, energy, activity and push in all good things and a heart to labor in the work a success by succeeding. Never say I can't, but say, I will try and do say we could not do anything with him" What it is to fail; remember that without power, industry and perseverance one can a very obstacle

Under the management of some of my pastors and others allow me to say, twenty-four years I have been in the ministry, and during that time I have spent time has been spent in pioneer and missionary work in the Northwest, having unfurled the banner and planted the standard in the Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Dakota, etc., have suffered much from cold and hunger; sometimes twenty to thirty hours without a meal of victuals I have waited from ten to twenty-five and thirty miles regularly, from appointment to appointment; sometimes plunging through the snow waist deep, have been out all day and nearly all night when it was from twenty to forty degrees below zero; have been at railroad crossings and stations, where there was on building, waiting in the cold and storm for trains and had to walk the stir around to keep from freezing, etc. I have been away from the at a time before returning to my family in order to succeed in organizing in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Dakota, etc. Others are now enjoying the fruits of my labors. During all these trials and hardships my family never suffered for food and raiment, etc. Thank the good Lord I am still in the field doing service. Therefore, brethren of the Des Moines District, sally to the front and stick to the work.

But I must stop this train of matter, else the brethren will accuse me of egotism. No sir, it is not egotism, but when I see so many fathers and brethren leaving their work, etc., it stirs up the old missionary fire in my soul and makes the "old missionary war-horse of a lawn," as I am sometimes called, feel like rallying forth to encourage the men to buckle on the armor anew by putting on the whole armor of God and taking the sword of the spirit—the word of God. Let us take the field and in the name of the Lord set up our banner. I must call a halt; I have said more than I intended to say, and said what I did not expect to say.

If Bishops are to be elected let them be well qualified, godly men, yes, saints of men, and if the Presiding Elder system is continued let the Bishop appoint godly men with the necessary qualifications, and not such men as Revs. M. Crosby and N. W. Edwards would shoot. Such men ought to be relegated to the rear. Down with the tyrant, whether they be Bishops or elders. How dare any man lord it over God's heritage. No, no, not in free America, "the land of the free and the home of the brave." Bishop Campbell spoke in too high praise of the brethren of the Missionary Conference when he bore done for the building up of the Church. Among are the statistics: Number of full members, 3,000; number of probationers, 73; number of Sunday schools, 40; number of superintendents, 26; number of teachers, 60; number of pupils, 522; number of local preachers, 17, 1,011; increase of full members, 153 Remember, dear brethren, the Dollar Money. Fail not to bring it up this year Notice that six hundred dollars was raised in the entire district to help you to collect said moneys on my third round. We have done a wonderful work spiritually, now let us do a good work financially.

A female orchestra, all players of brass instruments, is creating a sensation in Dresden.

Miss Mary Curran, of Bloomsburg, Pa., won the gold medal oratory prize in the Junior contest, June 30.

Mrs. Harriet D. Mavis, of Burlingame, Kan., has taken a patent for a board designed to hold a shirt while its front and back are hung ironed.

Mrs. Margaret Cook Harper, of New York, wife of Fletcher Harper, died and supported the Seaside Home for Consumptives at Far Rockaway.

Dr. Grace Woloott was sent as a delegate by the very conservative Massachusetts Medical Society to the recent Medical Convention at Chicago.

Mrs. Frank Leslie, now in Paris, will get a divorce in September to arrange for the publication there of the Leslie Illustrated Newspaper.

Miss Kate Ryan, of Brooklyn, N. Y., has patented a filling attachment for the ordinary sewing machine, by which it can be filled without scalding the hands.

Miss Antonia Thomas, of Shelby, Miss., conducts a 6,000 acre ranch, looks after valuable timber property, and has an interest in a cotton mill, besides being a planter, the leavening qualities of the Royal Baking Power swelling it to the requisite lightness. Miss Thomas also owns the used the Royal Baking Powder remorse say it "goes further" than others, the sweet as short, sweet and pleasure of made from the finest baking. Those who know the sparkling qualities of cousine home-made American pie will rejoice that the use of Royal Baking Powder in the pastry it can be made quite as digestible as it is delicious.

The new famous Dickson Will case are decided by the District Court of Ga., at Atlanta on the 13 h inst., in favor of the professed woman as heir and executrix to deposes medicines as a chemist. Although she had a pharmacist's diploma, she followed the medicine her, but have now been compelled to do so by the courts.

Miss Caroline W. Hall, of Boston, was awarded a medal at the recent display of the pictures at the Academy of Fine Arts, in Milan, Italy, she being the only lady who received honors in the school of landscape painting. Her subject was a view of the promontory surrounding the home of the great Leonardo da Vinci.

Mrs. J. H. Roberts, the widow of the first President of Liberia, is collecting money for a proposed hospital, to be located at Monrovia, the capital of the country. Mrs. Roberts was very kindly received by President Cleveland, who has become a contributor toward the proposed hospital.

The Woman's Medical College of the City of New York celebrated its fifteenth anniversary, Dr. Emily Blackwell, dean, presiding. Miss Longshore administered the oath to the graduates, and Dr. Mary Bissell told an interesting story of the early days of the college, some of whom are now missionaries in India.

A "Ramabai Circle" for the elevation of women in India has been formed in Boston, Mass., Ramabai, Pundita Ramabai, the eminent Hindoo lady who is visiting and speaking in this country in the interest of her country women, is lately from Poona, in the State of Cornell University. Her addresses have created a deep impression, and the plan of organization seems to result in educational work in India has been begun.

Read! Read! Read!

We have just received, and have on hand a few copies of Dunbar's beautiful set of splendid new books:

"Lessons in Character, From Nature," by Rev. J. B Smith, D. D. Price, $1.50

"Capital for Working Boys," Price, $1.00

This is a capital book in every sense of the word.

"General Grant from the Tannery to the White House." Price, $1.50.

This book tells us in a pleasant and simple way the whole story of the life of General Grant, and is well adapted to the grave. Send your order at once.

"Talks for Use for Breakfast." Price, $1.00.

This book is just the thing for our boys.

"Fact, Fun and Principle," by Wm. H. Hunter, D. D. Price, $1.50.

Who of us does not need this book? Well, send for it and you'll be glad.

"Recitations and Readings for Young People."

This book is mostly a collection of poetry on many subjects of nature and life. Send for it. Send for it. Send for it. It is well suited for the parlor and leisure hours.

Next we offer a splendid home book on the life of Abraham Lincoln. "Pictorial Life of." Price, $2 for cash and credit and profit by. It is good for all classes.

Next, we call you to our two last and best of all. We have just received from the publishers a large invoice. Here is found a scripture lesson, of five or eight verses, for every morning in the year, and a comment on the teachings of the same, by the late Rev. Daniel D. D, the well known Evangelist. A rare octavo, handsomely bound. Only $2 00.

The other book we speak of is a "Pictorial Life of Christ," compiled by Rev. A. B Earle. It contains nearly all of the fine pictures that have been used in all the churches for the last thirty years. It is not a "trashy" thing that will burn away in an hour, but a winnowed company of golden grains that will never die, as not to say equally vital. No church or congregation can afford to be without these books, even not yet "warm" in the aracrion. We are going so sell two thousand of them this season. Send in the full list and $1.00 extra. We will prepay postage.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

HOW THE SCIENCE OF MEDICINE HAS BEEN HAMPERED.

"PROFESSIONAL ETHICS" WORSE THAN EASTERN LAETA—A LETTER FROM A PHYSICIAN WHO FOLLOWS THE "SCHOOL," BUT PORTRAYS HUMANITY TO THE SUFFERING—EDITORIAL ETHICS."

While the medical profession has made great progress all the century, it is acknowledged that the science of medicine has been hampered by the fact that the members of the profession are to a great extent bound by the rules of their respective schools, and that no one ought to be but one school of medicine, and they must not even try a remedy or prescribe for a case, much less cure it, if it belongs to another school. To such an extent has this been carried that it is said that a physician of one school would rather see a patient die than to "go fast out school" with a quack of one school while following the practice of another. "Professional ethics" is said to carry in the manors of the profession to such an extent that physicians of one school will not even consult with those of another, and it is said that a physician of one school would rather see a patient die than to "go fast out school" with —Reporter (interviewing rich man): "You began life barefooted, and worked for a dollar a week, I believe?" "No, sir, I didn't!" "Well, that will have to go in, anyway. They all do it; and, if we should make an exception in your case, our readers would complain."—Burlington Free Press.

A teacher in a San Francisco public school was informed by a lawyer at 2 P. M. that she was heir to $300,000. He expected her to grasp her bonnet and run, but instead of that she calmly replied: "I will hear the class in geography, this three boys, and be at your office in an hour."

One day the children were having an object lesson on the blue heron. The teacher called attention to its small tail, saying, "The bird has no tail to speak of." The next day she asked the scholars to write a description of the bird, and a little German girl wound up by saying: "The blue baron has a tail, but it must not be talked about."

In a suburban Sunday-school last Sunday, the teacher of a class of little ones was about to entertain her pupils with the story of Abraham and Isaac, but, wishing first to gauge the children's knowledge of the chief actor in the story, asked: "Now, my dears, who is Abraham?" One answered: "He was a soldier." Another said: "He was the man who used to come round to my house and buy pa's old clothes."

NOTICE.

To the Pastors of the North Ohio Annual Conference of the African M. E. Church:

Greeting—The committee appointed at the last session of your conference on camp-meetings grant permission to hold one to be under the following conditions:

First, that the prizes object of the camp-meeting shall be to glorify God and to advance the interest of the A. M. E. church.

Second. There shall be no buying, selling or traffic of any kind allowed on the ground on the Sabbath day; prohibited, however, that the bona fide sale may be allowed to prepare ordinary meals, but not to be allowed to sell traffic in, or to any way dispose of water melons, peaches, cucumbers and the like.

Third. That the Sunday school sessions shall not be dispensed with; they shall be held on the grounds or at the church, as the pastor and superintendent may elect. Provided, however, that the children shall be admitted free to the grounds of the Sunday school services held thereupon. Provided, further, that no local preacher shall be allowed to hold camp-meetings.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE IN INDIGESTION.

DR. MARSHALL and LONDACRE, Olney, Ill., say: "We have used it in cases of indigestion, with good results."

"O, my friends, there are some spectacles that a person never forgets!" said a lecturer, after giving a graphic description of a terrible accident that he had witnessed. "I'd like to know where they really have 'em," said a boy in the audience who is always mislaying his glasses.

Forth in the system, by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, against the disease germs that are in the blood. This medicine induces a healthy action of the stomach, liver, and kidneys, causing them to prevent the accumulation of the poisons which produce disease.

A small boy in one of our public schools was reading, and came to the word "napkin," and hesitated. "Why do you stop there, Johnny?" said the lady teacher; "you know what a napkin is, don't you?" "Oh, yes," said the boy, with his face trimbling up; "that's something we use when we have company."

The Best Remedy

For Dyspepsia is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Other medicines may give temporary relief; but Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes a positive and permanent cure, as thousands can testify all over the country.

"My stomach, liver, and kidneys were in a disordered condition for years," writes H. Wild, of Hartly, Texas, "and I never found any medicine to relieve me, until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than one bottle of this benefit cured me."

Mrs. Joseph Achlin, of Holyoke, Mass., was for a long time a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia, trying, in vain, all the usual remedies. At last she began to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and only three bottles restored her to perfect health.

"I have gone through terrible suffering from Dyspepsia and Indigestion," says Mr. J. F. Bohner, 121 Columbia st., Cincinnati, Ohio, "and have tried many remedies, but the best relief I ever found was in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I now take it regularly, and feel that no family should be without it."

C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

needs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will set for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

SIXTH TO SELF-EDUCATED MINISTERS.

Reasons why all preachers should read Dr. Pierce's Sixth to Self-Educated Ministers.—Because the most gracious work of preparing to preach—much talk and study, a good deal of prayer, much talk and study, a lot yet with power and unction, much talk and study, and the strong arm of the Lord in the work of ministerial service. Because it is a work of great value to the preacher. Because it is a work of great value to the preacher. Because it is a work of great value to the preacher

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 21, 1887.

ELSEWHERE we publish list of Bishop Heyn's conferences, which was forwarded by Rev. T. W. Henderson on the Bishop's order.

ALREADY a pastor of one of our large churches in the West proposes to take one hundred copies of our new triennal. Bishops Ward and Brown say several hundred will be wanted in their respective fields.

THE REPORT of the Secretary of the Sunday School Union is very encouraging. The Church will feel glad that the Secretary is able to resume business and that, even though himself unable to be at his post at times, his efficient management has secured such clerical aid as to insure success.

IT IS August 4th that Zion Mission and Murray Chapel wish to take short one thousand persons out of the heat of Philadelphia to enjoy the refreshing breeze of Chester Heights, hear important popular topics discussed and have a day of good social pleasure. The round trip fare will be 75 cents.

THE PHILADELPHIA PREACHERS' Meeting, at an extra session, July 11th, passed memorial resolutions on the death of the late Bishop James A. Shorter. Owing to the number of similar papers already in hand and the many more that will doubtless come, we must ask our good brethren to consider the space in the RECORDER and pardon the non-publication of their papers. Of course there may be some exceptions.

THE EDITORIAL which we reprint from the "The News," Philadelphia, is one of the best things, said in the best way, of all the utterances of the Northern press in behalf of our suffering people in the South. The report of the Hinds County, Miss., grand jury sounds like the report of men with conscience, recognizing both the solemn character of their oaths and the equal duty of colored men in respect to justice. If all the great papers of our great cities would speak as boldly as does the News and all our grand juries act as rightfully as the Hinds County jury, our hopes for success would enlarge rapidly.

THE GENERAL CONFERENCE of 1888 will fall to do this thing unless, and others, would tend to the advancement and unity of the African Methodist Episcopal Church if it does not have all our Bishops, within six months after its adjournment, located at such places as will give all parts of the Church an equal showing in episcopal presence and supervision. The Church has suffered too much to longer indulge the sentiment that any movement of this kind would be disrespectful to our chief pastors. Nor should the Church's will on this subject, when again expressed, be thwarted by the excuse that the Church will not have erected or provided for episcopal residences at the places designated as episcopal centres. It would require a full quadrennium to build or pay for such residences, the Church suffering all the while. Houses can be rented or rented for Bishops as well as for other ministers. This distribution of Bishop will be very effective if applied only to Bishops that be elected. The conference will be wise to appoint a special committee to arrange for this important progressive movement, or require the committee on Episcopacy to report on it.

PRELIMINARY the report of Dr. J. G. Mitchell this week, we are reminded of the Brown University, formerly the Western University, located at Quindero, Kans. What is the status of this school? What is its relation to the Church? Why no notice of it in the report of the Secretary of the First Educational District? These questions are suggested by the fact that no little money is reported by the Secretary from the Fifth District, the fact that more recondowment money must have been raised in said district than is reported, by the fact that said school is said to be the property of the A. M. E. Church and by the fact that the school is said to be in operation.

Does the law prevent Secretary Mitchell from making known the facts? Will other secretaries or Bishops give the Church some light? There is no inspiration in this silent movement. Even Heydt and San Domingo are entirely too reticent. The Church should hear from us if these places need a pastor. That may be considered legitimately and satisfactorily done by the reports to the Secretary of Missions and published in the Missionary Record, but this is a mistake. The Christian Recorder is the property of the Church and the only properly authorized organ of the A. M. E. Church. It is a sad day when, under whatever pretext, prominent and official matters are considered just as rightfully published when printed in any of the other papers that chance to be published by African Methodist ministers, officers or Bishops. All this sort of conduct leads to disintegration and should cease at once. Let us hear from the Islands through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. The missionary to Africa, Rev. Fredericks, has the privilege to write to the Church through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER as well as through the Missionary Record.

Bishop Campbell preached in Union Church, Philadelphia, Sunday, 17th inst.

John O Whittier has never been further than Washington from his home in Amesbury, Mass.

—The widow of the late John A. Logan was badly injured last week by being thrown from her carriage.

—Rev. Lonnie Johnson has been transferred from the Georgia Conference to the North Carolina Conference.

—A card from Dr. I. H. Welch bears the sad tidings that our great church building in Bowling Green, Ky., has been burnt.

—George Woodson, the only negro student that ever attended Beloit College, will deliver the address at Beloit on Emancipation Day.

—Rev. W. H. Yocum accompanied one of his members, Mrs. Sarah A. Hall, to the Old Folks' Home, West Philadelphia, last week.

—Rev. J. C. Clarke has had great success at Ruville, La. Of ninety persons converted seventy-nine have joined our church there. The revival still continues.

—Rev. W. H. Bryant is making a very promising beginning in his new field, Chester. He has been holding Murray Chapel, this city, last Sunday evening.

—Mr. Archibald Stirling, president of the Savings Bank of Baltimore, has just contributed $10,000 to Howard. He is still actively engaged in the duties of his position.

—Rev. J. L. M. Curry, United States minister to Spain, will spend his holiday at his home in Richmond, Va., and will take an active part in starting the build ing of a new Baptist church.

—Carl Schurz has so far recovered from the injuries he received by a fall from a carriage last winter as to be able to dispense with the hand carriage and go about on crutches

—The Rev. N. Davidson, pastor at Opelika, visited St. Mark's A. M. E. Church June 19th and preached two very satisfactory sermons. Rev. Mr. Hoose, the pastor, baptised eleven children on the same day.

—Rev. H. McKenna will have the W. P. Quinn Church at Bastrop, Texas, dedicated July 31st. Rev. W. Rolark, A. Ornat and C. E. Taylor will participate in the dedicatory services, the latter preaching in the afternoon.

—Rev. John Jasper, the famous clerical sensation, of Richmond, Va., has had a particular seat in the Capitol Square near the north steps of the Capitol Building, where he can see and hear without any summer sweating contemplating the splendid scenes.

—Mrs. Beecher seems unable since her husband's death to remain in Brooklyn or away from it. Her sermon, so pathetically composed face is seen every Sunday in the congregation of her late husband, though nominally she is attending the Plymouth Pilgrim, elder, Arthur Brooks.

—General Frank Sigel, the hero of the man who "fought mit Sigel," is now in the West visiting some of the old battle grounds. The object of his visit is to gather some information about the topography of the country. He is to write the story of his campaign, to be published in German.

—J. L. Withers, a brilliant young man of Fairfield County, S. C., who was graduated with honors from the South Carolina University last month, has become the subject of much favorable Democratic newspapers for having made one of the following language in his valedictory address before the Sophra dise Society of the college: "It is very difficult to hang a white man in South Carolina for killing another white man, but it is impossible to hang one for killing a negro. This is justified by saying that he is only a negro." The language is variously characterised as "incendiary," "diabolical," "inciting," "fiendish," etc., and Mr. Withers is called upon to recant it. Inasmuch, however, as the truth of his assertions is amply established by the results of recent criminal trials in the courts of that State, the young man is taking the matter coolly and treating these denunciations with silent contempt.—Phila. THE STATE OF THE CHURCH.

At the Sabbath school session the audience chamber was crowded filled with an earnest, enthusiastic assemblage. The pastor told me that on the 27th of February last the Sabbath school in the Sabbath school and then they were cheered by the presence of the superintendent, a venerable and faithful fathers se Lewis Hamilton, Isaac Hall, Wesley Brown, Joseph Wheler, Thos. Haines. Such sanguein and devoted sisters as Rachel Price, Eliza Brown. It was a glorious session. The pastor preached a present generation, each equally interes being the youngest, but not possibly least among the presiding elders of my conference. I have been more than content. Seeing in your issue of June 16th, one such article penned by a brother minister of the district over which I preside, and which therefore must reflect greatly upon me, I have space for a few thoughts on the subject. I desire to ask, Mr. Editor, is there a single branch of the great Methodist family in the world that has not the presiding elder system? If there is I am unaware of it, and if not, then what means this attack upon the system in the A. M. E. Church, and, too, by its ministers, not the laity, not the persons who support it, but by persons that it is calculated to help most?

Is it, Mr. Editor, that the A. M. E. Church is in advance of all the other branches of the great Methodist Church and that these chosen men, these far-seeing, these church regulators have been inspired to bring about this much needed reform, or is it rather on assumption that we are to lead the great Methodist family in this reform, or does the whole gas or power the negro Methodist ability, not of reversing, but of being governed by his brother? These men are well, these to be governed yet wanting govern. In reading the articles written against presiding elders we are reminded of what was said of a certain preacher, who had selected his text, preached his sermon, and was complimenting himself for having delivered a fine discourse when one of his leading officials said to him, "You preached a fine sermon, but that text had the smell upon the sermon would never have crossed it." These writers have made the office of presiding elder their subject, but have discussed only the odor of the office, nor how it can be done away with. Some one has shown the non-utility of the office, nor how it can be improved, but only its evil effects. They have simply abused and vilified the incumbent. The office is there they seem to give—for they give no plain reason for any argument they make—is, but they cast their arrows. Now, is this a crime worthy of death? God forbid; for for this I fear we are nearly all guilty who would escape the penalty.

In search of an argument against the office, some say that all the presiding elders can do and are doing they as pastors can do. This is the cry that is being heard from this through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER as well as through the Missionary Record.

THE STATE OF THE CHURCH.

BY REV. I. G. LEE.

MR. EDITOR:—I have read with some regret the many scurrilous articles on the presiding elders, emanating from the pens of Christian gentlemen(?), heaping personal abuse upon their brethren and co laborers. Upon once discovering the utility or non-utility of the office. It is not for me to say. I have been content to of a presiding elder at present, and being the youngest, but not possibly least among the presiding elders of my conference, I have heretofore kept silent. Seeing in your issue of June 16th, one such article penned by a brother minister of the district over which I preside, and which therefore must reflect greatly upon me, I have space for a few thoughts on the subject. I desire to ask, Mr. Editor, is there a single branch of the great Methodist family in the world that has not the presiding elder system? If there is I am unaware of it, and if not, then what means this attack upon the system in the A. M. E. Church, and, too, by its ministers, not the laity, not the persons who support it, but by persons that it is calculated to help most?

Is it, Mr. Editor, that the A. M. E. Church is in advance of all the other branches of the great Methodist Church and that these chosen men, these far-seeing, these church regulators have been inspired to bring about this much needed reform, or is it rather on assumption that we are to lead the great Methodist family in this reform, or does the whole gas or power the negro Methodist ability, not of reversing, but of being governed by his brother? These men are well, these to be governed yet wanting govern. THE OFFICE OF PRESIDING ELDER.

BY REV. S. SICE.

It has been often affirmed that the presiding elder (fine does no good; his salary has to be paid, while the pastor does the preaching. This argument is supported on the presumption that the presiding elder does not preach. The fact is that the same proportion of failures may be found in the pastor as that is found in the presiding eldership. The presiding elder who has been declining for a pecuniary manner, so may the pastor; but the office of elder, abused as it is, is not to be condemned. The presiding eldership leads to hold pastorates in their respective fields of labor. The labors of the Church under review in an orderly way. The sins the affairs of Church, the Sunday school and all similar affairs correctly reported to the pastor and his successors. Of course, Bishop being infallible man, unworthy and incompetent men may be appointed to the office so well as to any other—men who manifest not only no interest in the Church, but a positive disinterestedness in everything except the line between the pastor and the presiding elder—who take months to write a sermon or who are too lazy to preach a sermon after it is written. But as a rule the presiding elder is a man whose industry, intelligence and personality are felt and seen in the district over which he presides. The Church feels the influence of his presence as it grows in grace. The Sunday school takes on a higher grade of efficiency. The pastor finds in the presiding elder a friend, counselor and helper. The presiding elder's office becomes the centre of the district. He is a leader in the conference. He is a man of influence. He is a man of power. He is a man of wisdom. He is a man of piety. He is a man of God. He is a man of prayer. He is a man of faith. He is a man of love. He is a man of peace. He is a man of joy. He is a man of hope. He is a man of charity. He is a man of meekness. He is a man of temperance. He is a man of brotherly kindness. He is a man of godliness. He is a man of patience. He is a man of long suffering. He is a man of gentleness. He is a man of goodness. He is a man of faithfulness

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 21, 1887.

ELSEWHERE we publish list of Bishop Hoyt's conferences, which will be attended by Rev. T. W. Henderson on the Bishop's order.

ALREADY a pastor of one of our large churches in the West promises to take one hundred copies of our new ritual. Bishops Ward and Brown say several hundred will be wanted in their respective fields.

THE REPORT of the Secretary of the Sunday School Union is very encouraging. The Church will feel glad that the Secretary is able to resume business and that, even though himself unable to be at his post at times, his efficient management has secured such clerical aid as to insure success.

IT IS August 4th that Zion Mission and Murray Chapel wish to take about the Sunday services and of the best of Philadelphia to enjoy the refreshing breeze of Chester Heights, bear important popular topics discussed and have a day of good social pleasure. The round trip fare will be 75 cents.

THE PHILADELPHIA PEACEMAKERS' Meeting, at an extra session, July 11th, passed memorial resolutions on the death of the late Bishop James A. Shorter. Owing to the number of similar papers already in hand and the many more that will doubtless come, we must ask our good brethren to consider the limited space in the RECORDER and pardon the non-publication of their papers. Of course there may be some exceptions.

THE EDITORIAL which we reprint from the "The News," Philadelphia, is one of the best things, said in the best way, of all the utterances of the Northern press in behalf of our suffering people in the South. The report of the Hilton Head, Mississippi, Conference, and that coming from outside our Church leaves but $35,000 to our credit, or a little less than 9 cents per member. Our figures must spur us to greater energies. The presence of the Colored Cadets makes it the more necessary for us to double our diligence. The report of our Secretary should be doubled this year, at least.

"ST. JOSEPH'S ADVOCATE," a magazine published in Baltimore under the auspices of the Catholic Church, in the interests of education, we would infer, of the colored people, and from its own standpoint a royal defender of them, justly criticises the A. M. E. Review for April, for not publishing the sketch of the Bishop, after promising to do so. Who was the St. Joseph's before it became sufficiently liberal to publish a picture and sketch of so African Methodist minister, who has been ordained and ordained to the holy work of a minister of Christ? There has been as much talk about this ordinary feet, a mere ordained to the ministry, as if an extraordinary specimen of humanity the world's race to America, or as where as it is only an ordinary American. The Catholic Church may possibly afford to gush over the matter; it will be profitable among the colored people, but why does our Protestant magazine need to do the same, when we obtain numbers of ministers equal to the Reverend Tolton? On the other hand, the St. Joseph's condemns the editor of the A. M. E. Review for publishing the article on Hayti by the late Mrs. Mossell. Similar criticism has been made by members of the New York Conference and a few others. The St Joseph's does not hesitate to speak contemptuously of our good Sister Mossell, because she had written, and after her death her husband had published, what she believed to be the truth. Doubtless, though a Protestant, she was an honorable lady, and though she may have spoken slightingly of Roman Catholics, it is only once to the many times Roman Catholics have spoken slightingly of protestants. So far as the criticisms by Mrs. Mossell go, they are just the same as have been made scores of times. Our own Church critics and the St. Joseph's critic may as well know there are many Haytiens who will corroborate the statements made by Mrs. Mossell. Perhaps she was not careful to discriminate between Haytiens and some Haytiens, but it is useless for "our friends, the enemy," to try make us believe that Mrs. Mary Ella Mossell intended any wrong. As to the criticism our own Church, we have only to say that they will observe that the mistake of ordering the general term where the particular should be used, is a fault often committed. They say the publication of the article will be against us in some of the best families in the land. If so, utterance of some of the young ministers from Hayti, educated at Wilberforce University, must also be against our success in Hayti, for they agree with Mrs. Mossell's statements; excepting that the universal term would not be used by them in connection with vivid in their positive land. If our Church is to proceed in any part of this world to correct the morals of men by cowardly methods, shutting its eyes to people's faults, it will have not much success. If telling the truth should drive us from missionary work, it is evidence that there is darkness in that land. If, on the other hand, the island of Hayti is as cultured as the best of the States, as said by our contributor, "Our Schools, Academies and Colleges will compare favorably with the best in the land," and "the sammy," then we need not consider it longer especially a mission field. Once more we say, it is not likely that Mrs. Mossell told other than the truth, as the explanation in her charges of vileness and wretchedness should refer to some Haytien persons, not the Haytien people.

APPRECIATION OF GENEROSITY.

The meeting at the Home for Aged and Infirm Colored Persons, Philadelphia, to express appreciation of the benevolence of Mrs. Sarah Marshall and Mrs. Mary Cassidy in giving each large amounts to charity, and so placed as to largely benefit colored people, notice of which was given in our last number, was satisfactorily attended. Mr. Stephen Hill, President of the Board of the Institution, presided. Thoughtful addresses were made by Bishop J. P. Campbell, Mrs. F. J. Cooper, Dr. J. B. Reeve, Dr. T. D. Miller, Rev. D. C. Dawkins, Dr. Isom and others. Music was furnished by the choir of Bethel A. M. E. Church. A good audience was present, notwithstanding the excessive heat. It is proper to add that the observers of these women of God should be talked of for the sake of the inspiration it gives to others to live and so as God designs we should do. Besides the sums given directly to the institution, many have testified of their benevolence to us much about the afflicted and destitute, especially that in the use of none of the $500,000 in their bequests shall soy discrimination be made on account of race.

THE ISLANDS OF THE SEA AND BISHOP CAMPBELL'S RECEPTION.

The entertainment of Bishop Campbell by Allen Chapel was a pleasant affair. There were several members of Philadelphia sod vicinity present. The house was well filled by many of our best citizens and incidental sojourners, other, etc. Will not secretaries or Bishops give the Church some light? There is no inspiration in this silent movement. Even Heyti and San Domingo was entirely too violent. The Church should bear from us if these places once a quarter. This may be considered legitimately and satisfactorily done by the reports to the Secretary of Missions and published in the Missionary Record, but this is a mistake. The CHRISTIAN RECORDER is the properly, and the only properly authorized organ, of the A. M. E. Church. It is a sad day when, under whatever pretext, prominent and official matters are considered just as rightfully published when printed in any of the other papers that chance to be published by African Methodist ministers, officers or Bishops. All the acts of conduct tends to distinguish and should cease at once. Let us hear from the islands through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. The missionary to Africa, Rev. Frederickson, has the privilege. The Church knows something from him through the CHRISTIAN RECORDER as well as through the Missionary Record.

seeing, these church regulators have been inspired to bring about this much needed reform, or is it rather an assumption that we are to lead the Church? Official lassity in this reform, or does the whole go to prove the negro incapability, not of governing, but of being governed by his brother? These men are unwilling to be governed yet want to govern. In reading the articles written against presiding elders it is said by one act of what was said or a certain preaching had not been to his taste, preached his sermon, and was complimenting himself for having delivered a fine discourse when one of his leading officials said to him, "You preached a fine sermon, but you preached a poor discourse, for your text had had the small-pox the sermon would never have caught it." These writers here made the office of presiding elder their subject, but have discussed men. Not one of them has shown the non-utility of the office, nor how it can be successfully be gotten along without. They have simply abused and vilified their brethren who fill the office. Surely they seem to give—for they give no plain reason for their opposition—for the "they get their salary." Now, is this a crime worthy of death? God forbid; for if it be, all the world will be guilty who would escape the penalty.

The writer of an article against the office, some say that all the presiding elders are doing nothing else but drawing their salaries can do. Now, here we have been bearing along the line the same argument made by local preachers against presiding elders, and there not as much ground for it? If it is that the men who write these articles are members of the A. M. E. Church, then what explanation? Possibly they are of the "Ishmaelites." Not being well informed as the good brethren who are opposing the presiding elder's office, I will not presume to offer reasons for the writers' position. We can say of South Carolina, the people demand the office, or will reserve to themselves the right to elect the visitors and dispose of them by vote when the Church is properly organized and set it. The salary of the presiding elders is $1,200 per year. Now, the man to whom is it burdensome, the people who pay the money or the men who complain? Very likely the latter. We can unwilling to believe that these brethren mean what they say, but they are simply willing to accuse a presiding elder, and by so doing they bring themselves into notoriety. Brethren, fear the end will not justify the means. Let the Church be governed according to these parts, are, to say the least, dangerous. Be faithful, prayerful and diligent, and they are sworn enemies to the Church and seek this as the means of destroying it.

I repeat that I would not have written, but I was not long in the office to the thinking mind that the presiding elder of the work would be one of the able above referred to is guilty of all the acts which he charges presiding elders with. I am prepared to say that so far as I am concerned, they are not guilty of all the charges that are brought against them. So grateful am I, Mr. Editor, to be a humble instrument in the hands of God that I regard not the office, but am willing to go to the small est point in my estimation for colored men in trusting Jesus, I know I can not fail. Therefore, I am willing to accept less than in presiding over meloonient groups.

As to the Columbia Conference. Mr. Editor, it is composed chiefly of colored people, and the thinking, reading, church loving, law abiding Christian gentlemen, men of both sexes, of great depth and soundness; they will, understand the office, and will not be led by writers and abusers of their brethren. They will guard it against such good brethren as the writer of the article, who leave their flocks for "months and months" while they go to Annual Conference, and sometimes to the General Conference, and neglect the presiding elder's office. Sensible men do not lie to such men, say, "I will be absent at the next meeting," "rule or ruin" business and the brood of Church Jane 15th and preached a very satisfactory sermon. Rev. G. W. Boone, Jr., pastor, baptized seven children on the same day.

—Rev. H. McKenna will have the W. P. Quinn Church at Hastings, Neb., dedicated July 24. Revs B. W. Roberts, A. Grant and G. P. Taylor will assist. Rate in the dedicatory services, the latter officiating in the afternoon.

—Rev. John Jasper, the famous clerical astronomer, of Richmond, Va., has been appointed, and is the Capitol Square near the north steps of the Capitol building, and he will speak to the people on the alder with any of those artists. Rev. Dr. Tennent was one of the guests of the Hon. Mrs. H. C. C. Astwood, wife of the Consul General from the United States. They were well received by both civilians and Blue uniforms. The Bishop organized a conference, ordained a native deacon and our good brother, A. H. Mews, missionary to San Domingo, elder. At Port-au-Prince another conference was organized and other ministers ordained. Rev. John Hurst, a noble young minister, who was educated at Wilberforce University, was ordained elder; others, deacons. President Salomon and his wife received the Bishop and Secretary stiingly and the people received them gladly. Among the many American-Haytiens the Bishop found relatives of some of his personal friends in Philadelphia and elsewhere. He even found great grandchildren of Bishop Allen himself. Bishop Campbell thinks our work in Hayti requires only circling to and pushing strongly to ensure the success of America, and he reports the people ready for them. There will prove one of the greatest inspirations received by our Church It is a strong intimation that we should double our diligence in the West Indies in general, or else abandon the field to those who will exert themselves properly there.

Thus far, our work on the islands, aside from Hayti, has been done so very quietly, that we hardly know whether it is done or not at all. What do the result of our three years' occupancy of those islands? What are our fruits? It is tiresome to hear so much about the attempt recognition of and protestation against the Bishop who brought us this work. We want fruits. We want to hear more of what is being done. The quantity of work done cannot settle the status of the Bishop, as that seems to have been settled generally, but it will settle the natural and right inquiries of the people and tend to enhance general interest in the field. Certainly our people would be pleased to learn whether the successful work done in those islands in the past six months shewed any merits of growth, whether there is an increased interest in the connection, what were the financial results and what is the spiritual outlook. Surely these are legitimate inquiries. The Church learns incidentally, and only incidentally, that one of its Bishops has gone to hold a conference, has returned, has gone to hold another, etc.

MY VISIT TO SMYRNA.

BY REV. JNO. C. GROCE.

Having but lately returned in my old country home from the West, and still revalled myself of the earliest opportunity to write you a few lines, and to assist the pastor, my old and valued friend, Rev. Jere. W. Norris, in his first quarterly meeting at Smyrna. I avail my privilege to preach twice, also address the Sabbath school. It was a difficult to begin in South Carolina after killing another white man, but it is impossible to hang one for killing a negro. This is justified by saying that he is only a negro." This language is variously characterized as "insolence," "slandering," "bare," "nature," etc., and Mr. Wilson is called upon to retract it. Inasmuch, however, as the truth of his assertions is amply established by the results of recent elections in the courts of the State, the young men in the habit of using the term and treating these denunciations with silent contempt.—Phila. THAT "BONE OF CONTENTION" IN THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

BY REV. T. G. LEE.

MR. EDITOR:—I have read with some regret the many contrilous articles on presiding elders, emanating from the pens of Christian gentlemen (?), heaping personal abuse upon their brethren and co laborers, without once discussing the utility or nonutility of the office. Not being my lot to be placed in the position of a presiding elder at present, and being the youngest, last and possibly least among the presiding elders of my conference, I have therefore been silent. Seeing in your issue of June 16th, four persons passed by a brother minister of the district over which I preside, and which therefore must reflect upon me, I beg space for a few thoughts on the subject, if I desire to do so, Mr. Editor, as there is a single branch of the great Methodist family in the world that has not the presiding elder system? If there is, I am unaware of it, and if not, then we have the strictest upon the system in the A. M. E. Church, and, too, by its ministers, not the laity, not the persons who support it, but the persons that it is calculated to help most!

Is it, Mr. Editor, that the A. M. E. Church is adverse at all the other branches of the great Methodist Church and that these chosen men, these favored ones, these church regulators have been inspired to bring about this much needed reform, or is it rather an assumption that we are to lead the Church? Official lassity in this reform, or does the whole go to prove the negro incapability, not of governing, but of being governed by his brother? NOTICE.

To the Pastors of the North Ohio Annual Conference of the A. M. E. Church:

Greeting.—The committee appointed at the last session of your conference on camp-meetings great permission to hold such meetings in the following conditions:

First, that the prime object of the camp-meeting shall be the glory of God and to advance the interests of the church.

Second. There shall be no buying, selling or trading of any kind allowed on the ground on the Sabbath day; provided, however, that like hoarding tent may be allowed to furnish meals, but will not be allowed to sell, trade in, or in any way dispose of liquor or melons, peanuts, cookies and such like.

Third. That the Sunday school sessions shall not be dispensed with; they shall be held on the ground of the church, as the pastor and superintendent may elect. Provided, however, that the children shall be admitted free to the grounds of the Sunday school service held thereupon. Provided, further, that no local preacher shall be allowed to hold camp-meeting.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for that purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this proposition to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. [Note.—We will send a few blank slips of receipts to all who will ask for as in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shafer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

In All Complaints

Of the Stomach, Bowels, Liver, and Kidneys, Ayer's Pills are taken with excellent results. Being purely vegetable, they have no ill effects, and may be safely administered to any one, old or young, in need of an aperient and cathartic. Physicians, all over the country, prescribe Ayer's Pills and recommend them as a good Family Medicine.

"If people would use Ayer's Pills," says Col. D. W. Bozeman, of Franklin, Texas, "as a medicine, as you direct, many of the serious ailments that come from inability or derangement of the liver and from malarial infections would be avoided. I have used these pills above a quarter of a century and know their efficacy."

Herman Bringhoff, jewelry engraver, Newark, N. J., writes: "Continuous headache by my customary habits of life, because chronic, Ayer's Pills afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right."

CENTENNIAL OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

EPISCOPAL ROOMS, AFRICAN M. E. CHURCH,
No. 1424 R. I. AVENUE,
WASHINGTON D. C., Feb 4 1887.
TO THE BISHOPS MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH:

My Dear Brethren:—"Read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" the subject-matter of circular No. "Centennial of African Methodism." Its contents are more than a mere passing interest. "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: Ask your father, and he will show thee; the elders, and they will tell thee. Remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee these hundred years in the wilderness!"

Next November will be one hundred years since Richard Allen and his associates left St. George's M. E. Church, in the city of Philadelphia, (1787) and the Bishops of the semi-annual meeting adopted the following Preamble and Resolutions:

WHEREAS' November ones, 1887, will be one hundred years since Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and others left St. George's M. E. Church, Fourth street Church in Philadelphia, because the colored people belonging to the Methodist Society of Philadelphia were taxed together in order to take into one denomination the white people then labored, arising from unified treatment of their white brethren, they conceived the idea of the house of worship, and even pulled them off their knees, while in the act of prayer, and told them to go to the back seats!" (See preface to the A. M. E. Church Discipline.)

AND WHEREAS: The is the most decided act on the religious colored people in the United States, and the history of ness like it of the descendants of Africa in the world; it was through the labors of the Haitians under Toussaint, a true-hearted Negro, that the shackles were torn in Hayti and San Domingo, in a civil and political sense, while Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and others were to be colored Christians of America, in the sense of ecclesiastical and manhood christianity. We must not forget that the early religious and a republic we have—all therefore recognize their manhood because Richard Allen, Absalom Jones, Daniel Coker, Rev. James Champion, and others in Church or State is manly. Toussaint and Allen were both Negroes, reverend and loved. The success of Allen and his company in the organization of the first given to the largest colored organization in the world. It is therefore proper and right that we should commemorate as a feast so important and so full of blessings to the A. M. E. Church as it be it.

Resolved, first, That the Chief Pastors of the African Methodist Episcopal Church request that next November, a date in that month be fixed, and be used to commemorate the one hundredth year of African Methodism, and that the first service be held at all our churches throughout the connection. The order of service be fixed by the Bishops, quarterly conference, and pastor in charge, and that a collection for the same be taken by a committee hereafter named.

Resolved, second, As per publishing, matters has long suffered, because of lack of publication. It will be necessary made by all of our churches, and whatever collection is realized to be forwarded to assist in the paying off of debts now resting on our Publication Department.

PHILADELPHIA, JULY 22, 1897.

In our reference to the Brown University last week, we said it is in the Fifth District, whereas we should have said the Fourth District.

Bishop Brown is sounding the ecclesiastical trumpet wherever he goes. We notice in correspondence from the Fourth District that he has lectured on the subject in several places. If all our Bishops will thus call the attention of the masses to this important subject they will do much towards making a successful session of whole-souled enthusiasm.

Do not our brethren see that a member of brethren have already said the same thing? Why not organize something new instead of going round and round on the "Bishop question" the "Presiding Elder Office" and the "General Offices"? Brother Strange has reference to a good subject, "The Relation of our Bishops." We believe the majority of our ministers, as well as a majority of our Bishops, consulting the interest of the connection, its unity and its growth, will agree that our Bishops should rotate. So far as the residences are concerned, the circulation or retention is more favorable to an equitable distribution of episcopal residences than is the district plan. The liability to move often is not nearly so great as that in the former plan as in the latter. The presiding eldership is likely to remain throughout the remaining history of the Church. With it, the rotation of Bishops is consistent, the Bishops seem hardly needs such an aid, if the Bishop resides in his district.

THE CHURCH AND THE PEOPLE.

How often we hear these terms thus united, as if the Church were not the people, so far as "people" refers to church members. The tyranny, the oppression, the outrage, the taxation of the people by the Church are frequent and choice expressions of dissatisfied and disloyal members. You are the Church, brethren. Hot you reply, no, we don't make the laws. Yes, but you do. The balance of power in our General Conference is held by the laity. They can modify or prevent any legislation concerning which there is a considerable division in the ministry. It is possible for the laity to have more than one hundred delegates in the next General Conference. Thus far they have elected once hot very able men, so far as we have learned. P. P. Main and D. P. Hindley represent the Fifth Episcopal Conference; F. Savage and J. Holden the New York Conference; W. H. S. Seals and Nathaniel Dyson the Illinois Conference; and J. P. Shorter and W. S. Thomas the Ohio Conference. All this class of brethren coo be secured by all the conferences, the laity will be quite equal to the ministry, uno for man Hot the obligation of every member to be subject to the law of the Church is sufficient to keep every man in the line of duty. Now and then a thoughtless member, who dotes on his obligation to pay all the dues and assessments all the heretofore connection, says, "I don't care anything about the law." That truth is out. He would result it, but it has past and is recorded. In this sense way ministers sometimes say in their government, "I can't help the law; I am a law oote myself" All this means desrnotism of cur organization; leaving the matter only a question of time.

The loyal minister and the loyal laymen have much to do to hold the Church in the proper line. Men who talk about the Church of to-day being more oppressive than the Church of former times are simply ignorant. Those who think that there is less tendency on the part of men to loyalty to the Church than there was formerly, that the little flights of such men as Sabine, Ilyseyath and McGlynn are instances of an uprising against church government, peculiar to the present times, show an ignorance of church history or as evil inclination to stir up discussion among those who do not know anything of church history. The fact is that never, since the solidifying of Christianity into organization, has there been comparatively a greater unanimity than at present. True, there is questioning on all sides. This fact has marked the formation of religious, dogmatism and organism always. If there are indications in this Church or that Church of disintegration, it must be remembered that the very fanaticism of "this or that church" is to be found in the very conditions in some other church that are complained of in "this or that church." The spread of the church has resulted largely upon this very unreasonable and dissatisfactle.

OUR CENTENNIAL.

The time for preparation for the Centennial is very short; the cause is of great interest. The general Conference to push the matter from this time forward, throughout the summer and fall, closing with November.

The prime object is that the Church at large may take advantage of the feelings that the occasion is calculated to inspire. The hundred years that have passed since Richard Allen determined to establish a society where the colored people might worship as they felt inspired by Christ lanity should not be prevented from legitimate action by the simple incidents of the color or previous condition, have been years of great change. These changes have not yet made it certain that the African Methodist Church is not needed, nor that its formation and development were mistaken. Instead of preventing progress among the colored people it has been the greatest promoter of that fact. There may every now and then be seen in papers, promoting the idea of the half association of the two races in church government, insinuation that the African Methodist Church is one of the great hindrances to race union in churches. The truth is, the African Methodist Church is a promoter of the very best spirit of An rieans on this subject. It makes no distinction between, no previsions for, a particular race, exclusively, but, seeing that all hat e very few of its members are separated from the masses of such distinctions and provisions, it moves upon a catholic and reasonable basis. Certainly the ground upon which the A. M. E. Church stands is a Christian one as that of any one of the white Church. The allegations of some very prominent Methodist Episcopalians to the contrary is no indication that they mean to consider our organization in the light of fairness and reason. An "appeal to the records" will send him the falseness of their charges and disclover, some other cause than the desire to promote good and peace, actuating them.

African Methodism has achieved a victory over the contemptible prejudice that existed between Christians and Just as they left their native State seeking to live on less expense of scarcity than is possible in a free citizenship, are willing to go to Africa to try it there.

Mr. Coppinger's argument is continued thus: "They feel that they are not a part of the dominant race and that they are not properly recognised socially and politically by the whites and never will be." The first member of this interesting sentence seems to little, forgoing to Africa will not constitute them "a part of the dominant race." It will do as much toward it as going anywhere else, perhaps. The dominant race is not composed of sponge and feeling, but of muscle and mental energy. To become a part of it is to take on its qualities. This only. It is not made of color nor physical contour, but of inner energies. These make the proper colored physical contour; but of inner energies. These make the proper colored physical contour; but of inner energies. These make the proper colored physical contour;

The University of Kings College, Windsor, Nova Scotia, is the oldest of all the British North American colleges. The royal charter under which it was founded in 1788 explicitly provides that its academical beliefs shall be the same as those of the University of Oxford. And no oconcie is confected every year with all the pomp and circumstance of an Oxford encenia. The Rev. Dr. Isaac Brock, Dean, is the president.

The feature of the Fourth of July celebration at Norwood, N. J., was the presence of Mr. William Whitley, a native of Stanley County. He was born in 1775, and in 1808, when 33 years old he married his wife, who lived until 1881, when she died, aged 101 years. Uncle Billy began as a waiter, and on the platform and was orated over, and closed the exercises by firing off an old flintlock musket that had been carried in the Revolutionary war.

A friend of Sir Edward Landseer, who accompanied him to Kensington Museum on the first occasion of his exhibition of his gallery, relates that Landseer stopped short before his large picture, "A Walk to Waterloo." "I must have remodeled" said he, "when I painted that." And waiting up to the address he placed his hand over the part which a bracket hid his cribbum. An attendant policeman shouted his polite caution—"Now, then, take your hands off there!" "My good man," said Sir Edwin, "I am particularly remarking how bad that was!" "Then why don't you go and do it right?" said the policeman, he bet no idea to whom he was speaking. "Quite right, quite right! I am ashamed of it," returned Sir Edwin.

Joseph Garraux, of Harley, Idaho, has lost been notified from Washington that his claim for pension was allowed. He claimed back pension from 1865 to 1868, a period of thirty-one years. He was a private in the war of the rebellion as a lieutenant in the 2d California Cavalry. he expects to get quite an additional sum. The allowance to him and to his wife secure him over $10 000, and when his other claims for commutation of pension are adjudicated, he expects to receive $15,000 to $20 000 more.

PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 4, 1887.

THERE is no reason to doubt that our next General Conference will be an improvement on our last in point of order and wisdom.

DR. W. D. JOHNSON called at the RECORDER office, on his way home from Atlantic City. He is hopeful of great results from the next Endowment Day.

IT MAY REQUIRE considerable effort to keep cool now with the thermometer at 105 and the General Conference at 1888. Yet with ice and honest purpose the end may be obtained.

THE North Ohio Conference failed to appear in the calendar last week, because it was received from the manuscript for awarded by the good secretary of the Board of Bishops. It will be found in place this week.

SOME correspondents to certain contemporaries seem to forget that they are not writing to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, hence refer to this paper as though it could hear what they say to another. Can't always do it, brethren.

WE mean glad to read in the South-ern Recorder of the proceedings of the Ohio Conference, which seems to have been a very pleasant affair. Bishop Brown and Dr. Derrick were present. Their visit was altogether pleasantly and thankfully received.

NEITHER orators nor writers can expect to crowd too unreasonable lies down the throats of the masses. It is remarkable how bold they sometimes become in their efforts in this direction; as if there were to come a time when these things should all be tested before the great Judge.

A HEARTY invitation from Bishop Wayman to attend the memorial service of our late and beloved Bishop Shorter, to be held at Wayman's Grove yesterday, could not be complied with, owing to previous business engagements. The oration was delivered by Bishop J. P. Campbell. It was doubtless worthy of the man in whose honor and love it was delivered as well as the good orator himself.

"WOMAN ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise," is not so true as it is old. It is a pity for men to be unwise, though their foolishness is a source of pleasure to them. At this time we are suffering much because of our inexperience and lack of observation. A man says, "I know this or that." So he does, but he may not know it as he might. His ignorance often creates arrogance, as well as bliss.

WHAT MAY be said to enlist our readers in the sail of Wilberforce University? Cannot her alumni and undergraduates show themselves worthy of the noble work done by our fathers in founding and perpetuating Wilberforce for our benefit by making up a purse of one thousand dollars to help the university through its temporary peril? The best institutions in the land have had their wants and have been elevated to their present standing largely by the efforts of those whom they have trained. There are times when we must make efforts. Will not the students of Wilberforce University come to the relief of their alma mater at once?

DR. GAINES, en route from Atlantic City, called in for a few minutes. The Doctor does not think the Glean bill, now before the legislature of his State, making it a penal offense to educate white and colored together, will pass. The Doctor thinks the good men of the State have too much influence to allow it to become a law. He also thinks that the colored men of the State could use the $9,000 appropriated, as the education of colored children would be of more service in ten years than white men's management of the same funds would do in thirty years, in that colored men would be educated in the management itself as well as the children.

SOUTH CAROLINA allow a little colored child of twelve years, who killed a white baby, to be hanged in accordance with the announcement of the court, she would say the climax of wrong and outrage upon the negro race. She would demonstrate the fact that what the white men of that State want is not the reformation and security of the negro in her jurisdiction, but his degradation and final extinction. It was a bad hearted child that cruelly took the life of her ward, an infant, because she was determined not to nurse it; a child that should be placed in a reformatory. The wonder is, however, that, with the lessons of brutality under which the existence of colored persons is begun and ended, they are not more heartless than they are.

SOUND THE notes of the centennial of African Methodism. Tell the children of it. Let the Sunday schools participate in the joyousness. This is the centennial of local African Methodism. Only very few of the active men and women of to-day will see the centennial of connectional African Methodism, but every one active knows, but there are thousands of our boys and girls who will be controlling men and women of that day; hence the necessity of stimulating them to make the occasion all that can be expected. To do this we must touch their young hearts now with the magnitude of the work undertaken by Bishop Allen and brought down to the present time. Besides this we must use this occasion to fix them the more strongly in the Church for the future, that they may take delight in strengthening its pillars.

FROM A REPRINT from the Wasp Day on our first page it will be seen that Paul Quinn College has an excellent character. President Burgess deserves great credit for his pluck and persistence, prudence and progress. The members of the Texas Conference alone have managed this institution and have done it very well, judging from their report. Their catalogue shows a curriculum capable of making good scholars and a department capable of making good men and women. In undertaking to erect a new building Paul Quinn should receive aid to the extent of not less than fifteen or twenty thousand dollars from our connection. This cannot be done by taxation and appropriation, but it can be done by consideration and application. There are several members of our Church who can give from $10 to $100 to Paul Quinn this year. Education in Texas is of great worth to men everywhere. We must not think of the matter as State education, but as the education of men. God bless the work. Men, aid the work.

BISHOP Ward and Turner spent a few days in Cape May, and Bishop Payne and Campbell a few in Atlantic City, after the adjournment of the council. Bishop Disney was not at the council. The joint meeting of the Bishops of the two Churches seems not to have taken place, Bishop Jones being the only representative of his Church who was present. The meeting was made unusually interesting by the presence of all the General Officers except the editor of the RECORDER, Dr. Derrick, Revs. L. J. Coppin, J. W. Bozeman, W. J. Gaines, C. T. Shaffer, J. A. Johnson, J. B. Stansberry and perhaps others connected with the connectional boards. While there, Dr. Smith was again prostrated upon his bed by the malignant fever that has affected him for several months, but out of whose clutches we had hoped he was about resoned. At this writing, July 29th, it is said he may be improving. Surely the prayer of the Church will be offered in his behalf, that the Lord will spare this useful minister, who, by human calculation, has just entered upon his life work in earnest and has been most brilliant and successful.

The General Officers, having the responsibility of money and large business transactions committed to them, reported to the council of Bishops, who reviewed their work generally; that they might act out on the fourth year of this quadrennium thoroughly furnished. The Departments are said to be in fine condition. The Sunday School Union seems to stand "up head." No doubt the visit to Hayti rendered the Missionary Secretary's report especially interesting. The Business Manager's report must be considered among the subjects for congratulation. Though our publishing interests are not overburdened, we are growing. The Review has made a real success. The future cannot score for it a failure on the ground of lack of proper foundation. If the management succeed as well in the fourth year as it has in the first three of its existence, the A. M. E. Review will be reported to the next General Conference as a business very nearly, if not quite, self-supporting.

GEORGIA'S EDUCATION LAW.

MR. Glenn has presented to the Georgia Legislature a bill making it a penal offence for any teacher in the State to teach a white child and a colored child in the same school, making the penalty imprisonment and a heavy fine. The reason for such a law, which Mr. Glenn reported as giving to a reporter, are so foolish as the law is slaveocratic. Mr. Glenn must have it in mind that the old days of salvery still exist and that the entire strength of the South, or a pore, must be bent towards the subjection of the negro. The bill has been reported to the house by the committee to which it was referred and will probably become a law, though Dr. Gaines, one of the wide-awake men of the State, thinks there are too many good, sensible men in Georgia to allow it. He thinks the State of Georgia would do wisely in arranging to have the control of the $8,000 appropriated to the education of colored persons in the hands of colored men; as it would have the twofold influence of educating the colored children and impress the whole people of the State with the ability of the negro to discharge responsible trusts.

OUR COMING CENTENNIAL.

This is the only opportunity that the most of those on the active stage of African Methodism will have to celebrate the centennial of a united organization of colored men. There are but few institutions that have existed one hundred years in the bands of colored Americans. Many think the colored race incapable of organizing for long continued activity. We are said to lack that ingredient of character that boldly men a long while to every one of these feats and to many not here mentioned. There is also a soul in and including the general fact, Nation. Soul prespposes morality. Is it not a question whether this forming nation is not suffering in respect to its soul; whether morality is keeping pace with development in other respects; whether the goodness of to-day is equal to that of one hundred years ago, proportionally? If not, the wither side of the elements of our success may be be'd responsible; the conglomeration of our race-varieties and social relations, the prosperity that has attended our efforts, the prosperity that has attended our powerful arguments that could be adduced in favor of the worth of the negro to the world; for, if he is capable of such fidelity to right principles and progress to morals as the A. M. E. Church shows, in these circumstances, what may not be expected of him when more highly enlightened? It is considerations of this kind that should cause every African Methodist to enter largely into the rejoicings of our centennial. Our present status is a glorious foundation for building by the next generation; therefore the young as well as the old may enter into the spirit of a grand jubilee.

QUERIES.

1. Can a man who is not a Christian and who has no connection with any church be elected to the Conference, take seat in the Electoral Colleges as a proxy? 2. Is the election of such a person as a lay delegate to the General Conferences by the Electoral College legal? 3. If not, what steps should be taken to depose him?

Please answer and oblige
A SUBSCRIBER.

Doubtless Subscriber has been misinformed; the Ohio Conference Electoral College can scarcely have committed so gross an error and outrage as to initiate.

In an electoral college of the A. M. E. Church every member must derive his qualification immediately from an election by the members of a circuit or station. No college, conference or board provided for by our Discipline admits of proxy representation; i. e., neither official board, quarterly conference, annual conference nor General Conference; the boards representing general departments nor the electoral college. These bodies are composed of persons authorized especially to attend to the business for which they have been instituted. Any man who has not been a member of the A. M. E. Church four consecutive years (next) preceding the General Conference session is disqualified for election as delegate to that Conference. If an electoral college is sufficiently unwise to elect any such person, the annual conference to which his name goes for confirmation will be too wise to confirm his election by giving him credentials. Should it fail, however, to check him in his mad career, he could not be seated in the General Conference. But, as said above, there is little doubt that Subscriber has been misinformed concerning the action of the Ohio Conference Electoral College. The gentlemen elected would hardly have accepted honors conferred illegally. There was evidently a sufficient number of ordinary present to see that the proceedings were legal. The college sat in St. Paul's church, Columbus, where the scholarly Dr. T. A. Thompson is pastor, and where, other scholarly ministers were.

THE UNITED STATES PROSPERITY.

It requires no argument to establish the phenomenal success of the United States; for it is written on the business transactions of her citizens, the combined commercial representation of that business; her vast area of highly cultivated fields; her mammoth cities; her wonderful economy; her cities, beautiful homes; her cultured minds, her extensive literature, her ample schools and her easy and honored international relations. In hopefulness her broad, unbroken prairies, her enlarged mines, her growing forests and her struggling energies are abundant. No man worthy of the title man, can look about him here without pronouncing this a goodly heritage. The most hopeful of those who drafted the constitution could not have imagined the success that has attended the thrift and patience of the brave people settled here. The side to this success has not been confined to any one class, but have flowed together from many sources, like the thousand streams that make the mighty ocean.

It is no uncommon error to bear that the people of this country are "a chosen people." This is the grand mistake. It is the brother of ease and the beautiful but is not immortal. It is the parent of carelessness and companion of wealth."

Let us have it. Self-exuberance is an enemy, cruel and frantic dooms that generally redoces its followers to decrease, dependency and debt that will fetter with iron its environments. A sound economy is a sound understanding brought into action. Therefore let us better understand each other by sending not only certain men, but the best men to the next General Conference; curtail the expenses and we will be sure to understand each other. We like the doctrine of proportion reduced to practice. To the poor, economy is indispensable, and thus our Church is poor. Wisdom and economical means, economy is the representative of wisdom. We don't like to undervalue ourselves, for we believe that that would be downright sinfulness, nor would we like to overrate ourselves, for that would be extravagance, of the which we fear is our trouble.

We can not consider well the source from whence we are to obtain the means to support and keep so many different departments, and then reckon from that standpoint. We want to see every general department flourish, and if possible have sufficient means in many of them comfortable and happy. But don't be deceived, brethren, at the expense of the above brethren's sufferings. In short, as we have said, economy appears to induce the exercise of almost every grace and is a strict regard to honesty, a laudable spirit of independence; a judicious preparer is now provided for the wants; a steady benevolence in preparing for the claims of the future; and as we consider well the virtues of justice, honesty, independence, prudence and benevolence.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S TEN MINUTE SERMONS.

BY REV. R. V. N TERRICK.

DOING GOOD.

"He went about doing good."—Acts, 10, 38.

What a beautiful idea these words suggest to us as we look into them—that of one coming from heaven to earth to go among us doing good. What a work is this! Oh, that the hearts of the wodrous love be felt toward us. Other men had done good before our time, but not in such a wholesale way as this. Doing good actuated by various motives; but all of which stood wide from that here before us. Our Lord's motive to take up the work that he did. While there was a great deal of good done, and pecuniary gains, he acted purely and strictly by the force of love for the spiritual, and not for wealth and glory, but for our happiness, our enjoyment of heaven at last and eternal life in the future and endless world.

Doing good. Can anything more noble be said of a man? Yes, when he begins to do, upon the true basis of unselfish love—that love which reaches out to God on the one hand, and to man on the other, he then has reached the highest peak in the sphere of manhood. He then stands in the sunlight of the great and glorious. He breathes the fresh breezes that come sweeping down the delectable hillsides of heaven, and hears the delightful music, that comes upon the spiritual chords of his soul.

Doing good. Who and where did he do it? He did good when he went to the house of the bereaved elder and spoke the thoughts from the Lord. He did good when he followed the two disciples down from the mount of transfiguration and restored their departed brother to life. He did good when he strengthened the weak limbs of the lame, and received the sight of the blind. He did good when he raised the dead from their graves, and the inmates and gave health to the sick and paralyzed. He did good when he preached truth and salvation upon the mountain top and taught the multitudes by the seaside, and to vast multitudes assembled beneath the cool shade of the groves. He did good when he fobidled the Mosaic law of works and established salvation by grace through faith.

Nothing attracted his attention more than suffering, sin enforcing and human crosses. His soul was coolian upon the sympathetic through the instrumentality of human love. He knew how to perfectly adapted itself to every human want.

Now, since that time of our Saviour's visit two thousand years have nearly elapsed. Kingdoms have fallen and kingdoms have risen, yet the same opportunities stand open to you, inviting you to come to the feet and do good. A thousand voices are calling you on every side. Your own community is filled with temporal, physical and moral wants, which are strongly enlisting your sympathies. Will you not go forth and do good, and help alleviate some of your band to help alleviate some of your burdens?

But I hear some little girl say, I can do no good; I am too little. But perhaps you have not thought that you are too little. You have several times met with a little girl upon the street, who not dressed like you. She was ragged, dirty and almost despicable. In fact, you did not even despised such creature and that you thought it was a shame that such a miserable looking child should be upon the street. But think once more upon this matter. While you despise her, she is to be pitied. She needs your sympathy; she needs your love; she needs some one to lead her in the right manner. The Lord Jesus Christ just such little creatures when he was here 2000 years ago. Are you she not do it? If the mothers at home are not, else if her father and mother did not waste their means in drunkenness. True, they do not need your sympathy and love so much the more. Speak to her kindly; show her a look of love; give her a little present and then tell her of the Lord her God and the good and the Saviour he is. Perhaps you can give her a tract, a good paper or a good little book. Take her to some Sabbath school or home. Ask her to come to the Sabbath school. Press the matter upon her, and she consents to come. See some of your friends and get them to help you further in the good work. Labor with them. Don't be satisfied merely in asking them to go, but when the next Sabbath morning comes go and bring her into the school. Let her see that you love her, and do love her for Jesus' sake. Let her see that it is Christ-like to love, and that you are not constrained to love as the Saviour, too.

Yes, I pray God that you will not be timid in doing good in this and other ways. Remember that it was the just such creatures that Jesus came to save. Just think for a moment. Within that torn, petched and dirty appears a soul—a mortal frame which, if properly cared for, will be capable of growing into a home and a living gem of society. And within that frame dwells an immortal spirit, which is loved by the great God, will become a shining star among the assembled saints of heaven. You would it not afford you a great deal of happiness to think that you were the instrumental in helping to save such a soul? Remember that all the luxuries and enjoyments that you have are what God has given you, and that his arm is almighty, able to lift up the low and put down the high. Therefore we should try to live with a humble spirit and use our means as much as lies within in our power to bless others when we can. We should also be watchful of the little opportunities that present themselves in this direction. And for every deed of kindness that we do, we will be rewarded by the Lord. Let us then go forth and do good.

Personal.

—Rev. L. Stances reports the work of our church in New Brunswick, N. J., in fine condition.

—Rev. J. H. Morgan is pushing the work of his history of the New Jersey Conference forward.

—The Electoral College of the West Texas Conference has elected Messrs. H. J. Macadoo and William Hunter lay delegates to the General Conference.

—Dr. Gaines is very hopeful of the success of Morris Brown College, under the presidency of Rev. J. W. Lee, a favorable young minister, graduate of Atlanta University.

—Dr. Tanner and the editor of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER are attending the Iowa Conference in the interest of their respective departments of the Publishing House represented by them.

—Bishop Turner spent two or three hours in the RECORDER office last week. He has had an interesting temperance campaign in Texas, having delivered twenty-five long speeches in fifteen days. The Bishop stands in the forefront of temperance lecturers.

—Rev. C. Crosby, of Wimsboro, S. C., says, "The substance," can't see the bones, good they do. I know he sold the whole truth so far as he could and the worth of a cellar as seen by the presiding elder of to-day. The intention of the offices is to open new fields, particularly on the borders of Zion, bring in new territory, etc. And so it was at first, but with us the presiding elders do now, especially down South in some of our old established conferences. They stand on Friday or Saturday mostly, unless they have a good distance. With, hold their quarterly conference, stay till Sunday service or Monday, go home and there remain till the next Saturday. The intelligent members are looking at it and they are all different. This is why the ability of the system is questioned so much. If the brethren who are appointed presiding elders would go to fields know not at the time of going to, they did, it would fully vindicate itself, with a few exceptions.

—Rev. Crosby has taken down so that they have to take their fare with other presiding elders they try to break up the Church or leave it.

—"They make it impossible for every one of the members can't be had. Presiding elders would do their work if they had the time. Please forbearance every one would want the system to be continued.

DO WE NEED ANY MORE BISHOPS?

We do not need one unless we are going to do away with the presiding elder entirely. What is the use of keeping up a whole lot of expense upon the Church simply to put certain men in position? We heard Bishop Campbell say at our last annual conference, held in Sumter, S. C., that he had assisted in holding nine conferences, generally his chief ruling class accepts these borders since they are white, and with its communism, its forgories, its robberies and its murderers, shoots it at the same time it does almost all its power to prevent the peaceable black race from a fair show in that life course.

BOOK NOTICE.

"Mulukahlie" is the odd name of one of the most interesting works on Indian work and the influence of Christianity on savage life that has been written. It is by Harry S. Willcome. The story is of the adventures and observations of Mr. William Duncan, who thirty years ago began his mission work among the Metlakahtlan Indians of British Columbia, then cannibal barbarians of the lowest type, but now a civilized community. The mode of Mr. Duncon was much after the style of William Penn, so far as honest trade with the Indians was concerned, and like Bishop Taylor so far as concerns dealing with them religiously. These are the methods that have done the most good so far. The treatment of man with respect and placing upon them moral responsibilities is not likely to fail to give them the highest moral training. The style of this work is as beautiful and happy as its contents are interesting. It contains many pages, both of wit and pathos. Price only $1.50. SAXON & Co., New York.

GENERAL CONFERENCE DELEGATES—THE PRESIDING ELDER SYSTEM—THE ELECTION OF MORE BISHOPS—GENERAL OFFICERS—ECONOMY, &C.

BY REV. H. B. WILSON.

Let us call a halt, brethren, and read the signs of the times. There is a voluminous amount of General Conference hard tacks we have had to eat. Yes, brethren, I know, I have got your work and then work out your salvation. We earnestly hope that the next annual conference will elect its delegates according to law, and not by hearsay before the Book of Discipline, page 86, section 3, paragraph 7, reads, forte, the grand signal for the spoils and pecuniary gains, be acted purely and strictly by the force of love for the purest, holiest, and for wealth and glory, but for our happiness, our enjoyment of heaven at last and eternal life in the future and endless world.

Doing good. Can anything more noble be said of a man? Yes, when he begins to do, upon the true basis of unselfish love—that love which reaches out to God on the one hand, and to man on the other, he then has reached the highest peak in the sphere of manhood. Will you not go forth and do good, and help alleviate some of your band to help alleviate some of your burdens?

But I hear some little girl say, I can do no good; I am too little. But perhaps you have not thought that you are too little. You have several times met with a little girl upon the street, she not dressed like you. She was ragged, dirty and almost despicable. In fact, you did not even despised such creature and that you thought it was a shame that such a miserable looking child should be upon the street. But think once more upon this matter. While you despise her, she is to be pitied. She needs your sympathy; she needs your love; she needs some one to lead her in the right manner. The Lord Jesus Christ just such little creatures when he was here 2000 years ago. Are you she not do it? If the mothers at home are not, else if her father and mother did not waste their means in drunkenness. True, they do not need your sympathy and love so much the more. Speak to her kindly; show her a look of love; give her a little present and then tell her of the Lord her God and the good and the Saviour he is. Perhaps you can give her a tract, a good paper or a good little book. Take her to some Sabbath school or home. Ask her to come to the Sabbath school. Press the matter upon her, and she consents to come. See some of your friends and get them to help you further in the good work. Labor with them. Don't be satisfied merely in asking them to go, but when the next Sabbath morning comes go and bring her into the school. Let her see that you love her, and do love her for Jesus' sake. Let her see that it is Christ-like to love, and that you are not constrained to love as the Saviour, too.

Yes, I pray God that you will not be timid in doing good in this and other ways. Remember that it was the just such creatures that Jesus came to save. Just think for a moment. Within that torn, petched and dirty appears a soul—a mortal frame which, if properly cared for, will be capable of growing into a home and a living gem of society. And within that frame dwells an immortal spirit, which is loved by the great God, will become a shining star among the assembled saints of heaven. You would it not afford you a great deal of happiness to think that you were the instrumental in helping to save such a soul? Remember that all the luxuries and enjoyments that you have are what God has given you, and that his arm is almighty, able to lift up the low and put down the high. Therefore we should try to live with a humble spirit and use our means as much as lies within in our power to bless others when we can. We should also be watchful of the little opportunities that present themselves in this direction. And for every deed of kindness that we do, we will be rewarded by the Lord. Let us then go forth and do good.

A VISIT FROM BISHOP BROWN.

BY J. D. PETERSON.

Our beloved Bishop John M. Brown visited Metropolis April 27th, the first Bishop of the African M. E. Church that ever visited this place. He preached on Wednesday evening and Thursday. The sermon was encouraging and rousing. The lecture was filled with interesting items in regard to the rise and progress of African Methodism. His visit and lecture will no doubt be of the standard of African Methodism to the people of this place, and for every dollar it costs us to make the visit he has fully paid. Any amount you may send will be duly appreciated by the undersigned people. We feel assured that our brethren and friends are going to aid us, but we want our brethren and friends to help us identify ourselves with them. If they will do this in a liberal way we feel perfectly satisfied that within the next three months we will have established a church in this city. Bishop Brown left on the 28th inst. for Cairo, Carr and Turner. Why don't the pastors work as before? What is the matter?

Obituary.

Nathaniel E. Davidson, infant son of Rev. J. E. Davidson, died at Lower Peach Tree, Ala., June 16, aged one year, one month and three days.

There very feet of ours are pushing by Death's awful river; the sturdiest oak which fell from his own born and pierced by the keen shaft of death. They are the arrow-messages. How can we let the world die fast, and the devil have the world to himself? Brethren, are you provided with such powers?—F. E. Honeywell.

Get to the root of things. The gold and silver are found not in the top soil; you must open a shaft; the precious ore is down deep. Men and women are up in the revival; their source, please are far down. Get down to the vitals of the work of God, and seek to possess all the sweet word of the blessed Spirit.—Sparrow.

The Bishops should always be present at each session of the Conference, and preside. In their absence the Conference should elect a presiding officer. The Conference should be opened with prayer and singing, and the Secretary should call the roll of the members, and the Presiding Elders should report the number of churches in their districts, and the number of members in each church. The Conference should then proceed to the election of a Secretary, Assistant Secretary, Statistical Secretary, Treasurer, Missionary Secretary, Sunday School Secretary, Secretary of Education, Bible Secretary, Secretary of Finance, Secretary of Temperance, Secretary of Church Extension, Secretary of Tract Society, Secretary of Church Records, Secretary of Church Property, Secretary of Church Literature, Secretary of Church Periodicals, Secretary of Church Statistics, Secretary of Church Finance, Secretary of Church Education, Secretary of Church Missions, Secretary of Church Sunday Schools, Secretary of Church Temperance, Secretary of Church Publishing, Secretary of Church Publishing Boards, Secretary of Church Publishing Boards, Secretary of Church Publishing Boards

A New York firm advertises skeleton suits. Undertakers ought to look well in them.

With the average man the pleasantest hot-weather drink is the drink some one else pays for.

It is no credit to say of a man that he is regular as a clock. To some it might imply that he moves through life on tick.

It has at last been discovered why so many Chinamen call themselves Lees. It is a name that is spelled with considerable o's.

All the waves of the ocean do not receive by the seashore as great a sensation as a pretty woman by a single wave of her handkerchief.

To the man who is hunting for an opportunity for marrying a fortune, the best man her resort is the place where the most heiresses congregate.

The cow French rules will shoot through an eight-inch brick wall. Thank goodness. A weapon that can be used against a book agent has been discovered at last.

It often happens that the men who cannot bear the call to duty when it is uttered in the ordinary tone will catch the low-cut whisper when it conveys an invitation to have a drink.

The disagreeable feeling that follows when a fly steps upon you is due to the fact that the frequent appearance of the fly in a base ball field necessitates its wearing spikes in its shoes.

A man in Mississippi has a beard over six feet in length. Americans have the reputation of being restlessly active, but the beard and hair is a striking example. What business has a man wasting six feet of time hair when thousands of women are positively pining to death for new switches.

A Pennsylvanian man tried to secure a patent for producing cool weather by plunging all the thermometers in hot water at the commencement of a hot spell, but he has given up his noble and charitable work because the unfeeling Patent Office refused to grant him papers for his invention.

It is very probable that a woman may occasionally forget that her husband does not like cabbage and cauliflower at dinners, but when she forgets to see how her back hair looks before she goes out on the street, she is no longer interested in earthly affairs.

A Cincinnati milkman who was arrested for selling thickening in milk out-thirst is highly indignant. He has been in the habit of putting in both water, but, troubled by conscience, he had reduced the quantity of water as stated.

In Japan, according to a newspaper correspondent, a man introduces his fiancée half as "my girl of a wife." The correspondent does not inform us with regard to what the wife does to the husband when she gets the chance, and we may as well make a bolder.

The young lady who, while taking her morning bath among the murmuring waves of the surf let love be stolen by a summar resorter, steps upon a crab is forced to the conclusion that the act of catching on is not wholly confined to the dode of the period.

Young man to messenger boy—What did the young lady say when you gave her the flowers? Boy—She asked me how many feller was stuck on me, an' when I told her he'd don't, went some for a button hole bouquet.

He wasan artist courting the daughter of a sea Captain. While he was whispering soft nothings in her ear in the parlor he was paralyzed by the harsh voice of the ancient mariner in a neighboring room, "Cast off that pianoter!" But she explained that her father often used nautical phrases in his sleep, and the engagement proceeded to a finish.

The toxic and alterative properties of Ayer's Sarsaparilla are just what serve to require the species and of any expectorated or fictitious certificate. The unanimity of the marvelous cures effected by the preparation are to-day living in every city and hamlet in the nation.

"Rom is a cause and must go!" shouted a frenchman in a public street. A boy said a thick voice near the door, "down with it."

"Yes, we had quite a collation; pretty good, too, most of it. Will be a while yet one dab that I couldn't make out what it was. It looked like Limen pudd'n, ree'y mixed for building purposes, and it had a chowder ice cream!" Oh, but was chocolate ice cream?"

PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 11, 1887.

THE Secretary of Education has issued his outline for Endowment Day work. It will require thought and work to realize his hopes.

CHURCH troubles usually grow out of misunderstandings. As a rule all parties see after things settle down how easily they could have been settled earlier.

IT appears that $4,000 to $6,000 is the measure of our connection in an annual simultaneous action. No departmental management comes short of the $4,000; none goes over the $6,000.

THE PEOPLE'S ADVOCATE very aptly suggests that Bishop Wayman might have found other names for the triplets that he baptised in Atlantic City than the names of our United States Presidents and political candidates. He might have called them Richard Allen, etc., but no other three names would probably have pleased the Bishop just at that moment.

YOUNG MEN will be old men after awhile; much sooner than seems to be realised in many cases. The one great accomplishment sought to be reached by every well-advised adult is, after personal success, to make the way to success easier for the next generation. It is a little more than a large majority ever succeed in doing; hence the slow progress of humanity.

IF RAY SOME heroic for the governor of Ohio, in the exultancy of a reception and ovation, to the President of the United States to "a whipped spaniel," but those who respect government and appreciate the highest objects of its existence, the governor of Ohio must appear to be acting in bad taste. Such degradations of the name of the chief officer of the nation is but sowing the seeds of anarchy.

THE SECARE of one of the Chicago boodlers from the sheriff while allowed to take a bath after condemnation to three years' imprisonment, does not reflect great credit upon that officer. The first duty appointed to impose upon the sheriffality of our people is this: that there is anything like taxation without representation in the African Methodist Episcopal Church. The coming Ecumenical Conference will remember that all the functions and all the parts of our connectional work are the creations of a General Conference composed of an equal representation from all the districts and conferences; that this fact alone makes it impossible for his intimation, if not declaration, to be correct and that the co-ordinate parts of an elective body cannot justly complain against the whole body when exercising the action of that body when they have assisted fully and in common to make that body what it is. The truth is, there is necessarily no more similarity between our Church to-day and the R. E. Church in 1844, respecting grounds for complaint or separation than there is between the horse and the hawk.

The man who attempts to make any portion of our membership believe there is oppression upon that membership more than do all acts of our transfer system, more than all the orders attending the accession of the laws of our Church. How can an honest minister of our connection attempt to make the people of any locality believe that the men whom they have sent to General Conference have been unable to attend to their interests? How can he be honestly set before the people that they have been represented in General Conference by tranquilers, chiefly?

BE CAREFUL: OBSERVE: THE TRANSFER PANIC.

Many men and would do well to take the advice given by the mother grasshopper to her reckless son, "Before you leap look carefully, before you speak, think twice." The doings of a connection that spreads over a continent cannot be measured correctly by one whose observations are confined to from one to three States. There is no complaint made in any part of our work that is not made in every part of our work. It is said in one section, "Our Bishops wouldn't take up a minister of this section and transfer him to another part of our work and give him the best appointment in the conference soon. He wouldn't dare do it; the brethren would object so strongly." A great mistake. Our Bishops dare do it and do do it, but brethren of one section complain about as strongly as those of any other section do. There are instances illustrating this all over our connection. There are prominent churches that are seldom filled by other than transfers; for many years Bellfran street, N. Y.; Wylie street, Pittsburgh; Quinn Chapel, Chicago; at present St Paul, St. Louis; Bethel, Wilmington, Del.; Union Church, Philadelphia; Charles street, Boston; Bloomington, Ill.; Harrisburg, Pa. But these are only a few of the many churches that are supplied by transfer at present and of those that have been so supplied. The attempt to show that our Bishops act differently respecting transferring ministers in any portion of the country from what they act in any other section must fail, because it has no foundation in truth. The attempt to impose this misrepresentation upon our credulous laymen and ministers who cannot know much about the matter is unworthy of the brethren who engage in it. Again, it is said that ministers transferred to certain sections of our work are always given big appointments.

To those who try to make our people believe this wish to be consistent with things as they exist, they must change this language. If they believe themselves consistent, let them seek light, in the former, on the most eminent surgeons in the city. Dr. Hunt (professor of anatomy in the Northwestern University), Dr. J. H. McGee, the surgical staff of the African Methodist, Dr. Mr. T. W. Henderson and Rev. Eckles, of the Illinois Conference. This illustration lasted till, well, it is hard to say; for I left at 12 o'clock.

On Wednesday morning Bishop Brown called conference to order. The first business was the presentation of Rev. Reynolds was made Recording Secretary; Rev. D. H. Newton, Assistant Secretary, and the widow of the late Rev J. W. Taylor, Engrossing Secretary.

The Bishop had circulated his bulletin of committees and programme of exercises some days previously; so that the organization occupied but a few minutes. I have rarely seen a conference organized in so short a time. To the afternoon session the writer was preached by Rev. C. S. Jacobs. The sermon was unpretentious, preached by an unpretentious preacher; yet it was not without good effect. Again, in the afternoon session the writer was called, in closing the meeting when it was ended, without tacking a business session to it. Rev. Dr. Rev. J. M Henderson, who occasionally preaches a good sermon, did so Thursday morning. Rev. Dr. Rev. Dr. Rev. Dr

A rich New York dry-goods merchant's son, who was entirely bald, has had the hair from a Newfoundland dog's leg transplanted to his own head and it is growing nicely.

Hot water from artesian wells is one of the looked-for boons. It is thought reasonable to suppose that hot water can be obtained almost anywhere if wells are bored deep enough, the feasibility of this source of supply being already largely demonstrated by the success of the great artesian well project at Paris.

Bill Johnson, a stage robber, now languishing in an Idaho jail, speaks despondently of the business is ended. "Stage after stage has been held up without getting a nickel, and it seems as though all the money in the country was in the hands of the bankers, the railroad managers or the express companies."

A Tennessee newspaper contains the following: "We are rejoiced to know that J. C. Hatcher, the intelligent gentleman and artist of Clifton, has secured the contract for building a plank sidewalk in front of the Gibbons block. He is a gentleman of the old school and knows a good piece of plank when he sees it."

Two skeletons dug up several months ago in a cave in the Black Hills, Dakota, appear to belong to the oldest race of which any record exists. These probably were children of the safest method of with the mammoth, and inhabited the country before the flood. They were short and thick set, with broad shoulders, supporting a long and narrow head, with an extremely low forehead.

The International Institute of Statistics has just had a convention at Rome and one of the most interesting points established is the fact that the death rate in Europe has been very much reduced during the past century. Men are living longer and are more healthy than they were one hundred years ago, and that happy result is attributed to the progress of the medical science, and especially to the sanitary precautions and measures that have been adopted everywhere.—Boston Budget.

An Arkansas editor who is smart at figures has estimated that the people of the United States could feed their families upon a mixed diet, including meats, tea and coffee, at a cost of about twenty-four cents per day for each person. Vegetarians have demonstrated the possibility of living comfortably on six sixpence or twelve cents worth of food per day. At the other extreme we find many people who habitually charge from five to ten dollars per day for three meals and by all secrets found Hall Monthly.

We sometimes spend useful time listening to a fool's talk in the hope that we may better spend in prosecuting our own.—Dr. J. L. Patton.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is designed for those who need a medicine to purify their blood. No other preparation so well meets this want. It increases the appetite and rejuvenates the whole system. Its record, for forty years, is one of continued triumph over disease.

He who does no good gets none. He who cares not for others will soon find that others care not for him.

HORSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE IS WEAK STOMACH AND DYSPEPSIA.

DR. J. C. WINANS, Madison, O., says: "I have used it in a case of the worst kind of nervous prostration, in a state of lunacy and found it an admirable remedy; also in sleeplessness where phosphorus is required."

A little 4 year old created a ripple by remarking at the table the other evening: "Our dog's dead. I'll bet the angels were scared when they saw us coming up the walk. He's awful cross to strangers."

A California judge recently granted a divorce to a husband on the ground that he was lonesome when he married. There are thousands of men in the same fix, and they ought to be divorced on the same plea.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

The Great Success

Of Ayer's Sarsaparilla is due to the fact that it meets the wants of the people, being economical to use and always reliable and effective. Its ingredients are the best, and their combination the result of profound study and skill. Thus, for all diseases originating in impure blood, Ayer's Sarsaparilla stands unrivaled.

"As a blood-purifier and general builder-up of the system," writes Mrs. Mary J. Hill, N. C., "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is unequaled. I have never found anything to equal it."

Mrs. Eliza A. Clough, Matron of the M. E. Seminary, Tilton, N. H., writes: "Every mother and nursing woman, who is suffering myself, use several bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Experience has convinced me that, as a purifier and blood-builder, it is superior to any other preparation of Sarsaparilla."

"Ayer's Sarsaparilla gives better satisfaction than any other blood medicine I handle."—Geo. W. Whitmer, Druggist, Albany, Indiana.

NOTICE.

To the ministers of the Georgia Conference: Dear brethren, you whose delegates will attend the Electoral College convention here, Aug. 17th, please notify me immediately that I may make arrangements for the bills against them. Our conference missionary convention will meet in our town, by the 18th. Aug. 18th. Brethren who are interested in the missionary cause are cordially invited to attend. I can say, get out of August, as a day of fasting, and special prayer be made for our home and foreign missions. Then let us come to the convention prepared to make a special donation for the missionary cause and try to awaken our people on this subject.

CENTENNIAL OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

EPISCOPAL ROOMS, AFRICAN M. E. CHURCH,
No. 1434 R. L. AVENUE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 6, 1887.

TO THE BISHOPS, MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH:

My Dear Brethren:—Read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" the subject-matter of circular—the "Centennial of the African Methodism." Its contents are more than a mere passing interest. Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations. Ask your father, and he will show thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee. Remember all the way which the Lord thy God led' me these hundred years in the wilderness!"

Next November will be our hundred years since Richard Allen and his noble colored people belonging to the Methodist Society of Philadelphia united together in the most solemn conideration the evils under which they labored, arising from the prejudice of their white brethren, who considered them a nuisance in the house of worship, and even pulled them off their knees, while in the act of prayer, and ordered them to the back seats." (See History of the A. M. E. Church Discipline.)

And it was then and there the most decisive act of the religious colored people in the United States, which was the mother of most, if not of the descendants of African in the world; if we except the Society of the United Brethren, or Moravians, of Tranquebar, Petico and Boyer. These men were Richard Allen, then a slave, but in a civil and political sense, went Allen, Jones, Dorsett and Absalom Jones, who became the Colossus of America; their sot was manhood, freedom; and their motto, carry the A. M. E. Church successfully recognize their action a success—a reproach to the Methodist Episcopal recognize their manhood because their acts prove it. To resist oppression in Christ and in the State is to resist and Allen are by us honored, revered and cherished. The success of the A. and his compeers is demonstrated, for it has given us the largest body of people full of interest to us as a race. Therefore be it,

Resolved, first, That the Chief Pastors of the African Methodist Episcopal Church request that next November, the date in that month be hereafter fixed, to commemorate the founding of this body, since our existence commenced, and that service be held at all our churches on or about the connection. The order of exercises to be fixed by each Conference, quarterly, quarterly or annual, as each good each Church. A general arrangement to be fixed by e committee here after appointed.

Resolved, second, As our publishers must necessarily be suffered, because of her indebtedness, that a contribution be made to the Book Concern, and that a fund be collected to be appropriated to assist in the payment of the debt resting on our Publication Department.

Adopted.

COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS:
H. M. TURNER,
T. M. D. WARD,
M. M. TOWNSEND,
R. R. DIENT,
B. W. ARNETT.

We ask co-operation. A friend to cooperate will you send to me significating your co-operation, and I will respond by addressing e note to No. 1434 R. L Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Any plan suggested by you please forward to me.

Yours fraternally,
JOHN M. BROWN, Chairman.
P. S.—Let us have a good hospitality and holiness, and that next year will be the crowning year of our Church.

"ROCK OF AGES"

"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,"
Thus they whispered the meaning;
Fell the words unconsciously
From her pallid, ghastly tongue;
Sang as sang the birds in June;
Fell the words like bright leaves down
On the current of the tune;
"Rock of Ages, cleft for me,
Let me hide myself in Thee."

"Let me hide myself in Thee."—
Feeble folded hands of prayer,
Sweet the song as song could be—
And she had no thought of care,
All the words unbeknownly
Dreaming not they each might be
On some other tips a person.

Subscribers who fail to get their papers regularly should report to their postmaster at once, and then to Postal Card for observation. All acknowledgments with the date of the month of Remittance received before the 15th will be mailed to the first of the current month. After the 15th, to the first of the month following. All correspondents are agents for the paper.

NOTICE.—All questions and business pertaining to advertisements must be in the RECORDER, and re-mittances for subscriptions, etc., by the 15th of each month to addressed to Rev. J. C. EMBRY, Business Manager; not to the editor. There is no part of the business of this establishment that requires him to be sent to the editor; nor communications for the RECORDER, to the Manager. Always write the exact shipping address of the paper, inserting the name of the Post Office, County and State. The Manager can do no business with the editor, and will do nothing for articles for publication, or letters pertaining thereto, should be addressed to the editor, and they to him exclusively.

PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 13, 1887.

THE YELLOW fever still continues at Key West, Fla., but has not extended beyond there.

THE SCHOOLS of our Church will all open within the next two months. It is to the interest of every minister to assist in making the opening large.

THERE is considerable uneasiness in the money markets now. Some wise men think that there may be an extraordinary financial pressure in this country next fall and winter.

IF ANY ONE of our readers has lost a friend, otherwise than by death, we advise him not to give up searching for him till failure is ascertained, for one meets in this great city some one from nearly every town he has known.

THE ELECTION of delegates to the General Conference requires much care. In the Iowa Conference it transpires that three separate obrobnes, not connected as a circuit, all united in choosing the same delegate to represent them in the electoral college.

WE ARE GETTING into our connection a splendid class of young men; so may be seen apparent everywhere. The ambition of these young men is equal to that of their fathers. Their piety being equal, it is required that they be as wise in their day and generation.

IT IS PLAIN that our itinerant ministry has increased by nearly one-third since 1884 in many sections. This will swell our General Conference. In 1884 it was large. It may be found advisable in 1888 to enlarge the basis of representation from twenty to twenty-five.

THE MEADOR revenue to the general funds in the Iowa Conference this year, owing to the conference having been called two or three weeks earlier than usual and on but two weeks' notice, shows how serious is the mistake of many more than half our ministers in delaying their conference collections till the last weeks of the year.

THE IOWA CONFERENCE of this year voted its percentage of Educational Money to Brown University, at Quindaro, Kans., a law note itself." Thus the generous spirit with which our educational system began is narrowed to suit the notions of individual conferences. With such exception of law we can hardly expect to succeed in raising the system or department of any service, further than to arrange the statistics of the department.

THE IOWA Conference spent several hours electing delegates to General Conference. On the first ballot Rev. W. J. Lawe was elected. After that seven straight ballots were cast, resulting in the election of Revs. W. R. Knight and A. J. Burton as second and third principals, and Revs. T. W. Henderson, C. B. Jacobs and W. C. Pervis as alternates. Lawe, Knight and Burton are competent to sustain the reputation made by the delegates of their youthful conference in 1884.

A FEW DAYS ago it was thought that M. Boulanger and M. Forry, two of the most prominent citizens of France, were coming together in deadly combat to settle differences by "the code," but, fortunately, the danger seems past and the great champion of France's honor before the German empire remains as popular as ever. It is a matter of congratulation that appeal to "the code" is thus shown not to be the only means of settling personal outrage even in impetuous France.

IF SEVERAL churches out united in one circuit may be represented in an electoral college by one and the same man, why may not all the churches of a given conference authorize a single individual to represent them, thus saving expense? Of course he would cost all the votes for himself. So would the delegate who represents two or more churches be likely to do. To admit a delegate thus elected to the General Conference would be to establish a precedent calculated to subvert the spirit of the law relative to lay representation.

AN INTERESTING episode in the Iowa Conference was the presentation of a beautiful gold headed cane by D. H. Williams, M. D., to Right Rev. John M. Brown, as an instance of the Doctor's high appreciation of the Bishop. The presentation speech was very neat and eloquent. The Bishop made an appropriate response in acknowledgement of the Doctor's generous consideration of himself, saying, in the future when the rheumatism seizes his frame, he will lean upon the physician's cane, hoping, by pleasant recollections of the Doctor, to draw some relief. Brief addresses were made by Drs. B. T. Tanner and B. F. Lee.

OUR OF the regular correspondents to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER writes that he will publish certain facts in the Southern Recorder if they are not published in the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, but he is probably mistaken. While the two papers enter into controversy, occasionally, editor Turner and editor Lee understand one another. The Southern Recorder will no sooner publish an unreasonable blut at orseling division in the A. M. E. Church than will the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. Such talk will find no place in any paper edited by a loyal African Methodist preacher. There can be found no cause for the publication of such thoughts. The organ of the Church will not be their medium. If there were any grave reasons for their dissemination the case would be quite different.

THE GRAVE of Rev. William Bradwell, of the Alabama Conference, is announced in the Southern Recorder. Brother Bradwell has been a faithful minister in our Church. He has done much work in Alabama. He was brave and strong, true and good, cheerful and hopeful. In the late session of his conference, when delegate to the General Conference were being elected, he said he did not wish to go; he had had his day and wanted to see the younger men go. No one who has attended the General Conferences since 1868 can forget William Bradwell. He was well beloved by all his acquaintances. Like our late Bishop of blessed memory, he was stern, positive and reliable. In his departure a very useful minister has left us. The solemn question comes to those whom he has left, "Shall we be sufficient for these things?" Rev. Bradwell was the brother of Rev. C. L. Bradwell, ex-traveling agent for the Book Concern.

NO OTHER subject is emphasized in Bishop Brown's conferences more than the centennial of African Methodism. Every minister is instructed to prepare for a rousing jubilee, and what makes it doubly interesting to this department is the fact that the Bishop lays quite as much stress on relieving the Book Concern from its indebtedness as upon the necessity of rejoicing and thanksgiving. The early fall conferences may do much towards making the centennial successful. There will be twenty or more conferences before the close of November. Will the Bishops and pastors think and act enthusiastically with reference to the centennial exercises and the centennial relief for the Publishing House?

IT is reasonable to believe that a strong effort made now will relieve the Church from all future ears for the work of this department further than to throw into its hands all the business created in the connection, instead of helping to support so many other publishing houses, as we are doing now. We expect all who are in sympathy with the connection to aid in making the centennial fund at least $10,000.

THE ARTICLE of Dr. Mitchell's is tried in spirit and may be kindly answered. The reference of the CHRISTIAN RECORDER to the Fifth District Court of Fourth was intended related to the facts that said Fourth District must have raised more money in the endowment effort than has been reported, is said to have a school in action within its boundaries, and said school would not to have any place in the Secretary's report, made the inference that educational moneys raised in the Fourth District did not find their way into the treasury proceeds of which by the General Conference, but did possibly find its way to the school in its own territory The CHRISTIAN RECORDER, having noticed that our conference in said Fourth District had voted the educational money in other direction than the General Conference ordered, suggested a year ago that it might be well for the secretary of the First District to obviate the difficulty by taking official recognition of the school within the Fourth District. This suggestion was made because it is a misfortune for the district to be so poorly represented in the secretary's report; seeing that the conference minutes show that it has raised much more money than this report indicates.

RECENTLY Senator Reagan, of Texas, has rebuked Jefferson Davis because the latter expressed himself unfavorable to prohibition, Mr. Reagan is one of the most prominent advocates of that reform in his great State. It may be remembered that Mr. Reagan has been used to advising the old chief, he having been a member of the Confederate Cabinet and the only one who remained in that uncomfortable position till Mr. Davis had no further need of a cabinet. When his other strong men forsook him Mr. Reagan was faithful. How unfortunate that he cannot now aid his former lieutenant. This calls to mind an interesting occurrence in the late prohibition campaign in Texas: At a great mass-meeting—a meeting of twenty or thirty thousand, who, though they drank no strong drink, "barbecued" nearly three quarters of a hundred sheep and bullocks, Senator Reagan being chairman of the day and our own Bishop Turner chief orator of the day, Mr. Reagan introduced Bishop Turner as "the most popular orator in the prohibition field." This brought the curl of derision to the chief editor of the town, who declared the only thing lacking to make him the greatest of all the race that Davis and Reagan had so stently and bravely held in bondage as the most inferior of all, was for Mr. Davis himself to endorse Mr. Reagan's statement that Bishop Turner is the lion prohibition orator. May it not be that this bit of sectional acreson has reached the ears of the ex-chieftain and impelled him to say that he cannot favor prohibition? If his disfavor proves as fruitless as did his disfavor of prohibiting slavery, good men will rejoice.

THE ADDRESS of the presiding Bishop of the Iowa Conference to the probationers and full members received was one of the most thoughtful and correct that could be given. He dealt long upon the all-important subject of the marriage relation, and some down on bigamy with lesser-iful force. Among other things he remarked that no Bishop in our Church would allow a minister to exercise the pastoral functions who had married a divorced woman. He should do the same. Many of our episcopacy on this subject; but what about pastors who have more wives living than the law allows? Doubtless the Bishops would discontinue these for the sake of peace and the good name of society. This question seems to remain somewhat unsettled.

THE idea that after a divorced remarried minister has suffered expulsion four years he may be duly received and placed in the acting pastorate of our Church, the same as when expelled for other sin, appears to find a small place among our chief pastors. The subject is somewhat delicate, owing to several important historical facts, but ought not on this account to be ignored by our General Conference and our bigher councils. It is reasonable to infer that a minister of a kind is a living, inspiring encouragement to divorce among both laymen and ministers, very often a direct teacher of the doctrine, "I believe if you can't get along with a woman, you'd better leave her;" a doctrine most injurious to a people of our grade of intelligence and self-protection. A living embodiment of the belief that one

A recent act of Congress gave Gen. Sherman a Secretary. The population of the United States is growing so rapidly that old Tecumseh found it impossible to kiss all the ladies in the land without an assistant.

Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all of the old ones renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Send us 50 Cents and we will enroll your name in a special book kept for the purpose and will send you the paper for sixty days; then send us 75 cents, and two months after 50 cents, and two months later 75 cents more. Total, $2.00.

All our Pastors

are Agents for the RECORDER, and are hereby authorized to present this prospectus to their people and receive their enrollment fee (50 cents), and give their receipt for the same. Now, We will send the blank slips of receipts to all who will act for us in this matter.]

On this Plan

we give full six months for paying the subscription.

"Pastor's Memorandum Book," by Rev. C. T. Shaffer. Price, 45 cents, no discount. An excellent book.

J. C. EMBRY, Manager.

TO SECRETARIES OF CONFERENCES.

DEAR BRETHREN:—Many thanks for favor. Please send me a copy of your last conference minutes.

Yours truly,
W. D. JOHNSON,
Secretary of Education, Box 263, Atlanta, Ga.

Hair Neglected

Soon becomes dry, harsh, coarse, and full of dandruff; it loses vitality and turns prematurely gray, or falls out rapidly and threatens early baldness. A careful dressing daily with Ayer's Hair Vigor—the best preparation for the purpose—will preserve the hair in all its luxuriance and beauty to a good old age.

"My hair was faded and dry," writes Mabel C. Hardy, of Delaware, Ill., "but after using only half a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor it became luxuriant and glossy. I cannot express the gratitude I feel."

Frederick P. Coggeshall, Rockwaller, 51 Merrimack St., Lowell, Mass., writes: "Some six or seven years ago my hair had a severe illness, in consequence of which the lustrous silver-colored hair I had been proud of began to wilt. A few applications of Ayer's Hair Vigor to the scalp, and, after using about half a bottle, a good growth of hair started all over her head. The hair is now fine, soft, and of a dark brown, and growing freely. The result is a great satisfaction and proof of the merit of your admirable preparation."

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL WHO HAVE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS WITH THIS DEPARTMENT.

READ, BE-READ AND REMEMBER.

1st. We do not take postage stamps. If you cannot obtain a Post Office Order, or Draft, in the safest method to send money, you can send by registered letter. Letters are registered at any Post office in the United States. If your postmaster insists on your stamping your letter, insist the more on having him register your letter.

2nd. Send the exact amount of money required to pay for the goods you order. When this is left to us we are liable to send that amount of supplies which the money at our rates will pay for.

3rd. When you order from us, always write plainly at the bottom or your letter the name of the town you wish your supplies sent. Very often persons write but a part of their P. O. address, and then, desiring it sent to some other place, and do not mention this very important item, anxiously await their names. A postal card will serve for this purpose. Hoping that the above instructions will be received with the kindly spirit with which they are given, and praying the blessings of Almighty God upon all those who are, with us, interested with the children's welfare. Fraternally,

NOTICE.

To the ministers of the Georgia Conference: Brethren, you whose charges will attend the Electoral College convention here, Aug. 17th, please notify me (as immediately) that I may make arrangements to take care of them. Our present Conference year convention will convene here, in Payne's Chapel, Aug. 18th. Brethren who are interested in the missionary cause are cordially invited to attend. I also suggest that we institute Friday, the 19th of August, as a day of fasting, and special prayer be made for our home and foreign missions. Then let us come to the convention prepared to make a special donation for the missionary cause and try to awaken our people on this subject.

I am yours,

PHILADELPHIA, AUGUST 25, 1887.

TRUTH is not only stronger than fiction, but it is better than fiction. It is one of the evils of our times that its superior worth is not known. Truth is the corner-stone of civilization, the bulwark of society.

PATIENCE and considerateness will save men from many lacerticable difficulties. Our Church law is not exceedingly complex. Failures to act in accord among our chiefs ought to secure consistent execution of every law made by our last General Conference.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH, Cleveland, O., held memorial services relative to Bishop Shorter on July 31. Memorial resolutions have also been passed at Mt. Varnon, O., and at Birmingham, Ala. At Newport, Ark., elaborate memorial services have been held. The good and true man had a friend in nearly every acquaintance

IT SEEMS to be difficult to tell just where our people stand as a people. The great South is closing up against as more and more. In the great North opening to us more and more! We look up: the heavens smile. We look down, the earth answers to our impressions and our investigations just as they do to say other minds. We are doing just about like other people around us.

AT NO PERIOD in the railroad history of our country has there been a greater number of appalling accidents than the present. One hardly has time to compose the excitement of one horrid story of death and destruction until another blood-curdling is told. Last week in the West, this week in the East.

In God judging and punishing the Nation through these calamities for his sins and public corruption? If so, it must be said as of old, "The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether."

WE are going the rounds of the colored press the remark of the Manager of this paper, that seven to nine hundred dollars per month is required to meet the expenses of his business. This is seemingly quoted by some with surprise, and the remark that a good many of the colored papers do not receive that amount for a year. This we confess is a little surprising to us. How any paper can be made at all for seventy-five dollars per month, that has any circulation, is a mystery, and more so still when we remember that they are rated at $1.50 to $2.00 per year, the name of which is efficiently described of this by the difficulty of receipts (!) with the B. M. E. Church, where almost every consideration of interest, of reason and of right seemed to favor the movement. Yet from '80 to '88 are required to consummate the work, if then; and, indeed, even at best, many ministers, members and churches will be found outside the united pale. It is all very well to speak because we demanded his rights on the corn. Georgia has made it a penal offence for a teacher to instruct children of the two races together. Slowly the spell is being driven about us in the "New South." The tendency of the white men of the North and South seems to be to leave this matter to the States; only here and there a demurrer. Never has the condition of our people in the South—indeed, in the whole country—been more perilous than now.

Is our condition hopeless? No, but it is not very assuring. There is a peak in the way of overcoming the difficulty. It is not by the ordinary methods of moo; it is by the acquisition of moral excellence. The powers gained thus are threefold: the individual is made more worthy, the individual overcomes the prejudices of others and, at the same time, insures the protection of heaven. By the popular methods of reaching security it is clear that we shall not succeed.

THE PROPOSED UNION.

At the ensuing General Conference approaches the question sometimes occurs: What is the status of the proceedings looking to union of the A. M. E. and A. M. E. Zion Churches? So far as we are able to answer such a question, we can only say we do not know. Three years ago there was a spirit of dispute, a considerable amount of enthusiasm on both sides in favor of the consummation, and, at the same time, there was but little outspoken opposition. The general sentiment at the close of the meeting of the "high joint" commission was such that some among us of a cautious turn of mind felt that there was danger of a rush into measures which might lead to serious complications. But lately the matter is only mentioned by a layman here and there, or by outside friends of the movement. Two or three endeavors have been made to have a joint Episcopal meeting of the two Boards, but only one such meeting has thus far been held. We are persuaded that but few more appreciate the difficulty of finally solving two organic questions than the two Boards called as these. It is an easy matter to talk of, but when the actual attempt to solve comes, there will be found a multitude of real obstacles in the way. And so it is that a current of desire on both sides is deep, wide and strong these obstacles are likely to defeat the best wishes of those who favor it both in and out of the respective communions. We are sufficiently advertised of this by the difficulty of receipts (!) with the B. M. E. Church, where almost every consideration of interest, of reason and of right seemed to favor the movement. Yet from '80 to '88 are required to consummate the work, if then; and, indeed, even at best, many ministers, members and churches will be found outside the united pale. It is all very well to speak because we demanded his rights on the corn. Georgia has made it a penal offence for a teacher to instruct children of the two races together. Slowly the spell is being driven about us in the "New South." The tendency of the white men of the North and South seems to be to leave this matter to the States; only here and there a demurrer. Never has the condition of our people in the South—indeed, in the whole country—been more perilous than now.

Is our condition hopeless? No, but it is not very assuring. There is a peak in the way of overcoming the difficulty. It is not by the ordinary methods of moo; it is by the acquisition of moral excellence. The powers gained thus are threefold: the individual is made more worthy, the individual overcomes the prejudices of others and, at the same time, insures the protection of heaven. By the popular methods of reaching security it is clear that we shall not succeed.

THE PROPOSED UNION.

At the ensuing General Conference approaches the question sometimes occurs: What is the status of the proceedings looking to union of the A. M. E. and A. M. E. Zion Churches? So far as we are able to answer such a question, we can only say we do not know. Three years ago there was a spirit of dispute, a considerable amount of enthusiasm on both sides in favor of the consummation, and, at the same time, there was but little outspoken opposition. The general sentiment at the close of the meeting of the "high joint" commission was such that some among us of a cautious turn of mind felt that there was danger of a rush into measures which might lead to serious complications. But lately the matter is only mentioned by a layman here and there, or by outside friends of the movement. Two or three endeavors have been made to have a joint Episcopal meeting of the two Boards, but only one such meeting has thus far been held. We are persuaded that but few more appreciate the difficulty of finally solving two organic questions than the two Boards called as these. It is an easy matter to talk of, but when the actual attempt to solve comes, there will be found a multitude of real obstacles in the way. And so it is that a current of desire on both sides is deep, wide and strong these obstacles are likely to defeat the best wishes of those who favor it both in and out of the respective communions. We are sufficiently advertised of this by the difficulty of receipts (!) with the B. M. E. Church, where almost every consideration of interest, of reason and of right seemed to favor the movement. Yet from '80 to '88 are required to consummate the work, if then; and, indeed, even at best, many ministers, members and churches will be found outside the united pale. It is all very well to speak because we demanded his rights on the corn. Georgia has made it a penal offence for a teacher to instruct children of the two races together. Slowly the spell is being driven about us in the "New South." The tendency of the white men of the North and South seems to be to leave this matter to the States; only here and there a demurrer. Never has the condition of our people in the South—indeed, in the whole country—been more perilous than now.

Is our condition hopeless? No, but it is not very assuring. There is a peak in the way of overcoming the difficulty. THE HORSE-SHOE BEND.

All Americans know that this term designates a beautiful curve in the Pennsylvania Railroad a few miles west of Altoona, as the road ascends the mountains. When a train in rounding this curve, persons can look out of the window of one car and see other cars of the down train running almost parallel with theirs, bar to different directions; hence the name horse-shoe. Geo never ascends the Alleghanies by this graceful curve, observing the reliability of the boldness of genius and the generosities of nature, so often that he will not look out for the curve every time he passes that way. Nor will his observation ever result in only such feelings and thoughts as characterized former observations of the same phenomena. The curve is a beautiful object lesson ever leading to good. The great chasm below, between the sides of the curve and the great elevation on the outside of the shoe, appears to serve in compensatory to all the great trains to steal up the frowning mountains and shun the mocking chasm. The lake below and the green trimming of the mountain side render the scene exceedingly picturesque. There is a horse-shoe bend, and it is this that is to have especial attention here, that is not so elevating and inspiring to contemplate. It is the bend that the world is making to the horse-shoe, amounting to superstition but little less than heathenism. If the horse-shoe does not serve in thousands of cases all that the idols of the heathen do, its extensive use is hard to understand. If its frequent use is not in violation of both the word and spirit of the second commandment, the second commandment is poorly understood. Being such, it is the more outrageous because it induces the mind to worship with a degraded type. In millions of houses there are more horseshoes than Bibles placed about and the worn, rusty circle of a half or whole shoe is the object of most immediate reliance and consultation then is the living God. The practice is a disgrace to our civilization and a mocking of our religion. The "bend" is always degrading. There are many persons who worship at the shrine of a donkey's coat off shoe with all the ardor and faith that characterize the services of a Mohammedan devotee, who claim that there is "nothing in it."

THE TRANSFER SYSTEM.

It is the duty of every member of our Connection to protect the Church against all unjust charges which are made against malignors without. Our transfer system is not made an occasion for safair treatment of or unkind discrimination against any conference, member or minister. It is in our Church only, but in all those who pastorate by instinct methods, there is more or less unpleasantness caused by the transfer supply system. The people and the ministry are usually well satisfied. The greater complaint comes from the ministry. Transfers are not the subjects of attack when appointed to very poor work, but only when appointed to large charges. The trials of our Bishops are severe in respect to those appointments, notwithstanding their legitimate exercised with as much godliness as in respect to other classes of appointments. The fact is our largest appointments are probably supplied by transfers more frequently than our smaller ones all over the connection; because of the natural unsettled condition of congregations, the ecclesiastical competition and superior intellectual development in large cities. The churches of Boston, New Bedford, Providence, First Church; New York, Brooklyn, Bethel; Philadelphia, Camden, Wilmington, Del.; Harrisburg, Pittsburg, Baltimore, Washington, Portsmouth, Norfolk, Richmond, Wilmington, N. C.; Columbia, Charleston, Atlanta, Macon, Savannah, Jacksonville, Vicksburg, Natchez, Montgomery, Mobile, Selma, Memphis, Nashville, New Orleans, Galveston, Austin, Waco, San Antonio, Little Rock, St. Louis, Leavenworth, Des Moines, Chicago, Detroit, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Columbus, Louisville and Lexington are liable to be served by transferred ministers often. The reasons for this are obvious. If any minister will question our Bishops on this subject they can be satisfied that no ill is intended to be done in this exercise of their episcopal powers. If they will be dotion some disinterested persons to inquire of the people of those cities they will find that in the greater number of cases they do not regard the practice as an injustice. Nor do the people, as a rule, object to these ministers because they are transfers. In many cases they are quite as urgent upon the Bishops to send them certain transferred ministers as the Bishops are urgent to appoint such ministers. Nor will our Bishops hesitate to transfer properly prepared ministers from any given section of our work to any other given section. Nor will the people of a church of any section complain against any eligible pastor, simply because of the section whence he has come. Some foolish members may, but an able, supporting majority will not. All insinuations to the contrary are unfair, unjust, mischievous and misleading. It is comparatively easy to get any one section to pose itself as a martyr to the whole Church, but there is no necessity for it nor righteousness in it. There is no Bishop in our Church who will hesitate a moment to transfer a minister from Florida to Pennsylvania, and appoint him to Wylie Avenue, Pittsburg, or Bethel, Philadelphia, when he sees this to be his duty. While it would hurt some ministers, just as a counter transfer between the same two places would do on the other side, there would be no cause for revolt. The Bishop would no sooner have to "track down" in the one case than in the other. Our Bishops may depend upon the loyalty and good sense of the masses of our ministry overpowering and all the while. So far as the people of Bethel Church, Philadelphia, or other large churches are concerned, they would, in many cases, be too glad of such changes.

The African Methodist is the most solid nobl nit of any people entering into this conglomerate nationality. The unperservicos bls efforts of a few men to boom cannot that the world may believe there is a big fight going on will not win the attention nor the following of the masses. The people in no section of our work are going to allow these brethren to deceive nor draw them from their heritage and asylum in the grand old Church. It is plain enough to the majority that this improper firing is, though not so intentionally, simply giving away a great negro cause, under Christ, to the negro's enemies. That mean majority will hold to itself, for it is the A. M. E. Church. It is the A. M. E. Church now in a fuller, larger sense as now related than it could otherwise be but in its present constituent relation. It is as useless as it is foolish to ask the organ of the Church to publish these wrong leaders. Every wrong in the connection can be corrected in the connection. Everyone of these writers is supposed to be responsible for his share of the wrong.

THE CENTENNIAL OF AFRICAN METHODISM.

BY REV. L. J. COPPIN.

In the midst of preparation for the General Conference, which is indeed a great occasion, it is well for us to take a halt long enough to take into consideration another important event, that the last November, 1887, marks the centennial of our Church? It was in November, 1787, that our fathers withdrew from the white Methodist Episcopal Church in the city of Philadelphia, and formed the African Methodist Episcopal Church in embryo. This was the small mustard seed that became a mighty tree. Allen, Tapsico, Clayton, Durham, Cuffee, Gardner and the noble brothers who gathered with them were building better than they knew. What do we say of the aberlasce left us? How much do we love our fathers? Shall we not in November a short should go all from the colored people to general, and from the churches to each one, and attend the Episcopal Church in particular. Indeed, I rather ply the man, a member of the Church, who would not feel like shouting on such an occasion. Rev. Benj. T. Tanner, the General Manager, thinks if he has half a chance he will tramp a foot. The article is this: we should make the occasion of our Church's centennial a success. The people of the United States of America should be made to know that the colored man owns an institution a hundred years old, and that we are proud of it. Anything less than a great demonstration will be exceedingly unworthy the occasion.

Let the cry be taken up and passed all along the line. There are many noble men and women who love the race, who love freedom and manhood, who love Christianity pure and undefiled, and who therefore love the principles upon which our Church was founded. These are not found in our Church alone; there are many outside of the Church and the race who rejoice in the success of the enterprise. But it is with us to set the ball in motion. Let every man and woman among us awake to the duty of the hour, and make the celebration one of the great historic events of the nineteenth century.

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

STRATTON, ILL.

Everyone read of the terrible explosion of a magazine which came skipracking this thrifty mining Illinois city about four weeks ago. When I read of the catastrophe, I bed no thought that I should ever see Streator, but scarcely had I landed in Chicago when Rev. T. A. Clark, pastor of our church at Pontiac and Gibson City, Ill., met me and urged me to join him in camp-meeting at Stratton on the following Sunday. En route for the city Saturday, a car brakeman said, "Well, 'guess you'll have a big camp-meeting down there to-day." On receiving an affirmative response, he said, "Well, I don't see how you can have a camp-meeting there; they ain't no colored people in the town. I don't like Streator; it's a hard place, rough, rough; made up of all sorts, you know." This was not inspiring. I was boatted from the train, on arriving, and rushed on to the camp ground before I could recover my senses and forced to preach to a crowd that had swelled my audience to 1,000.

On Sunday I preached three times to the camp-ground, with from 500 to 1,000 thousand. Many of them entered into worship with a spirit that was inspiring and strengthening. A slight disturbance at the night service—talking only—was soon hushed by the power of God and order restored. Many persons had come miles to attend a colored camp meeting, and were surprised as the disturbance by the talkers. Streator is a western Tipton, Ind., and Tipton is a rural center, was Hartscratch. About twenty-two years ago, Rev. Ralph Fleming came here from Ohio and organized a society of Eastern negroes, and settled. He was a man of large spirit of the place, which now numbers 10,000 citizens. He is the pastor's predecessor of this district in Congress.

The explosion of a few weeks ago is said to have done damage to the amount of one hundred thousand dollars. When I left Streator the scene of destruction still lay in utter ruin, presenting the appearance of the destructive work of the earthquake. The facts are remarkable: the first that no fire occurred, and the second that but one life was lost, which houses fell entirely in. The magazine was blown from the hillside by a blasting. The concussion crushed nearly all the window panes in town and set the dogs to howling. Rev. R. Fischer is the most active colored man in Streator. He is a graduate of Oberlin College, and Holly, N. Mr. J. Cannon, superintendent of the Sunday school at New Haven, Conn., sends us a report of the death of Deacon Shorter: "We keenly feel the loss to our Church of Deacon James A. Shorter. Well do I remember his good counsel, given me in the year 1873, when the Rockingham Conference met in this city. We shall indeed miss him. Who will fill his place? He cannot be, he is conquered. The Church has lost a christian brave. He was the pattern Bishop, possessing much sympathy. On last Sabbath we held memorial services to his glorious memory in our church. Bishop Shorter's happy spirit has gone to meet those of Allen, Brown, Payne, Quinn, Revary, Dickerson and Calcoodeys, and others."

Rev. W. H. Coleman, Jackson, Miss., writes: "The church here is still on the upward move. We have been engaged in organizing the Daughters of Conference, with twenty-one members. We are going to work hard for the work successfully. We have just got a new lease on the church property. The deed is written and published by good men. In all we have paid $1,000 on the lease, leaving good books. The people who had good interests in their hands are very anxious that some from those that had none, but it will do no more for the present. Manager's Notes.

What we must say

now, is that we are opening a regular campaign for the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. We want two thousand new subscribers, and all the old ones to renew. Now, appreciating the dullness of the times, we have resolved to put the paper within the reach of all, adopting the installment plan.

Installment

costs a little more, but is easier because it gives more time. Hence, we make the following offer to all who desire to have the RECORDER:

Be Sure

To ask for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, if you are in need of a Blood-purifier—the only certain and reliable remedy for pimples, blotches, and all other eruptions of the skin. As an alterative,

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

after a trial of nearly half a century, is universally conceded to be the best ever discovered. It is agreeable to the taste, and, being highly concentrated, only small doses are needed.

An old lady of eighty, Mrs. Mary C. Jones, of Hopkinton, Mass., after forty years of suffering from a tumor in the blood, manifesting itself in Erysipelas and other distressing eruptions on the skin, at last began the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking ten bottles, she is now, she says, "as smooth and fair as ever."

Frank Jones, 962 Eighth ave., New York, writes: "I suffered from a humor in my blood, which showed itself in troublesome eruptions and the mastery pimples on my face, neck, etc. Ayer's Sarsaparilla effected a complete cure. I had previously tried many reputed blood-purifiers without benefit."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists. Price $1; six bottles, $5.

OFFICE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL WHO HAVE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS WITH THIS DEPARTMENT.

READ, RE-READ AND REMEMBER.

1st. We do not take postage stamps. If you cannot obtain Post Office Money Order, which is the safest method to send money, you can send by registered letter. These are issued by every post office in the United States. If your postmaster insists on selling you stamps you insists the more on having him register your letter.

2nd. Send the exact amount of money required to pay for the goods you order. What this is not done our rule is to send that amount of supplies which the money sent will pay for.

3rd. When you order from us, always write plainly at the bottom of your letter the place where you wish your supplies sent. Very often persons write us an order from one place on a circular desiring it sent to some other place, and do not mention this very important fact.

4th. For all money sent to us for Sunday school literature we send a postal card receipt, numbered. If your order is delayed, or if there is any irregularity concerning it, write to us about it, but be sure to give the number of your receipt card and the name of the person who sent the order or signed his name to it. When a pastor writes to us that his superintendent sent us money, etc., we do not know who is his superintendent unless he writes us his name. Always send the names of persons and not names of churches, schools, circuits, stations, etc.

5th. Sign your name to your communication. We cannot tell who sent a letter to us when there is no name signed to it.

6th. Write your name in large, plain letters. Avoid flourishing. It is useless and often renders obscure what would otherwise be legible writing.

7th. Never send a postal note, money order or express packages without any information accompanying it. How do we know what to do with money sent thus? Some persons write us a letter, and inclose money by sending the bills in a letter, and then write on the outside of the envelope, "Inclosed find $5 bill." Now, we do not open letters addressed to others, and we do not know what to do with money sent thus.

8th. We have lost a great deal of money by sending supplies C. O. D. because the persons whom we thus favored failed to take them from the express office. In consequence of this neglect and absolute loss which we have thereby because of it, we have decided to positively refuse to grant any more C. O. D. favors to anyone. Please do not request them.

9th. Our business is conducted on a strictly cash basis. If you are not familiar with our prices write to us when you wish to buy and we will freely quote them or send you a catalogue, price list, blank and return envelope.

10th. Always collect your money for supplies and have it appropriated for them at least two weeks before the beginning of each quarter; this will prevent much delay. Very often orders do not arrive until one-half or two-thirds of the quarter is past; in which case we have to print an extra amount of literature for the benefit of two or three persons or else lay ourselves liable to a "making over" by them.

11th. When the Teachers' and Scholars' Quarterly, the Juvenile and Gem Lesson Papers are ordered, they are rolled in one package together. The catechisms, song books, primary lessons, reward cards and other such matter are never in one wrapper. When you order both inquire for two packages at the post office.

12th. If your only has the free delivery system have your mail directed to the street and number. Unless you do this it will be returned to us while you are absent on a visit.

13th. Every pastor is hereby earnestly requested to have some one, who is permanently located in his work, elected Sunday school supply clerk, whose duty it shall be to send for all orders for his Sunday school supplies.

We hope this will be done at once by each pastor and that he will send us the name of the one elected to this office. This method of communicating with us through a person who has permanent location in a place will lessen difficulty and greatly facilitate intercourse between us and our patrons. It is hoped that this request will receive immediate attention. We have purchased new books in which to record the names of Sunday school supply clerks and we anxiously await their names. A postal card will serve for this purpose. Hoping that the above suggestions will be received with the kindly spirit with which they are given, and praying the blessing of Almighty God upon all these who are, with us, interested with the children's welfare. Fraternally,

C. S. SMITH.

IF I SHOULD DIE TO-NIGHT.

If I should die to-night,
My friends would look upon my quiet face
Before they laid it in its resting-place,
And deem that death had left it almost fair;
And, laying snow-white flowers against my hair,
Would smooth it down with tearful tenderness,
And fold my hands with lingering caress—
Poor hands, so empty and so cold to-night.

If I should die to-night,
My friends would call to mind with loving thought
Some kindly deed the icy hand had wrought,
Some gentle word the frozen lips had said,
Errands on which the willing feet had sped,
The memory of my selfishness and pride,
My hasty words, would all be put aside,
And so I should be loved and mourned to-night.

If I should die to-night,
Even hearts estranged would turn once more to me,
Recalling other days remorsefully;
The eyes that chill me with averted glance
Would look upon me as of yore, perchance,
And soften, in the old familiar way,
For who could war with dumb, unconscious clay?
So I might rest, forgiven of all to-night.

Oh, friends! I pray to-night,
Keep not your kisses for my dead, cold brow;
The way is lonely, let me feel them now;
Think gently of me; I am travel-worn,
My faltering feet are pierced with many a thorn.
Forgive, oh, hearts estranged, forgive, I plead;
When dreamless rest is mine I shall not need
The tenderness for which I long to-night.

MORE BISHOPS.

THE EPISCOPAL COMPLIMENT THAT SHOULD BE KEPT IN EXISTENCE.

Eight more Bishops added to the Board would make the complement fourteen. This number would clearly meet the demands of the extended connection. It is the only number that is adequate to the demand. The work to be done stretches from the borders of Canada to the remotest point in Florida, and from the Pacific Coast in California to the Atlantic boundary in New England. The churches which are to be supervised are counted by thousands; and the number of members by hundreds of thousands. These, for prosperity, are to be brought directly under episcopal influence. Every church and every congregation is to be made familiar with the existing heads of the Church. How can this be done? By submitting to two or three Bishops who imagine that they can do it? No. It can be done only by the elders of the connection fully comprehending the nature of the work and making provision for it.

Now, then, let us call their attention to a few ruling, stubborn facts. We will not take the extravagant computation of membership, although that would make our position still stronger, but the probable number in existence—the minimum at least—that is 200,000. All of these should be brought fully under episcopal influence by the making of such arrangements as will enable the Bishops to reach them. This can be done by cutting up the 200,000 into just so many parts as can be handled by just so many Bishops. Suppose we say that we will divide this great number of members into fourteen parts. Then it is observed that we would have 14,285 members in each episcopal district, or that each Bishop would have a district composed of three conferences and a command of all the floating members of the congregations. This would make a task that would require all his time, talent and energy to put his district in the highest state of efficiency, to make the people more spiritual, to increase the finances, to make other denominations more appreciative of the connection. This seems to be as plain as daylight. Military power in manipulating such a vast body of men would divide them into 40 parts, that each might have a general. Forty generals would be appointed that each might command 5,000 men. The expense would be an after consideration from the very fact that efficiency would be the all-important object. And this, too, must be conceded in the regulation of the Church.

There should be 14 Bishops always kept on hand. When one passes away speedily another ought to be put in his place. A mashing up of districts is a smashing up of advantages. It is in the highest degree detrimental to the connection. It breaks down that which was built up by the General Conference and makes confusion, if not a mild degree of anarchy. What would be the case in military government if, on the death of a general, there should be a smashing up of the brigade? Would it be regarded as a good thing, because of the death of a governor, to smash up a State? What good, then, can come of smashing up episcopal districts? This is a vital point, and this has been a smashing age; but the General Conference ought to see well to it that smashing is done no more. The Church cannot thrive under a smashing government, so then let every needed provision be made to keep intact all the important machinery until the time comes for it to be changed by the power that made it. Whenever districts are formed and a number of Bishops are made, common sense alone tells us that some arrangement ought to be instituted to keep them in existence during a quadrennium. The magnitude of the Church work now, in consideration of the territory and number of members embraced by it, requires us to divide it into 14 districts and to put these districts under 14 Bishops.

This accurate systemisation of the work would advance the interests of the connection to a greater extent than ever has been done by any other process. It would give us full control of all ecclesiastical mianitia conducive to the growth of all our various departments. It would place the A. M. E. Church before the world as one of the most effectually organized religious bodies in it. And this of itself would beget a higher degree of substantial respect. Loyal adhesion to the fundamental law and a prayerful study of certain subjects belonging to the Church government make the writer see clearly that such a systemisation would increase the grandeur and glory and influence of this strong organisation.

Episcopal grace communicated (as it cannot be done now because of the present limitation and confusion) to every obscure part of the connection would arouse the most indifferent followers into action. It would lay hold of all the talent that now slumbers in darkness in every nook and corner and make it contributive to the increased power of the connection. Fourteen good men in this wise ordained and commissioned to go as Episcopal heralds throughout the land would do more in one year than six could do in two.

Eight more added to the present number would be like putting an equal number of faithful horses to a team of six, staggering under a heavy load. None can fail to see this but those who are so blind that they will not see. This would make an adequate complement; and this is that upon which the General Conference should rest its decision. Without doing this there is never any meeting of demands nor bounds set to diminution. The work that is to be done may from time to time receive only partial attention, and the Bishops who are to do it may dwindle from nine down to six, and from six down to one; and then the smashing business would cease and virtual disintegration would be the consequence. Is it not high time, then, that the General Conference had comprehended this important matter and acted upon it?

It should ascertain for itself the precise number of Bishops needed; and then designate them and provide the means of keeping the designated number in existence. The course heretofore pursued has been seemingly on the assumption that a few fellows wanted to be made Bishops, and that the conference had to make them, and have that as the end of it; so that if they lived they lived, and if they died they died. Better polity, though, now needs a better conception.

We want so many districts firm, well organized and indestructible by any power ad interim. Then we want it as a recognized necessity that so many Bishops shall always be kept in office to attend to those districts. Nothing less than this can be conceded as a substantial form of government.

This would signally increase the dignity of every district. It would confirm the fact that each Bishop had at his command something more durable than even his own existence. He might die, but the charge would remain demanding his successor: and it would be known that his successor had to be elected. The Easton Diocese of the Episcopal Church in the State of Maryland some time ago lost its Bishop and remained bishopless until the meeting of the convention: a successor was then elected to the poor, uninviting position, but he declined. The convention had to meet again and elect another. It did so, and he declined. It met again and elected another, and he declined. Again, and elected another, and he declined. The next one died before he had time to decline. And in all of this there was no attempt made to cut up the diocese, or block it out of existence. It stood as the vacant charge of the venerated Bishop Lay, claiming the election of another Bishop.

Let us observe this uniformity in governments by establishing fourteen districts; and it will always be known that we must have an equal number of Bishops, and that no election is to take place unless there be a vacancy in office, or that the extension of the work has necessitated the organization of another district.

This will put an end to so much useless discussion concerning aspirations and elections. It will exalt the office more and be better for the Church in general.

Washington, D. C.

THE CLOSING WORDS FOR THE QUADRENNIUM.

BY BISHOP T. M. D. WARD.

We are entering upon a momentous and exciting era. Thirteen years more and we shall have entered upon the twentieth century. We know the wonders of the last hundred years. The triumphs of telegraphy, the wonders of electricity, the marvels of science confront us everywhere. The victories of the gospel; her banness have been kissed by every breeze.

Africa, with her dusky millions, hears the rumble of his chariot wheels while Asia waits with expectant joy the coming of the Prince of Peace; our own America has broken the iron-shod hoof of the proud oppressor while her emancipated millions chant freedom's glorious jubilee. The continent has been spanned by an iron bond and teeming cities have been planted in arid deserts and on lofty mountain slopes. The Orient shakes hands with the Occident. The alien armies have not been idle; agnosticism, deism, atheism, formalism, ritualism, libertinism, rum, pedantry, hell born caste, unbelief, the race for riches—all these vampires have been sucking up the life blood of the Church, the Nation and the race. These myrmidons of wrong still menace our civil and religious liberties.

"Judah became his sanctuary, Israel his dominion." 1787 witnessed the unfurling of the banner of religious liberty. Nearly a million of colored people are marching under that ensign to-day while the sons of Allen head and lead the column with her Payne, Wayman, Campbell, Brown, Turner, Dorney, Astwood, Tanner, Townsend, Owen, Jacobs, the Hendersons, Turners, Shaffers, the Hubbards, Grant, Armstrong, Howard, the Gaines, Saulters, Lee, Embry, Hunter, Leake; the Derricks, Copelin, Gould, Jenifer, Stringer, Green, Heard, Yeocum, Smith, Arnett; the Mitchells, Beckette, Cooper, Newton, Handy; the Johnsons, the Jeffersons, Goodlow, M. Bryant, Bedford Green, T. G. Steward, Phillips, Carolina, Weathers, Watson Miller, Parks, K. D. Brown, and a list too long to name; a line of noble men and illustrious women which stretches from the gulf to the lakes, from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

This is the centennial host. The ability of the negro to manage and direct his own religious organizations has been partially demonstrated. We as a Church are not old enough to know whether we shall hold together or not. We need more time to demonstrate this fact. We have had an amount of ignorance and a mass of poverty to handle that no other people have had and often as a result godless, ambition avarice, envy, jealousy, personal ill-will, treachery, superstition—all these formidable obstacles have met us at every turn.

Time must prove whether we can hold our people together, whether the work done by us is deep, solid and impregnable. To stand we must be built upon Christ, the Rock of Ages. Many have prophesied our downfall. They have said we have made a splendid beginning, but shall we be equal to the emergencies which shall confront us from time to time? Israel, Washington, Cape May, Newark, New Haven, Fleet Street, Norwich, Portland, Columbia, all are significant of weakness somewhere. Were not all these blunders of the most ineffaceable character, and they will be repeated if our leaders are not more rigid and exacting. We have men who could have saved all these churches. We are not to listen to selfish growlers and chronic grumblers, but save our people and the property which has been purchased by work, tears, groans, prayers and gold. Men made commanders who have never learned to follow and obey will always bring us disaster and shameful defeat. Put none but true, tried and experienced men on guard. Lincoln was not a great school ar, but he saved the nation, and with the stroke of his pen wrote the ransom of millions. Our guards must not sleep while on duty. They must "walk about Zion." The Roman Church is skillful, wise and strategic. They are cutting away our roots in many places. They don't want the old people. They pant for young blood. This church-leasing business must be stopped. The General Conference should come to the rescue and about back to this recklessness, down brakes!

Once more, and for the last time, we appeal to the Eighth District. Yours has been a splendid record, moving upwards and heavenward in all directions. What shall the harvest of '87 be? The centennial year South Carolina will do her best, I am quite sure. Shall it transcend all former years, as did Philadelphia and little New England? I think I hear the echoing, yes, from Cairo to Woodville. More souls shall be delivered from the dominion of satan, more churches, parsonages and school houses built, remodled and paid for, more books placed in our pews and our homes, and all pastors take our splendid New Ritual. We will collect a dollar from or for each member. This will increase our Missionary, Church and Educational Money. Allen, Wilberforce, Paul Quinn and Morris Brown, as well as our baby school at Little Rock, shall have our sympathy, prayers and dollars.

The new-made graves of Bishops Cain and Shorter admonish us and tell us in tones of pealing thunder, work, for the night cometh! Let the month of November roll up a glorious response for our crippled Book Concern. Strangle the debt which has clipped and broken her wings. We must purchase a good property for our Publication Department. All books published by our brethren should have the imprint of our own department. We have made it what it is.

From your swarming battalions wheel your guns in line, drum out the drumbards, liars, slanderers, hypocrites, thieves and cheats; sound the bugle note of advance and write upon your bannerhead, "The world for Christ." Rally, ye host of the living God, and roll the grand hallelujah across the century so that '97 may know that '87 lived.

P. S.—$2,000 would redeem New Haven property, worth $7,000.

CAN WE NOT SUCCEED IN HAYTI?

BY JOHN HURST.

The editorial comment in the issue of the RECORDER of March 31st ult. on the assertion of the New York Freeman relative to Mr. Mossell, the Hayti Government would prevent the A. M. E. Church from preaching the gospel successfully here. Hayti is too far advanced in the study and application of the Droit des Gens to permit the mistake of an individual to frustrate the interest of a whole society and act against the materiel, moral and religious development of a nation. Never was the sympathy of the government for the A. M. E. Church greater than it is now. Never were the prospects of having the practical, tangible support of the government in the educational department of the mission greater than now. A wise chief, an intelligent and unparalleled negro presides over the destiny of this country. He understands that the preaching of the gospel under the auspices of any church is not for its benefit, but for the welfare of the nation to which it is preached.

Bishop Campbell and Secretary Townsend's visit strengthened much that tie of deep sympathy existing between the government and the Church. During twenty minutes of private interview with the President, and an afternoon's pleasure at the friendly and sympathetic United States Minister, Mr. Tompson, in company with the Secretary of Public Worship and of State, not a word was exchanged on the question presented by the Freeman to the next General Conference. All was on the need of a Christian civilization in the country and the good wishes for the advancement of the A. M. E. Church. All that was plus a l'ordre du jour than that trifling.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH—ITS PRESIDING ELDER SYSTEM.

BY REV. A. J. KERSHAW.

No. 4.

When we examine the reasons given why the A. M. E. Church should abandon its presiding eldership, we find that the RECORDER of March 31st ult. on the assertion of the New York Freeman relative to Mr. Mossell, the Haytian Government would prevent the A. M. E. Church from preaching the gospel successfully here. Hayti is too far advanced in the study and application of the Droit des Gens to permit the mistake of an individual to frustrate the interest of a whole society and act against the materiel, moral and religious development of a nation. THE A. M. E. CHURCH—ITS PRESIDING ELDER SYSTEM.

BY REV. A. J. KERSHAW.

No. 4.

When we examine the reasons given why the A. M. E. Church should abandon its presiding eldership, we find that appointment, and sets out for his field of labor; but, instead of going as a lamb among wolves, he goes as a wolf among lambs; and in the place of Christ, he takes along with him astronomy. He swaps humility for self-aggrandizement, and in the place of preaching Christ and Him crucified, he is eternally angling among the stars; and hence he catches nothing but tad-poles, and that, too, in the earliest stage of their transformation. The effect of this kind of playing the fool with the high destiny of mankind is quickly seen, for in a few months Christianity is seen retreating in disgust, religion retires, heartily ashamed, and common sense flees as a routed army, and there is nothing left but e self-appointed cox-comb, with his head full of the sciences. Here comes the presiding elder. He knows something about the stellar host, but he knows more about Jesus. He is acquainted to some extent with the natural sciences, but he is an expert in the science of humility. Now, just because the members love this godly presiding elder more than they do this stuffed up pastor, he gets jealous, and his jealousy makes him a bitter enemy to the presiding eldership. Brother P., whose presiding elder is a boss, a tyrant, and a despot; but instead of Brother E. saying so, he makes him the standard of all the other presiding elders throughout the connection.

The same charge is made against the presiding elders is made against our traveling preachers,—against yon and against me. One brother says this system causes too great an expense upon our Church. This may be true, but who made it so? Was the salvation of souls or people's pocket-books? The people declare that the whole itinerant system is too expensive. And here we have it "tit for tat." Another one says the presiding elders are bad men. Yes, and the people say our deacons and traveling elders are bad men. So here is your gun that kille before and behind. So the members bring charges against the preachers, the preachers against the presiding elders, the presiding elders against the Bishops, and the Bishops against the General Conference. So here we have charges and counter-charges throughout every rank and file of our Church. We know that there are men filling the presiding eldership who have no more business there than I have in the moon; but shall we kill the system and cripple our Church forever just because some bad men have found their way into this office? We say no, let us kill these bad men. But this, yon say, cannot be done, because some of these men are the "Bishops' pets," and they will be kept in the office, no matter what is said. Well, let me tell you what to do: In our next General Conference change the law, giving the annual conferences power to elect its own presiding elders, and you will have the power to get rid of these worthless men of which you speak. So long as the appointing power is in the hands of the Bishops, just so long will you complain. You must understand that bad men are generally shrewd men, and many of them are gifted in the art of deception. Our Bishops, like other men, must learn before they can know, and often have been deceived in putting men in the presiding eldership. There are none of our Bishops who know the members of the Florida Conference as we know ourselves and each other, and of course we are a better judges as to who are better fitted for the office of presiding elder. I repeat it, give the annual conferences power to elect presiding elders, and we can save the system; but without this it is in danger, for it is well asserted that the enemies of this system are making rapid headway. The South, heretofore, has almost been a unit for it, but not so now. I have received in the last three months twenty-nine letters and eighteen postal cards, all from southern preachers in regard to this system. Thirty-six of these speak against presiding elders, nine defend the system with vigor, two speak as though it were an expletive. Some of our Bishops are opposing it, and hence its friends must rally to its support.

As figures and facts are sinbborn things, we present the following table for the information of the opposers of the presiding elder system:

The M. E. Church, with presiding elders, has gained 14,000 members per year; the M. E., South, giving 400,000 to start with, with the presiding eldership her increase has been 14,190 per year; A. M. E. Church, with presiding eldership, 6,000; A. M. E. Z., half with presiding eldership, 4,179; Republican Methodist Church, no presiding elders, —; Independent M. E Church, no presiding elders, —; M. P. Church, no presiding elders, 527; W. M. Church, no presiding elders, 511.

We have not the figures of the C. M. E. Church. These figures will show the wisdom of every church that has stuck to the presiding eldership system. The enemies of the presiding eldership must give us something to offset these figures, or stop babbling about a system that they seem to know so little about.

Study these figures and mark the contrast. Give the Church some rest, or give her something new. Yon may call me to account for this letter, but don't blame me, blame these figures.

IDEAS FOR GENEBAL CONFERENCE OF 1888.

BY REV. I F. ALDRIDGE.

I hope it will not be amiss for me to present a few ideas for the General Conference of the A. M. E. Church to consider. The conference will make a mistake if it should fail to curtail the expenses of General Officers and appropriate and pay more money to our own itinerant preachers who got less than $150 per annum. It will be a greater mistake if it fails to open the way for the widows and orphans of itinerant preachers, who are now receiving comparatively nothing, who ought to be cared for by the Church

The General Conference of 1884 said that each orphan of itinerant preachers "shall have or receive $50 and the widows $100 each, but not until the condition of the treasury will warrant it." Perhaps this is the mighty bar that closes the door against all appropriations made at the last General Conference, except the one to pay General Officers; why, it is a bar against the appropriations made to pay the Bishops' salaries. The law must have been drawn up by a General Officer. But with a little economy in the annual appropriations that are now being made the contributions would be larger and given in better faith. Let the widows and orphans of itinerant preachers have a few "loaves and fishes" for their comfort, in honor of our deceased husbands who fell like heroes in the strife on the Christian field of battle. When the Church begins to care for her servants who labor on missions from year to year, at starvation wages, the effect will be marvelous; but as it is, we are continually begging for money and the people do not see the immediate benefits and therefore bave lost all interest in our general finances It is no slight task to raise four or five general collections annually, and build up the current expenses. To do all this somebody must go wanting. We have known brilliant young itinerant preachers who have become chipwrecked npon the itinerant sea for the want of financial aid. They have been forced to the wall on account of debts contracted without the probability of paying them; however, not intentionally. What is $100 or $150 per annum for a preacher and his family? And yet we have some God-called men in the ministry who receive even less than that for a year's work. We are losing ground npon the mission field for the want of money to build houses in which to worship God as we ought.

There was a time when we could hold meetings in any common place, but that time is past, and, therefore, our well organized churches must help to build the missions. But how can we do this if we pay such high wages to our General Officers? The Church cannot afford it. But what must be done? yon ask. Why, at present we have seven General Officers who receive a fixed salary of $1,350 each, which amounts to $9,450 a year, and perhaps it would be well to make known the important fact that this does not include traveling expenses and the branch Publishing House that was to be at Charleston, S. C.

Now, the General Conference of 1888 ought to consolidate the office of Business Manager, Secretary of Sunday Schools and Secretary of Education and place a good and faithful man at the head; make the Financial and Missionary departments a part and place him at the head of it who can keep an account of all money collected by these departments. Let the editor of the RECORDER take charge of the Review also, then appropriate $5,500 to General Officers and $20,000 to pay Bishops. Should we have ten Bishops the total amount would he $25,500 per year; and whereas the Church is now called upon to pay $17,800 to Bishops and Officers per quadrennium when $102,000 per quadrennium ought to pay all necessary expenses of Bishops and General Officers, and thus we would save $15,800, which would do our widows and orphans much good. Let us ponder these things in our heart and look well to the interest of the Church of our fathers.

A GOOD MAN FOR THE OFFICE

BY REV. L S. SLAUGHTER.

A great deal has been said relative to the vacant seats on the Bishops' Bench caused by death, and the filling of said places by the living. I suppose there is hardly a man in the connection who is not in some way interested. There is a host of names already mentioned, and some of the brethren whose names are mentioned are strangers to me; some are not. I heartily indorse the name of one so mentioned, but there is more than one to be elected. I desire to offer another. Knowing that it is custom and courtesy to put the last named first, and that among our people the first name generally leads, and hoping the rule may hold good in this case, I now in a reverse way nominate my man. But first allow me to say, it is possible it is with my man as others are with me, i. e., they don't know him, and for that cause I desire a few words by way of recommendation. This brother is of Northern birth, but for the last nine years a resident of the South; a man who seems to be resolved to live and die South; a man who, if elected, will live among the people whom he serves; a man whose ability cannot be questioned; a man whose devotion to the cause of African Methodism and the education of our people has no equal in his present rank; a man who has given the connection two years' hard labor, working in the capacity of Commissioner of Education; a man whose mind, heart, feet and hands are in the work night and day; a man who, on being offered one of our churches in the North, which would have paid him $2,000 per annum, said he would rather stay where the greatest amount of work was to be done; a man whose character stands unblemished; a man who asks for nothing but work; e man who has the tools to work in any literary field. I speak of the Rev. A. M Green, of the Louisiana Annual Conference.

REVISION OF THE DISCIPLINE.

BY REV. JAMES MADISON.

I do not believe, as some of our brethren, that we ought to do away with the presiding eldership altogether, but leave it optional with the annual conferences. We of the West don't want it, neither do we need it, therefore leave it optional and we will be pleased East, West, North and South, members and laylty. While I am a presiding Elder Methodist I do not see the need of the presiding eldership in the Fourth Episcopal District; but if the next General Conference says we must have it, then I for one say, make no more Bishops and retake those we have and give them good salaries for their work. Our present Bishops, if rotated, can certainly do the work with the assistance of the presiding elders, and rest half of their time. We read in the Good Book, Jams 3, 1, 2 which says: "My brethr-n, be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the great condemnation; for in many things we offend all." Now, my brethren, too many presiding elders make confusion and cause many officers. More Bishops? No; not if the presiding elder system continues as it now is. Bnt let the General Conference look after and make better provision for home and foreign missionary work. Save more money for our poor men on these poor missions, to care more for our old worn-out preachers, ministers, widows and orphans. Our great connection should have an orphen's home and an old folks' home; poor struggling churches should be paid for; educational interests and the moral, religious and intellectual training of our people are needed more than additional Bishops or presiding elders.

ON BISHOP SHORTER

BY REV. JAS. D. BARKSDALE.

MR. EDITOR:—I would like to say a word in relation to the death of Bishop Shorter. This noble old veteran, as the entire Church knows, had many superior qualities. His place will be hard to fill, not for the superfluous gloss or literary polish, but as an uncompromising enemy to wrong and a just and righteous champion—as a man and a planter as an officer. We younger ministers in the South Carolina Conference had styled him "Pap" This originated with Rev. Rivers, who is also gone from "labor to rest." In visiting my former conference (Columbia), I carried the title there, so that the younger ministers there spoke of him among themselves as "Pap" I have often laughed pleasantly at the Bishop's straightforward way in coming to a conclusion; but when reached it was generally unquestionable for judgment, justice and truth.

Bishop Shorter was a man, as it has been thoughtfully said, who wasted no time in "parliamentary platitudes," but to him it was go through, get to the point as quickly as possible. The Church has lost one of its mightiest men in Bishop Shorter. There are many sad hearts among the ministers as one of the brethren wrote me. Yes, brother; I feel eure thet "the wheel will turn another way" O, that we had the rotation system in our Church. One by one the "old landmarks" decay and fall; one by one they pass away Rest thou in peace, Bishop, with loved ones who crossed before thee; thy name shall leave fresh memories of thee in a thousand hearts, which shall bloom each day like flowers of spring. Save the Church, O, God; the great men of Israel are falling.

—When daily life is to do the will of God, no disappointment is possible; neither can failure come in. Step by step following is the most quieting, disentangling thing in all the world.

A GLORIOUS OCCASION.

OPENING OF WM PAUL QUINN A. M. E CHAPEL, BASTROP, TEXAS.

BY F. J WEBB, JR.

The grandest time this flourishing town has ever had took place during this week, which has been one of continual rejoicing to all true African Methodists and Christians. On the 13th of June the corner-stone was laid and from that time till the 20th, when the contractors turned over the building to the trustees, the work of all has been continual. The result is a splendidly constructed frame building, the best house of worship in town, and capable of seating fully five hundred people. On the evening prior to the opening day our section was visited by one of the most terrific cyclones Texas has ever had. Every church building in our town and adjacent country was utterly demolished, with the exception of our own. God's mercy was shown by how he guarded our work, and to-day the steeple of Wm Paul Quinn Chapel towers in the sky while the wells of oil other churches are upon the ground. They by God's power is great and shown in many wonderful ways.

Two years ago the Rev. H McKenna, justly called by our leading paper the "Black Beecher of Bastrop," came here and at once undertook to build a suitable house of God. In this connection we would mention an accident, strange but true. Soon after the laying of the corner-stone a strange hen laid fourteen eggs on top of the stone and in time fourteen thriving yonng chicks were hatched. The brood is all alive and flourishing. The chnrch, when the Rev. McKenna took charge, had bnt thirty-six members in good standing. They have, each and every one, we are informed, done their duty. Our church is said, by the leading white journals, to be an ornament to the town. The steeple of the building can be seen many miles away. To our little pastor belongs all the praise for the success of our grand rally. To him, so nobly assisted by his efficient Board of Trustees, belongs all the credit of paying for the parsonage and cancelling no small of our church debt We wish we could have some more McKennas in our district. On our opening day an eleborete programme was executed, many distinguished visitors being in attendance.

The choir, under the leadership of Miss P. E Bryan, daughter of our presiding elder J. R. Bryan, sung some of the most beautiful songs ever heard in Bastrop. On the following Monday evening a grand concert was given, the entire proceeds of which were devoted to church purposes. We are preparing for our annual conference, which convenes here the 15th of December under our beloved Bishop A. W. Wayman.

A TRIP TO FLORENCE, S. C.

BY REV. W. H. HEARD.

MR. EDITOR:—According to a promise made months ago, I took the train August 16th for Florence, S. C. I was met at the depot by the Rev. E. E Wilson, the pastor of our church in this village. We were soon at the residence of Sister Mills, a noble African Methodist. Her husband is a member of the M. E. Church, but a great friend to our Church. In our journey to Florence we passed the farming districts of Berkeley, Williamsburg, Georgetown and Darlington counties. The crops are very encouraging to the farmers, and cotton is anticipated for a hard year's toil; but the question is, Will that something he realized?

Let us digress a moment, and show you the system under which our people labor in these districts. They receive checks redeemable at the stores of the neighborhood A discount is made on the face of the check, goode are sold at credit prices and interest charged on this account at settling day. Whiskey is sold at these stores and much money is thrown away for this luxury. Our people are in worse condition than the Irish. Many ministers suffer under this check system. Our people are in a fearful condition; they cannot rise with these odde against them. But let us turn from this gloomy picture to one more pleasing. Rev. E. E. Wilson is carrying on a prosected meeting at Florence. He has had much success. Some twelve scnls have been added to the church, and eight converted. Our church is the weakest and smallest of any of the colored churches We have only seventy members,—but the building is snbstantially and neatly finished. Rev. J. W. White deserves much praise for the work done here by him in securing a house of worship at this point.

The spiritual life of the African Methodist Episcopal Church at Florence has been below par, but Rev. Wilson, by his eloquent sermons and Christian deportment, has given new life to our work here. He is highly esteemed by the citizens of Florence of all denominations and races. He has made African Methodism a fact in this town.

Rev. F. W. Sasportas, pastor of the M. E. Church, is an "old war-horse." Rev. E. E. Roberts, the leader of the Baptist denomination, is one of the first men of the State of his church He is a cultured Christian gentleman, and has more than a thousand members,—but says to his brethren, "Come in, the harvest is great." We were classmates in 1876, at the South Caroline University. The men of that class have been e power in South Caroline, and even in the United States.

At Florence we have e grand field for development. It would pey to apply our mission fnnds to such places as Florence, Beanfort, George's, Bagwell, Williston, Walterboro, Summerville, Aiken and Darlington in making them stations. Our circuits can be made self-sustaining by adding points enough, but all these towns should have pastors and preaching every Sabbath and Snnday school

Rev W. R Alston was with us on Thursday night and preached a sermon that will not soon be forgotten by those who heard it. He is a preacher on the Wesleyan order. May he continne to vindicate the cause of Christ and African Methodism. The Marion District under elder Flegler is prospering. He carries a broad blade—bright and sharp.

CHURCH NOTES OF SOUTHEAST MISSOURI.

BY REV. P. M LEWIS.

Wednesday, June 15, 1887, the Sundey School Convention of the Second Presiding Elder District of Missouri Annual Conference of the A. M. E. Church convened at Bonne Terre, Mo. After proper organization the business of the convention was dispatched with great rapidity. The reports from the schools represented showed much improvement from last year. Quite a Number of the schools were not represented and several of the district were not at the convention.

At this little town there has been erected this conference year by the Rev. Mr. Dunavant and his good and brave people, a splendid church edifice, and thirty odd members have been added to the membership also.

On Friday, June 17th, Rt. Rev. Bishop John M. Brown, D.D., D. C. L., arrived here. He met Rev. W. B. White, presiding elder of the district, and the ministerial brethren present, and encouraged them to go forward with the work, trusting in God and doing the right. At 4:30 P. M. the excellent brass band of Potosi led the Masonic Lodge of De Soto, Mo., to the church, where the Bishop led in the ceremonies of laying the corner-stone of said church, assisted by other ministerial brethren and the lodge. Through the entire work of the Sunday School Convention and the laying of the corner-stone, Mrs. Alice M. Lewis, as chorister and organist, and Miss Katie Wills, an excellent alto songstress, furnished good music. The entire collection from all sources for the church on this occasion was $190.

The total cost of the church when finished will be from $600 to $700, and the brave young minister and his people have paid between $300 and $400. God continue to bless them and strengthen us more such working pastors and people.

The A. M. E. Church at Jackson, Mo., under the pastoral care of Elder E. Q. Plummer, is in a desperate struggle re-building, and on July 4, 1887, the corner-stone was laid, and by collections and entertainments dnring the day and night raised about $100, I am told. This work moves on grandly.

The Rev N. C. Douglass is also building a church at Crystal City, Mo., and is working hard He hopes to get in under cover by August 4, 1887.

The churches and pastors in this district are laboring hard and praying for better times. Many souls have been added to these churches this conference. On this work 32,

This church is setting against the mighty waves of sin, trying to stem the current, and while her good old veteran soldiers are leading on in ways of wisdom and righteousness, the young volunteers and well wishers, in the full exercise of their strength, are bringing up the rear.

Cape Girardeau, Mo.

OUR NEW DEED.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church properties. The form is simple, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him. Price, 25 cents per copy, or 5 for $1.00.

Address,

J. C. EMBRY,
Box 906, Philadelphia, Pa.

Look out for a spleudid programme for the great Centennial of African Methodism in November next. The Philadelphia Conference committee held a session this week and arrangements will be pushed.

J. C. EMBRY.

EDUCATION.

DEAR BRETHREN:—The time is fast approaching for us to make another grand rally for the cause of Christian education. Our district comprises all the conferences in the States of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and the Indian Territory. With our host of earnest and sacrificing workers we expect great results from the endowment effort. The educational interest is increasing all over our broad connection, and thousands of young men and women rap at the doors of our institutions. The 4th district has over three thousand soldiers on the field, and they expect us who stand at the head of affairs to make such provisions and to furnish such supplies as will enable them to wage a successful battle against ignorance, vice and superstition.

Let no man in our ranks falter, and remember that all moneys collected on the third Sunday in September must be sacredly consecrated to education.

The Southwest this year must rise and shine, hat it must do so through us as leaders. Great things are expected of you, brethren, and God's name let us make one grand rally for the elevation of our race and the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom.

This is our last effort before General Conference, and we urge you, dear brethren, to stir up your whole people, and rally all your forces for Endowment Day, eo we may render a good account of our stewardship. Let no man be unfaithful in this great struggle. Come on and show your strength.

Send 75 per cent. of all collections to me at Waco, the remaining 25 per cent. to Dr. W. D. Johnson, at Athene, Ga.

Yours for God and humanity,

W. H. BUNGAN,
Secretary Fourth Educational District, Waco, Texas.

SAND FOR CORN.

In the days of Nero there was great shortness of food in the city of Rome, although there was abundsuce of corn to be purchased at Alexandria. A certain man who owned a vessel went down to the sea coast, and there he noticed many hungry people straining their eyes toward the sea, watching for the vessels that were to come from Egypt with corn. Then these people came to the shore, one by one, the poor people wrung their hands in bitter disappointment, for on board the galleys there was nothing but sand, which the tyrant emperor had compelled them to bring for ballast. Oh, how infamous and cruelly, when men were dying of hunger, to command trading vessels to go to and fro, and bring nothing else but sand for gladiatorial shows, when wheat was so greatly needed. Then the merchant, whose vessel was moored by the quay, said to his shipmaster, "Take thou good heed that thou bring nothing back with thee from Alexandria but corn; and whereas aforetime thou hast brought in the vessel a measure or two of sand, bring thou not so much as would lie upon a penny this time. Bring thou nothing else, I say, but wheat: for these people are dying, and now we must keep our vessels for this one business of bringing food for them." Alas, I have seen certain mighty galleys of late, loaded with nothing but mere sand of philosophy and speculation, and I have said within myself, "Nay, but I will bear nothing in my ship but the revealed truth of God, the bread of life so greatly needed by the people." God grant us this day that our ship may have nothing on board it that may merely gratify the curiosity or please the taste; but that there may be necessary food for the salvation of souls. I would have each one of you say: "Well, it was just the old story of Jesus and His love, and nothing else." I have no desire to be famous for anything but preaching the old Gospel. There are plenty who can fiddle to you the new music; it is for me to have no music at any time but that which is heard in heaven. "Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood, to Him be glory forever and ever!"—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

DIED OF YELLOW FEVER.

Elder R. S. Sims, pastor of our church at Key West, Fla., died last week with yellow fever. He was found at his post when he fell. His dear wife is confined to her bed with the same malady, but leaves a wife and seven or eight children, with many friends and relations to mourn his loss. Elder Sims was one of the bright lights of the East Florida Conference.

Church News.

Rev. E. M. Willingham, Muscogee, I. T., writes:—"The A. M. E. Church at Vinita, I. T., is now up, for which we have been struggling for a long time."

Rev. Robert A. Johnson, of Cleveland, Ohio, eaye:—"Although I have said nothing through the RECORDER this year, I have been working all the same. We have been enabled to pay over $1,000 this year on the main debt. It took Herculean work to do this, and I thank God that he fitted me for the emergency. The brother who may follow me will have the way clear to double that amount next year."

A PICTURESQUE RESORT IN CHILI.—"Santa Lucia" is the most beatiful place in all South America—the most beautiful place I have ever seen. It a is pile of rocks thousand feet high, cast into the centre of the great plain on which the city stands by some volcanic agency. It was here that the United States astronomical expedition of 1852 under Lieutenant Gillis, made observations. Before that time as far back as the Spanish invasion, it was a magnificent fortress, commanding the entire valley with its guns, and tradition has it that the King of the Araucanians had a stronghold here before the Spanish came. After the departnre of the United States expedition, Vicunae McCenna, a public-spirited man of wealth in Santiago, undertook the work of beautifying the place, and by the aid of private subscriptions with much of his own means, sought all the resources that taste could suggest and money reach to improve on nature's grandeur. His success was complete. Winding walks and stairwaye, parapets and balconies, grottoes and flower beds, groves of trees and vine-hung arbors, follow one another from the base to the submit, while npon the west, at the edge of a precipice 800 feet high, is a miniature castle and a lovely little chapel, in whose crypt Vicunae McCenna has asked that his bones be laid. Below the chapel, 300 or 400 feet, on the opposite side of the hill, is a level place on which a restaurant and out-door theatre have been erected. Here on summer nights come the population of the city to eat ices, drink beer, and laugh at the farces played upon the stage, while bands of music and dancing make the people more merry. This is the work of a private locracy.—W. E. Curtis in Harper's Magazine for September.

THE BEST OF ACADEMIES.

Under the above complimentry heading the Media American of a recent date said:

"The Shortlidge Academy for Boys has become a Great Educational Institnon, with a success so marked and widely known that it draws students from all parts of the continent. Improved methods of education, practical and capable instructors, careful preparatory work for College life, combined with reasonable charges and every means for the promotion of physical health, strength, and good habits are the features which distinguish this Academy for Boys above others. Media is proud of it and of its enterprising founder, Mr. Swithin C. Shortlidge."

PHILADELPHIA, SEPT. 1, 1887.

IN THE absence of our amiable editor the past three weeks, the Manager and foreman have labored to keep the paper up to its standard in the matter of editing and selecting matter. Some difficulty with machinery at the press last week gave many blurred and unsatisfactory papers. This is the sole complaint we have to make since editor Lee left us.

OF COURSE, no editor can enjoy publishing his own name in such prominent relations as the editor of the RECORDER'S appears in Dr. J. H. A. Johnson's series of excellent articles. Such association of the same name has been suppressed uniformly heretofore, but the explanation given by Dr. Johnson, together with the fact that many are pleased to have his strong pen play its part again, protects him against the exercise of the editor's taste.

AGAIN THE annual cry comes from South Carolina: "The negroes will starve the coming winter." Owing to disease, pestilence, flood or famine, the planters are unable to feed them; aid must come from elsewhere. South Carolina is an unfortunate State. It is well that its white populace, feels a sense of responsibility for its black populace. The latter has evidently contributed as largely to the peace and prosperity of South Carolina as the former, by blood and tears.

ENDOWMENT DAY is approaching. This is our last round before the General Conference. The first four years' work of our new organization will end with the third Sunday in September. How much can we add to the sum of the past three years? Our educational necessities are about three times as great as four years ago. Are our abilities equal to them? Should the Church place $25,000 at the disposal of the Secretary of Education for 1887-'88 he could do wonders for us.

OUR CHURCHES in Chicago are furnished with able pastors. The work accomplished by them there last year and elsewhere other years is proof of this. Should Elder T. W. Henderson succeed in his plans for this year, he will give the connection one of its finest church building on the site now occupied by old Quinn Chapel. The addition and improvements made by Elder Reed and the members of Bethel Church have made that building one of the most beautiful and commodious church edifices owned by colored worshipers in the city. The indebtedness is but little greater than when they commenced operations, though their work cost about $5,000. The church on the West Side had its debt reduced by $2,000 during the past two years. Elder Knight, who has been its pastor in that time, intends to reduce it by as much more this year. St. Paul's is the baby church, but it is expected that Elder Jacobs will make it the equal of some of the others, should he remain in the pastorate two or three years. The people of that city have a mind to work. They are spirited and prond.

WHEN THIS number of the RECORDER is circulated thousands of school teachers and pupils will have taken on the feelings peculiar to entering upon their work for another year. Trunks will be packed for traveling and the mind will begin to anticipate the pleasures and pains of school life. The complex throng, the variety of mind, the manifestations of morals, the new associations, the renewal of old associations, the responsibilities consequent upon all these, the pleasure of learning and the hopes of teaching, all exercise the mind of teacher and pupil. Parents, too, are engaged in this, one of the most important classes of the business of modern civilization. Parents are wishing for school to open to get rid of the responsibility of home government. This is next to the lowest form of thought about school time; the still lower being that of opposing schools and scholarship. But there are thoughts engaging parents' minds relative to school opening that are of the noblest character. There are far-seeing parents, wide-awake parents, patient, progressive parents who peer into the great future and see in the schools of the present the protectors of the future.

NO MORE cheery, pleasant or healthful Methodist paper came to our office this week than the Southern Christian Advocate, published at Columbia, S. C. We are persuaded that the editor of that paper has a warm heart and a clear head. In its make-up, heading, etc., the Southern Advocate is an exceedingly handsome paper, as well as sensible and sound. Concerning the general criticism of the Georgia Glenn bill through the Northern States, the Southern cities, with humorous but telling effect, the case of Prudence Crandall and her Canterbury school and the severe and barbarous conduct of the mobs that broke it up. Also the severe laws passed against it, under which the saintly Quakeress was sent to jail. Nor is good old Boston forgotten. A case is cited when her eyes were as large and fierce with Pagan rage at the thought of African negro enlightenment as the most orthodox mossback of to-day. It closes with this remark: "Connecticut and Massachusetts have doubtless learned better manners since then; but, with the facts of history on record, our brethren 'up yonder' should 'go slow' in their condemnation of the South.'" The RECORDER can only say for the comfort of our friends in the North, they believe in the command of the Master: "When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

WE ARE constantly in receipt of letters, sometimes to the editor and sometimes to the manager, containing a trifle of 25 cents or 50 cents on subscription to the paper, and a long letter of inquiry for lost friends. We have now on file a long list of these letters. They will never be published, because the paper cannot afford it. We print these inquiries to aid our circulation, and the rule is, one full year's subscription. For any one thus subscribing for the paper the manager prints a short notice of 6 to 10 lines free of charge, nor do we obligate ourselves to keep such notice in the paper longer than is convenient to us—two times, or one month, or three months. Only so much space can be given to this sort of service. When the column gets too full, we take out some and put in later ones. The RECORDER is worth the subscription we get for it. It costs more than all its subscriptions ever covered. The notices are printed free to encourage the subscriber and to get other subscribers, so as to give a wider field for our advertisers who pay us hard cash for the space they use. Now, then, please understand: a year's subscription must come with the notice. No matter if you have just paid a regular subscription three months ago, if you want a notice you must send another year—$2. We will give you full credit for both years. But no money, no notice.

IT WOULD be well for our people to form a strong land league with an eye on the West. The open West, the wide West, the wild West and other terms indicating the seeming inexhaustible territory of the Mississippi basin and the Pacific slope, will soon become obsolete by reason of the vast immigration concentering there from all parts of the world. Land is still cheap. By a little ingenious husbanding and consolidating of forces, colored men could own hundreds of thousands of additional acres there within the next ten years. It is our opportunity. Everything invites us, everything impels us, to seize this opportunity. Color or condition prejudices is not so prominent where all is new; both races are nearly in the same condition and all are interdependent. There is a variety of climate there that adapts itself to all persons. Land is exceedingly low in price. A round million of us are in circumstances absolutely without promise or encouragement. Nothing more emphatically brings out the great love manifested for us by our brethren in the South as independent movements of this kind. We shall have a much easier time securing our proper place and privileges by taking strong and progressive steps toward self direction and providence than by any other means. It is really an incumbent duty upon all colored men to aid in raising the race above the position of especial dependents, that our brethren of the other race may be relieved from claiming to be our guardians and supporters. Such relation as this is only one step above the condition of absolute slavery. This combination of power presupposes large confidence in one another and the investment of money upon this confidence. As with other people, so with us; if our wealthy men do not come to the relief and assistance of our poor, our case is hopeless.

IT MAY be noticed that the Educational Board authorises the 25 per cent. of educational money, that the law says shall be used for the creation of an endowment fund for Wilberforce University, to be retained by the Secretary of Education for the support of the department. This direction is evidently inspired by righteous consideration of the case, but can hardly be called equitable. On passing the law governing our educational work, the General Conference failed to make any provision for the support of the department in its operations, except that that the Secretary's salary was ordered paid for two years. It says nothing concerning the source whence his salary shall be derived during the remaining two years of the quadrennium, nor from what source he shall derive his traveling expenses and the expenses of board meetings, collections, etc. Looking this matter of design and demand squarely in the face, can other conclusions be reached than that the General Conference intended that the expenses of the department not provided for should come out of the money raised for education, or that the department should support itself? Out of 100 per cent., not 25 per cent.

Would not the spirit of the law have been perfectly carried out had the Board arranged to support the department from the base rather than from the per cent.? may well be asked. The difficulty in carrying out this, clearly the only just course, lies in the fact that the 25 per cent. is supposed to come into the Secretary's hand, while the 75 per cent. is retained by the local boards for distribution in the educational work of their districts. The board probably doubted its ability to secure any part of this; so concluded to draw the full support for the management of the 75 per cent., as well at the 25 per cent., all from the 25 per cent. because this is in hand. Could the Board not have managed sufficiently wisely to secure from local boards an equitable proportion of their funds to pay for their own general government? However, this much is plain, the department must be supported. The best thing is to rally to its support in the manner ordered by the board. It is hoped that the 25 per cent. will all go as ordered by General Conference to the Educational Secretary, since there is no other provision made for the support of the department.

'WE ALL DO FADE AS THE LEAF."

The death of the Rev. Daniel Carey, D.D., who died at his home in New York, August 17th, deprives American Methodism of a great intellectual star, and the M. E. Church of one of the strongest men she has ever produced. The native power of the man is easily indicated when we are reminded that he was graduating from college, (such as they were) when the present generation of settled men were still in the cradle. When we were learning to walk, just fifty years ago, this man left college to begin the work of a teacher. That he should be editor of the Methodist Quarterly at the age of seventy-eight tells its own story of the breadth and perennial verdure of his powers. The South and the North respond to each other in the surrender of their great men of the past generation. Every Methodist preacher felt that he had lost a friend and a mighty soldier from the army when good old Dr. McPherson, of the South, died only a few months since. Now, the North gives up her Dr. Carey. One by one we cross the river.

LOYALTY.

This little word is played upon a great deal. Often with little sincerity, but usually in good faith. However, good faith is of little value where good judgment is wanting, or where good comprehension is absent. Is that people loyal whose pastor says, "My people's a loyal people" and in the next breath says, "If you pinch that matter (a matter perfectly loyal and reasonable) my people will rebel?" do not such expressions encourage rebellion? Loyalty in the people is fostered by loyalty in the pulpit. Nowhere else does the word of Scripture more certainly show its truth—"that which a man sows, that shall he reap"—than in this case; nowhere else does "like priest, like people" find a better illustration. The only way to keep the spirit of loyalty large is to act it largely in every exercise and in every office. "Our people won't hear it" is often declared of certain requirements of law. More frequently than otherwise the people do not object till they hear their pastor declare the requirements an unendurable burden. The Afrieo-American race is naturally loyal, made so by long years of servitude.

The miserable prophesies made for disloyalty among us are the result of chronic dissatisfaction in the minds of the few; not of the feelings of the masses. Loyalty in the A. M. E. Church is by no means small. There are, besides honest grumblers, some thoughtless, selfish and inconsistent leaders, who would seem to account their own personal ends the most important object to be gained. These are often very useful to the connection in everything else but this. It were well if they could be controlled in this. They cry, "lions are on the streets" when there are no lions there. They exclaim, "I warn you, I warn you!" when their warning is more dangerous than that against which is given. The needless confusion of laws that ought to be plain adds to the increase of this spirit of disloyalty. Too much interpretation as well as much learning may make mad. That which is explicit requires no other exposition than that of common sense.

LOGIC—PHILOSOPHY.

The use of logic as the instrument of reasoning is in some degree natural to every sound mind. We can never forget a brilliant and beautiful illustration of this by a gentleman of the Missouri Legislature soon after the war. He showed how the Indian warrior in his eloquent harrangue to his followers employs the same processes of thought that are found in the profound disquisitions of Plato or Bacon. The elements employed are the same, viz., the major and minor premises and the conclusions. Often one or the other of the premises are assumed, but this does not invalidate the conclusion. But when either of the premises is absent or false, then we have infallibly a fallacy in the conclusion. The world is full of fallacies. A large proportion of all that is written in books, pamphlets and newspapers is fallacious. The merest rhetorical flourishing is often palmed off on the public for sound reasoning, and then the writers stand aside and gaze at their productions with evidently happy amazement and wonder why every one does not admire and applaud them. We are led to these reflections by what we observe in the writings of many of our young men for the press. The effort in most cases seems to be to make readable compositions and to "shine" by sheer eloquence, that is, by the use of pretty rhetorical images and by sallies of wit. This may do well enough in fiction, but when men assay to write of matters grave and very important; when they aim to instruct on subjects which affect the general welfare, it will not do. The reasoning here, to be of any value, aye, to be anything else than positively harmful, must be predicated upon facts. And just here is the difficulty; here lies the rub. There must be the major and minor elements, i. e., a number of particular instances referred to a general principle well known. But this sort of thing requires study and hard work, a great deal more of painstaking, indeed, than the average young writer is willing to endure. No instrument of writing is valuable for the words it contains except as they are symbols of truth. Other things equal, a writer will be infinitely more esteemed for the solidity and conclusiveness of his utterances than for anything else he can employ.

A certain young man, writing in the Star of Zion on the financial condition and policies of that Church, weaves a long web of self-satisfying fallacies. Bishop S. T. Jones, than whom there is no nobler man in Afro-American Methodism, pursues the young man's essay with a keen, logical surgeon's knife and demonstrates the utter worthlessness of the whole labored article because of its false, illicit methods. We could earnestly wish some venerable strong man of our Church, who is apt in the art of logical debate, would pursue and riddle in the same way some of the gifted, but fallacious, writers among us. It would do them great good and save many from being misled. Since it has become fashionable for anybody to write his immature "views" and have them printed in the RECORDER, the habit of carefully weighing a subject and getting all possible light before writing on it, and then laboriously revising every sentence, so as to be sure of its significance in every word and of its truth, has well nigh passed away. Greater care, hard work and deeper study is the need of the hour.

PAGANISM AGAINST CHRISTIANITY IN THE AMERICAN CHURCH.

The cloud arising on the face of our Southern sky expands along the horizon, dark and portentious. It is full of portent for our race in this country, and the prophesy of trouble for the nation.

We clip the following from the Independent of August 25th:

"The minority of the late Southern Presbyterian Assembly, on the action of the Assembly on the question of union with the Northern Presbyterian Church, held a conference some time ago, in which about fifty took part and appointed a committee of eight—five ministers and three elders—to embody the grounds of their opposition in an open letter. This letter, which is one of great length, has just been given to the public. It is signed by Drs. B. M. Palmer, R. L. Dabney, R. K. Smoot, J. L. Girardeau, and C. R. Vaughn, and Elders Collier, Prince and Armstrong. These grounds are set forth under four heads. The fourth is as follows:

"IV. An insuperable barrier to union with the Northern Church is the race problem, which the presence of the Negro in such numbers at the South forces us to consider."

The letter deals with this question with great fullness, going back to the dispersion of tongues to show Gods' purpose to separate mankind into groups and keep them apart. On no point, it says, are the people of the South more sensitive than on that of amalgamation. If blacks and whites are brought together by reintegration with the Northern Church the result in the South would be ominous.

"It is easy to see how with a view to ecclesiastical subjugation, Negro churches could be multiplied of infinitesimal proportions, packing our courts with Presbyters of that race, to whom the Church would be in entire subjection. . . . How can the two races be brought together in nearly equal numbers in those confidential and sacred relations which belong to the ministry of the Word, without entailing that personal intimacy between ministers and people which must end in the general amalgamation of discordant races? . . .

"Nor can we think of any device by which we may be preserved from these dangers, in the bosom of the Northern Church."

These published sentiments, formal, studied, emphatic, show the drift of feeling at work in the bosom of Southern society. Respectable numbers of thoughtful men in the three leading branches of Protestant Christians in that section declare plainly and fully their reasons for the position they assume, and the impossibility of modifying their policy. It is easy to speculate on the action of this difficult problem, but it is certain that God alone can foresee the outcome. We have only this to say, that if there is not a peaceful and happy solution, contributing to the glory of Christ and the advancement of humanity, then our hope for the final triumph of the gospel will be greatly shaken.

No very sharp power of analysis is necessary to find the root of trouble with these dear Christian (?) brethren. It is simply the old pagan race-pride that has kept the various clans and tribes of men in a state of perpetual war for thousands of years. It is the fount in whence has flown half and more of the red tide of human woe from the days of murderous Cain until now. Hence the title of this article.

The most stubborn thing in the human heart, and the most difficult to subdue, is cankerone, sectarial pride—is the full story of this pride in the ancient pagan world. These men are afraid of the possible reunion of discordant races. "The destiny of ourselves and our children is at stake," is the implication in all they say. The feeling is that the colored people, as also all the dark-hued races, are essentially inferior; hopelessly so, in physique, in intellect, and in the constitution of the moral nature. Therefore, union with them must be resisted at all hazards. But what is the true destiny of the Anglo-Saxon and all other races of men, in the light of the New Testament teaching? Is the idea anywhere set forth that anyone of these is to conquer the earth for itself and hold it for the propagation of a proud, and, if you please, handsome, race? Is it taught that social and ceremonial contact of one race with another is a defilement forbidden by God? The position and feelings of these men is as if these were the teachings of the New Testament. It is a painful spectacle to see grave and learned men, standing in the relation of teachers and guides for men, groping in the low twilight, or floundering in the mire of social, civil and religious error.

"Proud Greece all nations else Barbarians held,"

Say what we may, the Roman Catholic Church has been, and is, more consistent with the teachings of Christ and the Apostles on this subject than any other sect, save one, so far as we have been able to read their history. We refer to the United Presbyterian. Whatever she has done in particular places, no one can deny that the gist of her conduct from the earliest ages has been to harmonize men, and to assuage the bitter antagonisms of class against class, or race against race.

We insist that the professedly Christian men who hold these sentiments are heretical and, at the last, will be found apostate. They do not believe nor accept the destiny clearly set out in the Scriptures, humility, peace and holiness, and the end, eternal life; but they have conjured for themselves a destiny of universal dominion, of wealth and pride and exaltation that shall eclipse all the recorded past and rival the splendor of the heavens.

This they would attain with a Psalm in their mouths while they march with the sword of power through Aceldamas of blood. No agnosticism, no blatant doubt uttered in the past ten years, is as hurtful to real Christianity as the pathetic ravinge of these unchristian disciples about the taint of religious and social contact with fellow-believers of the family of Ham.

The sons of Ham are here, not by human appointment, not even by his own choice, but by the fiat of Almighty God. Here by the same almighty decree he will, he will remain. Our faith in God, and in man, is that somehow the Holy Spirit, by the gospel, will mould and conform the whole remitted family of man into one likeness, and fit them for one destiny. If not, then indeed are the last bad days of the world come upon us.

THE CENTENNIAL JUBILEE.

BY REV. C. S SMITH.

Tradition, if not history, says that in 1776, in the city of Philadelphia, Pa., Thomas Jefferson wrote the famous Declaration of American Independence and thereby threw upon the path of human liberty and progress a light more brilliant than had yet appeared. More than a century has passed since that instrument was adopted as the magna charta of American liberty and the centennial of its promulgation was fittingly observed in 1876.

In November, 1787, eleven years and four months after the adoption of the Declaration of Independence, and in the same city where it was adopted, there arose from among the most lowly and despised of all the races then inhabiting the "City of Brotherly Love," one Richard Allen, who sounded forth in triumphant tones that not only in civil government is taxation without representation unjust, but that in ecclesiastical government taxation, without an equal share in the privileges and benefits which it confers, is also unjust, and, appealing to the Christian world to witness the righteousness of his act, severed his relation with the "Mother Church," went forth to plant a vine and fig-tree under which he and his people, with all others who might choose to come, could worship God without let or hindrance. The seed then planted has become a mighty tree and the trumpet tones then sounded are still echoing in the land.

Allen is dead, but, though dead, yet speaketh, and from the battlements of the skies, where the clarion notes of angelic trumpeters forever resound, appeals to us never to let perish from our remembrance that the seed of the glorious fruitage of religious liberty which we to-day enjoy was sown by the fathers amid tears and keenest agony. They bore the yoke that we might be free; they groaned that we might rejoice.

With a just appreciation of the brave and courageous spirit possessed by the fathers, as well as the benefits which we enjoy as the result of their self-sacrificing toil, and in order that from the standpoint of a century's development we may take a retrospect of the past and review the principal events pertaining thereto; and above all that we may give thanks to God for raising up so great a man as Richard Allen, the founder of the First Independent African Methodist Society in America and the chief among his people in his day and generation, our Bishops, by oracle, proclaimed and published, have bidden us to prepare for a season of thanksgiving and jubilee to take place sometime during next November, and thus fittingly celebrate the centennial of the organization of the first independent African Methodist Society in America. There is great anxiety as to the extent to which the celebration will be observed. Some have predicted that it will be a failure. A failure? Never! If we hallow the memories of our fathers; if we appreciate the noblest qualities in man; if we would make known that the name of Allen is deeply imbedded in our affections, and if we would not have the future historian write that African Methodists in 1887 were so narrow, selfish, ungrateful and indifferent to the claims of their own institutions, as well as to the demands of religious patriotism, that they allowed the proposed celebration of the centennial of their existence to prove a mere mockery, we will at once begin the work of preparation and continue it with tireless energy so that our centennial period shall close amid a blaze of glory, thanksgiving, rejoicing and praise. Let us prove both abundant in rejoicing and liberal in giving, and thus start out upon our second centennial epoch with our Publication Department free of all encumbrances and with sufficient amount remaining to enable the Manager to provide all the appliances necessary to meet the growing demands of our Church.

I appeal to the watchmen on the walls of our Zion to cry aloud and make it known in every region of the land that this is our year of jubilee, and that after a test of one hundred years we stand before the Christian world without a single banner trailing in the dust and with increasing confidence that the God of our fathers is our God, and that we shall continue the warfare until the brotherhood of man is as fully accepted as is the fatherhood of God.

OUR COMING GREAT CENTENNIAL.

Many inquiries come to us from all sections about the coming Centennial Jubilee of African Methodism and the programme of the same. To all these questions we can only give this general reply at present: 1. The month of November is the time set apart for the jubilee. At the Episcopal meeting in Atlantic City in July, it was the opinion of the Bishops and brethren present that the whole Church should join in the celebration, but that we could not fix upon one day for all, on account of the many conferences to be held in that month. Ten conferences, embracing more than half the ministers and members of the connection, will be held in November. This alone is a circumstance unparalleled in our history. It was decided, therefore, to set apart the whole month, including all the Sabbaths, as the centennial or jubilee month; but especially to emphasize one of the three Sabbaths, 13th, 20th, or 27th. Thus all the churches of the entire connection would have an opportunity to participate in the jubilee. The final winding up and general gathering to occur in this city (Philadelphia) from Tuesday, November 22, to Sunday, 27. 2. The programme as have not yet been fully prepared and approved by the committee, but to make the matter plain to all we give this illustration: (a) the Bishops of the Church, all of them, and the general officers, constitute a general committee, Dr. B. W. Arnett, secretary. (b) committee of programme and details, Revs. B. W. Arnett, J. C. Embry and the following members of the Philadelphia Conference: Rev. C. C. Felts, chairman; L. J. Coppin, J. S. Thompson, O. T. Shaffer, and, we think, D. W. Bolton, or J. W. Beckett (?) Bishop Brown is chairman of the working General Committee. But since he will be nearly the whole interval in the far West, and in California, he verbally deputized the Manager to go ahead and push things in his name.

3. All pastors, with the Board of Stewards and Stewardesses and superintendents, are made the managing committee of each church and Sunday school.

4 ADVICE: We advise every pastor who is going to take part in the jubilee, to call his committee, as above named, early in October, decide at once what week in November you will hold your celebration or jubilee, first week, second week or third week. In all cases closing on Sunday. It should begin not later than Wednesday of the week chosen. As soon as you have settled the time notify this office, for programme, and for the number of envelopes you may need.

We shall print at least fifty thousand (50,000) with our Church motto, centennial motto, and likeness of Allen. These are "centennial free-will offering" envelopes, and can't be duplicated.

This is an outline of the whole.

KNOWLEDGE.

BY REV. G. W. SPEARMAN.

"The fear of the Lord tendeth to life; and he that hath it shall abide satisfied; he shall not be visited with evil."—Psalms 19, 23

Knowledge is great power, and it sustains a man through all the changing events of life. Knowledge is acquired from books, from the study of nature, from observation, from intercourse with our fellow beings and from the study of human character and actions in every generation and every age of the world. Indeed, knowledge may be defined as the sum total of human experience and the accumulated work of human intellect when from the sources of nature which God, with his own fingers, has hidden away in her unexplored recesses.

Wisdom is regarded as the experience of age, and usually as men grow older they become wiser. It grows with our growth and strengthens with our strength; but we are told in Holy Writ that "the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom," and admonished in early life to "remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth," and to "keep my commandments and live; and my law as the apple of thine eye. Bind them upon thy fingers, write them upon the table of thine heart." So we see that youth is the time to begin to lay up wisdom and acquire knowledge; and the fear of the Lord in early life is the beginning of wisdom. Youth is the time to bind the laws of the Lord on the fingers and write them on the table of the young heart; and when the years shall come we beg that the Bishops of both connections will arrange their official obligations and printed private affairs, as to have no excuse for absence from the Montgomery meeting in Alabama at the date fixed.

Signed in behalf of both Boards of Bishops,

DANIEL ALEXANDER PAYNE,
SINGLETON THOMAS JONES.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Pastors or superintendents having Children's Day money in their possession will please forward the same at once so that it may be reported in the Annual Record. We are keeping the report open in order that every school may be represented. Fraternally,

C. S. SMITH,

Aug. 28, 1887.

Notice to ministers buying the school text books in the course of studies: Owing to the high prices now asked by publishers for these books, we can no longer furnish them at the rates published in the RECORDER catalogue of last winter.

We do not expect to make profit on these books to students, but we must have our money back for their cost and expense of handling. We are compelled, therefore, after this week, to raise the prices on most of them to cover cost and expense. We change our rates this week.

J. C. EMBRY.

ATLANTA, GA., August 26, 1887.

To the Ministers and Members of the Second Educational District, including the following conferences, viz: Columbia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, North Georgia, and Macon:

DEAR BRETHREN:—Our next Endowment Day will be the third Sunday in next September. I earnestly trust that each minister will endeavor to do his best to make our educational collection a success. Dr. William D. Johnson, our Secretary of Education, is anxious for his department to stand second to none. Therefore, let us rally, as this is the last educational collection this side of the General Conference.

I am fraternally yours,

W. J. GAINES,
Secretary Second District.

EVERGREEN COTTAGE,
Wilberforce, Ohio, Aug 24, '87.

The Bishops of the A. M. E. Church are hereby informed that a joint meeting of the Bishops of the A. M. E. Zion Church will be held at Montgomery, Ala., on the 15th of December, 1887, to be opened at 10 A. M.

The object of the joint meeting is for further consideration of the question of "organic union" according to the Articles of Agreement of the joint commission of the African M. E. Church and African M. E. Zion Connections, held in Washington, D. C., July 15-17, A. D. 1885.

In view of the importance of such a meeting before the General Conference of the two Connections, in May, 1888, we beg that the Bishops of both connections will arrange their official obligations and printed private affairs, as to have no excuse for absence from the Montgomery meeting in Alabama at the date fixed.

Signed in behalf of both Boards of Bishops,

DANIEL ALEXANDER PAYNE,
SINGLETON THOMAS JONES.

AN APPEAL IN BEHALF OF WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY.

Dear brethren and friends, the condition of our university makes it necessary for us to appeal to your noble generosity in this our great crisis. We are compelled to raise, by some means, fifteen hundred dollars in a short time; that amount is past due, but our creditors are indulgent and have promised to give us an opportunity to raise the money. We, the Executive Board, have had the matter under advisement and have appointed President Mitchell and Secretary Maxwell local agents to collect as much as they can in order to meet these urgent demands. We have further authorized and ordered an appeal to be published in our local papers and also in our Church organ, which appeal you are now reading. What will you do with it? How will you answer it? Will you respond to it as liberally as you can? May God help you so to do. We ask, we beseech you in all kindness not to pass over this matter carelessly and cast it from your minds. Brethren, this is your institution; it is the property of our Church and not a State normal, as some have already said. Our doors, it is true, are opened to all and we cordially invite and joyfully hail students of every nationality and religions; but this university is the property of the A. M. E. Church, owned and controlled by this Church as a body, and the day that her doors are closed for the want of means that day the 600,000 members of the A. M. E. Church become responsible and are or will be justly charged with the folly and crime of their negligence and stupidity. But her doors will not be closed; you will not suffer such a shame to light the fair name of our great Church. Brother Trustees, we appeal especially to you. We as a Board are your servants, executing, as far as we can, your will. We ask you to give us aid. Our agents cannot call upon many of you in person. To you who read this appeal and are at a distance too remote for our local agents to call upon you in person and present the cause of our university and the great need of immediate action, we earnestly ask you in the name of God and a common humanity; in the name of the work accomplished in the past by Wilberforce; in the name of her many noble sons and daughters that have gone out from her and in their moral, intellectual and religious strength have lifted high the torch of reason and intelligence and with Christian heroism have unfurled the banner of the Redeemer; for the sake of us this institution has accomplished under the guidance of God in the past and for the sake of what lies within the realm of her power to do in the future we beseech and implore you to send as early as possible to the Secretary whatever you may be able to give in this direction. And for every dollar you give God will bless you many fold. Any amount you may send will be duly acknowledged and judiciously applied. We look assured that our friends at home are going to aid us, but we want our friends and brethren abroad to co-operate with them. If they will do this in a liberal way we feel perfectly satisfied that within the next thirty days the fifteen hundred dollars will be realized and the burden removed. Brethren, for once respond to our earnest call, and relieve us of this embarrassement. It is our purpose to publish the names of the donors after the canvass of our local agents shall have been concluded, and we sincerely hope to be able to have in the list the name of every trustee of the University.

Yours, with anxious waiting, signed by order and on behalf of the Executive Board of Wilberforce University,

J. P. MAXWELL,
Secretary.

CENTENNIAL OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

EPISCOPAL ROOMS, AFRICAN M. E. CHURCH,
No. 1424 R. I. Avenue,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4, 1887.

TO THE BISHOPS, MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH:

My Dear Brethren:—"Read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" the subject-matter of circular—the "Centennial of African Methodism." Its contents are more than a mere passing interest. "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: Ask your father, and he will show thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee. Remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee one hundred years in the wilderness!"

Next November will be one hundred years since Richard Allen and his compeers left St. George's M. E. Church, in the city of Philadelphia, (1787) and the Bishops of the semi-annual meeting adopted the following Preamble and Resolutions:

WHEREAS November next, 1887, will be one hundred years since Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and others left the St. George Methodist Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, because "the colored people belonging to the Methodist Society of Philadelphia convened together in order to take into consideration the evils under which they labored, arising from unkind treatment of their white brethren, who considered them a nuisance in the house of worship, and even pulled them off their knees, while in the act of prayer, and ordered them to the back seats." (See preface to the A. M. E. Church Dicipline,)

AND WHEREAS: This is the most decisive act of the religious colored people in the United States, and we know of none like it of the descendants of Africa in the world; if we except the Resolve of the Haitians under Toussaint, Christophe, Petion and Boyer. These men were to Hayti and San Domingo, in a civil and political sense, what Allen, Jones, Tapsico and others were to the colored Christians of America; their act was manhood, freedom, and manhood christianity. We must fully recognize their action a success—a republic we have—all therefore recognize recognize their manhood because their acts prove it. To resist oppression in Church or State is manly. Toussaint and Allen are by us honored, reverened and loved. The success of Allen and his compeers is demonstrated, for it has given us the largest colored organized Union in the world. It is therefore proper and right that we should commemorate an event so important and so full of interest to us as a race. Therefore be it

Resolved, first, That the Chief Pastors of the African Methodist Episcopal Church request that next November, a date in that month be hereafter fixed, to commemorate the one hundredth year since our existence commenced, and that sermons be preached in all our churches throughout the connection. The order of exercises to be fixed by each Conference, quarterly conference, and pastor and each church. A general arrangement to be fixed by a committee hereafter appointed.

Resolved, second, As our publishing interest has long suffered, because of her indebtedness, that a contribution be made by all our churches, and whatever is collected to be appropriated to assist in the paying off of debts now resting on our Publication Department.

Adopted.

COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS:
J. M. BROWN,
T. M. D. WARD,
H. M. TURNER,
R. R. DISNEY,
B. W. ARNETT.

We ask co-operation. If you intend to cooperate will you send to us signifying your approval and intention to act, by addressing a note to No. 1424 R. I. Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Any plan suggested by you please forward to me.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN M. BROWN, Chairman,

P. S.—I wish you unity, prosperity and holiness, and that next year will be the crowning year of our Church.

J. M. B.

THE NEXT ENDOWMENT DAY

Will be September 18th, 1887, the third Sunday in the month. Pastors will please see that the whole day, as per Discipline, is devoted to the work of education.

PROGRAMME FOR THE DAY.

SERMONS.

1. The Sin of Ignorance. Text—Acts 17:30.
2. The Glory of Education. Text—Daniel 12:3.
3. The Conditions of Christian Education. Text—Saint John 13:17.

FOR SABBATH SCHOOLS.

ESSAYS.

2. The Importance of Good Spelling in an Education.
3. The Knowledge of English Grammar as a Mark of Scholarship.

Prayer and music will be used to suit the occasion.

IN THE CHURCHES AND SABBATH SCHOOLS.

1. Those having charge will please ask: For a free will offering of $5.00 and upward. Ask each one to give, in the public collections, from 25 cents to $1.00. 3. Ask each one in the Sabbath school to give from 10 cents to 50 cents.

If, from rain or other cause, the collections cannot be taken on that day, take them up the next convenient Sunday.

REPORT AS FOLLOWS:

Name of Pastor ——— Name of Church
Name of Conference ——— Post Office Address ——— Amount from Church $ ——— Amount from Sabbath School $ ———

SEND IMMEDIATELY.

1. THE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS out of every dollar collected in each District must be sent immediately to Rev. Wm. D. Johnson, D. D., Secretary of Education, Box 263, Athens, Ga. THE MONEY, according to order of the General Board of Education, at its meeting in Boston, October, 1885, will be used to pay the expenses of the educational work, including the salary of Secretary of Education, which ceased, as per Discipline, to be paid from General Treasury in May, 1886. If expenses can be made up, in whole or part, from other moneys, any balance of this Fund will be paid to Wilberforce University. BUT ALL MUST SEND AS DIRECTED.

2. The seventy-five cents remaining is for the schools in the several Districts, and must be sent immediately to the District Secretaries as follows:

THE FIRST DISTRICT.

Send to Rev. J. G. Mitchell, D. D., Sixth and Broadway, Cincinnati, Ohio, and includes the following named Conferences, viz: Baltimore, California, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, West Kentucky, Kansas, South Kansas, Missouri, North Missouri, New York, New England, New Jersey, Ohio, North Ohio, Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Demerara, Bermuda, Ontario and Nova Scotia Conferences.

THE SECOND DISTRICT

THE THIRD DISTRICT.

Send to Rev. Bedford Green, 256 High street, Nashville Tenn., and includes the following Conferences, viz: Alabama, North Alabama, Florida, East Florida, Mississippi, North Mississippi, Tennessee and West Tennessee Conferences.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

Send to I. M. Burgan, Waco, Texas, and includes the following Conferences, viz: Arkansas, South Arkansas, Louisiana, North Louisiana, West Texas, North East Texas, Central Texas and Indian Conferences.

THE LAST ENDOWMENT DAY BEFORE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

This is Centennial year for the A. M. E. Church; it is also the last year before General Conference. Endowment Day will come on the 18th of September.

Let the effort made by us this year for education be worthy of the occasion. Life's great mission is to enlighten and Christianize the world. This is every man's highest calling.

Now, my dear brother in the ministry, we ask you in the name of your high and sacred calling, in the name of the elevation of our race, in the name of the enfranchisement of ten thousand of our brethren in the South, to raise as much money as you possibly can for Christian education.

To aid in this work a beautiful Gold-plated Medal, with the Lord's Prayer engraved on one side, will be awarded to every child or adult who may raise sixty cents by Endowment Day Punch Card and forward it to me. Every member of the Church should secure one of these medals. Urge the Superintendent and Sabbath school to commence the work immediately. Give the Superintendent his circular.

I can send by return mail all the cards you want. Write immediately and let me know how many to send.

Our sincere and fervent prayer is that God may bless abundantly your efforts.

Very respectfully,
JOHN G. MITCHELL,
Sixth and Broadway, Cincinnati, O.

ENDOWMENT DAY, SEPTEMBER 18TH.

Brethren of the Pittsburg conference to the front, and let it be published far and near in the bounds of our Conference that we must up and do our best for the work of education this year. Try to do better than we have ever done. Our monument of pride (Wilberforce,) is calling loud and long for help, with all of our other worthy institutions. And the 18th of September, which is the 3rd Sabbath, is the day set apart for educational work. See chapter 5, page 340, of Discipline.

Yours for the work of Christian Education,

GEO. C. SAMPSON,
Member of Board for Pittsburg Conference.

NOTICE.

To the Presiding Elders of the Pittsburg Annual Conference. You will please notify me, at once, how many candidates each will have for traveling work. We also wish to know of the general officers who of them will be present at our Annual Conference, so that homes may be prepared for them.

C. A. MCGEE, Pastor,
820 Clay street, Parkersburg, W. Va.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business.

C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

HINTS TO SELF-EDUCATED MINISTERS.

Reasons why all preachers should read Dr. James Porter's Hints: 1st. Because it furnishes the most natural method of preparing to preach effectively. 2nd. Because "it shows how to preach with ease and grace, and yet with power and success." 3rd. Because it exposes numerous errors in all branches of ministerial service, and how to correct them. 4th. Because advice ministers to read the work carefully, because "they will find in it much that they never thought of"—because "every hints they most need to receive are not furnished by other homiletical works,—because "it is replete with shrewd, hard, good sense;"—because "it is a book for all ministers, however educated, because it is assured by many to be the most helpful book they ever read. HINTS TO SELF-EDUCATED MINISTERS.

Reasons why all preachers should read Dr. James Porter's Hints: 1st. Because it furnishes the most natural method of preparing to preach effectively. 2nd. Because "it shows how to preach with ease and grace, and yet with power and success." 3rd. Because it exposes numerous errors in all branches of ministerial service, and how to correct them. 4th. Because advises ministers to read the work carefully, because "they will find in it much that they never thought of"—because "every hints they most need to receive are not furnished by other homiletical works,—because "it is replete with shrewd, hard, good sense;"—because "it is a book for all ministers, however educated, because it is assured by many to be the most helpful book they ever read. "Worth its weight in gold,"

IS THE BIBLE TRUE, AND FROM GOD?

Read Dr. Porter's late book called "Christianity Demanded by Experience." It will settle the question forever and set your souls on fire. Buy a copy and loan it to some doubting friend, and especially to unbelievers. On sale by Rev. J. C. Embry, Price, $1.50. A few copies just received.

OFFICE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL WHO HAVE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS WITH THIS DEPARTMENT.

READ, RE-READ AND REMEMBER.

1st. We do not take postage stamps. If you cannot obtain Post Office Money Order, which is the safest method to send money, you can send by registered letter. These are issued by every post office in the United States. If your postmaster insists on selling you stamps you insist the more on having him register your letter.

2nd. Send the exact amount of money required to pay for the goods you order. When this is not done our rule is to send the amount of supplies which the money sent will pay for.

3rd. When you order from us, always write plainly at the bottom of your letter the place where you wish your supplies sent. Very often persons write for an order from one place on a circuit or station, and in sending it send to another place, and do not mention this very important fact.

4th. For all money sent to us for Sunday school literature we send a postal card receipt, unnumbered. If your order is delayed, or if there is any irregularity concerning it, write to us about it, but be sure to give the number of your receipt card and the name of the person who sent the order or signed the name to it. When a pastor writes to us that a superintendent has sent us money, etc., we do not know who is his superintendent unless he writes us his name. Always send the names of persons and not names of churches, schools, circuits, stations.

5th. Sign your name to your communication. We cannot tell who sent a letter to us when there is no name signed to it.

6th. Write your name in large, plain letters. Avoid florishing. It is useless and often renders obscure what would otherwise be legible writing.

7th. Never send a postal note, money order or express package without any instruction accompanying it. How do we know what to do with money sent thus?

8th. We have lost a great deal 'of money by sending supplies C. O. D. because the parties whom we thus favored failed to take them from the express office. In consequence of this neglect and absolute loss which we have borne because of it, we have decided to positively refuse to grant any more C. O. D. favors to anyone. Please do not request them.

9th. Our business is conducted on a strictly cash basis. If you are not familiar with our prices write to us when you wish to buy and we will freely quote them or send you a catalogue, price list, blank and return envelope.

10th. Always collect your money for supplies and have it appropriated for them at least two weeks before the beginning of each quarter this will prevent much delay. Very often orders do not give nutil one-half or two-thirds of the quarter is past; in which case we have to print an extra amount of literature to the benefit of two or three persons who also lay ourselves liable to a "rake over" by them.

11th. When the Teachers' and Scholars' Quarterly, the Juvenile and Gem Lesson Papers are ordered, they are filed in one package together. The Catechisms, song books, primary lessons, record cards and other such matter are put in one wrapper. When you order both inquire for two packages at the post office.

12th. If your city has the free delivery system have your mail directed to the street and number. Unless you do this it will be returned to us while you are waiting us for neglect.

13th. Every pastor is hereby earnestly requested to have some one, who is permanently located in his work, elected Sunday school supply clerk, whose duty it shall be to send for all orders for his Sunday school supplies.

We hope this will be done at once by each pastor and that he will send us the name of the one elected to this office, as a method of communicating with us through a person who has a permanent location in a place will lessen difficulty and greatly facilitate intercourse between us and our patrons. It is hoped that this request will receive immediate attention. We have purchased new books in which to record the names of Sunday school supply clerks and we anxiously await their names. A postal card will serve for this purpose. Hoping that the above instructions will be received with the kindly spirit with which they are given, and praying the blessing of Almighty God upon all those who work with us, intrusted with the children's welfare. Fraternally,

C. S. SMITH.

LIVER, BLOOD AND LUNG DISEASES.

LIVER DISEASE AND HEART TROUBLE.

Mrs. MARY A. MCCLURE, Columbus, Kansas, writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, and heart trouble, and I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery, and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could scarcely walk across the room, most of the time, and I did not think I could ever feel well again. I give your remedies all the credit for curing me, as I took no other treatment after beginning their use. I am very grateful for your kindness, and thank God and thank you that I am as well as I am, after years of suffering."

LIVER DISEASE.

Mrs. I. V. WEBBER, of Yorkshire, Cattaraugus Co., N. Y., writes: "I wish to say a few words in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' For five years previous to taking them I was a great sufferer: I had a severe pain in my right side continually; was unable to do my own work. I am happy to say I am now well and strong, thanks to your medicine."

Chronic Diarrhea Cured.—D. LAZARUS, Esq., 276 and 277 Decatur Street, New Orleans, La., writes: "I used three bottles of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and it has cured me of chronic diarrhea."

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using DR. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, and bodily health and vigor will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores, and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

INDIGESTION, BOILS, BLOTCHES.

Rev. F. ASBURY HOWELL, Pastor of the M. E. Church, at Silverton, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with catarrh and indigestion. Boils and blotches began to show on the surface of my skin, and I experienced a tired feeling and dullness. I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as directed by him. The boils and complaints and in nine week's time I began to feel like a new man, and am now as well as well can be. 'Pellets' are the best remedy for bilious or sick headache, or tightness about the chest, and bad taste in the mouth, that I have ever used. My wife could not walk across the floor when she began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Now she can walk quite a little ways, and do something at work."

HIP-JOINT DISEASE.

Mrs. IDA M. STRONG, of Arlington, Ind., writes: "My little boy had been troubled with hip-joint disease for two years. When he commenced the use of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' he was confined to his bed, and could not be moved without suffering great pain. But now, thanks to your 'Discovery,' he is able to be up all the time, and can walk with the help of crutches. He does not suffer any pain, and can eat and sleep as well as any one. It has only been about three months since he commenced using your medicine. I cannot find words to express my gratitude for the benefit he has received through you."

A TERRIBLE AFFLICTION.

Skin Disease.—The "Democrat and News," of Cambridge, Maryland, says: "Mrs. ELIZA ANN POOLE, of Linchester, Dorchester Co., Md., Hamburg, Dorchester Co., Md., has been cured of a bad case of Eczema by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The disease appeared first in her feet, extended to the knees, covering the whole of the lower limbs from feet to knees, attacking the elbows and became so severe as to prostrate her. After being treated by several physicians for a year or two she commenced the use of the medicine named above. She soon began to mend and is now well and hearty. Mrs. Poole thinks the medicine has saved her life and restored her health."

Mr. T. A. AYRES, of East New Market, Dorchester County, Md., vouches for the above facts.

GENERAL DEBILITY.

Mrs. PARMELIA BRUNDAGE, of 161 Lock Street, Lockport, N. Y., writes: "I was troubled with chills, nervous and general debility, with frequent sick headaches, and my mouth was badly cankered. My liver was inactive, and I suffered much from dyspepsia. I am pleased to say that your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets' have cured me of all these ailments and I cannot say enough in their praise. I must also say a word in reference to your 'Favorite Prescription,' as it has proven itself a most excellent medicine. It has been used in my family with excellent results."

INVIGORATES THE SYSTEM.

Dyspepsia.—JAMES L. COLBY, Esq., of Fwatan, Houston Co., Minn., writes: "I was troubled with indigestion, and would eat heartily and grow poor at the same time. I experienced heartburn, sour stomach, and many other disagreeable symptoms common to that disorder. I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pellets,' and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'

Dyspepsia.—THERESA A. CASS, of Springfield, Mo., writes: "I was troubled one year with liver complaint, attended with chills and fever, and I am now entirely free from the dyspepsia, and am, in fact, healthier than I have been for five years. I weigh one hundred and seventy-one and one-half pounds, and have done as much work the past summer as I have ever done in the same length of time in my life. I never took a medicine that seemed to tone up the muscles and invigorate the whole system equal to your 'Discovery' and 'Pellets.'

Chills and Fever.—Rev. H. E. MOSLEY, Montmorenci, S. C., writes: "Last August I thought I would die with chills and fever. I took your 'Discovery' and it stopped them in a very short time."

BLEEDING FROM LUNGS.

JOSEPH F. MCFARLAND, Esq., Athens, La., writes: "My wife had frequent bleeding from the lungs before she commenced using your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' She has not had any since its use. For some six months she has been feeling so well that she has discontinued it."

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

Mrs. LUCY GREEN, Columbus, Kansas, writes: "I addressed you in November, 1884, in regard to my health, being afflicted with liver disease, and heart trouble, and I was advised to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, Favorite Prescription and Pellets. I used one bottle of the 'Prescription,' five of the 'Discovery, and four of the 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets.' My health began to improve under the use of your medicine, and my strength came back. My difficulties have all disappeared. I can work hard all day, or walk four or five miles a day, and stand it well; and when I began using the medicine I could

All Travelers

Whether by land or sea, who are liable to be out of reach of drug stores and doctors, would do well to have a supply of Ayer's Pills at hand. For this purpose, the Pills are put up in bottles as well as boxes, and may be conveniently carried in one's pocket. Six of the most distinguished physicians of Syracuse, N. Y., in giving their joint testimony as to the excellent medical combination of Ayer's Pills, make this point: "Their beautiful coating of gelatine and sugar is a great advantage, in that it protects them from change by time or climate, and renders them pleasant and even agreeable to take."

"During the twenty-five years I have lived on the frontier," writes John McDowall, of Sweetwater, Col., "Ayer's Pills have been my best friend. I have lived, mostly, where there was no doctor within twenty miles, and have been hard sick several times. I always kept Ayer's medicines on hand, and with them, and the Almanac, have pulled through. I have also doctored others, and believe I have saved some valuable lives by the use of Ayer's Pills."

A MIDNIGHT PRAYER.

In the mild silence of the voiceless night,
When, chased by airy dreams, the slum-
bers flee,
Whom in the darkness doth my spirit seek-
O God, but Thee?

And if there be a weight upon my breast—
Some vague impression of the day foregone;
Scarce knowing what it is, I fly to Thee
And lay it down.

Or if it be the heaviness that comes
In token of anticipated ill,
My bosom takes no heed of what it is,
Since 'tis Thy will.

For O! in spite of past and present care,
Or anything besides, how joyfully
Passes that almost solitary hour,
My God, with Thee.

More tranquil than the stillness of the night,
More peaceful than the silence of that hour,
More blest than anything; my bosom lies
Beneath Thy power;

For what is there on earth that I desire,
Of all that man can give or take from me?
Or whom in heaven doth my spirit seek
O God! but Thee?

CONSECRATION.

BY REV., T. W. HAIOLER, B. PH.

Consecrate me, Lord, to Thee,
Let me ever holy be;
Lead me through this world of night,
Ever walking in the light.

Speak through me from Zion's Hill,
Help me publish Thine own will.
In Thy vineyard success give,
'Till I'm called with Thee to live.

In the mission field of God
Tell the story of the Cross:
God will ever you sustain,
'Till we meet in heaven to reign.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH—ITS PRESENT NEEDS.

BY REV. A. J. KERSHAW.

No. 5.

Twenty-five years ago the name of the A. M. E. Church was sufficient to capture and hold within its folds one-sixteenth of the colored race of the United States. That day is past, and you can no more keep the colored race within our Church by the old methods than you can keep a horse fat by feeding it upon apple cider. The age demands something new, the rising generation demands something new, the colored race demands something new, and the world demands something new. The first new thing that our Church demands, is a unity of action; the second, a newness of purpose, and the third is a united front. With these our future triumphs are as sure as the flow of time. Without these our defeat is as certain as the existence of matter. Under the head of our first proposition, many subjects come up for discussion, but with all of these we have no time to deal, so we shall only note a few. First, then, is fealty to law, which must have the precedence over everything else. Without this, the terms "man" and "beast" could have no meaning. Without this, nature long since would have been shipwrecked. Without this, nature's God would have long ago proved himself to be an Eastern Juggernant, to powder every object, both animate and inanimate. With this, States exist; with this, nations grow strong; with this, kingdoms and empires live for centuries; and with this churches fulfill their intended functions. If this be true in every department of human research, can it be less true in the A. M. E. Church? Certainly not. A unity of action, we repeat, is the present need of the A. M. E Church. But you ask, how can this be brought about? The way is plain. Let all within the jurisdiction learn to keeps its law—both the letter and spirit. Let us say right here—and we say it with all the emphasis we can gather—we have no respect for lawbreakers, whether found among the bald knobbers of the West, ballot-box stuffers of the South, bribe-takers of the North, bank cashiers of the East, or law republicators of our own Church.

This brings us to one of the most remarkable incidents in the history of the A. M. E. Church; the New York Conference voting for and its Bishop appointing one of its members to a charge for the fifth time in open violation of the law of our Church. The New York Conference is one of the ablest, if not the ablest, conference in our connection, and we are surprised that it should tolerate such actions, much less give them its support. If such actions had occurred in one of those conferences whose members are "only fifteen years old" it would have been bad enough, but when we consider the composition of the New York Conference—its graduates, its scholars, its able divines and its aspirants for the Bishopric, the whole thing becomes ridiculous. But let us take another view of this matter.

The effects of this fifth year appointment reach far beyond the honndaries of the New York Conference Yes, its effects will be seen sooner or later throughout the length and breadth of our connection, for every other church under our jurisdiction has the same right to petition its respective Bishop for a fifth, sixth or seventh appointment; and, to be consistent with the precedent, the request must be granted. Now if a Bishop or a preacher can he sent to a church as long as the members desire him; another one declares four years is the limitation. One Bishop thinks that the wishes of our Church should be granted even if it does violate the orders of the General Conference. Another says that the laws of the General Conference are supreme and must be obeyed at all hazards. Perhaps we are wrong; may be the New York Conference can show that there was no lawbreaking in this matter. If so, we shall be more than glad to hear from it; but until this is done we shall forever look upon it as a high-handed violation of the orders of our General Conference.

In closing this article we must pay our respect to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER Allow us to say we thought it was the duty of our Church organ to defend the laws, the usages and the institutions of the A. M. E Church against every assault, whether made by false friends, or open foes; but I found I was mistaken, for here is law-breaking right under the nose of the RECORDER, but still she is as silent as the grave. Where, we ask, is that powerful pen of Dr. Lee's with which he sometimes deals such deadly blows to the enemies of right? We ask, and the only answer we receive is, where is it? Not a word of protest, not a word of condemnation. Give us unity or give us death. "Union there is strength;" is as true now as it was in 1776.

In our next we shall take up our second proposition—"A oneness of purpose in relation to the mission of the A. M. E. Church," and will try to point out our great danger.

Tallahassee, Fla.

SEASIDE SAUNTERINGS.

BY REV. J. T. JENIFER.

"Mamma, can't you ask God to show us some place where we can get cool?" said our little Bertha artlessly one excedingly hot day in July.

"Wait, my daughter, till after July 31st, when the memorial services in respect to the life and labors of that great and good man, Bishop Shorter, are held by Bethel Church, Providence, and the Children's Day exercises are over, then we shall go to look for a cool place," said mamma.

Having celebrated the encharist with the members of the Providence Church, August 7th, Tuesday, the 9th, we took our grip-sack, put into it the Bible, Discipline, one unfinished sermon, the New England Conference minute, the Independent, the "Month-Piece," Pelonbet's "Sunday School Notes," "Unitarian Principles," by E. E. Hale, and "Orthodoxy; its Truths and its Errors," by James Freeman Clark. Off we started to Narragansett Pier, another point in our district, in search of "cool" and "place" to spend two weeks' vacation.

"Now, papa says he is going to rest, yet he takes along all these books and things, besides letters to write and daily papers to read. He will have no time to go with us to the beach," says Georgie. "This is the way to rest by diversion, my boy." "Diversion, papa? And what is that?" "Relieving the mind and body from tire over one thing to rest them in doing another. Thus our heavenly Father has arranged the duties and burdens of life durable by the relief and pleasure of their variety."

"You seem to enjoy that Orthodoxy," remarked an observant lady. "You have been so long up here in New England I fear you are becoming tainted with some of these isms and ologies." "Oh no, madam. They who aim to teach others must themselves first be taught." We have been curious enough to acquaint ourselves measurably with the beliefs and opinions of the Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Congregational and Roman Catholic bodies, now we wish to ascertain what the Unitarians do really believe, for as far as the opinions of this sect, they are everywhere spoken against."

It is profitable as well as pleasant to read the opinions of Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Brook Hmford and James Freeman Clark, along the lines of advanced liberal thought and Biblical criticisms, not only because of their great learning and style, but next to Channing, Bellows and T. Star King these men are regarded as authoritative expositors of Unitarian beliefs.

James Freeman Clark finds some truths in each creed in his "Ten Chief Religions," which are held in common by all Christians. So is it profitable for us to find the common essential grounds of all believers. One may find much valuable truth by reading "Theodosia" without becoming a Baptist, as he may by reading Bishop Gibbon's "Faith of our Fathers," and not become a Roman Catholic.

But, Brother Editor, I did not intend to write a dissertation upon books or authors. Notwithstanding, our wise men tell us it is as good way as any to rest the mind to let it run into any profitable field of thought where it finds pleasure. I started out to say a few things about "seaside saunterings."

There are few people who make more of life than those of New England. Ardnons in labors, productive in varied industries, economical and exact in dealings, yet no people seem to know better how to combine with their toils profitable and pleasant recreation.

It is marvelous to observe the extent to which these far-seeing white men have brought up and utilized the various nooks, coves and corners along the rock-bound coast for pleasure resorts and money getting. Secluded places which, a few years since, no one would think of having, are now palatial pleasure resorts. Every imaginable device for getting money is found at these chief attractions. The pocket of this white race is like a great trapper; every penny drops into it, spent for what ever purpose. It is humiliating to find so few colored people utilizing these many opportunities for money-making. They flock to them by the thousands a season and spend here and on the boats and cars money by the hnndreds, hut nine times out of ten colored ladies and gentlemen are denied comfortable accommodations at places for guests. This week three of the most refined colored young ladies of a New England city went to Narragansett Pier for a few days. While here they attempted to hire a bathing suit and take a bath. They were told that they could not bathe until the afternoon, as the guests objected to colored people bathing during the hours they bathe. Being curious to know the truth of it, I inquired of a colored lady who keeps a bathing house She told me that all the bath houses are forbidden, by the hotel proprietors, who control the beach, from letting colored people bathing suits after 10 o'clock A. M. and before 2 P. M. Oh, cursed caste! Not a colored man owns a foot of that sea beach at Narragansett Pier. It is one of the finest along the Atlantic Coast and the bathing is so delightful that the town is growing at a fabulous rate. It is fast rivaling Newport Lots which a few years since were purchased for $300 are now held for $4,000.

Mrs. L E Williame, an estimable lady, has built and opened a first-class cottage where both first-class white and colored guests the season were quartered and comfortably entertained. It is not the guests who come here that find fault with colored people bathing with them, but the hotel proprietors.

Rev J P. Stephens, a cultured Christian minister of the A. M. E Church, is making great sacrifices and efforts to erect a church as a place of worship for the visitors.

The Providence and Newport churches and Sunday schools joined each other Aug. 17th, in annual pic-nic at the popular seaside retreat, Rocky Point. August 1st, always a day of pleasure to New Englanders, 3,000 visited this point; about 1,100 went to Oakland Beach, while quite a large number attended the reunion of the veterans at Tremont Temple, Bostou. He who failed to go to the meeting at Bostou missed a treat he will not get again soon.

Rev. A. W. Upshaw and lady are succeeding finely at Newport.

Calling on George T. Downing, Esq., we were delighted to meet his exceedingly interesting family. Here we found Mrs John Jones, of Chicago, with her daughter, Mrs. Levenia Lee, and Miss Lee. You have only to meet these families to feel as if you have been acquainted with them all your life.

Now, Brother Editor, I have sauntered to the end of the beach at the "Pier;" I think I hear you say, now, stop. I think I will; good bye.

PENSACOLA LETTER.

BY S. D. JACKSON.

Thinking that a letter from this part of the land of flowers may interest some one, I take a few of my limited moments to send you this one. Since I wrote last Pensacola colored people, or a large per cent of them, have done some good things, for which they have the endorsement of all who are in favor of the negro's advancement, irrespective of race. In speaking of what they have done one of the city papers, owned by white men, says that they have done a great good, or words to that effect. Everything taken as a whole, they are making wonderful progress considering the adverse circumstances under which they have to labor. This is no part of the "New South" so often mentioned by some people who can call old new so easily. It is here, as elsewhere, everybody is trying to be ahead or even with each other.

Considering the churches the most important, I will speak first of the A. M. E. Church, under the pastorate of the Rev. J. H. Spears, having a membership of one hundred and some odd This divine preaches quietly, intelligently and free from trying to create too many things that are altogether wrong, distasteful, unsanical, and a mighty power to cause intelligent people to say that we are almost at a standstill. At this church on the 14th inst., in the presence of a vast assemblage of people, Rev. James Brantley preached his last sermon prior to leaving for Howard University. We have here a large and beautiful A. M. E. Zion Church with a very large membership The Baptists here are the most advanced of any in this part of the State. I think I am safe in saying several of them read the RECORDER and in expressing themselves, say that they are highly pleased with it. Another sensible movement is the organization of the Preachers' Association, made up of all the colored pastors of the city. They are at work in trying to get the people of Pensacola to vote whiskey out of it, break up these halls for making money by help sustain churches, also trying to establish co-operation in all good enterprises that tend to benefit the church. We are glad to see any action to see such nuisty existing among the prelates.

Another pleasing sight is to behold the improvements being made. A large number of our people seem determined to rule morality with Christianity—for without it I don't think any one can be a Christian—and that to a great extent. For several weeks there have been held a series of educational meetings in the different churches by colored people Some of the most learned and prominent men made earnest speeches in behalf of education Their speeches were as plain as A B C.—I mean to say that they spoke in a manner that everybody could understand their much needed addresses for such a good cause. Home training, moral and intellectual education, have been presented to our people to the entire satisfaction, I believe, of all. Out of all these meetings I am sorry to say I have not heard a word for Wilberforce.

Miss Florence B Taylor, a young lady of our city, who returned recently from the Tuskegee Normal School, after serving nine months, read at all of these meetings excellent papers on education. Seeing her improvement others have concluded to do likewise. These meetings have aroused the people as never before. Another sign of improvement is, our people read a larger number of colored newspapers than they ever did, and seem to regard them beyond considering them as "no good" But I am sorry to say that some of the very best men that ought to urge them to read are silent. Still another sign may be noted. The young men who heretofore took no interest in scarcely anything beyond pleasure, are taking an active part in several things of importance and seeking occupations beyond those of menial servitude. Wherever they are given the shallowest chance in the race of life ninety-nine per cent. of them settle the "nigger" inferiority question.

There seems to be considerable anxiety among some of the colored people to join white churches, especially those will eliminated in life. Knowing that the Constitution of the United States and my own State don't allow me to choose for them or in any way interfere with religious worship, all I can say, being one of them and wishing to see them cast their lot with those who will do them the most good, is, I hope that they will be benefited. While I am no Catholic, or ever will be, I think that church treats colored people better than any I know in the city. I have often seen the priest in the houses of his colored members, seemingly just as contented as if in the house of his white brother or sister; rides with them on the streets without thinking that he is committing an unpardonable crime.

The annual camp-meeting of the Pensacola District of the A. M. E. Church will convene at Chifield next month. As I am opposed to the things that make up this meeting I suppose it will be in keeping with the adage, "If you can't say anything good, don't say anything bad," so I am not in a position to say anything.

NEWPORT NEWS

BY REV. J M. CARGILL

MR. EDITOR:—I was quite indisposed for three weeks, while in Cambridge, Md., my pleasant little home on the Eastern Shore; and the physician advised me to leave Cambridge and come North. My family being at Newport, I left Cambridge on Tuesday, July 12, and came to Newport in order to recuperate, and spend the time with them. I am very much benefited by my short stay here, and, to speak modestly, never in my life have we been more highly entertained by a host of friends.

We have been the recipients of some twenty different entertainments given in my honor. Among them an English breakfast reception, Mrs. Sarah Ellis, No. 20 DeBlois Court; a fishing party and a private picnic, by Mr. and Mrs. Silas Dickerson, of Eleventh street; an evening tea party, by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Van Horne, John's street.

To attempt to mention the entertainments given to me since I have been here would take too much space; but to say we were entertained, in addition to the above, by Mrs. Nancy Jones, Mrs. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. William Dickson, Mrs. Bell Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Norris, Mrs. Willbanks, Mr. and Mrs. James Venable, Mr. and Mrs. Francis, Mrs. M. W. Nicholas, Mrs. Louisa Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Hutton, the Bowie girls, and others.

We thank them and others of our friends for these expressions of esteem and confidence; we shall not forget them.

Newport, R I.

CONGRATULATIONS.

YORK, PA., September 2, 1887.

DEAR LEE:—Please accept my congratulations. For forty-five years to-day, September 2, I have been a member of the A. M. E. Church; for thirty-four years an itinerant preacher; I have witnessed all the changee that have taken place. The CHRISTIAN RECORDER started on the 1st day of September, 1887, in a new form, a better form. The A. M E Church has for the first time a paper that does honor to her Long may she live and grow. She deserves to have 50,000 subscribers. Come, brethren, take hold and work. I am, respectfully, yours in Christ,

WM. WAUGH GRIMES.

DR. LIVINGSTONE'S REPLY.

When Livingstone visited England after his great exploring tour, he was much praised for his sacrifices It was true he had labored much, but what did he reply to this praise? "People talk of the sacrifices I made in spending so large a portion of my life in Africa. Can you call that a sacrifice which is only a small payment on that great debt to God which can never be fully discharged? Say rather that it is a privilege. I have never made a sacrifice."—Spirit of Missions.

All Travelers
Whether by land or sea, who are liable to be out of reach of drug stores and doctors, would do well to have a supply of Ayer's Pills at hand. For this purpose, the Pills are put up in bottles as well as boxes, and may be conveniently carried in one's pocket. Six of the most distinguished physicians of Syracuse, N. Y., in giving their joint testimony as to the excellent medical combination of Ayer's Pills, make this point: "Their beautiful coating of gelatine and sugar is a great advantage, in that it protects them from change by time or climate, and renders them pleasant and even agreeable to take."

"During the twenty-five years I have lived on the frontier," writes John McDowall, of Sweetwater, Col., "Ayer's Pills have been my best friend. I have lived, mostly, where there was no doctor within twenty miles, and have been hard sick several times. I always kept Ayer's medicines on hand, and with them, and the Almanac, have pulled through. I have also doctored others, and believe I have saved some valuable lives by the use of Ayer's Pills."

Ayer's Pills,

A MIDNIGHT PRAYER.

In the mild silence of the voiceless night,
When, chased by airy dreams, the slum,
bers flee,
Whom in the darkness doth my spirit seek-
O God, but Thee?

And if there be a weight upon my breast—
Some vague impression of the day foregone—
Scarce knowing what it is, I fly to Thee
And lay it down.

Or if it be the heaviness that comes
In token of anticipated ill,
My bosom takes no heed of what it is,
Since 'tis Thy will.

For O I in spite of past and present care,
Or anything besides, how joyfully
Passes that almost solitary hour,
My God, with Thee.

More tranquil than the stillness of the night,
More peaceful than the silence of that hour,
More blest than anything; my bosom lies
Beneath Thy power;

For what is there on earth that I desire,
Of all that man can give or take from me?
Or whom in heaven doth my spirit seek
O God but Thee?

—Selected.

CONSECRATION.

BY REV. T. W. HAIGLER, D. PH.

Consecrate me, Lord, to Thee,
Let me ever holy be;
Lead me through this world of night,
Ever walking in the light.

Speak through me from Zion's Hill,
Help me publish Thine own will.
In Thy vineyard success give,
'Till I'm called with Thee to live.

In the mission field of God
Tell the story of the Cross:
God will ever you sustain,
'Till we meet in heaven to reign.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH—ITS PRESENT NEEDS.

BY REV. A. J. KERSHAW.

No. 5.

Twenty-five years ago the name of the A. M. E. Church was sufficient to capture and hold within its folds one-sixteenth of the colored race of the United States. That day is past, and you can no more keep the colored race within our Church by the old methods than you can keep a horse fat by feeding it upon apple cider. The age demands something new, the rising generation demands something new, the colored race demands something new, and the world demands something new. The first new thing that our Church demands, is a unity of action; the second, a newness of purpose, and the third is a united front. With these conditions all triumphs are sure as the flow of time. Without these our defeat is as certain as the existence of matter. Under the head of our first proposition, many subjects come up for discussion, but with all of these we have no time to deal, so we shall only note a few. First, then, is fealty to law, which must have the precedent over everything else. Without this, the terms "man" and "beast" could have no meaning. Without this, nature long since would have been shipwrecked. Without this, nature's God would have long ago proved himself to be an Eastern Juggernaut, to powder every object, both animate and inanimate. With this, States exist; with this, nations grow strong; with this, kingdoms and empires live for centuries; and with this churches fulfill their intended functions. If this be true in every department of human research, can it be less true in the A. M. E. Church? Certainly not. A unity of action, we repeat, is the present need of the A. M. E. Church. But you ask, how can this be brought about? The way is plain. Let all within the jurisdiction learn to keep its law—both the letter and spirit. Let us say right here—and we say it with all the emphasis we can gather—we have no respect for lawbreakers, whether found among the bald knobbers of the West, ballot-box stuffers of the South, bribe-takers of the North, bank cashiers of the East, or law republicators of our own Church.

This brings us to one of the most remarkable incidents in the history of the A. M. E. Church; the New York Conference voting for and its Bishop appointing one of its members to a charge for the fifth time in open violation of the law of our Church. The New York Conference is one of the ablest, if not the ablest, conference in our connection, and we are surprised that it should tolerate such actions, much less give them its support. If such actions had occurred in one of those conferences whose members are "only fifteen years old" it would have been bad enough, but when we consider the composition of the New York Conference—its graduates, its scholars, its able divines and its aspirants for the Bishopric, the whole thing becomes ridiculous. But let us take another view of this matter.

The effects of this fifth year appointment reach far beyond the boundaries of the New York Conference. Yes, its effects will be seen sooner or later throughout the length and breadth of our connection, for every other church under our jurisdiction has the same right to petition its respective Bishop for a fifth, sixth or seventh appointment; and to be consistent with the precedent, the request must be granted. Here one Bishop says a preacher can be sent to a church as long as the members desire him; another one declares four years is the limitation. One Bishop thinks that the wishes of our Church should be granted even if it does violate the orders of the General Conference. Another says that the laws of the General Conference are supreme and must be obeyed at all hazards. Perhaps we are wrong; may be the New York Conference can show that there was no lawbreaking in this matter. If so, we shall be more than glad to hear from it; but until this is done we shall forever look upon it as a high-handed violation of the orders of our General Conference.

In closing this article we must pay our respect to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER. Allow us to say we thought it was the duty of our Church organ to defend the laws, the usages and the institutions of the A. M. E Church against every assault, whether made by false friends, or open foes; but I found I was mistaken, for here is law-breaking right under the nose of the RECORDER, but still he is silent as the grave. Where, we ask, is that powerful pen of Dr. Lee's with which he sometimes deals such deadly blows to the enemies of right? We ask, and the only answer we receive is, where is it? Not a word of protest, not a word of condemnation. Give us unity or give us death. "In union there is strength," is as true now as it was in 1776.

In our next we shall take up our second proposition—"A oneness of purpose in relation to the great mission of the A. M. E. Church," and will try to point out our great danger.

Tallahassee, Fla.

SEASIDE SAUNTERINGS.

BY REV. J. T. JENIFER.

"Mamma, can't you ask God to show us some place where we can get cool?" said our little Bertha artlessly one exceedingly hot day in July.

"Wait, my daughter, till after July 31st, when the memorial services in reference to the death of Bishop Payne are and good man, Bishop Shorter, are held by Bethel Church, Providence, and the Children's Day exercises are over, then we shall go to look for a cool place," said mamma.

Having celebrated the eucharist with the members of the Providence Church, August 7th, Tuesday, the 9th, we took our grip-sack, put into it the Bible, Discipline, one unfinished sermon, the New England Conference minute, the Independent, the "Month-Piece," Pelonbet's "Sunday School Notes," "Unitarian Principles," by E. E. Hale, and "Orthodoxy; its Truths and its Errors," by James Freeman Clarke. Of we started to Narragansett Pier, another point in our district, in search of that "cool place" to spend two weeks' vacation.

"Now, papa says he is going to rest, yet he takes along all these books and things, besides letters to write and daily papers to read. He will have no time to go with us to the beach," says Georgie. "This is the way to rest by diversion, my boy." "Diversion, papa? And what is that?" "Relieving the mind and body from tire over one thing to rest them in doing another. Thus our heavenly Father has arranged the duties and burdens of life durable by the relief and pleasure of their variety."

"You seem to enjoy that Orthodoxy," remarked an observant lady. "You have been so long up here in New England I fear you are becoming tainted with some of these isms and ologies." "Oh no, madam. They who aim to teach others must themselves first be taught." We have been curious enough to acquaint ourselves measurably with the beliefs and opinions of the Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist, Lutheran, Presbyterian, Congregational and Roman Catholic bodies, now we wish to ascertain what the Unitarians do really believe, for as for us the opinions of this sect, they are everywhere spoken against."

It is profitable as well as pleasant to read the opinions of Rev. Edward Everett Hale, Brook Hurford and James Freeman Clark, along the lines of advanced liberal thought and Biblical criticisms, not only because of their great learning and style, but next to Channing, Bellows and T. Star King these men are regarded as authoritative expositors of Unitarian beliefs.

James Freeman Clark finds some truths in each creed in his "Ten Chief Religions," which are held in common by all Christians. So is it profitable for us to find the common essential grounds of all believers. One may find much valuable truth by reading "Theodosia" without becoming a Baptist, as he may by reading Bishop Gibbon's "Faith of our Fatbers," and not become a Roman Catholic.

But, Brother Editor, I did not intend to write a dissertation upon books or authors. Notwithstanding, our wise men tell us it is as good way as any to rest the mind to let it run into any profitable field of thought where it finds pleasure. I started out to say a few things about "seaside saunterings."

There are few people who make more of life than those of New England. Arduous in labors, productive in varied industries, economical and exact in dealings, yet no people seem to know better how to combine with their toils profitable and pleasant recreation

It is marvelous to observe the extent to which these far-seeing white men have brought up and utilized the various nooks, coves and corners along this rock-bound coast for pleasure resorts and money getting. Secluded places which, a few years since, no one would think of having, are now palatial pleasure resorts. Every imaginable device for getting money is found at these chief attractions. The pocket of this white race is like a great trapper; every penny drops into it, spent for whatever purpose. It is humiliating to find so few colored people utilizing these many opportunities for money-making. They flock to them by the thousands a season and spend here and on the boats and cars money by the hundreds, but nine times out of ten colored ladies and gentlemen are denied comfortable accommodations at places for guests. This week three of the most refined colored young ladies of a New England city went to Narragansett Pier for a few days. While here they attempted to hire a bathing suit and take a bath. They were told that they could not bathe until the afternoon, as the guests objected to colored people bathing during the hours they bathe. Being curious to know the truth of it, I inquired of a colored lady who keeps a bathing house She told me that all the bath houses are forbidden, by the hotel proprietors, who control the beach, from letting colored people bathing suits after 10 o'clock A. M. and before 2 P. M. Oh, cursed caste! Not a colored man owns a foot of that sea beach at Narragansett Pier. It is one of the finest along the Atlantic Coast and the bathing is so delightful that the town is growing at a fabulous rate. It is mean to say that they make it in a manner that everybody could understand their much needed addresses for such a good cause. Home training, moral and intellectual education, have been presented to our people to the entire satisfaction, I believe, of all. Out of all these meetings I am sorry to say I have not heard a word for Wilberforce.

Miss Florence B Taylor, a young lady of our city, who returned recently from the Tuskegee Normal School, after serving nine months, read at all of these meetings excellent papers on education. Seeing her improvement others have concluded to do likewise. These meetings have aroused the people as never before. Another sign of improvement is, our people read a larger number of colored newspapers than they ever did, and seem to regard them beyond considering them as "no good." But I am sorry to say that some of the very best men that ought to urge them to read are silent. Still another sign may be noted. The young men who heretofore took no interest in scarcely anything beyond pleasure, are taking an active part in several things of importance and seeking occupations beyond those of menial servitude. Wherever they are given the shallowest chance in the race of life ninety-nine per cent. of them settle the "nigger" inferiority question.

There seems to be considerable anxiety among some of the colored people to join white churches, especially those will situated in life. Knowing that the Constitution of the United States and my own State don't allow me to choose for them or in any way interfere with religious worship, all I can say, being one of them and wishing to see them cast their lot with those who will do them the most good, is, I hope that they will be benefited. While I am no Catbolic, or ever will be, I think that church treats colored people better than any I know in the city. I have often seen the priest in the houses of his colored members, seemingly just as contented as if in the house of his white brother or sister; rides with them on the streets without thinking that he is committing an unpardonable crime.

The annual camp-meeting of the Pensacola District of the A. M. E. Church will convene at Oakfield next month. As I am opposed to the things that make up this meeting I suppose it will be in keeping with the adage, "If you can't say anything good, don't say anything bad," so I am not in a position to say anything.

NEWPORT NEWS

BY REV. J. M. CARGILL

MR. EDITOR:—I was quite indisposed for three weeks, while in Cambridge, Md., my pleasant little home on the Eastern Shore; and the physician advised me to leave Cambridge and come North. My family being at Newport, I left Cambridge on Tuesday, July 12, and came to Newport in order to recuperate, and spend the time with them. I am very much benefited by my short stay here, and, to speak modestly, never in my life have we been more highly entertained by a host of friends.

We have been the recipients of some twenty different entertainments given in my honor. Among them an English breakfast reception, Mrs. Sarah Ellis, No. 20 DeBlois Court; a fishing party and a private picnic, by Mr. and Mrs. Silas Dickerson, of Eleventh street; an evening tea party, by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Van Horne, John's street.

To attempt to mention the entertainments given me as above I have been here would take too much space; but to say we were entertained, in addition to the above, by Mrs. Nancy Jones, Mrs. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. William Dickson, Mrs. Bell Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Norris, Mrs. Willbanks, Mr. and Mrs. James Venable, Mr. and Mrs. Francis, Mrs. M. W. Nicholas, Mrs. Louisa Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Hutton, the Bowie girls, and others.

We thank them and others of our friends for these expressions of esteem and confidence; we shall not forget them.

Newport, R. I.

YORK, PA., September 2, 1887.

DEAR LEE:—Please accept my congratulations. For forty-five years today, September 2, I have been a member of the A. M. E. Church; for thirty-four years an itinerant preacher; I have witnessed all the changes that have taken place. The CHRISTIAN RECORDER started on the 1st day of September, 1887, in a new form, a better form. The A. M. E. Church has for the first time a paper that does honor to her. Long may she live and grow. She deserves to have 50,000 subscribers. Come, brethren, take bold and work. I am, respectfully, yours in Christ.

DR. LIVINGSTONE'S REPLY.

When Livingstone visited England after his great exploring tour, he was much praised for his sacrifices. It was true he had labored much, but what did he reply to this praise? "People talk of the sacrifices I made in spending so large a portion of my life in Africa. Can you call that a sacrifice which is only a small payment on that great debt to God which can never be fully discharged? Say rather that it is a privilege. I have never made a sacrifice."—Spirit of Missions.

MORE BISHOPS.

THE MEANS OF PRESERVING THE EPISCOPAL COMPLEMENT.

This is a proposition that should receive the full attention of the General Conference. The mind, perhaps, has never before been turned towards it, and still it has been a subject affecting the advancement of the Church. It must now, though, be weighed and decided. A certain number of districts must be laid out and kept supplied with the required number of Bishops. We say fourteen, and so will say the General Conference, if it should see the advantage as we see it. Then it will make a provision by which it will keep up the full force of the board. There are two or three methods by which this might be done. By the first there could be a temporary arrangement and by the other two a permanent one

First. The Board of Bishops could be directed to assemble three months after the obit of any member of it, and by due deliberation elect some well qualified elder to act as superintendent of the district until a Bishop should be elected. It could constrain him to travel through the district, hold the annual conferences and do every thing not forbidden by the law. He could be known simply as the District Superintendent, entitled to half the salary of a Bishop and to all his traveling expenses. He would have no right to the full salary of a Bishop because he would not be a Bishop. He would be only a substitute to preserve the interests of the district until a Bishop could be elected to keep up the number. Such a proviso would be far better than the sledge-hammer one. It would be the means of keeping the work in order so that the General Conference might improve it and not have to reconstruct it. The Bishops themselves can see that this is a measure much more profitable than the one that orders them to assemble around a district with sledges, mauls and mallets to bang away until the pieces fly in every direction. They could appoint a superintendent, aid him and let him be a nominal Bishop, if you please, and thus preserve in an organic form that that has been made by the General Conference. This would be progression.

Second. The General Conference could be called to assemble in extra session six months after the demise of any Bishop for the purpose of electing his successor. In this event the vacancy could be fully and permanently filled at once. It would promulgate the work without any interruption; it would, moreover, indicate such a high regard for the episcopal office and the perpetuation of system that the whole Church would be moved to more fervently support its government. The extra expense would find a full liquidation in increased moral strength. People would then conceive that the managers of the Church were unreservedly concerned in working for its welfare. They would be better satisfied with the course pursued.

The law-making power would then be manifested over and above every other agency in the Church. It would show itself as acting upon the most reasonable by instituting ground. The death of a Bishop at any time ought to exercise the members of the Church as much as the death of a President does the people of the United States. Those of the clergy who have been elected and stand as members elected to the General Conference for four years ought to be incited by law to be deeply concerned in filling the vacancy. This earnestness concerning a vacancy by death ought to be evinced not only in this case, but relative to a vacancy made by any other cause. It should not be left subjected to the question whether anybody should be elected at the next General Conference till it do. The method of government ought to be so well devised, and the number of Bishops made so indispensable to the prosperity of the Church, that the standing decree would have to be, "A vacancy shall be filled as soon as possible."

Third. The episcopal committee could be made the most efficient branch of government in supplying this necessity. Soon after the obsequies of any one of the honored bond, the chairman of said committee could convocate the members of it, at some suitable place, and have all the remaining Bishops present for the purpose of having an election and confirmation of this kind duly offered. This could be done in the event of a vacancy by any means.

The perpetuation of the full force of the requisite number—fourteen—is a matter of much importance that it should receive immediate consideration in the case of any vacancy. This can be done effectually by no other means so well as by the Episcopal Committee. Let it be commanded by such a strong, able man as the last chairman, Dr. Jas. A. Handy, and he empowered by the General Conference to convene whenever there is a vacancy, that it may elect some one to fill it, and there will be no disorder of the work from the end of one quadrennium to another. The experience we have had in the passing period tells as most emphatically that some remedy must be found for the benefit of the Church in the line of this direction. A clear and well defined law formulated on this project ought to be passed at the next General Conference. It is preposterous for any one to say that two or three Bishops can die, that two or three episcopal vacancies can be made, and that the work can go on just as well as it could before the deaths and vacancies. The logical deduction of this asseveration is, that it is either an absurdity, or that Bishops are no account. He who will, can take either horn of the dilemma. If it is absurd, then it is imperative that the full force should be kept in existence. If it is true, then it is well enough to let the whole board die out. Such are the conclusions from thoughtless declarations made concerning this important subject. Everyone with common sense knows that six men cannot do fourteen men's work. They cannot do it. The work is seriously affected, therefore, whenever there is a lessening of the number. It has been but a few hours ago since I heard one complaint after another in a certain section because there had been no episcopal visits. These complaints are made, but it is not known, even in part, that the ground of them is caused by an insufficient number of Bishops to meet the wants. That conception, then, can be formed of an extension of that ground by a gradual diminution of the number indispensable to the performance of the work by visiting every charge? None at all. The good people who are to be nursed and encouraged see what they presume to be culpable neglectfulness, and see an increase of it, but do not realize that on the death of every Bishop, whilst the work is growing with the age, burdens are imposed upon those who are left behind which they can accomplish in no better manner than could the children of Israel both make brick and gather straw. Then it is plain that every Bishop taken from an insufficient number detrimentally affects the work of all of them. Each one can do only a part of his own work and a part of somebody else's. More, then, are needed.

VIRGINIA CONFERENCE.

BY REV. I. L. BUTTS, P. E.

MR. EDITOR:—Please allow me a little space in the columns of your paper to speak of my district.

At the rise of the last session of the Virginia Annual Conference, April, 1887, I was appointed presiding elder of the Fourth P. E. District of this conference.

I arrived at Harmony Circuit May 6, and found Elder George W Pinkard, one of the old pioneers and fathers of the conference, at his post. This is his first year in the field, but he is taking nicely with his people, and they are rallying to him like good soldiers.

Elder George D. Jimmerson is holding the fort at Danville. He is our Nimrod, for he is a mighty hunter." This exercise has been recommended by his physician. But, best of all, Elder Jimmerson is a mighty hunter for souls; less than three weeks after the adjournment of the annual conference he received over fifty persons into the church and on quarterly meeting day he baptized thirty-two candidates by immersion, and at 3 o'clock, P. M by sprinkling several. This is truly a live church, Sunday school and choir.

At Jacksonville Circuit, Rev. Lamuel Sears, a young man of push and backbone, is pastor. He has commenced his second year with this people. He is much beloved by his flock and the community.

Elder F. F. Crawford is pastor at Martinsville. He was recently transferred from the Tennessee Conference. Good results for all are expected from his change to this year.

At Penn's Store Circuit, Brother Jesse C. Young is mastering the situation. I was with him May 22nd.

Everything is bright at Leatherwood Circuit. Brother Simon P. Cornick is at work in this field. The fact that the pastor of last year, who was suspended by the presiding elder, still remains here, has created considerable trouble, but things considered, is in a pretty fair condition. The majority of my pastors, like myself, are putting in their first year in most of the fields, and many of them the first year in the ministry. This is truly a missionary district and there is much missionary work to be accomplished here yet. We need more missionary money applied to this district and then more of our experienced men of the conference to take hold of this field. Green hands can't do much in mission fields, especially without some means to assist them. But we have no complaint to make, but merely speak of the needs of this field.

As every lord giveth a certain livery to his servants, charity is the livery of Christ. Our Saviour, who is Lord above all lords, would have his servants known by their badge, which is love.—Latimer.

BISHOP SHORTER.

BY REV. A. T. HALL.

The death of Bishop Shortar was a very sudden shock, not only to us, but to the Church. We bastily draped the church in mourning and on last Thursday night we spent the time in prayer and talking of the good deeds of that noble and great man, and some remembered a part of the sermon that he preached in this pulpit the last time he made us a visit; but, bless God, he rests from his labors. Last Sunday at Aurora we held memorial services. The pastor read the 3d and 4th chapters of 2 Timothy, ths hymn, "Oh, when shall I see Jesus?" and prayer by Rev. P. T. Nease; reading of the life and death of the Bishop from the CHRISTIAN RECORDER, and a fifteen minute discourse from Matthew, 25: "Well done, good and faithful servant." We then sang the 147th hymn, "Servant of God, well done." Several speeches, one by the pastor, who had received four appointments from the Bishop's hand, and one by Bro P. T. Neace, who had received three appointments from him, and one from Bro. Albert Williams, who was well acquainted with him, closed by singing "The gates ajar." Sorrow filled the hearts of all. While the Church and the missionary cause lose one of their best men, yet have we rejoices at his having gained the port; he stepped up ont of the world into the kingdom of grace, and up ont of the kingdom of grace into the kingdom of glory; in the first he put off the old man with all his needs and put on the new man; in the second he put off his earthly house and put on his home from heaven and dwells with the saints in light. Who will be the next? Let the General Conference see that they elect men from 35 to 40 years, that will be able to stand travel and the climate of the isles of the sea, Africa, South and North, while the old Bishops fill in nearer home.

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE.

It is related of Franklin that from the window of his office in Philadelphia, he noticed a mechanic, among a number of others, at work on a house which was being erected near by, who had a kind and cheerful smile for every one he met. Let the day be ever so cold, gloomy or sunless, the happy smile danced like a sunbeam on his cheerful countenance. Meeting him one day, Franklin requested to know the secret of his constant happy flow of spirits.

"It's no secret, Doctor," the man replied; "I've got one of the best of wives, and when I go to work she always gives me a kind word of encouragement and a blessing with her parting kiss; and when I go home she is sure to meet me with a smile and a kiss of welcome; and then tea is sure to be ready; and as we chat in the evening I find she has been doing so many little things through the day to please me that I can not find it in my mind to speak an unkind word or give an unkind look to anybody."

And Franklin adds: "What an influence, then, hath woman over the heart of man to soften it, and make it a fountain of cheerful and pure emotions! Speak gently, then. A happy smile and a kind word of greeting after the toils of the day are low cost coming, and go far toward making home happy and peaceful."

THE ANGLO-AMERICAN ARBITRATION.—Mr. John Bright has signed the memorial to the President and Congress of the United States in favor of the establishment of a Court of International Arbitration for the settlement of disputes that may arise between England and America. One hundred and seventy-three English, Welsh and Scotch members of the House of Commons have now attached their signatures to the memorial, and nine members have signified their intention of joining the deputation which will go to America during the autumn for the purpose of presenting it. Lord Herschell, who sailed to the United States last week, and Sir John Playfair, who sails on Wednesday, will join the deputation if their visit extend until the time when the memorial is presented.—London Times, Aug. 12.

OUR COMING GREAT CENTENNIAL.

Many inquiries come to us from all ections about the coming Centennial Jubilee of African Methodism and the programme of the same. To all these questions we can only give this general reply at present: 1 The month of November is the time set apart for the jubilee. At the Episcopal meeting in Atlantic City in July, it was the opinion of the Bishops and brethren present that the whole Church should join in the celebration, but that we could not fix upon one day for all, on account of the many conferences to be held in that month. Ten conferences, embracing more than half the ministers and members of the connection, will be held in November This alone is a circumstance unparalled in our history. It was decided, therefore, to set apart the whole month, including all the Sabbaths, as the centennial or jubilee month; but especially to emphasize one of the three Sabbaths, 13th, 20th, or 27th. Thus all the churches of the entire connection would have an opportunity to participate in the jubilee. The final winding up and general gathering to occur in this city (Philadelphia) from Tuesday, November 22, to Sunday, 27. 2 The programmes have not yet been fully prepared and approved by the committee, but to make the matter plain to all we give this illustration: (a) the Bishops of the Church, all of them, and the general officers, constinte a general committee, Dr. B. W. Arnett, secretary; (b) committee of programme and details, Revs B. W. Arnett, J. C. Embry and the following members of the Philadelphia Conference: Rev. C. C. Felts, chairman, L. J. Coppin, J. S. Thompson, C. T. Shaffer, and, we think, B W Bolton, or J. W. Beckett (?) Bishop Brown is chairman of the working Committee. But since he will be nearly the whole interval in the far West, and in California, he verbally deputized the Manager to go ahead and push things in his name.

3 All pastors of the Board of Stewards and Stewardesses and superintendents, are made the managing committee of each church and Sunday school.

ADVICE: We advise every pastor who is going to take part in the jubilee, to call his committee, as above-named, early in October, decide at once what week in November you will hold your celebration or jubilee, first week, second week or third week. In all cases closing on Sunday. It should begin not later than Wednesday of the week chosen. As soon as you have settled the time notify this office, for programme, and for the number of envelopes you may need.

We shall print at least fifty thousand (50,000) with our Church motto, centennial motto, and likeness of Allen. These are "centennial free-will offering" envelopes, and can't be duplicated.

This is an outline of the whole.

Notice to ministers buying the school text books in the course of studies: Owing to the high prices now asked by publishers for these books, we can no longer furnish them at the rates published in the RECORDER catalogue of last winter.

We do not expect to make profit on these books to students, but we must have our money back for their cost and expense of handling. We are compelled, therefore, after this week, to raise the prices on most of them to cover cost and expense. We change our rates this week.

J. C. EMBRY.

OUR NEW DEED.

We again call the attention of the pastors and presiding elders to the form of Warranty Deed we have prepared and published for general use in the purchase of church properties. The form is simple, and plain as plain can be, yet it is believed to cover every point in the law. It was drawn by an old experienced attorney, with our Discipline before him. Price, 25 cents per copy, or 5 for $1 00.

Address,

J. C. EMBRY,
Box 906, Philadelphia, Pa.

EVERGREEN COTTAGE,
Wilberforce, Ohio, Aug 24, '87.

The Bishops of the A. M. E. Church are hereby informed that a joint meeting of the Bishops of the A. M. E. Zion Church will be held at Montgomery, Ala., on the 15th of December, 1887, to be opened at 10 A. M.

The object of the joint meeting is for further consideration of the question of "organic union" according to the Articles of Agreement of the joint commission of the African M. E. Church and African M E Zion Connections, held in Washington, D. C., July 15-17, A. D. 1885

In view of the importance of anch a meeting before the General Conferences of the two Connections, in May, 1888, we beg that the Bishops of both connections will arrange their official obligations and printed private affairs, as to have no excuse for absence from the Montgomery meeting in Alabama at the date fixed.

Signed in behalf of both Boards of Bishops,

DANIEL ALEXANDER PAYNE,
SINGLETON THOMAS JONES.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Pastors or superintendents having Children's Day money in their possession will please forward the same at once so that it may be reported in the Annual Record. We are keeping the report open in order that every school may be represented. Fraternally,

C. S. SMITH,

THOUGHTS SUGGESTED BY ART.

The conception of moral good did not satisfy one while contemplating it. The purest form known to us at present is more unselfishness, the doing of good, not for any reward, now or hereafter, but for the completion of an imaginary scheme. This is the best we know. But how unsatisfactory! Filled with the aspirations called forth by the ideal before me, it appeared as if even the saving of life is a little work compared to what the heart would like to do. An artist is needed more fully satisfying to the utmost desires than is afforded by any labor of self-abnegation. It must be something in accord with the perception of beauty and of an ideal. Personal beauty is not enough. The works called good are dry and tejune, soon consummated, often of questionable aims, and leaving behind them when finished a sense of vacuity. You give a sum of money to a good object and walk away, but it does not satisfy the craving of the heart. You deny yourself pleasure to sit by the bedside of an invalid—a good deed, but when it is done there remains an emptiness of the soul. It is not enough—it is carnistery to say that it is. I often think the reason the world is so cold and selfish, so solid and indifferent, is because it has never yet been shown how to be anything else. Listen, ye holy prophets of all times and climes, it has heard them proclaim their ordinances, and has seen these observances punctually observed for hundreds of years, and nothing has come of it. To-day it listens to the prophets of humanity, and it sees much real benevolence actually carried out. But the result is infinitesimal. Nothing comes of it; it does not satisfy the individual heart. The world at large continues unfounded and indifferent—first because its common sense is not convinced, and secondly because its secret aspirations are in no degree satisfied. So that it is not altogether the world's fault if it is stolid. Everything has been tried and found wanting. Man rush in crowds to the gold-diggings of California, to the Australian "find;" and in like manner, if any real spiritual or ideal good were proffered, crowds would rush to participate in it. Nothing yet has been given but empty words, and these so-called "goods" have proved as tasteless, and as much Dead Sea apples, as the apples of vice; perhaps even more bitter than the regrets of vice. Though I cannot name the ideal good, it seems to me it will be in some way closely associated with the real beauty of nature.—Richard Jefferies, in the Magazine of Art for September.

THE OLDEST MAN IN THE WORLD.

The oldest man in the world is said to be James James, a colored citizen of the United States, who resides at Santa Rosa, Mexico. He is 135 years old. He was born near Dorchester, S. C., in 1752. He was one of the laborers at Fort Moultre during the unsuccessful attack of the British fleet in 1776. He was then 24 years old. His master, James James, manned one of the guns during the fight. His last owner was Henry James, who moved into Mexico in 1853 in order that his slaves might become free before his death. At present the rheumatism keeps James from walking, but he can drag himself a short distance and otherwise is in fairly good health.—New York World.

"Surely, it would be better for the sects to adapt themselves to circumstances, to advocate simple and innocent pleasures, and to be content with working up the moral standard of the cities, rather than to persist in setting up a fetish and bringing about a reaction." The obvious reply to this is that the Christian Sabbath, with its warrant in divine law, and its countless blessings to mankind, is not exactly a "fetish," a superstition to be exploded by the literary dynamite of eloquent leading articles. To tamper with the Sabbath is to disobey and insult its Giver. Moreover, if "simple and innocent pleasures" become the new Sabbath law, who shall define these very plausible terms for us? A football match, a regatta, a horse race, a review, the newspapers, the theaters—all these may be demanded by one class or another as forms of "simple and innocent pleasure" for Sabbath use. We must ourselves be "simple and innocent" in a quite transcendent degree before we surrender the most precious and divine of social institutions on such terms.—The Southern Cross.

Church News.

Rev. W. S. Covington, Carthage, Miss., writes that by hard work he has succeeded in building the best church edifice in that town, and he asks the prayers of the entire Church on his work.

Word comes from Stoneville, Miss., that Rev. E. W. Lampton, the pastor at that place, has had a ten days' revival, and in that time has had 61 conversions. The church is in a prosperous condition

Rev. D. W. Moore, Brooks county Circuit, Ga., writes:—"The circuit has been blessed this year with two grand revivals—the first one in March at Mt. Zion, which resulted in the harvesting of 35 souls, the last one just closed at Sunberry Church with the grandest success ever known there, with 75 conversions, making a total in the two revivals of 110 souls converted, and the fire still burning."

Rev. James F. A. Sisson, Wesson, Miss., writes:—"At Pleasant Grove Church, near Summit, Miss., a protracted meeting was closed August 20th, resulting in the conversion of fifty-seven souls. The church has recently been seated. The pastor, Rev. E. D. Dukes, is having a year of success. One week ago last Sunday, Rev. G. W. Ellis, one of the pastors of this (Brook Haven) district, was buried."

Obituary.

Sister Molly Brown, wife of Rev. J. J. Brown, departed this life at Green Pond, S. C., June 27, 1887, aged 36 years. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn her loss.

To the memory of the late R. S. Simms, of the Florida Conferenos, and pastor of the Key West Station:

WHEREAS, Almighty God has, in his all-wise providence, seen fit to remove from us our much beloved pastor, who passed away peacefully from labor to reward August 13, 1887; and

WHEREAS, We feel it but right to show our esteem as a church; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we follow the teaching which we have been so often taught by our beloved pastor: always bow in submission to the will of God. Be it further

Resolved, That we tender our sympathy to the bereaved family and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family and also the CHRISTIAN RECORDER.

Servant of God, well done,
Rest from thy loved employ,
Tha battle fought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy.

IN MEMORY OF BISHOP JAMES A. SHORTER.

WHEREAS, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst by death our beloved father, James A. Shorter, ninth Bishop of the A. M. E. Church, who was a true Christian, a pure, earnest minister of the gospel and a loved Bishop; therefore be it

Resolved, That we bow in humble submission to Almighty God, whose wisdom never erreth and who doeth all things for his glory and our good; and we acquiesce in this visitation of his Providence.

Resolved, That his death makes it our duty to say a word in honor of his memory, which will ever be fondly cherished by the people of Eaton, O., for having officiated in the dedication of our chapel here in the year 1890. No more will he dedicate churches here below, but will live in churches dedicated above, "not made with hands but eternal in the heavens."

Resolved, That we tender his loving family our heartfelt sympathy in their great bereavement and we commend them to Him who doeth all things well and who bids us trust in him. To the Church in general we can but exclaim, we shall meet again.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the CHRISTIAN RECORDER and the Cleveland Gazette.

IN MEMORIAM.

Our hearts were filled with sadness when we received the sorrowful intelligence of the death of Mrs. D. S. Bentley; but when we think that life's journey has rough places, that pain and suffering mar earthly happiness, then think of our sister who is now in heaven's boundless realms—

"Pluckn no thorn-clad flowers,
No tempting joys bewailed," we look up amid our tears and say, "She shall never grow weary nor falter in her eternal home with God."

We, therefore, delegates to this Sunday school convention, offer as a slight token of our respect for our sister, these resolutions:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our Almighty Father to take unto himself the beloved companion of the Rev. D. S. Bentley, therefore be it Resolved, That in the death of Mrs. Bantley the cause of Christianity has lost an earnest supporter.

Resolved, That though her death was hourly expected, we learn from her thus called to know the joys beyond the gates, that "here we have no continuing city;" that "in the midst of life we are in death."

Resolved, That we tender our sincerest condolence to the companion and friends of the deceased, and pray that while they pass under the rod of affliction they may hear the voice of God, saying,

"Ill strengthen thee, help thee, and cause thee to stand; Uphold by My gracious, Omnipotent hand."

Resolved, Further, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved pastor of this church.

JOHN J. GNILIOT, of Port-au-Prince, Hayti, entered Wilberforce in the year 1883. He and I entered the same classes and became very good friends; he possessed a very brilliant mind. We were associated together in Wilberforce as classmates for about five years, and many times I would become discouraged with my school work, but I had only to turn to him, and he was ready to offer a word of encouragement.

He was resolute and sincere in all his deeds. These are traits to be admired in his noble character. He became afflicted in the early part of '87, but continued to attend his classes until about the latter part of March, when, on account of weakness, he was compelled to stop, yet seemed determined to accomplish the work.

But after he saw he could not attend school any longer, he became very anxious about going home to see his mother and friends. He seemed to think if he could get home he would get better, so a few weeks before the time of our graduation, he left for his native land, and when he bade me farewell he said, "I hope you all may have success as a class. I am sorry I cannot be with you all." He arrived home on the 9th of June, and on the 27th of the same month the great monster death laid his cold, icy hand upon him and he closed his eyes and fell asleep in Jesus, and today he is resting in the glory land.

I, as a member of the class '87, feel his loss deep down in my soul, and I can assure that bereaved mother and father that they have our sympathy as a class in these their sad hours. Although he was the youngest member of the class he has been summoned first to carry the glad news home to our Maker. Now let us be encouraged, since we know that God worketh all things together for good to those who love him.

PHILADELPHIA, SEPT. 8, 1887.

THE GRAND and heroic contest of the band of Irish patriots in the British Parliament and before the English public, assisted by the great and good Mr. Gladstone and other Englishmen of just and liberal views, is one of the sublimest spectacl s of modern times. Irish autonomy and liborty in snbordination to the supreme authority of the British Empire is the end fought for. Its attainment now seems almost sure and not far away. In this great struggle the Irish people and their liberal allies have the sympathy of all liberty lovers throughout the world.

SECRETARY C. S. SMITH has so far recovered as to move about and participate in the general movements of the Church freely. Last Sunday he attended two of our Philadelphia churches, and on Monday, the Philadelphia Preachers' Meeting, making one of his characteristic, thrilling talks. The meeting was highly delighted to see Dr. Smith recovering and to hear of the success of the Sunday School Union. Resolutions were passed expressing the fullest confidence in the management of the Union and pledging a hearty co-operation and patronage. Secretary Smith's presence is highly appreciated in our city. We should not object to his moving hero to stay.

IN VIEW of the great diversity of opinion as to the duty of the coming General Conference in reference to episcopal elections, the presiding eldership and financial readjustments, one might think the Christian men who are manifesting so much anxiety on these questions would betake themselves to prayer, rather than waste their precious strength in perpetually shouting their ideas into the ears of the Church. Long ere the time comes for real debate and trial of strength, many good brethren will have exhausted all their resources; and what is worse, most that they have said will have been forgotten. If we remember rightly, when the great Daniel Webster was in the U. S. Senate, and at the apogee of his powers, some one notified him that he would be met in debate on some constitutional question by Mr. Hayne, (!) from S. C., who was in every way his equal as an orator, and superior as a constitutional lawyer. "Very well," said Mr. Webster, "but I challenge him to the husbanding of his resources." It is a strange notion, this wasting of so much ammunition before the tournament comes off.

NO GREATER fallacy in reasoning has been presented in the RECORDER recently than the well-written (!) article of Rev. Aldridge. The article is what they call ed cap tandum vulgus. It is not only unkind in tone toward the men who are working as hard as he, and earning their meagre support as honestly; it is not only misleading in its estimates, which are not true, but it visits a censure on the men, some of whom, at least, are almost sacrificing their lives in the work committed to them by the Church, and that, too, for a pittance paid to them in such a way that they often do not know what to do, through weeks and months of the year, for bread. No other men in the service of the general Church of any other denomination in America is subjected to such treatment. "Consolidate," he says, "and then place a good and faithful man at the head." Then consolidate the others and put "a capable man at the head of it." Of course all this says, if it does not mean, that the present Manager, Secretary of Education and Secretary of Sunday Schools are neither good nor faithful; that the Financial Secretary and Secretary of the Parent Home and Foreign Missionary Society are not capable of discharging their trust.

IN A RECENT work entitled "Brazil; Its Condition and Prospects," by Hon. C. C. Andrews, late Consul-general to Brazil, published by Applstons, N. Y., 1887, a chapter is given on slavery and the emancipation. It shows that in 1873 there were 1,540,796 slaves in the Empire. He gives a graphic account of the great anti-slavery struggle in the legislature and throughout the Empire in 1885, when the act of gradual emancipation proposed by the Imperial Government was under discussion. It reminds one very much of our great battle with the monster wrong; but differs widely from ours in the matter of bitterness and violence. The worst and fiercest slave-holder on earth was developed in these United States. He shows that only about 24,165 had been freed by the emancipation fund up to '85, from '73; and that above 80,000, had been set free by anti-slavery masters; that the cost of those freed by the government was about $288 per head, and averaged 2000 per annum. A law was proposed to abolish the system outright at the end of five years—1890—but it was defeated. The present law, however, designs more rapid work than the old. Yet Mr. Andrews is of opinion that the American people will drink, free of duty, coffee raised by slave labor in Brazil for at least twenty-five years to come.

Let it be known and remembered that we Americans are helping the Brazil slave-holders by purchasing their coffee, and at the same time adding to the profit of slave labor by admitting the product free of duty. On the whole, slavery "dies hard." Mr. Andrews has given a very interesting book. If we can find reasonable terms we shall put a few copies on sale at the Book Store.

THE ARTICLE of Brother Kershaw is timely. While there may be many palliating circumstances, determining the actions of appointment making, unknown to any but the appointers, it is plain that we are retrograding very fast in this matter of disregarding the law of time limitation. Bishop Shorter, in an episcopate life of nearly twenty years, holding in his hand some of the appointments that are most perplexing, never disregarded the time limit.

There can be no sympathy extended Brother Kershaw in his personalities, however. No African Methodist minister could have an appointment if it were not given to him. The people's right to petition should never be abridged nor a pastor's obedience maligned. Brother Kershaw is mistaken as to the RECORDER'S actions. While the RECORDER said nothing concerning the especial matter referred to, it has more than once spoken hodly against the general practice. It has said that after six years we could as well go on to twenty-five.

As a matter of reason, it is altogether probable that the connection has neither gained nor saved anything in any case of overstepping the legal limit of appointment, but so long as the appointing power is unable to see this probability no strictures of the RECORDER avail anything. As to conferences voting with reference to the appointment of a certain minister to a given charge in an itinerating Methodist connection, it is too ridiculous to mention. It confers upon a Bishop no power nor relieves him of any responsibility. It is as doing nothing; therefore merits no attention.

EPISCOPAL DISTRICTS, OR CIRCULATION—WHICH?

It may be that our Church will continue the district plan beyond 1880. Indeed it is probable that it will do so. It may be wise that this should be the case, but there is considerable argument in favor of the wisdom of a different method of episcopal supervision. The district system is urged as the best on the ground that it brings the Bishops and pastors into a much closer relationship. This is true respecting any one given Bishop and his conference, but the rotary plan gives the entire bench of Bishops the larger knowledge of the whole work and the entire ministry. It is also urged that the present system enables Bishops to develop any given district enterprise. While this is true, it is equally true that there is plainly danger to the connection in this very district advantage. The lines of connection between Bishop and districts are numerous. Some of them are no benefit to the connection, others are highly serviceable. The regular periodical council of the Bishops would enable them to utilize most of the better and shun the effects of the detrimental. Certainly the good of the whole connection is of paramount importance to the good of any part of the connection.

Less "my" and more "ours" in our episcopal language would be a hopeful step for the connection. This "I" practice checks general progress, narrows our ministerial powers and gives unnecessary occasion for ecclesiastical misunderstandings and semi-scandal, by rendering the government in the district more or less autocratic, being modified by the views of a single man.

An hour's talk with any two of our chief pastors will convince one that the difference of opinion, understanding of law, mode of executing it, comprehension of the mission of the Church, etc., found between them would have less ill influence upon the masses, by interchange of supervision. In order to not allow these differences to do damage to the Church, however, there should be fuller legal expression, with specific sanctions. No system of supervision will be successful until the spirit of reverence for law reigns supreme in the hearts of our ecclesiastical overseers, and harmony of construction exists, either by the force of conventionality or the force of reason. If our law for electing delegates to General Conference, our law for controlling general funds, our law pertaining to missions, our law governing educational affairs, our law regulating the publication business, any of these is susceptible to more than one construction, interpretation and mode of action. Our episcopal council could easily fix upon one of these constructions or modes and exclude all others throughout the connection. This is done as soon after General Conference as possible would give harmony to our general and especial work. It would overcome much of the opposition offered to episcopal rotation.

There is a general desire that our Bishops should be more widely distributed, some say in their districts, but if a Bishop is to reside in a given district, where he is supreme, then the General Conference would certainly do well to dispense with the presiding eldership, with thanks for past services; for then the people might justly complain of being overburdened. If the Bishop is to be situated in the centre of his district for the purpose of being in full acquaintance and sympathy with his men, there would hardly seem to be much need of any intermediate class of men. There is much less difficulty in a fair and equitable distribution of episcopal residences under the rotary plan than under the district plan. Districts are liable to be changed every quadrennium. Not infrequently these changes would throw the residences in inconvenient relation to the whole territory constituting their districts, but residences fixed with reference to the distribution of our membership would be far less liable to this inconveniences. Among the important subjects for the cogitation of those elected to the ensuing General Conference, very few are of greater importance than this.

CHURCH FINANCE.

It is only in modern times that the leading nations of the earth have mastered the problem of revenue so as to attain comparative financial ease. Indeed, it may be said truthfully that the nations of the earth may be rated as to enlightenment and power by the excellence and success of their respective systems of revenue. In the days of Louis XIV. of France, or from about 1660, for more than a hundred years France was the best financier and the leading power of Europe or of the world. We could wish the limits of a common editorial would permit a somewhat detailed account of this epoch in French history as it relates to the development of industry and the methods of revenue, but we cannot. In brief, Louis, contrary to the customs of his immediate predecessors, displaced the retinue of intriguers and place hunters who had wasted the nation's strength and surrounded himself with the very best men the nation produced; the wisest, the most independent and practical. As a result, the kingdom ascended as by magic and took its place at the head of the world's affairs. So much as to a great nation. Old England next took the lead as to matters fiscal, and by bravely eschewing war, has well nigh held her place onto this day. We all know how vexatious are the questions of taxation and revenue in our own nation, our commonwealths, and especially in our great and growing municipalities. Under the old ecclesiastical system in Europe the Church, as to her finances, was only a department of the State, her revenues being provided for by direct action of the legislature. In the progress of enlightenment the bond between Church and State has been greatly weakened in many parts of the old country, and in our own country the two are constitutionally divorced. Here, then, is the clearest field for the development of systems of church financiering. Here she must rely upon her own bare resources, and by her own endeavors succeed or perish. The Church has no power to levy taxes, except in the moral obligation to give or pay, imposed by her covenants under sanction of Scripture. The manifold and weighty enterprises of a modern ecclesiastical establishment demand an immense amount of money. At least three things she must do: 1, Maintain an aggressive missionary department, so as to be always enlarging her borders and introducing new life into her organism. An extensive and well planned missionary system is about as costly as maintaining a standing army. 2, She must sustain an influential place in the work of education, training her workers and enlightening her people, or she will lose at the spigot, as the saying goes, faster than she wins at the bung. 3, She must furnish a literature for the moral culture of her people. These, superadded to the support of her clergy, and the constant erection and support of temples of worship, comprehend a prodigious scheme that is almost parallel to the cost of civil government itself.

The question, how can the money needed to carry on the work of the Church be secured with greatest certainty and the least burden? has never yet been answered. There are many good people who regard "bogging" and "rallys" as little less than a nuisance, to be tolerated only because no other adequate means have been found. We heard an influential leader in the Church at one of the General Conferences talking lustily of "the resources of this great Church." One could scarcely refrain from laughter. What are the resources of this Church or any church, unless, forsooth, it has been enriched by bequests of its wealthy members? Missionary enterprise calls for money and spends it, but makes none. Schools and seminaries of learning are never self-sustaining. They are a perpetual burden until endowed. Only the business of publishing up to this date in the history of Church work has afforded the Church any important return for money invested, or that has given any hope of relieving the Church from the burden of its support, and at the same time affording a constant reliable source of revenue. Within the last twenty-five years, a few of the great denominations in America, and perhaps a few elsewhere, have developed publishing interests that earn a large surplus. Especially is this true since the growth of a mammoth Sunday school literature. Some of the stronger denominations are able to support their general functionaries from this source, and also greatly assist their other enterprises. Up to the present date, the best church financier has been the best solicitor and the best manger of a rally. But he of the future will be the man who can best organize a working force around some grand central principle under the Church's fostering care. The church of the future will not only make its own catechism, hymnal, discipline and Sunday school lessons, but will also make its own school text-books, its own pulpits, and a thousand other things it needs. But, beside this, she must develop the apostolic rule of giving, and that, too, more methodically than yet attained. Last of all she must study to use more wisely the means put in her hands. No one can dispute that thousands are wasted by mismanagement in building and furnishing houses of worship, through the ignorance and inexperience of the persons in charge. Surely the financial problem is one of the gravest confronting the Church to-day.

Queer weather visited portions of New England last Tuesday afternoon. In Salisbury, N. H., and vicinity, there was rain and thunder, but hail fell for half an hour. Three inches of hail fell at South Hanson, Mass., and "piled up like snow banks," in Dayville, Conn. At Westport, near New Bedford, Mass., no rain fell, and but one clap of thunder was heard, but the shaft that preceded the latter struck a barn, that was soon totally destroyed.

Personal.

—Mr. George Lucas, colored, of Salem, O., is a first-class architect.

—Mr. D. L. Moody is reported to be thinking of going to India to conduct religious meetings.

—Cardinal Gibbons is to make the closing prayer and pronounce the benediction at the last day's exercises of the Constitution Centennial this month.

—Last week we chronicled the death of Dr. Curry, of the M. E Church; this week the death of Bishop Harris, of the same Church, who died Friday, 2nd inst

—Mrs. Sarah Snowden, Mrs. M. J. Freeman and Miss Lulu Muse, of Washington, D. C., are summering at Ell Gould's Valley Farm, Bridgeton, N. J.

—The Michigan Conference elected Revs. J. McSmith and J. H. Miller delegates to General Conference; Revs Charles H. Thomas and W. H Brown alternates.

—In the Michigan Conference, Revs. R. W. Gordon, R Jeffries, J. McSmith and J. H. Alexander represents the older leadership that came from the Indiana Conference.

—Mrs. Parker, of Dundee, Scotland, the founder of the British Women's Temperance Association, is going to take 1,000 Scotch women to California to be domestic servants.

—Archibald Forbes, the famous war correspondent, who was to have lectured in America this fall, has cancelled all engagements. He is said to be suffering from hasty consumption.

—It is said that John Ruskin is insane, and that the malady has grown upon him lately to such an extent that he now has few lucid intervals. Some of his friends deny the whole story.

—Rev. W. H Palmer, B D, has done a very successful year's work at the South Side Church, Pittsburgh, having purchased a lot and paid over one thousand dollars on the same since conference.

—Rev. Reverdy C. Ransom, B D., of Altoona, Pa., is making a very fine impression in his city. He has, by invitation, preached in nearly all the Methodist churches of the city. God has blessed his flock with material success and spiritual growth.

—Rev. Stephen Gladstone, son of England's great statesman, enjoys the most lucrative living in the Church of England, worth it does $16,000. He received the appointment from his father, and within the confines of this parish Hawarden Castle is located.

—Mrs. Amanda Smith was attacked with the African fever last Spring, and so seriously affected by it that the doctors say she must leave the country. She expects to return to the United States next year. At last accounts she was at Duke Town, Old Calabar, S. W. C. A.

—Rev. Joseph Parker, D D., of London, who is to pronounce the eulogy upon Mr. Beecher, his friend of many years, arrived lately from England. Dr. Parker is 57 years old, a Congregationalist, and one of the foremost preachers of England. Besides the eulogy, he proposes to deliver lectures through the country this fall under the direction of Mr. Beecher's favorite lecture manager, Major Pond.

—Father Rivington, famous as a missionary to India and chaplain to the Prince of Wales, is coming to this country in September. He went to India in 1874, during the great famine, and accompanied Bishop Caldwell in his missionary journeys in the South of the stricken land. During this notable tour he often preached to thousands in the open air from the porches of the temples. The crusade resulted in one of the most extraordinary movements towards Christianity ever seen, 17,000 natives expressing a desire to change their belief.

Notes on Education.

Wilberforce University opened on the 7th inst.

The Institute for Colored Youth opened last Monday with a large attendance.

The Trustees of Amherst College have recommended that the number of students he hereafter limited to 300.

Professor Asa Gray, of Harvard, the world-renowned botanist, has just received the exhalted degree of D. C. L., from Oxford.

Dr. Nathaniel Archer Randolph, one of the Professors at the University of Pennsylvania, was drowned while bathing near Atlantic City, N. J.

The Colored State University of Alabama is to be located at Montgomery. James Hale, colored, has been elected treasurer. Faculty to be half white and half colored.

Howard University, Washington, will commence the industrial, normal, preparatory, law and college departments on the 14th inst., and the medical department on October 3d.

Willis H. Bocock, who has just been chosen Professor of Greek in Hampden-Sidney College, Virginia, is but twenty-two years old. Longfellow was but nineteen when he was made Professor at Bowdoin.

Cornell University will lose $1,500,000, willed to it by Mrs. Jennie McGraw Fiske. Her husband, Prof. Fiske, contested the bequest, and now the general term decides in his favor, reversing the surrogate's decision.

The Glenn hill, which made teaching white and black children in the same institution a prison offense for Georgia teachers and school officers, has been superseded by another, introduced in the Georgia House last Saturday, and promptly passed. The new bill declares that the co-education of the races is contrary to the intent of the constitution, and directs that the Governor be directed not to draw his warrant in favor of the Atlanta University for the State's annual appropriation of $8,000 until satisfactory assurance is given that it shall be applied exclusively for the education of colored children. It will be seen that it differs from the defunct Glenn bill mainly in being free from the obnoxious penal provision of the latter measure.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Rev. C. A. Harris, presiding elder of the Huntsville, Texas, District, says the brethren of that district seem filled with enthusiasm.

Rev. R. Johnson, presiding elder of the Monticello, (Ark.) District, says: "The Monticello District is in good working order. Our district conference was a success We are having revivals all over the district and peace and harmony prevail."

Rev. B. W. Morris, presiding elder of the Second North Carolina District, writes: "When I took charge of this district last November, being appointed by Bishop Campbell, who was acting for Bishop Turner at that time, I found the work in some things not so good, in others quite praiseworthy. I can now say we are getting on very well, with but few exceptions"

Rev. T. W. Haigler, presiding elder of the Third District, North Ohio Conference, writes: "The above named district is progressing nicely. The preachers all speak of reporting an increase at the next annual conference Peace and harmony prevail through the district. Rt. Rev. Jabez P. Campbell, D.D, LL. D., was with us at Toledo, Aug. 19th, and his sermon was very instructive, interesting and full of historical allusions. The Bishop is certainly a historian as well as theologian. A reception was tendered the Bishop with music and literary taste, in which Mr. F. D. Hightower and Miss Flora Brown read essays. The people were delighted with this visit and asked the return of the Bishop. Toledo Station is on the progressive road."

A SUCCESSFUL RALLY.

August 7, Rev. W. W. Grimes and the people of York, Pa., made a strong effort to relieve their church of a debt of long standing. The following sums of money were reported by the five canvassers: Brother Henderson, $54 35; Charlee E. Webster, $17.75; Brother Dorov, $28 90. The Hall list, $20 57, and Rev. W. W. Grimes, $35.35, grand total, 157 42. This money was disbursed as follows: paid on indement mortgage, $150; on printing, $9.75; presiding elder's traveling expenses, $2 50. The remaining debt is $250.

OUR WOMAN'S COLUMN.

Queen Carola, of Saxony, has established a free kindergarten for the benefit of children of poor laborers on her estate, Sibyllenort, where she annually spends part of the summer.

Miss Robinson, in the Fortnightly Review, suggests, as a relief to working women, that they should have technical training, and thus be fitted to do some things so well they can command place and pay.

Denver, Col., is to have a college for women, modelled after Wellesley and Vassar. The "Ladies' College Society," which has the matter in charge, is to be incorporated, and will raise $750,000 in real estate and cash.

San Francisco, Cal., has a society called the "Woman's Congress," composed of one hundred or more of the thinking women of the city, the same having been in working order for five years. Its object is the investigation of all subjects, political, social and religious. None but women are admitted.—Cor. San Francisco People.

Miss Sarah Ewing, of the Sampson Manufacturing Company's shoe shop, in North Adams, has won the prize offered by a button machine company, for the operative who, on one of their machines, would sew on the most buttons in one day of ten hours. Miss Ewing's record was 27,154 buttons, an average of forty-five and one-fourth for each minute in the day.

Mrs. D. G. Croly ("Jennie June") has been made President of Mrs. R. P. Newby's Woman's Endowment Cattle Company. The company has filed its certificate of incorporation in New Jersey, and has a capital stock of $1,500,000, divided into 3,000 shares of $500 each. The company has control of nearly 2,000,000 acres of fine grazing land in New Mexico, on which there are now 6,000 head of cattle. The stock is to be placed with women es an endowment for their children.

Helen S. Abbott, of Philadelphia, has been elected a member of the Philocalic Society in this city, of which Benjamin Franklin was one of the founders. Only six women have been elected during the one hundred and twenty years of the society's existence. The first lady was Franklin's friend, the Princess Dashkoff. The others were Mrs. Mary Somerville, Maria Mitchell, Mrs. Agassiz and Mrs. Carl Seiler, of Philadelphia, author of "The Voice and Singing." Miss Abbott is admitted for what she has done in analytical chemistry.

"In all of the essentials of life Kansas is a self-sustaining State. It can feed and clothe itself from its own acres." So says the Topeka Capital, and it may say it all the more truly now when its women are to have a hand in the politics of the State, and thus aid in securing those finer products from which comes the bread that does not perish with the eating, such as the highest self-respect, honor, honesty, sobriety, piety, love of truth, justice and mercy. These, with material abundance, make an ideal State. But it can only come where women and men have equal rights and work together.

The Roman Catholic Church has made a little loop-hole through which women may teach and speak in public. Cardinal Lavigerie, of Brussels, says: "I am convinced that women will be able to civilize and Christianize the African youth with far greater success than men, and I have taken all necessary measures to obtain thet object." He is undoubtedly right. No man will envy or covet the hot, sickly and unpaid position. Women are always free to go where pestilence rages. Those who fear voting will be too hard for women, never raise a doubt or an objection as to the ability or propriety or wisdom of putting women in such places.

At the Northwestern Summer School of Methods, held at Normal, Illinois, the subject of social purity was presented. Miss Jenny B. Merrill, of New York City Normal School (author of "Shield and Buckler"), spoke, and was followed by Mrs. Parker, Mrs Straight and Mrs. Putman. All of these ladies are teachers, and they spoke to an audience of teachers, including representatives from thirty-three States, four Territories and Canada. Social purity leaflets were distributed and eagerly taken by the teachers, the supply not being equal to the demand. Much interest was manifested by the teachers, and it was a broadcast sowing of good seed.

THE CENTENNIAL OF AFRICAN METHODISM.

BY REV J. T JENIFER.

MR. EDITOR:—The dates are rapidly approaching and time is short. Is it not necessary that the chief committee on Centennial Programme give, through the columns of the RECORDER, a general outline of what is to be done, i. e., what is to be general and what local, the place or places where and the times when the Centennial exercises will be held, also what it is proposed to do with the literature of the occasion? This year each and every department in the connection, local and general, should receive additional interest and renewed effort so as to bring out greater results than ever—results which will close the first century of African Methodism with a showing that shall be compatible with the spirit of the movement, crowning the century's growth and prosperity with a zeal equal to that of the fathers

What event in the early history of the colored people has given to the negro of America higher incentives, more encouragement than the spirit and achievements of Richard Allen and his followers?

The Allen movement was not the impulse of an obstinate individuality; it was the promptings of piety, pity and patriotism exerted by manly independence,—such independence as protests against caste at God's altar, and demands free religious thought and action and worship.

African Methodism is, therefore, a formation which had its conception in necessity and was born of the times. How fortunate for the Church at its transition period in the race history that the centennial of this movement happens at this time.

There is rising a generation who knew not Pharaoh nor the fathers. Let us then commemorate this event by refreshing the memory of the fathers, and do not forget the fore-mothers. Impart instruction, kindle new enthusiasm, gather and preserve the literature, assemble the people, organize centennial circles among adults, juvenile centennial clubs among the young, thus moving all along the line. Let the music begin; thanks to God for his many mercies in aiding us in our efforts at self-help, self development and independent ecclesiastical government, which has been so beneficial in results to the people. Let us raise this year $100 000 for general purposes. But be sure to relieve the Publishing Department from burden of debt; give it improved buildings, with complete press appliances.

Providence, R. I., Aug. 31, 1887.

A WORD FROM THE MANAGER.

To my dear brother ministers of the Church: The last round of annual conferences for this quadrennial term has begun. Our Bishops have been obliged, we suppose, to group the fall and early winter conferences close together—eight in August and September, eight in October, ten in November and eight in December, making thirty-four of the forty-four conferences of the connection in a little more than three months. Of course it would be impossible for us, even if our editor could go out and stay in the field with us, to visit all, or even a majority of these sessions, to collect our subscriptions and press the sale of our literature.

We are heartily thankful to the dear brethren in Iowa, Illinois and the little new-born Michigan for the noble patronage given us by the hand of Dr. Lee. Two hundred and eighty dollars came to us from these three little conferences for subscriptions, bills and merchandize. We urge every pastor to pay his subscription in full to the paper, and at the same time get two or three subscribers in your charge. We will send the paper from now until January 1st to any address for fifty cents. Show the paper to your people and ask them to subscribe.

2. We have still on hend a few copies of that truly great work, "Genesis Reread," that we offered sometime back at seventy-five cents to clear a 200 lot. If you would supply yourself with a copy before they are all gone, now is your time. Send your orders at once.

3. Have you seen our new Ritnal yet? If you have not you have missed a treat. Send for it. Only 45 cents. A very nice one, leather bound, 60 cents, and a fine morocco bound copy for $1.00 The handsomest little book ever published by our Church, 202 pages.

4. During the three months, September, October and November, we have some heavy bills to pey. We need money and must have it.

From now until December 1st we will give 20 per cent. off and prepay the freight on orders for Hymn Books and Disciplines and Rituals and love-feast tickets, etc, on all orders of $10 worth or more. On $20 worth, cash with order, we will give 25 per cent. off and prepay the freight.

Last of all, we want to speak once more for the RECORDER. We have resolved to raise one thousand new subscribers for the RECORDER by the 22nd of December, if possible. On that date we purpose issuing our centennial number of the paper. This issue is to contain the list of churches and pastors who take part in the celebration, and the amount contributed by each for the Centennial Fund. We shall send out five thousand copies for distribution and sale.

Now, in order to get our one thousand subscribers, we shall offer the following liberal indncement: When two hundred and fifty cash subscribers have been obtained, we will give to the minister or other gentleman who procures the highest number of the two hundred and fifty names, a hunting case, lever gold watch, worth fifty dollars; or will send him, if he prefers it, forty-five dollars in gold by express. If a lady obtains the highest nnmber of cash subscribers of the first two hundred and fifty, we will give her either the gold premium or a brand new Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machine, worth fifty dollars. In like manner and in like amounts, we will reward those who help us to raise the second two hundred and fifty, until the whole thousand shall have been procured. Now, we want all who will undertake to help in this effort to send in and get our commission as agent.

Enroll your name and begin at once. Ten persons procuring twenty-five each, would get the two hundred and fifty.

Begin and push your effort. You need only work at night, or when you have nothing else to do. At class, at prayer meeting, at the lodge, anywhere, get the names on your paper and begin to collect; fifty cents now, and fifty cents again, until you get the whole. As often as you get ten or twelve dollars send it in.

Write as soon as you read this, and let us know what you will do.

Yours, &c.,
J. C. EMBRY, Manager.

PROGRAMME OF THE GREAT CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH TO BE HELD IN ALL THE CHURCHES IN THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER, 1887.

1. In all the cities where there are two or more A. M. E. Churches; as in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington, Charleston, Nashville, Savannah, Atlanta, Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis, etc., etc., we earnestly recommend a grand union opening meeting on Wednesday night, November 9th, or on the night of the 16th, uniting all the choirs of the city in one grand sacred concert. Local committees will see to it that the exercises are made lively and effective—a real time of gladness, thanksgiving and praise. Let pastors, choirs and officers be all thoroughly alive to the occasion.

2. On Thursday or Friday night a public oration or several addresses on the independence and successful work of our Church. We urge that this meeting he made free of charge, and that tickets therefor he given to all respectable persons who will attend.

3 On Friday, or on the same night of addresses, prepare a "Centennial Banquet." Make it a season of congratulation and pleasure for all.

4. On Sunday morning a Centennial prayer meeting from 9 to 11 A. M. At 10 o'clock a sermon on the rise and progress of the Church. Text, Acts 13, 41: "Behold, ye dispisers and wonder, (and perish), for I work a work in your days, a work which ye will in no wise believe though a man declare it unto you." (Collect your envelopes)

5. At 2 P. M. Sunday school concert with short addresees. (Collect your envelopes).

6. At night, a eulogy on the life and influence of Richard Allen. Collect your envelopes. Conclude with the prayer of thanksgiving. (See evening prayer, Ritual of the A. M. E. Church, page —), and then repeat the Creed and sing: "From all that dwell below the sky," etc., ending with the doxology, "Praise God from whom all hessings flow," and benediction.

Collect envelopes, and report the amount. The creed and benediction

To the Ministers of the Fourth Episcopal District A. M. E. Church. Greeting:

Send to Rev. B. W. Arnett, Wilberforce, Ohio, all the Dollar Money you have on hand. If you have none collect it immediately as he is in need of it to meet obligations contracted before the conferences were changed. Let every one do his duty and forward the money. Don't fail.

JOHN M. BROWN,
Presiding Bishop.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 18, 1887.

AN APPEAL IN BEHALF OF WILBERFORCE UNIVERSITY.

Dear brethren and friends, the condition of our university makes it necessary for us to appeal to your noble generosity in this our great crisis. We are compelled to raise, by some means, fifteen hundred dollars in a short time; that amount is past due, but our creditors are indulgent and have promised to give us an opportunity to raise the money. We, the Executive Board, have had the matter under advisement and have appointed President Mitchell and Secretary Maxwell local agents to collect as much as they can in order to meet these urgent demands. We have further authorized and ordered an appeal to be published in our local papers and also in our Church organ, which appeal you are now reading. What will you do with it. How will you answer it? Will you respond to it as literally as you can? May God help you so to do. We ask, we beseech you in all kindness not to pass over this matter carelessly and cast it from your mind. Brethren, this is your institution; it is the property of our Church and not a State normal, as some have already said. Our doors, it is true, are opened to all and we cordially invite and joyfully hail students of every nationality and religious faith; but this university is the property of the A. M. E. Church, owned and controlled by this Church as a body, and the day that her doors are closed for the want of means that day the 400,000 members of the A. M. E. Church become responsible and are or will be justly charged with the folly and crime of their negligence and stupidity. Either our doors will not be closed; you will not suffer such a shame to blot the fair name of our great Church. Brother Trustees, we appeal especially to you. We as a Board are your servants, executing, as far as we can, your will. We ask you to give us aid. Our agents cannot call upon many of you in person. To you who read this appeal and are at a distance from us we look for our local agents to call upon you in person and present the cause of our university and the great need of immediate action, we earnestly ask you in the name of God and a common humanity; in the name of the work accomplished in the past by Wilberforce; in the name of her many noble sons and daughters that have gone out from her and in their moral, intellectual and religious strength have lifted high the torch of reason and intelligence and with Christian heroism have nurtured the banner of the Redeemer; for the sake of all this institution has accomplished under the guidance of God in the past and for the sake of what lies within the realm of her power to do in the future we beseech and im; lore you to send as early as possible to the Secretary whatever you may be able to give in this direction. And for every dollar you give God will bless you many fold. Any amount you may send will be duly acknowledged and judiciously applied. We feel assured that our friends at home are going to aid us, but we want our friends and brethren abroad to co-operate with them. If they will do this in a liberal way we feel perfectly satisfied that within the next thirty days the fifteen hundred dollars will be realized and the burden removed. Brethren, for once respond to our earnest call, and relive us of this embarrassment. It is our purpose to publish the names of the donors after the canvass of our local agents shall have been concluded, and we sincerely hope to be able to have in the list the name of every trustee of the University.

Yours, with anxious waiting, signed by order and on behalf of the Executive Board of Wilberforce University,

J. P. MAXWELL,
Secretary.

EDUCATION.

DEAR BRETHREN:—The time is fast approaching for us to make another grand rally for the cause of Christian education. Our district comprises all the conferences in the States of Arkansas, Louisiana, Texas and the Indian Territory. With our host of earnest and sacrificing workers we expect great results from the endowment effort. The educational interest is increasing all over our broad connection, and thousands of young men and women rap at the doors of our institutions. The 4th district has over three thousand soldiers in the field, and they expect me who stand at the head of affairs to make such provisions and to furnish such supplies as will enable them to wage a successful battle against ignorance, vice and superstition.

Let no man in our ranks falter, and remember that all moneys collected on the third Sunday in September must be sacredly consecrated to education.

The Southwest this year must rise and shine, but it must do so through us as leaders. Great things are expected of you, brethren, and in God's name let me make one grand rally for the elevation of our race and the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom.

This is our last effort before General Conference, and we urge you, dear brethren, to stir up your whole people, and rally all your forces for Endowment Day, so we may render a good account of our stewardship. Let no man be unfaithful in this great struggle. Come forth and show your strength.

Send 75 per cent. of all collections to me at Waco, the remaining 25 per cent. to Dr. W. D. Johnson, at Athens, Ga.

Yours for God and humanity,

I. M. BURGAN,
Secretary Fourth Educational District, Waco, Texas.

THE FOURTH DISTRICT.

Send to I. M. Burgan, Waco, Texas, and includes the following Conferences, viz: Arkansas, South Arkansas, Louisiana, North Louisiana, West Texas, North East Texas, Central Texas and Indian Conferences.

THE LAST ENDOWMENT DAY BEFORE GENERAL CONFERENCE.

This is Centennial year for the A. M. E. Church; it is also the last year before General Conference. Endowment Day will come on the 18th of September.

Let the effort made by us this year for education be worthy of the occasion. Life's great mission is to enlighten and Christianize the word. This is every man's highest calling.

Now, my dear brother in the ministry, send for the names of your high and sacred calling, in the name of the elevation of our race, in the name of the enfranchisement of ten thousand of our brethren in the South, to raise as much money as you possibly can for Christian education.

To aid in this work a beautiful Gold-plated Medal, with the Lord's Prayer engraved on one side, will be awarded to every child or adult who may raise sixty cents by Endowment Day Punch Card and forward it to me. Every member of the Church should secure one of these medals. Urge the Superintendent and Sabbath school to commence the work immediately. Give the Superintendent his circular.

I can send by return mail all the cards you want. Write immediately and let me know how many to send.

Our sincere and fervent prayer is that God may bless abundantly your efforts.

Very respectfully,

JOHN G. MITCHELL,
Sixth and Broadway, Cincinnati, O.

ENDOWMENT DAY, SEPTEMBER 18TH.

Brethren of the Pittsburg conference to the front, and let it be published far and near in the bounds of our Conference that we must try and do our best for the work of education this year. Try to do better than we have ever done. Our monument of pride (Wilberforce,) is calling loud and long for help, with all of our other worthy institutions. And the 18:h of September, which is the 3:d Sabbath, is the day set apart for educational work. See chapter 5, page 340, of Discipline.

Yours for the work of Christian Education,

GEO. C. SAMPSON,
Member of Board for Pittsburg Conference.

GENERAL CONFERENCE NOTICE.

The secretaries of the Conferences that have elected ministerial and lay delegates to the General conference to convene at Indianapolis, Ind., May, 1888, are hereby urgently requested to forward, at once, names of said delegates, and name of conference. The conferences that have not yet elected said delegates, secretaries are requested to forward names of delegates and name of conference at their earliest opportunity. We are anxious to push the work of preparation as fast as possible. Please write names p ainly that there be no mistakes.

Delegates bringing their wives, and all visiting brethren not directly connected with the Conference, must come prepared to pay for board and lodging. We will provide for members of the General Conference only.

Direct all communications to John W. Gazaway, 214 West Vermont St., Indianapolis, Ind.

THAT TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT.

By order of the Board of Education, all pastors, without exception, must send 25 per cent of the Endowment Money to Rev. Wm. D. Johnson, D. D., box 263, Athens, Ga. This money will now be used to pay the expenses of the Educational Department, including the salary of the Secretary of Education.

J. P. JENIFER,
President of the Board.

J. T. JENIFER, Sec't'y.

NOTICE.

To the presiding elders of the Columbia (S. C.) Annual Conference:

You are hereby appointed a committee (see minutes, p. 59) to approximate and assess each station, circuit and mission in your conference to defray the expenses of delegates to the ensuing General Conference; and cause the same to be collected and reported at the sitting of the annual conference in Newberry, S. C. December 7, 1887

J. P. CAMPBELL, D.D., LL.D.,
Attest: Presiding Bishop.
B. E. WALL, Sec't'y C. A. C.

NOTICE.

To the Presiding Elders of the Pittsburg Annual Conference. You will please notify me, at once, how many candidates each will have for traveling work. We also wish to know of the general officers who of them will be present at our Annual Conference, so that homes may be prepared for them.

C. A. MCGEE, Pastor,
820 Clay street, Parkersburg, W. Va.

NOTICE.

All communications intended for the Sunday School Union of the A. M. E. Church that are addressed to Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tennessee, will be received. It is not necessary to give the name of the street nor the number of our business place. Rev. C. S. Smith, Nashville, Tenn., is sufficient. Telegrams addressed the same way will reach us. We are fully settled in our new headquarters and prepared for business.

C. S. SMITH, Secretary.

TERCENTENNIAL OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

EPISCOPAL ROOMS, AFRICAN M. E. CHURCH,
1424 R. I. Avenue,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb 4, 1887.

TO THE BISHOPS, MINISTERS AND MEMBERS OF THE AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH:

My Dear Brethren:—"Read, mark, learn and inwardly digest" the subject-matter of circular—the "Centennial of African Methodism." Its contents are more than a mere passing interest. "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations: Ask your father, and he will show thee; thy elders, and they will tell thee. Remember all the way which the Lord thy God led thee one hundred years in the wilderness!"

Next November will be one hundred years since Richard Allen and his compeers left St. George's M. E. Church, in the city of Philadelphia, (1787) and the Bishops of the semi-annual meeting adopted the following Preamble and Resolutions:

WHEREAS: November next, 1887, will be one hundred years since Richard Allen, Absalom Jones and others left the St. George Methodist Episcopal Church in Philadelphia, because "the colored people belonging to the Methodist Society of Philadelphia convened this day in order to take into consideration the evils under which they labored, arising from unkind treatment of their white brethren, who considered them a nuisance in the houses of worship, and even pulled them off their knees, while in the act of prayer, and ordered them to the back seats." (See preface to the A. M. E. Church Dicipline,)

AND WHEREAS, This was the most decisive act of the religious colored people in the United States, and we know of none like it of the descendants of Africa in the world; if we except the Exodus of the Haitians under Toussaint, Christophe, Petion and Boyer. These men were to Hayti and San Domingo, in a civil and political sense, what Allen, Jones, Tapsco and others were to the colored Christians of America; their act was manhood, freedom, and manhood christianity. We must fully recognize their action a successe—a republic we have—all therefore recognize their manhood because their acts prove it. To resist oppression in Church or State is manly. Toussaint and Allen are by us honored, revered and loved. The success of Allen and his compeers is demonstrated, for it has given us the largest body of any general organization in the world. It is therefore proper and right that we should commemorate an event as important and so full of interest to us as a race. Therefore be it.

Resolved, first, That the Chief Pastors of the African Methodist Episcopal Church request that next November, a date in that month be hereafter fixed, to commemorate the one hundredth year since our existence commenced, and that services be held at all our churches throughout the connection. The order of exercises to be fixed by each Conference, quarterly conference, and pastor and each church, a general arrangement to be fixed by a committee hereafter appointed.

Resolved, second, As our publishing interest has long suffered, because of our indebtedness, that a contribution be made by all of our churches, and whatever is collected to be appropriated to assist in the paying off of debts now resting on our Publication Department.

Adopted.

COMMITTEE OF ARRANGEMENTS:

J. M. BROWN,
T. M. D. WARD,
H. M. TURNER,
H. B. DISNEY,
B. W. ARNETT.

We ask co-operation. If you intend to cooperate will you send to me signifying your approval and intention to act, by addressing a note to No. 1424 R. I. Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Any plan suggested by you please forward to me.

Yours fraternally,

JOHN M. BROWN, Chairman.

P. S.—I wish you unity, prosperity and holiness, and that next year will be the crowning year of our Church.

J. M. B.

ATLANTA, GA., August 26, 1887.

To the Ministers and Members of the Second Educational District, including the following conferences, viz: Columbia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, North Georgia, and Macon:

DEAR BRETHREN:—Our next Endowment Day will be the third Sunday in next September. I earnestly trust that each minister will endeavor to do his best to make our educational collection a success. Dr. William D. Johnson, our Secretary of Education, is anxious for his department to stand second to none. Therefore, let us rally, as this is the last educational collection this side of the General Conference.

I am fraternally yours,

W. J. GAINES,
Secretary Second District.

OFFICE OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO ALL WHO HAVE BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS WITH THIS DEPARTMENT.

READ, RE-READ AND REMEMBER.

1st. We do not take postage stamps. If you cannot obtain Post Office Money Order, which is the safest method to send money, you can send by registered letter. These are issued by every post office in the United States. If your postmaster insists on selling you stamps you insist the more on having him register your letter.

2nd. Send the exact amount of money required to pay for the goods you order. When this is not done our rule is to send that amount of supplies which the money sent will pay for.

3rd. When you order from us, always write plainly at the bottom of your letter the place where you wish your supplies sent. Very often persons write us an order from one place on a circuit desiring it sent to some other place, and do not mention this very important fact.

4th. For all orders sent to us for Sunday school literature we send a postal card receipt, numbered. If your order is delayed, or if there is any irregularity concerning it, write to us about it, but be sure to give the number of your receipt card and the name of the person who sent the order or signed his name to it. When a pastor writes to us that his superintendent sent no money, etc., we do not know who is his superintendent unless he writes us his name. Always send the names of persons and not names of churches, schools, circuits, stations, etc.

5th. Sign your name to your communication We cannot tell who sent a letter to us when there is no name signed to it.

6th. Write your name in large, plain letters. Avoid fanciful writing. It is useless and often renders obscure what would otherwise be legible writing.

7th. Never send a postal note, money order or express package without any instruction accompanying it. How do we know what to do with money sent thus?

8th. We have lost a great deal of money by sending supplies C. O. D. because the parties whom we thus favored failed to take them from the express office. In consequence of this neglect and absolute loss which we have borne because of it, we have decided to positively refuse to grant any more C. O. D. favors to anyone. Please do not request them.

9th. Our business is conducted on a strictly cash basis. If you are not familiar with our prices write to us when you wish to buy and we will freely quote them or send you a catalogue, price list, plan and return envelope.

10th. Always collect your money for supplies and have it appropriated for them at least two weeks before the beginning of each quarter; this will prevent much delay. Very often orders do not arrive until one-half or two-thirds of the quarter is past; in which case we have to print an extra amount of literature for the benefit of two or three persons or else we receive liable to a "raking over" by them.

11th. When the Teachers' and Scholars' Quarterly, the Juvenile and Gem Lesson Papers are ordered, they are rolled in one package together. The catechisms, song books, primary lessons, reward cards and other such matter are never in one wrapper. When you order both inquire for two packages at the post office.

12th. If your city has the free delivery system have your mail directed to the street and number. Unless you do this it will be returned to us while you are debating as for neglect.

13th. Every pastor is hereby earnestly requested to have some one, who is permanently located in his work, elected Sunday school supply clerk, whose duty it shall be to send for all orders for his Sunday school supplies.

We hope this will be done at once by each pastor and that he will send us the name of the one elected to this office. This method of communicating with us through a person who has permanent location in a place will lessen difficulty and greatly facilitate intercourse between us and our patrons. It is hoped that this request will receive immediate attention. We have purchased new books in which to record the names of Sunday school supply clerks and we anxiously await their names. A postal card will serve for this purpose. Hoping that the above instructions will be received with the kindly spirit with which they are given, and praying the blessing of Almighty God upon all those who are, with us, intrusted with the children's welfare. Fraternally,

C. S. SMITH.

A Kansas City paper is very profuse in its praises of a young man who by being cool and collected prevented the possible destruction of the city, a few days ago, by fire. If the young man had only been warm and sentiered there would be no Kansas City to-day.

Information Wanted

[We make no charge for publishing these notices from subscribers, but request subscribers to not send a paid subscription, with notice, to insure insertion. We know of no mode of treatment which offers so much relief from chronic diseases, a more certain hope of cure than that which is comprehended in the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. For purifying and invigorating the blood, this preparation is unequaled.

The Best Remedy
For Dyspepsia is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Other medicines may give temporary relief; but Ayer's Sarsaparilla makes a positive and permanent cure, as thousands can testify all over the country.
"My stomach, liver, and kidneys were in a disordered condition for years," writes R. Wild, of Hutto, Texas, "and I never found any medicine to relieve me, until I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Less than six bottles of this remedy cured me."
Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of Holyoke, Mass., was for a long time a severe sufferer from Dyspepsia, trying, in vain, all the usual remedies. At last she began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and only three bottles restored her to perfect health.
"I have gone through terrible suffering from Dyspepsia and Indigestion," writes C. J. Boldemer, 145 Columbia st., Cambridgeport, Mass., "and can truly say Ayer's Sarsaparilla has cured me."
Ayer's Sarsaparilla,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Price $1; six bottles, $5. Worth $5 a bottle.

EFFERVESCENT, ECONOMICAL,
EFFICACIOUS.
Beware of Indigestion's pain
And Constipation's cruel reign;
For often in their wake proceed
The sable pall and mourner's weed;
Then check these troubles e'en an hour,

Estey Pianos

To those who are using the ESTEY ORGANS word of praise is unnecessary. Aside from us is indeed to convince them that it has no superior; but what to do want to say to those who have not is this: The ESTEY PIANO is just as thoroughly made, and is guaranteed to give as good satisfaction as the Organ has. If you want a piano, you run NO RISK in buying an Estey. Send for cash, or on easy monthly payments.

OF THE SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION OF THE A. M. E. CHURCH.

LESSON HELPS IN FOUR GRADES.

THE TEACHER'S QUARTERLY. A thirty-six page pamphlet devoted to lesson helps for teachers and older scholars. Its value is enhanced by the introduction of appropriate forms for opening and closing exercises, hymns and tunes, prayers, etc., etc. 25c per copy.

THE SCHOLAR'S QUARTERLY. Similar to the above, but with necessary changes as to adapt it to the wants of scholars in the main school. It is unexcelled for cheapness. 10c per copy to one address, per year, 7 cents each.

THE JUVENILE LESSON PAPER is a four page weekly, designed for younger scholars who have outgrown the infant class, but who require the fondness for pictures and simple stories. 20c per year for a dime!

THE GEM LESSON PAPER is a beautiful lesson sheet, four pages handsomely illustrated and printed on pink paper; for infant classes in the Sabbath School. Each contains, besides the lesson, a page or more of "baby-land" talk. All for 5 cents a year, when five or more copies are sent to one address.

THE CHILD'S RECORDER, now beginning its eighth volume with a larger issue than ever before, offers superior attractions for the coming year. With additional editorial force, and a list of regular contributors skilled in the style of writing required by the young, no pains will be spared to put the publication abreast with the foremost of its class.

NO TRANSFERENCE.

* * * Transfer caltcem hunc a me.—MARC 14, 36.

Ah, burdened soul,
Quite heavy is the load already borne,
And hath been since thy long and sad sojourn;
But say, O burdened soul,
To whom can this transference now be made?
On whom can man's great guilt be laid?

Ah, sorrowing soul,
Already filled with more than earthly grief—
Of sufferers all, O Jean, more than chief.
But say, O suffering soul,
Where is the empty heart that can afford
To drink the indignation of the Lord?

Ah, suffering soul,
Already hath hell's pains got hold of thee—
A sufferer such as earth did never see.
But say, O suffering soul,
Where is the one on earth, in hell or heaven,
Prepared to say: Thy sins are all forgiven?

THE GENERAL OFFICERS ARE NOT RESPONSIBLE.

A REPLY TO REV. I. F. ALDRIDGE.

BY REV. C. S. SMITH.

In the RECORDER of September 1st, under the head of "Some Ideas for the General Conference of 1888," Rev. I. F. Aldridge, by implication and insinuation, makes an unjust and unkind assault upon the General Officers of the Church. It is difficult for me to conceive what prompted Brother Aldridge to write such an article and assume such an untenable position on such an important matter. By a species of reasoning wholly at variance with the facts, as will hereafter be shown, he has concluded that the General Officers are responsible, 1, For the failure of the Bishops to receive their salary regularly and promptly; 2, For the failure of the widows and orphans to receive their allowance; 3, For the failure of missionaries to obtain their portion, and the poor preachers pay assessments beyond what is furnished them by the churches they serve, and then unjustly insinuates that some one of the General Officers, in his own interest, must have formulated a certain paragraph contained in the present Dollar Money law.

His "ideas" that the present number of General Officers should be reduced and their salary decreased does not concern me now, though I shall briefly refer to it before I close. I most emphatically deny that the General Officers, in any manner whatever are responsible for the failures above cited. What is the true status of the General Officers? Their number is fixed by the General Conference and elected by the same. Each one is assigned to a specific work at a given and uniform salary. The last General Conference elected seven General Officers, each to receive a salary of $1,350 per year.

The Dollar Money law provides that the Financial Board, when "the condition of the collections in their judgment shall warrant it," shall appropriate certain fixed sums for the support of worn-out preachers, the widows and orphans of deceased preachers, etc. The clause just quoted has been seized upon by Brother Aldridge, and with seeming vengeance he exclaims, "Perhaps this is the mighty bar that closes the door against all appropriations made at the last General Conference, except those to pay General Officers; why, it is a bar against the appropriations made to pay the Bishops' salaries;" which is equivalent to saying that the General Officers must be paid their salaries, even though the Bishops and other claimants on the General Treasury of the Church should not receive a penny,—a most grievous error, indeed. Nowhere in the Discipline can be found a priority clause in favor of the payment of the salaries of the General Officers. The Financial Board has ruled that the Bishops—not the General Officers—are to be paid first, and said rule has been in force ever since the adoption of the Dollar Money system. As to the law regulating the amounts to be appropriated to worn-out preachers, widows, orphans, etc., in what manner are the General Officers a bar to its operation? The percentage of Dollar Money that constitutes the Church treasury is controlled and disbursed by the Financial Board, and the General Officers, the Financial Secretary alone excepted, have no more to do with it than does Brother Aldridge.

The failure of the Financial Board to make the appropriations ordered by the last General Conference is not due either to the number of General Officers or their salaries. In my humble judgment it is due to the fact that the action of the General Conference pertaining thereto was anticipatory, being based upon the assumption that "one dollar" would be collected annually "from or for each member." Has the "one dollar for or from each member" yet been realized? Let us see. Our membership is rated at 400,000. "One dollar for or from each member" would give us an annual revenue of four hundred thousand dollars. Instead of this, however, the largest amount of dollar money raised in any one year will not exceed fifty thousand dollars, while the average is about forty-five thousand. Fifty thousand is one-eighth of four hundred thousand, and one-eighth of one dollar is twelve-and-a-half cents, which is the amount contributed by our members for what is erroneously termed the "support of the general interests of the Church." For it is to be remembered that forty per cent. of all the Dollar Money raised is retained by the annual conferences, and that no part thereof goes into the general treasury. Sixty per cent. of the Dollar Money is the true amount that constitutes the fund for the support of the general interests of the Church. I have said that our members, instead of paying one dollar per annum, as anticipated by the law, do not, on an average, pay more than twelve-and-a-half cents, as evidenced by the actual amount realized.

There is still a little more figuring to be done before I leave this point. For we must ascertain what portion of the 12½ cents goes to the general fund and what to the annual conferences. Twelve and a half cents are equal to 124 mills, 60 per cent. of which is equal to 74 cents, which is the true amount realized "from or for each member" for the support of the general interests of the Church, while the remaining 40 per cent. of the 125 mills, which is equal to 5 cents, is the portion of the 12½ cents retained by the annual conferences. Of the $45,000 raised each year under the Dollar Money law the annual conferences get $18,000, leaving but $27,000 to pay the salaries of the Bishops and General Officers and to meet all the other obligations assumed by the General Conference. The amount now realized for the general fund must be more than doubled before the demands of the several claimants can be met. The remedy, therefore, for the shortcomings complained of by Brother Aldridge will not be obtained by a reduction of the present number of General Officers and the diminishing of their salaries. The remedy can only be provided by increasing the spirit of benevolence among our people. We need to raise more Dollar Money and less complaints; more liberality and less selfishness; more benevolence and less unmitigated greed for the Church and less useless agitation.

Brother Aldridge asks the next General Conference to appropriate $25,000 for salaries of Bishops and General Officers. He evidently wrote that request without knowledge, for we are now paying, for said purpose, just $100 less than his figures call for. Only four of the seven General Officers are receiving their salaries from the general fund—the other three being paid from the revenues of their respective departments. The three who do not receive their salaries from the general fund are the Business Manager, the Sunday School Secretary, and the Educational Secretary. The last General Conference provided that the payment of the salary of the Business Manager from the general fund should cease at the end of one year, and that of the Educational Secretary at the end of two years; so that the business part of the Book Concern has been self-sustaining since May, 1885, and the Educational Department from May, 1886. The payment of the salary of the Sunday School Secretary from the general fund was to continue through the quadrennium, but he is numbered among those who are now receiving their salaries from that source for the reason that, so soon as the revenues to his department were sufficient to make it self-sustaining, he volunteered to relieve the Financial Board of the obligation to pay his salary. This very gratifying result was attained at the close of the fiscal year ending May 19, 1885, and from that date he has not been a charge on the general fund.

The aggregate salary of the four General Officers who are now being paid from the general fund is $5,400 per annum. Thus it is shown that we are paying from the General Fund $100 less for the salaries of General Officers than the amount named by Brother Aldridge for the same purpose. He would increase instead of decrease. But here I must stop. Brother Aldridge has fallen into a very grievous error, and upon many points he reasons without knowledge. I conclude this article by repeating the recent saying of Florida's brilliant Kershaw: "Give the Church some rest, or give her something new."

THE REGULATION OF THE EPISCOPAL DISTRICTS.

The division of the Church into episcopal districts is the best arrangement that can be made of it. It is far better than the rotary system, and ought to be sustained and improved from time to time. All the advantages of it have never been realized, because there have not been a sufficient number of Bishops to show them: and still the Church has cannot fail to see that a strict and accurate regulation of the episcopal districts requires the attention of not less than fourteen Bishops. It is a matter so patent that it might convince the common masses. The necessity is so incontrovertible that it cannot be invalidated by any adverse argument based upon the attending amount of expense. He who will make a dime outweigh a virtue has little regard for an angel's visit. It is only those who have not delved into the subject and understand little about the divine necessity who are all the time considering a Bishop in connection with a silver dollar, whilst colored people are spending tens of thousands of dollars annually just for a trifling ride on a steamboat or a car.

The great Church work of the Almighty God presents itself in part to us by the A. M. E. organization and indicates its demands to be met to the greatest extent of consistent ability. Let it be done, then, in the most faithful manner. Here we perceive hundreds and thousands and millions of miles to be traveled, not only by pastors and presiding elders, but by Bishops, to make the work, in the highest degree, effective. The magnitude of the organization, the vastness of the area, the multiplicity of interested individuals, all combine to convince us that the episcopal force must be equal to the demand. This must be so for the purpose of cultivating and increasing respect for the episcopate, for the purpose of engendering a higher degree of appreciation for the connection, for the purpose of making the full ecclesiastical power of the colored people felt throughout this land and in different parts of the world. Let, then, the demands of this regulation be heeded so that the lost ground by former methods may be regained, and those who scoff and sneer will be compelled to admit that the A. M. E. Church is ruled by sages.

"THE MILL WON'T TURN WITH THE WATER THAT'S PAST."

BY MISS L. E. ARMSTRONG.

Passing along a little shallow stream, I observed an apparently old, useless and peculiar wheel, arranged there very skilfully. One of nature's insatiable interrogation points questioned long and amusingly about it. Having related how the old mill had turned just last week, in time of a freshet, then came the question, why don't it turn now? The reply was given in words similar to the adage, "The mill won't turn with the water that's past." Should you realize this adage as expressed, it would be self-evident. When we observe this scene, we see the trickling of the stream, as it glides slowly on, too far beneath the wheel to touch it in the least.

There was once a swift current which moved the wheel to produce active results. Now that the water is gone, it stands useless and motionless. The man was once energetic, ambitious; he was characterized by high and noble aspirations. Just last week he was one of the most prominent workers of the community. His neighbor has offended him; now he sits and remarks: "I have long since concluded that my work was completed some time ago. I used to give free labor, and I love to see the work go on, but I shall not do another favor." But, my friend, so long as you exist, your work is yet unfinished. We must turn until the last grain be ground, then wait the falling of the next, with ready, willing hands. Work in the present, for the mill won't turn with the water that's past.

Of course, we have all learned that in this life the work of the past has no bearing upon the work of the present. Now is the time that we should be up and doing, or our past work will finally amount to naught. An opportunity lost is gone forever. Grasp them as they swiftly pass. A golden opportunity is passing now. Are you wide awake? Do you see it? Alas, it is gone. Time bore it on, while you were resting and proposing a resignation of even the little work you were doing in favor of another. Our mission cannot be thus easily transferred. It will only heap upon you. Very soon life will be almost extinct, when you will say, "Had I only the opportunity to do my work again." But you will be told at Montgomery, Ala., on the 15th of December, 1887, to be opened at 10 A. M.

The object of the joint meeting is for further consideration of the question of "organic union" according to the Articles of Agreement of the joint commission of the African M. E. Church and African M. E Zion Connections, held in Washington, D. C., July 15–17, A. D. 1885.

In view of the importance of such a meeting before the General Conferences of the two Connections, in May, 1888, we beg that the Bishops of both connections will arrange their official obligations and private affairs, as to have no excuse for absence from the Montgomery meeting in Alabama at the date fixed.

Signed in behalf of both Boards of Bishops,

DANIEL ALEXANDER PAYNE,
